the stand in his own defense, police officers asserted that the defendant admitted he had been driving the car in which Clifton Alexander was abducted. Shepard is reported to have told police that he was not driving the car when the attack was made on the Negro youngsters.

"My car was stolen," he claimed, "and when I found it later, I ordered the driver to get out."

At the trial, however, one of the Negro lads testified that Shepard was behind the wheel when the hoodlums grabbed Alexander, and forced him into the car. Thus far, there has been on evidence to link Shepard with the physical assault on young Alexander.

The violence in Venice occurred when a mob of white youths attacked several Negro youngsters, nabbed Clifton Alexander, beat him up, threw him in the car and rode through the streets of Venice calling out to pedestrians that they planned to lynch the child. The youngster's body was later tossed from the fast-moving car.

Other victims of the gang attack were Mr. Oscar Wallace of 678 San Juan st., Venice, stepfather of Clifton and Reo; Eddie Mildrow, and Mrs. Belle McClendon.

Negro Holds One of Three Main Posts in U. S. Communist Party

NEW YORK—One of the three pivotal posts in the top leadership of the Communist party of the U. S. A. is now held by a Negro. He is Henry Winston, young World War II veteran, who was recently elected organizational secretary of the party.

Winston has been active in the Communist and labor movement for about ten years. A prominent youth leader, he played a leading role in the Young Communist League for several years before that organization was discontinued. For the past two or three years he has held important posts in the Communist party, both national and New York state.

His recent elevation to national organizational secretary drew the following comment from Ben Davis Jr., New York Communist city councilman, who visited Los Angeles last January:

"The election of Henry Winston, young Negro veteran, as national organizational secretary of the Communist party is an event of notable importance whose significance will not be lost in any circles of the American people.

"This event will bring joy, added confidence and determination to the Negro people who, today, find themselves the victims of the most virulent drive unleashed against them by white supremacists in the last half-century.

"Negroes will not fail to note that while monopoly capital through the Bilbos, Rankins among both Republicans and Democrats, are seeking to deprive them of their elementary citizenship rights, the forces of labor are giving practical demonstration of their determination to secure an equal and free life for Negro citizens. The Negro people will recognize that the Communists are the most advanced of these forces."

man, will introduce Mrs. Douglas to the radio audience. Himself a champion of adequate housing for all, and particularly for returned veterans, Roosevelt declares Congresswoman Douglas to be "one of the nation's best informed persons on this complicated question."

"What Happened to Housing" will be the first of a series of six radio addresses Congresswoman Douglas will make during the campaign. The second will be "What Happened to OPA." Others to follow will concern themselves with an adequate national health bill and fair employment practices act, a report on the 79th congress, and a Credo for Americans.

that they don't dare controvert the word of a white man."

Bumpus had threatened to to "wrap a chair around the head of Defense Attorney Leon A. Ransom, of Washington, D. C., a former member of the Howard law school faculty, after having been corrected by the Negro lawyer before more than 200 arguing farmers, Klansmen and other town hangers-on. Bumpus warned Weaver that, "If that S.O.B. don't stop contradicting me, I am going to wrap a chair around his God damn head."

Bumpus' threat came a few moments before the desperate five-week battle to select a jury came to a swift close with the selection of a 13th, or alternate juror. The Klan-studded mob in the ramshackle court room applauded with loud guffaws the selection of the final juror after the defense had been forced to use all its peremptory challenges. The juror, as all others in the jury, was selected from a panel of more than 50, most of whom freely admitted to Klan membership or admitted they would not be able to give a Negro the same kind of trial due a white man.

Typical of the men qualified by the court was one who stated from the witness chair opposite the grinning attorney general and already-selected jurymen that he "didn't believe anything a nigger said, even if he was under oath." This man was qualified by the judge over the objection of defense counsel.

Former Sheriff J. J. Underwood testified that several hours before the raid on the Mink Slide area, where four white Columbia policemen were wounded, a mob of 50 whites had tried to kick in the doors of the jail where Mrs. Gladys Stephenson and her son, John, a war veteran, were being held. They had been arrested after John Stephenson had gone to the defense of his mother who was knocked down by a white radio repairman.

In Washington, D.C. yesterday, Ransom protested that a "fair trial" at Lawrenceburg is impossible because the prosecution and state court are biased. "We intend to carry our fight to the supreme court, if necessary," he told a press conference.

Soil Poison For Termites

SCHENECTADY—Sprays, fumigants, or paints, will not kill wood termites that are attacking house timbers, but using a soil poison to cut off the mud gallery from the house will do the job.

So stated Dr. John B. Schmitt, assistant professor of entomology at Rutgers university, New Brunswick, New Jersey, in a General Electric Farm Forum address here over WGY.

"The real answer is in the soil," said Dr. Schmitt, who also is a staff member of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station. "The key to the whole thing is the termite's need for soil moisture; it must be able to go back and forth between the soil and the wood. Cut it off from either one, and it dies. Sometimes a small structural change will do the trick, but more often you need a soil poison."

There are many soil poisons, Dr. Schmitt asserted. The easiest one to use, he said, is ortho-dichlorobenzene. "You dig a shallow trench along your foundation wall and pour in ortho-dischlorobenzene at the rate of two gallons to ten linear feet," Dr. Schmitt explained.

Hawkins, executive director of the California Committee for Fair Employment Practices, displays one of the Freedom Bonds being sold through Californiaout to finance the campaign to pass the FEBC Act, on the Nov. 5 Ballot as Proposition 11. WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES BLEND with serious effort to create a program which has earned the descriptive title "a worth while club" for the Metropolitan branch of the National Council of Negro Women. The late summer meetings of the group were under the capable leadership of Mrs. Jessie Terry, vice president, in the absence of President Dr. Veda Somerville, who recently returned from a trip that included a stopover in Washington, D. C., where she consulted with Dr. Bethune, national president of the council; and stopovers in the San Francisco region and Seattle, Wash., where she capably filled her role as far western organizer for the national body.

Jessie Mae Brown

Ranking first on the club's agenda will be the annual meeting and election of officers at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 28, at the Crystal Tea Room with luncheon following. At this important meeting Dr. Somerville will retire the office that she has held for the past two years and will continue her services with the Council as national vice president. Many are the affiliate organizations that make up this body, mentioned as possible successors to Dr. Somerville, who represented Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, are Mrs. Artesia Jordan, high ranking church official of the A. M. E. national women's group, and Ferrel Bobo Connor, regional director of the National Association of Colored Graduate Nurses.

Another important item on the agenda will be the presentation of the nationally famed pianist, Lorenzo Jordan Cole, in recital on October 13, at Gibson Hall. This event will herald the opening of the fall season in local music circles. The group is all out to make this their outstanding affair of the year. By the way, the successful ventures on the part of the Metropolitan branch of the Council join in being responsible for bringing national recognition to the Negro clubwomen of Los Angeles.

FEPC DATE

Mesdames Pat Alexander, Ethel Atkinson, Otmus Davis, Theresa Lindsay and Augustus Hawkins have put their pretty heads together in planning a benefit cocktail party for a state Fair Employment Practices Act. The smart matrons have invited 25 ladies about town to serve as hostesses, and Miss Lena Horne to be honored guest. A militant fighter for FEPC, the lovely Miss Horne has accepted the invitation and will be among those present Sunday the 29th, between the hours of 5 to 10 p. m. at the Villa Arlington. By the way, this date should be red lettered on every calendar, and it's imperative that FEPC be given your full support at the polls.

The "fights" will have the spotlight during the early part of Saturday night and the coffers of Westview Hospital will be pounds heavier from proceeds of a "sell-out" house and the generous public support in the purchasing of tickets on the 1946 Buick. Glimpsed Dr. Arthur Mitchell at the Crop 'n' Tail installations Sunday evening, (where his lovely wife, Gloria, was being installed recording secretary) and was duly informed that the Buick came about through the courtesy of Harpo Marx, a member of the hospital's community advisory board; Lena Horne has been asked to do the drawing, and that it's still pending whether or not Joe Louis will fly out to the bout between John Thomas and Jackie Wilson. This mammoth pace-setting affair is expected to leave a lasting impression on the city's philanthropists, for with it, the Westview drive will gracefully bow out, leaving way for the Community Chest until the first of the new year.

POT-POURRI

The ole fun circuit that is oftimes mentioned in this column has hit an all-time high, the events seems to be gayer than ever and more plentiful. In looking back to the superstitious date of Friday the 13th, we find a week-end chuck full of parties that are definitely worth mention. Maurice Jones, another leading host of the college, set out the "welcome mat" at his westside abode and joined the members of the Cosmos club (to which he has recently been accepted) in greeting guests. The affair had a two-fold purpose, for the club presented Business Manager Ballinger Kemp with a wedding gift, and officially bade two members farewell, who were off to Cal U in Berkeley. Dancing prevailed throughout the evening. Took note of Haroldine Browning, back from a summer vacation at Fisk, in time to register at UCLA; Bill Holland, looking quite alone with out Windy Golden, who will attend school in Kansas this year; Althea Warren and Edgar Bishop, Sara Jones and Leonard Grimes, newcomer to the city; Gene Walker, who is registered as a pre-med student at UCLA and will probably find his way into the hearts of the Bruinites with his pleasing personality; Boots West, and a host of others.

Mary Coleman, local school marm, chose the following night for a lively "Spanish dinner" party. Covers were laid for more than 20 guests. To mention a few taking part: Idell Moore, Florence Nukes and Lucy Ewing arrived fashionably late, Gloria Howard was with the constant escort, Andre Von, Julius Anderson, Earl Floyd and Buddy Dunn held up the masculine end, Vera Blanch Johnson and Velma Beck spent most of the time discussing their teaching positions, and Gloria Ford, who is now practice teaching at UCLA, was all questions. The food was "tops," and the usual grand time was had by all.

Donald and Peggy Bowdion gave a party on the same night to introduce the lovely Miss Doris Baxter, one of Peggy's close friends visiting from Philadelphia. Umpteen friends of the popular couple were there making the "champagne" party a grand affair. Hank Milton and Regina Mingleton joined the fun making, Ruth Scott and Ira Johnson were twoing it, Bob Kennard, Paul Weaver, Wini Allen, Shelton and Mabel Bishop, spent time chatting with the visitor; also gladhanding it were Horace and Beverly Clark, Hubert and Connie Duke (newlyweds), Billie Steward, Dorothy Dumas and John Bowdion, Melba Hudson, Marilyn and Elbert Hudson and many another. The honoree left for her home on Sept. 25.

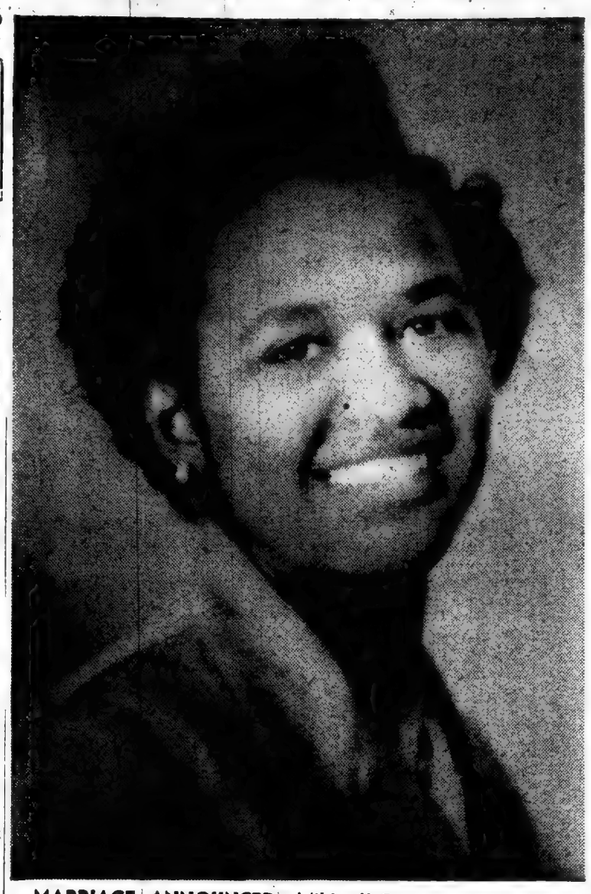
Other grand events included Les Femme Aujourd-hui's cocktail benefit party that was quite the thing with hundreds attending. This comparatively new club is taking its place with leading clubs of the city. . . . The Orchid Girls' Fashion Revue can't go unmentioned. The models had poise and their costumes were the latest. Took special note of Frances Smith in a complete black and white striped outfit, Harriette Wadley in an extreme hat of satin ribbon, Neline Russell modeling a beautiful hair style and many others, for the performance they gave was outstanding.

BIG EVENTS

The John Kinloch club of the AYD will be expecting you to attend their gala cocktail party on Friday night, October 18, from 9 to 1, at the La Veda Ballroom.

The Doll League's Story Book Ball, set for Saturday night, is planned to be the affair of the year. Hundreds have been invited and the girls expect to add many dolls to their collection for the Christmas party for underprivileged children. The Elks will be the setting for the ball, and an elaborate after party has been planned. . . . Eddie Burbridge will celebrate his birthday in conjunction with the Lionel Hampton anniversary. The party will be held on Oct. 1, following the show. Should be a grand affair.

Bert Kenner is passing cigars, for he is the proud father of a Jr. Congratulations are in order. . . . Barbara McMorris and Billy Faulkner were wed Sunday at 2:30 sharp at the St. Odelia Catholic church. Harold Faulkner was best man and Barbara's sister, Virginia, was maid of honor. The couple is now on honeymoon and the wedding reception will be held on Sunday, Oct. 6, at Villa Arlington. . . . Paulette Dejoie received the Crop 'n' Tail insignia when she was installed as club president Sunday. The night before the club had a box at the National Fall Horse Show, where Instructor E. B. Green represented the Mike Magill stables. . . . Lou Boswell and Jane Hampton are back from a trip to Mexico. . . . Wrenna Clark is working in N. Y. and her stay will be indefinite. . . . Shirley Rakestraw has been back in town two weeks. . . . Lovely Gloria Hawkins will recite her wedding vows Sunday afternoon in Pasadena. . . . Yvonne Johnson is now Mrs. Rudolph Beane. Pat Fox is honoring her with a reception on Saturday. . . . Rose Ector and Malcom Fisher are married. . . . Leona De Bique of San Francisco spent two weeks' vacation in L. A. . . . Making the deadline. . . . 'TIL NEXT WEEK.



MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED—Mildred Carpenter, attractive and popular young member of the social set became the bride of George R. Cramell, Saturday, September 21. They were married in Yuma, Arizon. Although the couple had engaged for some time, the marriage came as a surprise to their families and friends. Mrs. Cramell is the technician at Dr. Zetar's office and Mr. Cramell, a recently returned veteran, is a student at Los Angeles City College. They will make their home in Los Angeles.

Crop 'n' Tail Officers Installed By Attourney Williams

At the home of Miss Winifred Allen the "Crop 'n' Tail Riding Club" held its installation of officers for the forthcoming year on the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 22. An informal gathering saw Attorney Martha Malone Williams install the newly elected officials. The climax of the club's installation was the receiving of the crop insignia by the new prexy, Paulette Dejoie, from the retiring president, Winifred Allen.

Organized for one year, under the instruction of E. B. Green, the group has learned the art of showing a horse. In such a short time the "Crops" have studded Los Angeles social life with its barn dances and cotton formals. Such events as their rustic weekend at the Jenkins' ranch and attending the National Fall Horse Show, serve to vary their activities. The organization brought national recognition to Los Angeles sportswomen by appearing in the National Negro Newsreel.

For the next year the new officers plan to maintain the acendency of this popular group in the sport and social realm. Those responsible for the club's activities in the next year are: Paulette Dejoie, president; Jessie Mae Brown, vice president; Marcella Monroe, corresponding secretary; Gloria Tribble Mitchell, recording secretary; Maethilde Kenner, treasurer; Sara Jones, commissioner of athletic activities; Winifred Allen, commissioner of social activities; Jane Criner, commissioner of public relations; Jewell Lockett, historian; Ruth Cage and Phylippa Jones, members.

LIT PHI SONIANS ENTERTAIN WITH ROOF TERRACE PARTY

Lit Phi Sonians, one of the younger club organizations of Eight and Towne A.M.E. recently entertained at the home of Leola Williams, 1603 E. 42nd st. The affair was centered on the roof terrace and was well attended.

'DENA CHIT-CHAT

By

JOHNETTA ARMSTRONG

Come this time every year school doors are open and students thoughts turn to the coming semester. Pasadena Jr. college and John Muir college are filled to capacity and they stopped taking any registrations a week before school opened. There really seems to be the old school feeling prevailing that hasn't been felt while the war was on, but now that the veterans are back everything is jumping. The Mirror Pool and swimming pool at Pasadena J.C. were the attraction of the week, for many a person found themselves getting out of the water not quite knowing how they had arrived in that position. Practically the whole great Phalanx Club is enrolled at John Muir and will be out for all the sports. Although every free period they are out to P.J.C. Barbara Durham is out to P.J.C. having gotten back from her trip too late to enroll at U.S.C.

Sunday afternoon found hundreds of people at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Perry where they gave their daughter and new son-in-law a lovely reception. Barbara looked lovely in a white satin long sleeved formal as she and her husband, Henry Wakens Dillard, greeted their many friends. Others in the receiving line were Mrs. Beatrice Perry, the bride's mother, Mrs. James M. Penn, the groom's mother, here from Kansas City, Kansas, Mrs. Emma Peterson, also from Kansas and Barbara's cousin, Florence Houston. Those who helped with the presents and serving of refreshments were, Mrs. Anna Mae Woods, Mrs. Pearl Williams, Josephine Cummins, Mrs. Edwards Mosely, Ruth Elam, Dorcas Gooden, Julia Moody, Mrs. Jack Teat and Ollie Guillory.

Received an announcement of the marriage of Ruby Mai McKnight and Mr. Melvin Williams Wednesday the twenty-eighth of August, in Phoenix, Ariz. This couple will be at home at 300 N. Bonnie Brae, Los Angeles, Calif.

Congratulations seem to be all the rage this season. There was one at George and June Browns the other night and the Gay Cavalleros dance was really a huge success. On the lips of everyone present was the new creation of Bernice Cunningham which was really something to talk about. She had on a black satin midriff cocktail dress with matching coat, pink satin shoes and pink and black satin bag. It was the dress of the week. Some of the others present to dance to the rhythm of Eddie Martin and his quintet were Bert Hollands, Bertha and Dube Peters, Elizabeth and Alfred Williams, Myrtle and J. L. Cunningham, Irene and Stanley Miles, J. T. Morgan, M. L. Jackson, Muett and Emma White, Hannah and Jessie Roberts, Godfredy and Francis White, Anna Harris, Bobby and Betty Jones Oscar Clark and many others. After the dance quite a few Pasadenans were at Billy Burkes. They were David Scott, Willye Banks, Arthur Callier, Herman Sperlock, Anna Harrison, Bobby and Betty Jones and several others.

Jennie Horton Coffe has moved to Newark, New Jersey, with her husband, Eldon, where they will make their home . . . Just back from a trip to Baltimore, Maryland is Mrs. Morton. Steward, of The EAGLE and the NAACP was speaker at the NAACP meeting at the Friendship Paptist church . . . If you haven't registered to vote in this coming election I'd advise you to do so if for nothing more than to vote for the FEPC . . . The Fine's and Czars had a joint meeting Sunday and made plans for a Sock Party at Thelma Jackson's tomorrow night. They should really have a good time in their gear-feet (Ha, ha) . . . This year seems to be the year for all the Ebony Earls to get married. Sunday Billy Harris will take Gloria Hawkins as his wife, and Saturday night the Earls will give him a Stag Party in honor of his last night of freedom.

Mrs. Fred Davenport of Oakland and cousin of Mr. Sterling Irving spent a very enjoyable vacation with her cousin and his wife Mrs. Atkins Orving. While here she was feted royally first, by her cousins, with a dinner. Those there were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Short, Mrs. Peterson, Morris and Helen Irving of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Ernighton, Mrs. Virginia Sorry and the Nelson Powells. She was secondly feted by Mrs. Virginia Corry at a Brunch. Mrs. Frank Prince, Mrs. May Hughes, Mrs. Lilla Belton, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Carrie Craddock, Mrs. Baltick, Mrs. Reed, of Oakland, Mrs. Coplin, Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Nicholas, Mrs. Van Williams, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. O'Neil, Mrs. Withers, Mrs. Belle Dodson, Mrs. Azie Williams, Mrs. Irving, Mrs. Henry were all present at this wonderful affair.

That's all for this tweek.

The Charm of You

By NATALIE T. SCURLOCK

Fall is upon us almost without our realizing it. And there's so much we intended to have done by this time. Oh dear! Where did the time go? It seems to pass more quickly each year.

No use bemoaning what could have been done with time that is gone forever. The thing to do is to make the most of what we yet may spend.

Give a look to that wardrobe. Where is it? Probably packed away in a closet somewhere or in a couple of boxes or some of it may even be still handing on hangers in that same closet. Tsk, tsk, tsk . . ." Meant to put those things in storage and moth balls but it seems I never could get around to it."

Oh well, no good crying over spilled milk. Get to that fatigued wardrobe and do something about it. Make a resolution to get that wardrobe back into shape and keep it there. Begin by taking everything that needs cleaning or pressing to the cleaners—a good cleaner, that is.

Take care to have done, or do it yourself, all mending, sewing on of buttons, shortening, lengthening, taking in or letting out necessary to the standards of a well-cared-for wardrobe. Size up what you have already so that what you intend to buy will be just what your fall wardrobe needs to give it, and you, new life and vitality.

Try not to make the old mistake of crowding clothes together in the closet. If you do this the cleaner's labor will have gone for naught and so will your money. Arrange your closet so that you will not have to press an outfit each time you decide to wear it. Pressing is hard on clothes, you know, to say nothing of the time wasted.

It is well to remember that knitted and jersey clothes will stretch if their weight is allowed to hang in a closet. Take a padded or wooden hanger and slip it in the shoulders of the dress, then fold the skirt over a padded wire hanger bar half way up. This takes the weight off the frock and keeps it in its original size and shape.

To keep those clothes the way you want them — looking their best, mend them if they should need it before putting them away. The moment a snap or button comes off that is the time to put it back in place. Rips and seams should be sewed up immediately. It takes only a few minutes to fixe these little places and they certainly pay dividends when it comes to lengthening the life of your clothes and adds much to the neatness of their appearance.

In keeping your wardrobe trim and neat, try these simple treatments:

If the veil on your hat becomes crumpled and wrinkled you can give it new life and crispness by placing on a piece of waxed paper and pressing with a warm iron.

To remove the shine from a wool suit or skirt, place a dampened cloth on the right side of the garment and press gently. Remove the cloth while it is still steaming. Before the garment is quite dry, hang it in a draft.

If pigskin gloves become harsh they may be softened by the use of saddle soap. If they are soiled, wash them first with any good mild soap and finish with saddle soap.

Afternoon Garden Recital

An outstanding event will be an Afternoon Garden Recital to be given by Miss Ruby Lyle, well known and talented piano teacher, whose piano studio is located at 3830 Wall St., by her piano students on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 29, at 12:30 at her lovely garden home. It will be the largest recital Miss Lyle has ever held and some forty students will participate ranging in age from four years to university age. It will be a very interesting program of various types of music. Many of her students show promise of being our pianists of the future because of her fine supervision and their inherent talent which the recital will no doubt prove.

Miss Lyle has also recently started a new project. She has personally supervised a very constructive program for the children in her block. Two groups of these children will sing. One comprised of the babies, which she calls the Wall Street Baby Chorus, and the other the Wall Street Junior Chorus. Both groups will render selections accompanied by Miss Lyle on the piano.

Everything points to a very interesting and delightful afternoon, we need more of this kind of activity for our young children. More power to you, Miss Lyle, keep up the good work.

MILLER-HOUSTON NUPTIALS

Simplicity reigned at the informal wedding of Miss Ann Christine Miller of Atlanta, Ga., to Mr. Namon Houston, on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 1. The setting was the very lovely home of Mrs. Lila Sipsey, aunt of the groom, at 4204 Zamora.

Before an improvised altar flanked high with white pottery vases of white gladioli, zinnias, and asters, the wedding party members took their places to the muted strains of "Melody of Love." The pretty bride wore a short afternoon dress of soft blue crepe fashioned with sweetheart neckline, tight fitting bodice and short peplum over a full skirt. On her head she wore a "half-hat" of palest pink rose petals with matching shoulder length veil, long pink gloves and corsage of gardenias and pink rosebuds completed her costume.

Mrs. Dorothy Mae Sipsey, lovely in short white print afternoon drape dress, was matorn of honor. Mr. Charles Henry Sipsey, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

Promptly at 5:30 p.m. the charming young couple recited their vows in a double ring ceremony, the Rev. J. J. Hicks of St. John Methodist church, officiating. Only members of the immediate family and close friends were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Sipsey, left immediately for Murray's Dude Ranch at Victorville, California, where they spent a brief honeymoon, returning in time for the reception which was held Sunday, September 8.

THE RECEPTION

The reception was held in the palatial apartment-home of Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson, cousins of the groom, 981 East 42nd place, Sunday, September 8, between the hours of 7 to 9.

Receiving were: the bride's lovely mother, Mrs. D. L. Miller, who was stunning in a vogue model of black chantilly lace and gold studded Grecian sandals; and Mrs. Seluria McVea, charming mother of the groom, who was gowned in a black net formal with tight fitted bodice trimmed in white silk braid.

Mrs. Dorothy Sipsey, wearing an exquisite Grecian gown of printed white jersey, was the keeper of the bride's book. The eight hostesses were: Mrs. John Pulliam Jr., Miss Evelyn Alexander, Mrs. Ethel Brooks, Mrs. Erma Lee Given, Mrs. Sophie Petty, Mrs. Althea Taylor Polk, Mrs. Willie Mae Gibbons and Mrs. Roberta Hyson Ray. The cohostess was charming Mrs. George Patterson.

After congratulating the happy couple the many guests were served refreshing orange frappe punch and cake in the beautiful dining room, with Mrs. Ethel Brooks and Miss Evelyn Alexander presiding.

The bride, Miss Ann Christine Miller, is the daughter of Mrs. D. L. Miller of Atlanta, Ga.; who accompanied her to the Angel city. She is a graduate of Tennessee State college, Nashville, Tennessee, and a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority.

The groom, Namon Houston, is the son of Mrs. Seluria McVea, prominent church worker of Los Angeles. Born and educated in San Antonio, Texas, he received special military training in army administration at Atlanta University in Atlanta, Georgia.

He is a veteran of World War II, in which he served as First Sergeant in the 20th air force. At present he is employed by the 822nd specialized depot, U. S. army, at Maywood, in a clerical capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston will be "at home" to their many friends after October 6, at 981½ East 42nd place.

Bridgers, I am sorry that I failed to make the "deadline" last week, so I am going to try to make up for it in this issue by giving more of the scientific value of response without the long list of quizes.

1. Your partner opened the bidding with one Spade. Opponent over-alled with 2 D. Holding this hand S. QX H. J10X D. 10XXX C. KQJX you should pass at this stage of the bidding, however, if your partner re-bids; over the opponent's re-bid, you should raise your partner once with 1½ HTs and 2 cards with a honor in his suit is adequate trump support for a re-bidded suit.

2. A single raise of your partner's suit after he has bid two suits is equivalent to a pass—it merely announces that he held more in the first bid suit or an equal number without additional honor tricks.

3. The opponent to your partner's right opened the bidding with 1S. Your partner doubled. You held this hand: S. KQX H. A1054 D. 543 C. Q10X. Your response is 2 NT. Not because you have the opponent's suit stopped, but because you have 2 honor tricks in support of your partner's Take-out Double.

To those of you who are interested in advancing in the scientific values of this most fascinating game by attending my classes must be at the GWBA club rooms at 1054-56 E. 54th St. every Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. to 8:30. KINLOCH'S ☆ KORNER

By Y. S.

Dedicated to the memory of my childhood chum, John Kinloch, who died in the struggle to destroy Fascism.

Dear Chum:

From Birmingham, Alabama, this week comes an urgent call for help voiced by the Southern Negro Youth Congress. An appeal for funds to be used in the defense of Johnny Craft.

Who is Johnny? He's a 21-year-old Negro Marine vet. And he, two of his brothers, Garfield and W. O., are charged on eight counts of "assault and battery with intent to kill."

The fact that it's all a lie is galling enough in itself, chum, but what makes it even more maddening is the action of the Acting Governor of Mississippi, Fielding Wright, who has pre-judged the case and declared Johnny Craft and his brothers guilty.

But the charges lodged against Johnny are unjust! This is the real low-down, chum, and it's based on evidence.

Johnny, his brothers and 14 other Negroes were arrested following a 24-hour armed assault upon their county near Magee, Miss. During the shooting, four white deputy sheriffs and possemen were wounded. Johnny and his brothers are accused of shooting the deputized members of the mob.

Following the shooting, a mob of more than 200 armed men, bloodhounds and all, led by the sheriffs of three counties, hunted through the swamps for the Crafts and their neighbors, the Coopers. All the Negroes were captured except Johnny Craft, who eluded the mob and walked 60 miles through the swamps to surrender to the sheriff at the Jackson jail.

Evidence uncovered by investigators for the Southern Negro Youth Congress, and supported by a Jackson, Miss., daily paper reveals that Johnny Craft and the other Negroes held for shooting members of the so-called white "posse" are innocent of having shot any of them.

Actually, chum, Johnny and his friends are guilty of but one thing—attempting to save themselves.

These are the facts in the case. The four white men were shot by a white planter and his nephews on whose plantation the Craft family lives. The planter, H. J. Sullivan, who has been arrested and charged with wounding Glenn Hester, Smith county deputy sheriff, has admitted being on the scene of the shooting when the mob attacked the Craft cabin.

How does Sullivan fit into the picture? Well, the Sullivans who live on the plantation located on Merry Hell Ridge have long been feuding with the Sullivans who operate a plantation in what is called "Sullivans Hollow." The enmity between the two planters grew out of the efforts of one planter to get Negro tenants on the other's farm to agree to work on the first planter's farm.

In short, chum, the two Sullivan planters were vying for each other's workers.

Despite all this evidence, however, the Jackson "Daily News" has been conducting a vicious campaign of lynch-incitement against the Craft boys as the spearhead for its exhortations to the white people of Mississippi to "rally to the active defense of white supremacy" against the "mounting impudence of the Negroes."

Without a doubt, chum, the State of Mississippi is determined to weave a legal noose to hang brave Johnny Craft, in the face of overwhelming evidence to the contrary.

James Jackson, director of Special Projects of the SNYC saw the whole picture and analyzed the full significance of it when he said:

"Behind this case—a frame-up of a Negro veteran and his brother—lies the vicious story of the sharecropper, peonage system of the plantation. The plantation owners of the South are determined to force Negro veterans back onto the Cotton Plantations at starvation wages and near slavery conditions. But Negro ex-servicemen are determined to come into some of the freedoms for which they fought and stand ready to fight against a return of the old ways of abuse, oppression and slavery wages on the plantation."

Today the Craft boys—the youngest of whom is 11 year old Albert, Jr.—are in jail. To secure their release and defend them in the courts, $11,000 is needed.

Thus, the SNYC appeals to the young people of this nation to rally to the defense of the Craft boys. How about it, kids? Here is your chance to plank down a few bucks to help in this struggle for freedom. And justice. You can send your checks, money orders or contributions to the Johnny Craft Defense Fund, c/o Southern Negro Youth Congress, 526 Masonic Temple Bldg., Birmingham, Ala.

Your chum,

YVONNE.

So. Negro Colleges Seek More Teachers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A national search for additional teachers for overcrowded Negro southern colleges is being launched, according to a report received here last week from Southern university at Baton Rouge, La.

President of NAACP Jr. Council Resigns; Pledges Full Support

I take this method to announce publicly that I am no longer president of the Youth Council of NAACP. The Council is now in the process of reorganization, preparatory to an election under the direction of the senior branch. My resignation has been pending for more than a year for lack of an election. I am now past the age limit (guess I'm getting old, folks) so I will no longer be able to serve the Council in any official capacity.

However, I will continue to serve the community to the best of my ability whenever and wherever I may. I want to express here my thanks and deep appreciation to those individuals and organizations who worked with and supported me during my stay in office, and I extend in advance my best wishes for the success and progress of the Council and its new officers.

Please address all further correspondence for the Council to Atty. T. L. Griffith, 1105 E. Vernon avenue, until otherwise notified. Again I say thanks a million.

Juvenile Delinquency Booklet Wins Praise of Youth Leaders

Youth leaders throughout the state of California this week received their copies of the second edition of the famed "Don't Be a Chump" pamphlet written by Dist. Atty. Edmond G. Brown of San Francisco as part of his campaign to curb juvenile delinquency in his county.

The booklet, now in its sixth printing, has been termed by youth leaders "the greatest single contribution by any law enforcement officer in the fight against juvenile delinquency."

"It is my fervent hope," declared Brown, Democratic nominee for state's attorney general, "that this pamphlet will be only the beginning of a campaign on the part of all loyal citizens in every walk of life to combat the shadow of juvenile delinquency now hovering over post-war America."

Brown, in the booklet, makes a strong appeal to youth to learn "the rules of the game of life—and remember you don't break the rules and win!"

Colleges Forced to Close Doors To 70,000 Vets

Over 70,000 veterans certified for schooling under the GI Bill of Rights have been unable to enroll in overflowing Southern California schools, the Veterans Service Center announced this week.

The disclosure came with an announcement by Robert H. Craig, center president, that USC, UCLA and LACC are now closed for registration after enrolling 37,000 students.

"The biggest rush in the history of Southern California schools is now on and we can expect that it will continue for several years," Craig said.

More than 150,000 veterans have applied for and received eligibility certificates under the GI bill. Of these, 70,000 have been unable to enroll.

Counseling and further information may be obtained from Board of Education's Veterans' Counseling Service at Third St. and Broadway.

Drive Launched To Fight Jimcro In N. J. Schools

CAMDEN, N. J.—Determined to break down segregation in the elementary schools here, the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People launched a drive to fight jim crow in the schools in a big protest rally held last Sunday.

The new campaign centers on urging parents to enroll children in the school nearest their home, rather than have them pass a school to register in a "colored" school.

Two-Day Confab on Childhood And Youth Slated to Open Mon.

Needs of youth, and the role to be played by the community in fulfilling those needs, will be emphasized when more than 1200 delegates from business and labor, public and private social agencies, PTAs, churches and other community groups meet for the Third Biennial Conference on Childhood and Youth, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, at the Ambassador hotel.

Organizations in the Eastside which have not yet registered their delegates are urged to do so immediately by contacting Miss Archer at 729 S. Figueroa St., Los Angeles, MIchigan 8821.

Topics to be discussed during the course of the conference include a panel of school boys and girls who will present their viewpoint of current youth needs; the family's part in training children to meet responsibility; teacher responsibility for children; health needs of children today; today's pre-school child; work opportunities for young people; and what recreation means to youth.

Southern Conference on Human Welfare Slates Meeting Sunday

Miss Margaret Fisher of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare in Nashville, Tenn., will hold a public meeting for the Pasadena area at the Scott Methodist church, 55 W. Mary street, at 3 p. m. September 29.

Born of southern white parentage, Miss Fisher has been active in social service fields in the south for many years. She joined the Southern Conference when it was first organized in 1937 and has been one of its most ardent leaders in the fight to bring equal balloting opportunities to all people in the southern states.

The Southern Conference has cooperated with the NAACP in the fight to gain civil liberties for all people, and has worked in close coordination with public and private health and social service agencies in the efforts to raise the educational, economic, and social standards for the majority of the people in these poverty-stricken areas of our country.

Miss Fisher is now working from the Hollywood Plaza hotel, where she has been conducting meetings through Southern California to acquaint the public with the needs and work of the Southern Conference.

Photography, Poetry Popular With GIs

MANILA, P. I.—"Number one" books in demand by Negro occupation troops at the American Red Cross Pasay Club library here are on photography, according to Gladys Wade Powell, Milton, Mass., Howard university graduate, who is in charge of the library and other Red Cross services.

Number two on the list are poetry of the 19th and 20th centuries. Next in demand are books on job opportunities, and following these came books from which films have been made. Last come philosophy and history.

"Books most used at the library dove-tail with club activities," Miss Powell says. "For example after the opening of the club's darkroom and photographic laboratory, the demand for books on photography increased. The demand for poetry followed the installation of a Dream Hour at which classical music is played and bits of poetry are read."

What happiness is, the Bible alone shows clearly and certainly, and points out the way that leads to the attainment of it.—Coleridge.

Quakers Open Work and Study Projects for Young People

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Four work and study projects for young people officially opened last Thursday in the Philadelphia area under the sponsorship of the American Friends Service Committee, Clarence E. Pickett, executive secretary of the committee, announced. The Quaker projects will continue throughout the winter.

These projects consist of an Interne-in-Industry unit, and three Institutional Service Unit Projects which will be located in the Rockland State hospital, Orangeburg, N. Y.; the New Jersey State hospital at Trenton, and the New Jersey State Reformatory for Women at Clinton Farms.

The object of the projects is to enable students, or other young people, to gain actual working experience in industries or social institutions, and to give them the opportunity to live cooperatively with a group of people who have the same interests, but who come from various racial and religious groups and backgrounds.

Seeks to Start A Youth Curfew

Los Angeles County Youth Committee last week voted to ask the Board of Supervisors and all municipalities to adopt a uniform county-wide curfew ordinance.

The ordinance would cover youngsters under 18 and would ban "loitering" on the streets after 10 p. m.

The committee, composed of county and city officials concerned with youth welfare, also heard plans for a juvenile control institute to open Oct. 14 under the sponsorship of USC.

Dr. Emery Olson, dean of the USC school of public administration, reported that selected law enforcement officers from all over the state will be given a 16 weeks course in police juvenile work.

School Forced to Pay Scholarship

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—The Kansas City Art Institute and School of Design recently decided to cough up a check for $112.50 rather than allow young James W. Anderson, a Negro, permission to enter their institution.

Andelson, who won second prize in the 11th annual national high school competition of drawings and paintings, was refused entrance in the school when it was learned that he was a Negro. Only when the NAACP intervened in his behalf did the school agree to make a special dispensation in his case by awarding him the money equivalent of the half-year scholarship.

Kids Picket to Win Objectives

CHICAGO—After negotiations for the return of their baseballs and footballs from a neighbor's yard had failed, youngsters here resorted to a weapon used frequently by their dads against stubborn employers—the picket line. The articles were quickly returned.

New Lunch Program Begins for 8 Million School Youngsters

As the school bells ring this year, approximately 8,000,000 white and colored children in 48,000 schools have bright prospects of being served nutritious noonday lunches under the permanent school lunch program, the United States Department of Agriculture estimates. Last year 7,000,000 school children participated in the program.

Congress has appropriated 75 million dollars to help carry out this year's program. This compares with only $57,500,000 in 1945. Up to $10,000,000 of this year's appropriation may be spent for school lunch equipment—refrigerators, stoves, dishes, dish washing machines and other facilities.

The $75,000,000 will be divided among the states on the basis of need and the number of school children between the ages of 5 and 17. Already 43 states and Hawaii have signed agreements to take advantage of the school lunch act.

American Youth for Democracy To Aid, Entertain NMU Seamen

SAN FRANCISCO—A jeep load of singing members of the American Youth for Democracy will tour all waterfront piers every evening at 10 o'clock when the coffee wagon makes its rounds for the striking seamen of the Committee for Maritime Unity, the youth group announced this week.

The group will tour regularly each evening and every Saturday afternoon. AYDers will swing right along with the strikers with such songs as "Union Maid," "Mr. Bilbo," etc.

Entertainment plans arose after Pat Tobin, NMU patrolman, and Norval Welch, chairman of the NMU strike committee, presented an appeal for entertainment for the strikers, to the San Francisco AYD county council.

THE REALM OF RELIGION

Church Warned It Must Live Up To Its Preachments to Survive

NEW YORK—(NNPA)—If the Christian Church is to survive "it must clean house, take a stand on principles and work to make its pronouncements clear and effective."

This was the unanimous opinion of Bishop G. Bromley Oxman of the Methodist Church, George E. Haynes of the department of race relations of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and Walter F. White, secretary of the NAACP, three of the principal speakers at a program observing the sesquicentennial of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church at Mother Zion Church, 140 West 137th st.

The Church "now must find the way to act on social and economic question," Haynes said. "The churches must set their own houses in order," he continued. "Segregation in our churches, schools, seminaries and hospitals must be changed if we are to go into the world with clean hands."

Haynes caused a stir among the members and clergy of the church when he said that "the renouncing of segregation goes for Negro as well as the white churches." In this connection, it was learned that the question of dropping the word "African" from the name of this denomination had come up more than once recently.

"Christian churches must gird themselves for the task of working for a lynchless land," Haynes said.

Walter White declared that an outbreak of violence against any single racial group, if unchecked, would reach out to every other racial and religious group.

He said that he was "forced to warn the church" that Negroes have come to feel that "this is the last chance that democracy will have to prove itself as a valid way of life." He asked the church to recognize its own failure "to live up to its moral preaching."

"White said that Senator Tom Connally and Secretary of State James F. Brynes "make a mockery of democracy when they propose it for Trieste and Bulgaria but at home have opposed anti-lynching and anti-poll tax legislation and every other kind of federal legislation designed to wipe out racial inequality."

Bishop Oxman paid tribute to the founders of Zion Methodism and said that "a church awakened and militant" could win the struggle against racial and religious prejudice.

He deplored efforts to maintain "an enduring peace that rests upon social and economic injustice," and declared that the time-honored concepts of nations, classes and races are too small to contain all that is needed in the world today. The Christian Church of the U. S., he added, must break down the principles of separation and segregation.

The Reed School of Christian Education Opens 1946-47 Term

The Reed School of Christian Education opened its 1946-47 term last Monday evening in the Ebenezer Baptist church, 4901 Avalon blvd. The enrollment exceeded that of the first night of the school's opening since the war.

Two ministers have received their diplomas from the school in that time and two have received bachelor of theology degrees, and four from the Christian Education Department have been awarded the degree of bachelor of Christian degree.

The curriculum of the school equals that of any school of the same type. It is accredited and its certificates of credit and diplomas are honored by more than forty denominations.

Enrollment of students for both the Ministerial and Leadership Training departments will remain open until Oct. 15. For information concerning tuition and courses of study, address Deon G. W. Reed, 824 East Adams blvd. To reach the school take the "S" car and get off at the church.

Church of Living God to Hold Dedication Services Sunday

Bishop D. V. Warren and the members of The Church of the Living God are pleased to announce the dedication service for their new place of worship. They wish to thank their many friends for the hearty cooperation rendered. Bishop Warren and the faithful few members have worked patiently and untiringly for eleven years with this objective in view.

When Bishop Warren, present pastor and bishop of the eleventh district including California, Arizona, Nevada, and Oregon, first came here in 1935, services for worship were being held in a rented place.

Bishop Warren and his congregation acquired and purchased a temporary place of worship on Compton at 74th st. for the sum of $3500. Still they set their goal for the erection of a new temple. Because of the acute shortage of building material these plans had to be temporarily abandoned. Yet the pastor had a vision of a better place in which to worship.

The members thank their pastor who has proven himself to be a real leader of his people.

More recently they have purchased a $9500 building, where they will now hold their worship services. They invite their friends and neighbors to acknowledge and witness a special service of dedication on Sunday, September 29, and a continued program throughout the weekend.

Christian Science Lesson Topic 'Reality'

"In God is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God." This verse from the Psalms will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

A Bible selection from John reports that "as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind? Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. . . . When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, And said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, . . . He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Mortals will some day assert their freedom in the name of Almighty God. Then they will control their own bodies through the understanding of divine Science. Dropping their present beliefs, they will recognize harmony as the spiritual reality and discord as the material unreality."

Neighborhood Church Observes Sixth Anniversary Celebration

The Neighborhood church, San Pedro street at 47 place, began its sixth anniversary celebration of Church and Pastor H. Mansfield Collins last Sunday. The anniversary address was delivered at the morning service by Postmaster Michael D. Fanning, in which he stressed racial tolerance and better understanding between both races. He spoke in the typical American style and for American democracy.

The following ministers and their congregations worshipped during the week: Rev. F. A. Hyde, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, Rev. L. M. Driver, Rev. J. A. Caston. Friday night Rev. Arthur Peters of Victory Baptist church will preach. Rev. A. W. Ross of Pleasant Hill Baptist, Sunday at three o'clock. Rev. Clayton D. Russell, Sunday at seven o'clock.

Pastor Collins will deliver the Anniversary sermon Sunday at eleven. The church was organized September 22, 1940 with something over 200 members and has passed the 1400 mark. Also acquired three splendid pieces of property, and is now entering on a campaign to enlarge the present structure and will soon open a community house for women in a four-floor apartment building recently purchased at 4618-24 San Pedro street.

An Open Letter to the Unsaved—to the Unchurched—to New-Comers to Los Angeles

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH, LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Located at 24th and Griffith Ave. Phone, PRospect 6-9066

Sends You These Greetings:

Dear Friends!

A little bird told us that you are living in Los Angeles and not connected with any church. If we've been mis-informed, please disregard this letter. If we've been correctly informed, we invite you to give this letter your immediate and serious consideration.

If you are a Christian, you can not afford to remain aloof from other Christians. If you are not a Christian, You need God and the Church.

We extend to you a warm welcome to our membership and fellowship. If you have recently come to the city and have a family, we are asking you to consider our invitation to bring the "whole family" to our church.

Aside from the normal benefits of Church Membership, we feel that at Second Baptist we have some "special features" which ought to attract thoughtful people.

FIRST, we have a great physical plant, modernly built and equipped. Ask an usher to show you through. It cost us and those before us $225,000. It is paid for and "You" will not have to share that obligation. We have a Community Center next door to the church which cost $27,500. Its renovations are costing about $20,000 more. It proposes to provide: 1. Home for Working Girls. 2. Home for Aged 3. Day Nursery 4. Recreational Building for Youth and Adults. Go over and inspect it anytime you like. It too, is all paid for and you were not burdened to help. We have a beautiful eight-room parsonage at 1567 W. 37th St., where the minister lives. It cost a total of $12,000. It also is paid for.

SECOND, we have a great Sunday School, a live B.T.U., a wide-awake Missionary Society, a "Youth League" with its own newspaper, and a truly "wonderful choir." Our organist is a graduate from the School of Music of the University of Southern California. Our Directress is a graduate of the same school.

THIRD, we have a "Scholarship Loan Fund" to help worthy boys and girls to secure an education.

FOURTH, we have deep concern for our aged and sick and shut-ins. We administer Holy Communion quarterly to the shut-in. We care for the needy. If a faithful member is sick and has no one to look after him or her, we pay someone to do so for at least two or three weeks. If a faithful member dies without sufficient funds for burial, we see to it that a decent Christian burial is provided at our own expense. Don't you think that is grand?

FIFTH, we are inaugurating a "Hospital Insurance" plan along with our regular membership dues, whereby every member by regular payment of dues will be benefited in case of hospitalization. Do you know of any other church anywhere with such concern for its members? You may inquire at the Church Office for details.

SIXTH, we pay the salary of a Missionary in Africa.

SEVENTH, the church has a good preacher, a great financier, and an excellent pastor, all in the person of one man, Dr. J. Raymond Henderson. He is a native of Virginia. Educated at Virginia Union, Oberlin, Andover Newton. In 1933 the McMillan Co. chose him as "One of the Twenty-five Best Preachers in America."

We do not want you to misunderstand us. We are not "Boasting." All we are trying to do is to inform you of our truly "Great Church" and its services. It is here to serve you. It seeks your goodwill, your influence, your fellowship, your financial support in order that it may "Carry On" the work so well begun and developed by "Others."

We want you. Wouldn't you like to become one of us? You may join any Sunday. You may confer with Minister any Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. You will do us a "Favor" if you "Keep Passing" this invitation to Friends of yours who need a Church Home..

LAYIN' IT ON THE LINE

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

JOE WAS ROUGH

With Tami Mauriello re-routed to the company in which he belongs, and Joe Louis still champion and again engaged in catching up upon his golfing, it behooves this scribe to give vent to few comments on the so-called "fight" staged last Wednesday night in Yankee Stadium. It was a fight as long as it lasted and it found the champ putting on an exhibition of quick retaliation after being on the receiving end of one of Tami's socks on the kisser. The blow came early in the fight and Joe, who is usually a peaceful soul in and out of the ring, became slightly annoyed and really put on the heat. In a matter of seconds Mauriello found himself gazing pensively at the arc lights in the park from a reclining position on the canvas. Arising at nine he waded into the champion again, who was patiently waiting. The Bomber brought one sizzling from the floor and Tami, who was listening dazedly to Referee Arthur Donovan's count, must have thought he had been tricked and a Mack truck subsituted for Louis. As Lionel Hampton's new song goes . . . "That's All She Wrote." The fatal ten had been tolled before Mauriello realized that his joust with the greatest champion of all time was over, finished, terminated . . . or what have you.

THAT BENEFIT FIGHT

Saturday night, September 28, at the Olympic auditorium John Thomas will try to wrest the state welterweight crown from the head of California Jackie Wilson in a 12-round bout for the benefit of West View Hospital. On the same night a 1946 Buick will be raffled off for the same cause. This makes it a double attraction. You'll see a great fight and you might come to the Olympic in a 1929 Ford and wind up riding home luxuriously in your new 1946 Buick. All jokes aside, folks, don't miss that fight. We want to see the Olympic packed to the rafters for this one. If this becomes a reality then West View will be just a little closer to becoming a reality.

ON A.A.U. GAMES

Dr. Edwin B. Henderson writing for NNPA on the A.A.U games last Spring said: "Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States is particularly happy over the turn of events in San Antonio as a consequence of the no-incident successful termination of the championship games last Spring. In a letter to the writer Mr. Ferris said:

"Our Track and Field championships in San Antonio were a fine success. The conditions under which the athletes participated were practically the same as would have been the case had the Championship Meet been held in a Northern city. Not only was our National Championship Meet open to all amateurs but for the first time in history the same condition prevailed for the championships of the A.A.U. association having jurisdiction over the Southern part of Texas. Our officials there promise us that boxing and other sports programs will be held under similar conditions. I am satisfied that holding our championships in San Antonio served a very good purpose."

If South Texas is able to operate a democratic sports program without restriction as to race then many other areas in the South may pattern thereafter. In Washington, D. C., the legal status of racial restrictions may be tested this Fall or Winter in the courts. After pleadings by the attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, William H. Hastie, Leon A. Ransom and George E. C. Hayes, the United States Court of Appeals ruled that the lower courts had erred in not ruling on the merits of the contention of the colored amateurs that they were denied their rights as amateur athletes by the practices of the local A.A.U. The cases were remanded for trial by the lower court.

Athletic leaders in all communities should appeal to the local control bodies and President Willard N. Greim of Denver, Colorado, who is the national president of the A.A.U. Locals should be urged to adopt the non-discriminatory American pattern of the parent body, the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, whose offices are in the Woolworth Building, 233 Broadway, New York City."

Ezzard Charles Defeats Smith

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Ezzard Charles, 172, Cincinnati, had to put on plenty of steam to earn a 10-round decision over Oakland Billy Smith, 170, California, Monday night. It was one of the roughest battles ever seen here.

Charles' right eye was almost closed in the sixth round from Smith's vicious punches and his managers complained that Smith continuously hit him on it during the clinches.

West View Hospital Will Benefit From Title Fight

The boxing bout that all Los Angeles has awaited for a long time will become a reality Saturday, Sept. 28, when what looks like a sell-out house will jam the Olympic auditorium to watch John Thomas, foremost contender for the World's lightweight crown, try to gain new laurels when he faces California Jackie Wilson in a 12-round battle for the state welterweight title. The fight is being sponsored for the building fund of the proposed West View Hospital and on the same night, for the same cause, a brand new 1946 Buick will be raffled, which some lucky person will receive.

Neither John Thomas nor Jackie Wilson need any introduction to Californians. Both are legendary in the ring annals of the state and both possess superlative records. Thomas has been pounding on the door of the throne room inhabited by the world's lightweight champion for some time and rumor has it that he'll soon get a crack at the title. Wilson, since leaving the Army, has been forging steadily to the top again in his division and is well liked by fight fans for his honest efforts in the ring.

In his last local fight Thomas easily defeated the hard-hitting Frankie Moore of Oakland while Wilson will be remembered by many fans for his decisive victory over Freddy Dixon, sometimes called the uncrowned welterweight king. He has fought lesser opponents since then but his masterful win over Dixon was a lulu.

West View Hospital officials urge all fans who have not yet purchased tickets to make haste as a complete sell-out is expected. Also watch for a flock of young ladies who are selling tickets for the automobile raffle and be sure to get yours. You may be lucky.

At one stage of the fight Jones stood with his hands down and invited Zander to hit him, which Bobby did but failed to put the well-conditioned Jones on the canvas. Jones put up a great fight but was out-boxed by the clever Zander.

Rams Ready For Eagles

National league football officially opens in the mammoth Los Angeles Coliseum on Sunday, September 29, when the world champion Los Angeles Rams tear into the Philadelphia Eagles in a game which not only will determine whether the Rams will be credited with victory or charged with defeat in their first league game played in their new home, but which will give them a chance to avenge the only defeats suffered their 1945 campaign.

The Eagles last year defeated the Rams in a pre-season game but made it official in a regular league battle later in the season to the tune of 28 to 14. Those two setbacks were the only scars on an otherwise perfect record hung up by Coach Adam Walsh and his men in their rise to the championship.

Kenny Washington and Woody Strode, Negro stars, are expected to see action in this game.

Chet Brewer's Kansas City Royals wasted no time after arriving in Los Angeles last Friday before starting their victory march. Saturday and Sunday at Long Beach they scored a double victory over the Long Beach Rockets. Scores were 5 to 1 on Saturday and 10 to 5 on Sunday.

Due to both local Coast League teams being in the playoff the opening date of the Royals' debut at Wrigley Field is uncertain. If both teams are eliminated in the first week the tentative date would be Oct. 2 but if Hollywood and Los Angeles remain up to the finals the opening date will be pushed back until Oct. 8 or 9.

Speedy Cabanella, Filipino boxer, will tangle with Alfredo Escobar in the 10-round main event at Hollywood Legion stadium Friday night. In a previous match Escobar won a decision.

Banks and His Buddies, currently appearing at a local night spot, according to reports were the victims of a neat gyp insofar as their recording of the tune "Voo Voo' is concerned. The song was written by "Frosty," the guitar player, with Marion Abernathy doing the vocalizing. When it was recorded it was allegedly labelled as by the "Blues Woman" and the band failed to get the usual build-up that follows a popular selling record. AUBREY PENKEY, noted American baritone, opened his fall concert season with a recital at Wilmington, Delaware, last Sunday afternoon . . . The Celebrity Banquet Room has opened as a unit of the Club DeLisa. It will accomodate about 150 persons . . . BILLY ECKSTINE, young bandleader, will be the guest of honor at the Club DeLisa Thursday night. By the way, ADDIE WILLIAMS is in the top vocalist spot on the show and WANDA DAY, shake dancer from Chicago, is knocking 'em off their seats. LLOYD GIBBONS and His Rhythm Rockers play the music and Jimmy Young is the capable emcee . . . MARVA LOUIS had to withdraw from the cast of the all-Negro Herald movie, "Boy! What A Girl" because of an infected throat. She was replaced by Dèek Watson and his Brown Dots.

GOSSIP LANE

Met Charles Browning, business manager of the Lionel Hampton interests, out at the Trianon Ballroom the other night. Browning is a very personable guy and is bursting with energy. "Pops" Hampton, by the way, appeared as the guest of Gene Norman on the Eastside program early this week . . . MARY DAVIS is an attractive Eastsider.

THE DOPE BUCKET

Lucky Millinder and ork are currently appearing at the Club Riviera in St. Louis. He will be followed into that spot by Cootie Williams on Oct. 11 after which Buddy Johnson takes over on Nov. 1 . . . The new number by Lionel Hampton, "Adam Blew His Hat," which is dedicated to radio announcer, Joe Adams, was cut for Decca this week along with 7 other sides by Hampton and ork.

Doings at The LINCOLN

Dig these names: Frank Sinatra, Ella Mae Morse, King Cole, Woody Herman, Count Basie, The Dorseys, Louis Jordan. All these and many more will be on view at the Lincoln in the "Swoon Show," week of Oct. 1. The "Swoon Show" is a new idea in screen entertainment with a wide appeal to bobby soxers, swing fans, and just plain lovers of "out of this world" music. And the stage "Jump and Jive" revue will really be something!

Billy (I'm in the Mood for Love) Eckstine is burning up the Lincoln stage in his second week. Those loud explosions around 23rd and Central are not emanating from the trusty forty-five handled by Tyrone Power as "Jesse James," but rise from the thunderous applause as Billy steps to the footlights and the orchestra moans out the introduction to "Prisoner of Love."

The dates to remember: Oct. 8, when Charlie Barnet opens with his band for a week at the Lincoln. On Oct. 15, the "King of Jump," Count Basie, zooms into L. A. for his first appearance in over two years.

Yes, the Lincoln gets 'em first!

In Final L. A. Bow For '46

At his last and farewell 1946 appearance in Southern California, dynamic Lionel Hampton, his orchestra and array of swing stars open Tuesday, Oct. 1, at the Million Dollar Theater in downtown Los Angeles for a week's engagement.

The sparkling aggregation is fresh from a record breaking stay at the Trianon Ballroom where Hampton broke his own records. Shortly after their showhouse appearance here, the Hampton atomic powerhouse of music, depart on a cross country tour that will culminate with a four weeks' engagement beginning Nov. 1 at the Strand Theater in New York.

Hampton has announced that he will feature a brand new show at the Million Dollar with special emphasis on several original tunes recorded for Decca during his stay in Los Angeles. Chief among them, that has been voted by leading disc jockeys as the most famous swing sensation is "The Pencil Broke, That's All She Wrote," a rollicking swing number which bids fair to become a national hep cat's byword much in the same manner as "Flyin' Home," Hamp's "Boogie Woogie" and "Hey-Ba-Ba-Rebop," characterized by critics as "The new Lionel Hampton orchestra which can swing but is easy on the ears," is hailed as one of the greatest swing-tuneful aggregations ever assembled.

Veterans in the Lead

Newest addition to the band is Joe Comfort, ace bass player who was just recently released from the veteran armed service.

Other standouts include Leo Sheppard, 19, former veteran, trumpeter who blows the world's highest note; commonly referred to as the whistler; Bobby Plater, alto sax, clarinet, arranger-composer of the "Jersey Bounce", and former bandmaster of the famed 92nd Division band in Italy; Duke Garrett, ex-Kentucky State star gridder and navy band leader at New Orleans; Joe Wilder, trumpet player and during the war a first Sergeant in the U. S. Marine corps. He directed the marine band at New River, N. C.

Red and Curly, lively dance and funster team, and two of bandland's most attractive vocalists Winni Brown and Madeline Green. The new fast-moving Hampton revue is one of his greatest.

Willie Bryant's Air Show Will Be Transcribed

NEW YORK — Negotiations have been started by a major advertising agency here to transcribe the famous "Amateur Nite In Harlem" tyro shows which are broadcast each Wednesday night over WMCA from the stage of the Apollo theatre here, with Willie Bryant, the quipmaster, as emcee.

HATTIE McDANIEL departed Friday at 3:45 via American Airlines to make a personal appearance that rates in the four figure bracket, in Nashville, Tennessee. The actress dropped a baseball from the air over the Sulphur Dale baseball park on Monday at 2:30, climaxing the first annual all-star classic, of the all Negro Baseball Leagues in which Eastern and Southern teams play. Scheduled to return after three days, social obligations are holding up her return until Friday. She is being feted by her sorority members of Sigma Gamma Rho, and by the Fisk faculty. Miss McDaniels will return to the air on Tuesday with the Amos N'Andy show.

THE DISC
By I. Spinum

WHY DOES IT GET SO LATE SO EARLY, vocal chorus by Buddy Di Vito. THE BEAUMONT RIDE. HARRY JAMES and his orchestra.

One of the prettiest romantic ballads of the season is presented by Harry and his Music Makers' latest release. Buddy Di Vito delivers the lyrics in convincing style while Harry maintains the romantic mood with beautiful trumpet figures. The reverse is a jump tune which Harry and his composer-trombonist, Ray Coniff, worked out together. Harry's followers will know the meaning of the title which commemorates the Texas town where Harry was raised as a boy. A rocking tenor sax solo by "Corky" Corcoran and "The Horn's" hot trumpet provide the solo kicks to this jumping instrumental.

WHO'LL BUY MY VIOLETS? I MAY BE WRONG, BUT I THINK YOU'RE WONDERFUL. Dinah Shore. Orchestras under the direction of Mitchell Ayres and Harry Bluestone.

Originally entitled "La Violetera," Dinahs' latest release revives a 20-year-old Broadway legend and simultaneously introduces Revlon's new official fall fashion shade of "ultra-violet," which is subtly revealed in the lyrics. Dinah sings 16 bars of the lyrics in French in this new and lovelier version under a new title while Mitchell Ayres conducts the 27-piece orchestra. On the reserve side, Dinah gets into a lilting mood while Harry Bluestone brings out the highly-rhythmic qualities of one of America's all-time jazz favorites.

I GOT A GAL NAMED NETTIE. HEY NOW, HEY NOW. Both vocal choruses by Cab Calloway. CAB CALLOWAY and his orchestra.

"The King of Hi-de-Ho" is at his best in these two new sides. In his bouncing, roaring style, Cab tells us of his hectic romance with Nettie.

It's more than a dance! It's a carnival with games and prizes! A festival of succulent Spanish food, and entertainment rivaling the nightclubs' finest. A merry-making charity affair with all proceeds going to the American Youth for Democracy and to fight fascism in Spain.

Here are just a few performers scheduled: The Slim Gaillard Trio of the Cement Mixer fame and who are appearing at Billy Berg's in Hollywood. Aldini, in his "Fantasy of Smokes;" and Enrique Valdez and Nita Lupino, a new Spanish dance sensation.

St. Louis Hears Lucky Millinder

ST. LOUIS—The club Riviera here opened its new fall season Friday night with one of the most hilariously tuneful shows in its history headlined by Lucky Millinder and his band. The dynamaestro of swing recently rounded out its first coast-to-coast tour.

New Film Plays United Artists

"Canyon Passage," produced by Walter Wanger and now playing at the United Artists Theatre, 933 So. Broadway, downtown Los Angeles, is the outstanding outdoor-adventure picture making job of the year to date. Dana Andrews, Brian Donlevy and Susan Hayward are costarred in the film.

IT WAS WILD

So, you think the old west wasn't wild! In "Cheyenne," Warner Bros.' forthcoming epic about early Wyoming and the lads and lassies thereof, Jane Wyman wears above her rainty knees one pair of pink garters, gaily decorated with furbelows and ermine tails! Studio researchers take oath that such tidbits were authentic to Wyoming when it was woolly.

Delta Rhythm Boys To Be On Joan Davis Show

One of the country's most popular recording units, the sensational Delta Rhythm Boys, has hit the juke box jackpot again—this time louder than ever before.

The unit which has made famous such recordings as "Take the A Train" and "Just a-Sittin' and a-Rockin'", recently released the King Cole favorite, "My Buddy's Chick," backed up by "Walk It Off."

The group also has cut two sides with Ella Fitzgerald for Decca, both destined to become best sellers. Shortly to be released, they are "For Sentimental Reasons" and "It's a Pity to Say Goodnight."

The famous quintet — four voices and a piano—are due to return to Hollywood this week after a sensational four-month tour of the East.

From the film capital, they will be featured every Monday night on the Joan Davis show over NBC, beginning next Monday, September 30.

The following night, Tuesday, October 1, they return to the Amos 'n Andy broadcast as regular weekly features, the same spot they held for 36 consecutive weeks last season.

Delta Rhythm Boys On Two Air Shows

Beginning Monday, Sept. 30, the famous Delta Rhythm Boys will appear on the Joan Davis show, aired every Monday thereafter over NBC.

The following day, October 1, they return to take up their chores as one of the main attractions on the ever popular Amos 'n' Andy program.

The team was featured for 36 consecutive weeks last season on the latter show.

James Wong Howe, one of Hollywood's more famous cinematographers, was a professional boxer at the age of 16.

Brown Dots In Accident

PATERSON, N. J.—Deek Watson's penchant for auto sight seeing almost erased the Brown Dots singing act from the popular music scene here last week when the car in which the four boys were riding ran off the road and down a steep embankment three miles from here last Wednesday night.

Driving along the highway, Watson became engrossed in the scenery and temporarily forgot that he was the driver. When he realized his lapse, the car was reeling crazily down the embankment. He gained control quickly but before he could bring it to a halt he sideswiped a tree. Pat Best, guitarist, was thrown from the car, but none of the quartette suffered any serious injury. Damage to the car amounted to about $250.

NOTES FROM A MISCHIEVOUS LITTLE NEWSGIRL

Didn't know before that Jimmy Knoddingham of Hamp's band was the cousin of L. A.'s most popular playboy Roy Loggins, Jr. . . . Don't know what you think about it but we think that Dr. Charles (stubbie) Hill has a disposition thats tops . . . Do we understand that the Alabam is angling for the services of Billy Eckstine? . . . A fella looked at Mable Broussard Stokes and said "when she flashes that dimpled smile he just stands, stares and wilts" (That's about all you can do fella, 'cause she's in love up to her heart with hubby Ardie) . . . The Doll League, tis rumored, will have the formal of the year when they present theirs Sat. night at the Elks hall . . . Letter from Snooks and Allen (our rave of the interpretive dancers) came from Seattle and they DON'T like the place . . . Gee! but we like the voice of vocalist with the Eckstine band and especially her version of "What More Can A Woman Do?" . . . That cute and shapely usherette you look at twice, at the Lincoln theatre is Lena Faucett . . . Harry Davis is a drag, he's the type of a fella that enjoys pinching nice young ladies, where nice young ladies don't like to be pinched." They should name "drop dead pills" after guys like that.

IFRG To Make Awards in Fall

The International Film and Radio Guild, a fact-finding organization "designed to help protect the interests of minorities in the entertainment world," will sponsor its third annual Unity Awards banquet in Hollywood this fall, according to Superior Judge Stanley Mosk, president of the organization and chairman of the 1946 committee.

Once each year the IFRG bestows honors on those" . . . who have made outstanding contributions to interracial understanding and universal unity via the media of films and radio."

Winners are selected by a committee composed of screen and radio writers, producers and rank-and-file laymen.

CHARMING SINGER— Madeline Green is the attractive and pleasing featured vocalist with Lionel Hampton's orchestra which opens at the Million Dollar theatre in downtown Los Angeles Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Fitzgerald, Gillespie Join NAACP Equal Rights Battle

BOSTON—The New England Regional Conference of the NAACP climaxes its current membership and equal rights drive through the down-east sector with a mammoth dance promotion at Mechanics Hall here Armistic Day afternoon, its most ambitious effort to date. Swingland's most unique combination — Ella Fitzgerald plus Dizzy Gillespie's be-bop dispensers — will furnish the music for the gala affair.

These two artists — Fitzgerald and Gillespie—are both deeply interested in the aggressive campaign of the several chapters in this section for full citizenship rights. They have both made sweeping concessions to the directors of the Armistice Day affair as their contribution to its financial success. Since it is the first appearance of the two at a dance in this area, where they are so tremendously popular, the artistic success is assured.

The New England chapters of the association have scored some of the most significant victories in their history during the past year, so this dance will serve also as a victory celebration as well as an entertainment highlight.

COSMOPOLITAN GOLF

By JIMMIE SMITH

An open gold tournament was evidently the golf dish that golfers wanted served, for they are certainly whetting their appeties for the Rio Hondo clash, Friday, Oct. 4.

The beauty of the tournament though and that goes more than one way is that there will be a bracket for lady golfers and the possibility is that two foursomes may tee off. Martha Clissby will be the favorite but just doesn't have to win. There was a time when her husband was almost invincible but along came Spiller.

Golf among the ladies is rapidly progressing and by the time the National Ladies Championship is brought to Los Angeles in 1948, we should have a contender, for top honors. We have prospects among some of the following, Anice Boyer, Maudelle Richardson, Verna Hickman, Mary Woodyard, Mae Crowder and some others whose names can't be recalled at this time.

The coming winter season, if the weather is just fair will be a busy one for local golfers. The Cosmopolitan Club has scheduled an East-West match play tournament and its club championship will be a slam bang affair winding up with the presentation of a set of fine trophies at the annual banquet.

Joe Louis and some of the Eastern and Southern brothers and amateurs are expected to come out this winter and a major open will probably be put on with P.G.A. members competing.

The closing of the Sunset course caused a crowding of courses for all groups and a rearrangement of reservations, but things are gradually being ironed out. Slightly longer trips to outlying courses will be made and other means taken to increase interest in the game for those who have been laying off.

The Cosmopolitan Golf club expects an increased membership for next year and having joined the United Golfers Association is planning for the National event for 1948.

Music of Earl Robinson at At Philharmonic Aud. Oct. 8

Thematically based upon the poetry of Walt Whitman and the spirit and music of Earl Robinson, "I Hear America Singing," a unique concert of people's songs, featuring a company of 200, will open the Irwin Parnes Independent Concert Series at the Philharmonic Auditorium, Tuesday evening, October 8.

The very best of Robinson's music will be presented. His "Ballad for Americans," words by John Latouche, will be sung by the brilliant Nash Negro choir. The "Tower of Babel," written in collaboration with Norman Corwin and Carl Sandburg, will be sung by the Fred Warren Chorus. ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

HIPODROMO DE TIJUANA—General Manager Agustin Silveyra and Presiding Stewart and Racing Director Judge James J. Murphy gave the fans one of the best racing programs seen in many months at the border course last Sunday.

In the feature attraction, the Autumn Handicap at seven furlongs, Big Head won with Jockey H. Johnson up. The popular jockey, Johnson, rode four winners during the day.

In the secondary, "The Spokane," at six furlongs, the longshot Linda's Agent upset the form players to win by a nose, beating the favorite, Forest King, and Cannon, to pay in the mutuels $30.60 for $2. The winner was crowned by that famous star of screen, radio and stage, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, who with his comely wife and party was a guest of this writer.

Five public choices scored. The daily doube paid $10.60 and the quiniela $15.20.

This Sunday, with a purse of $4,000 added, "The Vera Cruz Handicap" at one mile will be run. Post time remains at noon. Eleven other races will support the main event. So until then, so long, GEORGE.

ORIENTAL WIT

When members of the company filming "Pursued," a western epic, began teasing an Oriental bit player because he didn't have a famous name like that of the picture's photographer, James Wong Howe, the bit player snorted amicably and said, "Fifty million Chinese can't be Wong!"

HELEN DOUGLAS RE-ELECTED IN HOT CONTEST IN 14TH DISTRICT

Return Verdict After Being Out Only 15 Minutes

COLUMBIA, S. C.—After 15 minutes deliberation Tuesday evening an all-white federal court jury acquitted Police Chief Lynwood L. Shull of Batesburg, S. C., who was charged with violating Negro war veteran Isaac Woodard's civil rights by blinding him in both eyes.

Although Judge Waring, in charging the jury declared: "We are not trying this case on race prejudice and you must put aside any feeling of color and do justice," it was only 15 minutes before the jury announced that the verdict was ready.

Woodard testified that he was removed from an interstate bus the night of Feb. 13, 1946, at Batesburg after being accused of rowdyism and intoxication. Shull was waiting for him at the bus door, he said, and struck him before he could say anything. He charged that en route to the police station the police chief beat him in the face so severly he was permanently blinded.

In closing arguments, defense attorney J. D. Hall of Batesburg told the jury that "you are trying a 'New South' and the race problem . . . If you rule against Shull then let this South Carolina secede again."

The case was tried under the civil rights clause of the 14th Amendment of the Constitution and conviction would have carried a maximum of $1000 fine and/or one year in prison.

Hollyw'd Writers Hit Injunction Against Chases

An encouraging increase in the number of protests against the spread of restrictive covenants in Los Angeles was noted yesterday by the Civil Rights Congress as it released to the press a statement signed by the entire executive board of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization, condemning the use of the covenant injunction against Jack and Lillian Chase, well-known sports and theatrical figures. The statement follows:

"In behalf of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization, we the undersigned officers, protest the restrictive covenant injunction which is preventing Jack Chase and Lillian Randolph Chase from living in the home they bought and own at 2527 West Adams, Los Angeles.

Lillian Randolph Chase has often appeared as an actress in the public service radio broadcasts prepared by the Hollywood Writers Mobilization. She

Charles Edwards Hearing to Open This Morning

The district attorney's office and defense attorneys Crispus Wright and Samuel Knapp both requested that the hearing of Charles Joseph Edwards be delayed until November 7 (today). The date had been set originally for November 4.

Edwards, whose amazing career came to an abrupt halt last Thursday when he was arraigned before Municipal Court Judge Leroy Dawson on counts of forgery and burglary, had claimed that all his trouble can be attributed to the machinations of his political enemies.

Defense attorneys say they will ask a psychiatric examination for Edwards. The district attorney has asked for a delay in order that more witnesses may be summoned.

Confinement in the county jail has helped—not halted—the career of Charles J. Edwards, self-styled youth leader whose masquerades included posing as a lawyer and FBI agent. Now he claims he got a "confession" from Tony Adams, indicted for the slaying of State Highway Patrolman Steve Sodel.

Edwards and Adams were in the same detention room outside Judge Dawson's court, awaiting

According to Mrs. Galloway,

Two Lads Subjected to Spectacle of Vile Cop Abuse, Beating of Dad

By EDWARD (BABE) ANDERSON

". . . Come back and pick it up anyway, even if you didn't knock it down. I don't like niggers nohow . . . Go back and pick it up!"

A white police officer is alleged to have thus addressed Tyree Williams, 36, of 1170½ E. 46th St., last Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in demanding that he place upright a police sign that had been knocked down. The incident occurred as Williams, accompanied by his wife and two young sons, were walking along Broadway near Fifth st.

TYREE WILLIAMS

Protesting that he had not knocked the sign down, Williams is reported to have obeyed. After he had done as commanded, witnesses state that the officer seized him, dragged him across the street. As Williams continued to protest, the policeman is reported to have grabbed him by the throat, saying he'd "break his damn neck."

Perpetrators of the unprovoked police attack were the two young sons of Williams, on whose memories will be forever seared the incident of their father being abused, beaten and kicked without the slightest justification, the implication that people of their race have no rights in the eyes of law enforcement officers of this city.

Another policeman entered the scene as the first officer allegedly hit the victim on the side of his face with a blackjack, threw him to the ground, and kicked him. After putting handcuffs on the victim, the police-

Kin of Dictator Trujillo, Mistaken for U. S. Negro, Killed by Florida Deputy

BUNNELL, Fla.—(NNPA).—Mistaking a Dominican for a colored American insisting upon his civil rights, a Florida deputy sheriff this week shot and killed Jose Adrian Trumillo Seijas, 20, a nephew by adoption of the president of the Dominican Republic.

Dominican Consul Jose M. Noel hurried here under direct orders of President Rafael Trujillo, Caribbean dictator, to determine why the Dominican head's nephew, who was on terminal leave from the United States army, was killed. Noel held an overseas telephone conversation with Anibal Trujillo, brother of the dictator, and left Miami for Bunnell.

Young Trujillo was shot as he was driving from New York to Miami while on terminal leave from the United States army, in which he had served two years. Sheriff Henry Wells said the shooting was done by a deputy, Miller Teeter, and a coroner's

Proposition 11 Defeated As State Republicans Are Swept Into Office

Up from the political lower depths where a disgusted electorate had plunged it after the Hoover apple selling fiasco, the Republican party scored major victories from New England to the West Coast in Tuesday's off-year elections.

In California, Proposition 11 (FEPC) suffered the fate of its progressive friends in the tidal wave of reaction which swept the state and the nation.

The "Yes" votes on the proposition, which was backed by the State Democratic party but not by the Republican party officially, early trailed the "No" votes. From early evening Tuesday it was evident that most of those who had succumbed to the propaganda line of the GOP were voting against FEPC, taking their cue from the distortions of the Act by its powerful Big Business enemies and a prostitute daily press.

According to returns received just before The Eagle went to press from half the precincts throughout the state, 144,000 votes were cast for FEPC, as against 386,836 in opposition.

It was not only in California, however, that the principle of fair employment practices received a body blow. Many of the defeated Democrats in other states had supported FEPC in the 79th congress. On the other hand, many of the Republicans returned to congress had refused to sign the petition to release the FEPC bill from committee, bring it to the floor. And few of the new Republican congressmen are expected to support any move to get FEPC before the 80th congress.

REACTION DEFEATED IN 14TH DISTRICT

In the 14th congressional district in L. A., Negro voters repudiated the Republican trick of running a Negro against a proven friend of his people, Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic incumbent.

The fight in the 14th was one of the hottest of the election campaign. In that district the GOP had poured tens of thousands of dollars and high-salaried strategists in a determined effort to defeat Rep. Douglas by hook or by crook. GOP money got results, but not enough to assure her defeat.

Rep. Douglas was opposed not only by the Hearst press and the no less reactionary Los Angeles Times, but by several Negro newspapers who switched their support from Douglas in the last days of the campaign. Only the California EAGLE stood firm in its support of this valiant friend of the underdog and oppressed. Despite terrific pressure and abuse, The EAGLE stood by its conviction that the courageous fight Mrs. Douglas had put up in and out of congress for minority peoples and progressive measures merited her return to congress.

The position of The EAGLE, assailed both by the racists and those Negroes who unthinkingly accepted the racists' theory that people should be judged by race and color rather than by performance and principles, was fully vindicated in the end by the voters of the 14th district.

The decision of the 14th district voters is not the end of the story, however, so far as the Republicans and their Big Busi-

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER awakens within me memories of other days and other associates.

These other days and associates tie in intimately with my own life and the life of this newspaper.

Joseph B. Bass, late editor of The California EAGLE, was a newspaperman of the early school of journalism—always proud of his inheritance, a son of bleeding Kansas. "Do unto others as you wocld be done by," was his religion.

One day, more than sixteen or seventeen years ago, he discovered two Kansas lads in Los Angeles who were employed by Editor Eugene Taylor of The California News.

"THESE boys say they ate beans, while the editor of The News ate steak," said Mr. Bass to me. "What can we do for them?"

"Bring them out to breakfast," was my ready response.

"Out" was 52nd place, our home till death took Mr. Bass away.

It was a Sunday morning. Unfortunately I don't remember the date.

The two young men were the present Loren Miller, lawyer and editor of The Los Angeles Sentinel; and Leon Washington, publisher of The Sentinel.

In substance I said to the two young men:

Come in and be at peace.
Freely shalt thou partake of all my store
As I of His who buildeth over all these our tents
The glorious roof of night and day,
And at whose door none ever heard nay.

The repast I had prepared for the two young men was only bacon and eggs, with hot biscuits of my own making thrown in for good measure.

THIS is easy to remember. We sat in the breakfast nook—big J. B. and not so small me on one side of the table, while Loren and Leon sat across from us. We gazed straight into each other's eyes as we made plans for a bigger and better California EAGLE.

At the end of the meal and the planning I allowed Mr. Leon Washington to remove a tire from my car to put on his in order that might make a trip to one of the beaches.

Monday morning after this meeting Miller and Washington reported for duty—Washington as advertising manager and Miller as staff writer on The California EAGLE. And so the story goes.

Anti-Smith Pickets Sue City for Arrest

Charging Chief of Police C. B. Horrall with instructing officers to arrest all persons who showed disagreement with Gerald L. K. Smith at a meeting in Polytechnic high school on Nov. 3, 1945, 10 persons have filed a $208,824 damage suit against the Los Angeles police department.

The 10 plaintiffs were among 49 persons arrested, but only four of these stood trial and they were arrested without proper authority and had committed no offense.

Beatrice Chilson, Audrey Weaver, Robert Weaver, Morse L. Hazelrigg, Benjamin Sapkin, June Sale, Benjamin Richman, Nathan Wolfson, Shirley Kanter and Louis Spector are the plaintiffs.

Mother of Four Kills Mate Who Beat Her; To Make Self-Defense Plea

Evelyn Marie Gratts, 39, mother of four children, was lodged in Lincoln Heights jail, charged with killing her husband, Robert Gratts, 38, at 1:30 a. m. Sunday.

Married nine years ago, Mrs. Gratts stated she had obtained an interlocutory divorce decree in November, 1945. Due to the housing shortage, Mrs. Gratts said, the court at that time allowed her husband to remain in her home at 202 N. Westlake ave. Thus Gratts was killed in the bedroom of Mrs. Gratts' home.

Gratts was reported to have been shot to death during a quarrel in which he commenced to beat his wife. It was also indicated that the shooting climaxed many quarrels between man and wife during the last year.

The victim, a custodian at the Federal Building, Temple and Spring, is alleged to have been constantly "mean and bully-like" to his wife, especially since the divorce action.

Services of Atty. Robert Jarrett were secured in defense of Mrs. Gratts. A plea of self defense was indicated in behalf of the mother, whose children range in age from 16 months to seven years.

Hearing Tomorrow On Surprise Motion for New Thierry Trial

A surprise motion for a new trial for Joseph N. Thierry, 35-year-old shotgun slayer of two-year-old Judith Carter, was made yesterday by his attorney, Crispus A. Wright. Hearing on the motion was set for Friday, Nov. 8.

Thierry, who admitted killing the child and wounding her mother, Mrs. Anna Carter, Thierry's girl friend, had pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. However Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Ambrose last Friday declared Thierry to be sane.

Three defense alienists, Dr. Victor Parkin, Dr. R. O. Lieuallen and Dr. James E. McGinnis testified that Thierry was insane at the time of the murder, but Dr. Marcus Crahan, physician appointed by the court, asserted that the defendant was sane at the time of the crime and is sane now.

Thierry was separated from his wife in 1943 and in 1944 he met Mrs. Carter who worked with him at the post office as a mail clerk. Thierry said that he and Mrs. Carter had quarreled regarding the paternity of little Judith. When the child was born, Thierry attempted to commit suicide and was sent to the Patton Mental Hospital. Later he was released in the custody of his mother.

Shot Down by Detective, Man Hobbles Into Court to Face Charge of Assault, Battery

Charged with "assault and battery" upon a white police officer last June, Martin Russell of 1221 East 22nd street, hobbled on crutches to the witness stand at a preliminary hearing in the courtroom of Judge Jos. F. Chambers last Monday.

Shot down by the officer at the time of the alleged assault, Russell has been hospitalized and on crutches since.

According to the defendant's story, he was standing on the corner of 22nd and Griffith when he first noticed a white stranger also standing nearby. Russell says that when he left Griffith and walked down 22nd to San Pedro, the stranger followed. As he entered a restaurant, he claims, the white man also strolled in.

Since he was wearing a ring which cost him $600, Russell said he began to wonder if perhaps he was about to become the victim of a stickup. When he left the restaurant, Russell testified, his "shadow" followed and asked if he wanted to sell the ring. Convinced there was something wrong with the white man's actions, Russell said he answered no and moved away.

Not to be dismissed, the stranger is alleged by Russell to have walked beside him to the street car stop and, producing a bottle of gin, offered it to him.

Russell testified he refused the proferred bottle, again turning to leave. He stated that as he was walking back to the curb, from behind. In an effort to defend himself, the defendant states he turned and hit his assailant with such force that the white man fell to the ground.

Not wanting any trouble with the police, the defendant said he commenced to run away, his assailant following, shooting at him with a gun. As he ran up an alley, Russell said he saw a board lying on the ground and picked it up to defend himself with.

Turning to face the white man, the defendant was struck in the hip by a bullet from the pursuer's gun. As he was lying on the ground, Russell testified the white man walked up and put handcuffs on him, explaining for the first time that he was a plainclothes policeman.

Russell swears that not until after he was shot did the officer give any indication of his identity.

Defense Counsel Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr. questioned the officer's seeming reluctance in announcing his identity, and the case was slated for hearing on November 20.

2500 at Woodard Rally; Veteran Unable to Attend

The more than 2500 people who crowded into Second Baptist church Sunday evening to hear Isaac Woodard, veteran blinded last February through the brutality of a South Carolina police chief, suffered an unavoidable disappointment as the result of a last-minute change of plans in Woodard's nation-wide tour, but remained to enjoy a very good meeting. The church was crowded to capacity at 7:30, and hundreds were turned away.

Thomas L. Griffith, Jr., president of the local NAACP, opened the meeting with the announcement that Woodard had been forced to postpone his appearance here in order to appear in federal court in Columbia, S. C., to press charges against Leonard H. Shull, the police chief of Batesburg, S. C., who blinded him. Woodard had been advised that if he was not present at the hearing the case would be dismissed. Griffith explained that it was too late to cancel the meeting when the NAACP received word of Woodard's change of plans. He urged those present to make the Woodard rally an expression of concern for Woodard and the many other veterans, and civilians alike, who have been maimed and killed because of race prejudice.

The audience, though visibly disappointed at the absence of Woodard, listened attentively as N. W. Griffin, NAACP west coast regional director, told how Woodard was blinded and what the NAACP has done and is doing to see that this veteran receives justice, and to continue the fight against lynching, police brutality, mob violence, and widespread discrimination.

Father George H. Dunne, author of the current hit play, "Trial by Fire," and militant fighter against segregation, denounced the "un-Christian, immoral, and sinful" practices of discrimination which exist in the United States.

A splendid musical program was rendered by the Second Baptist church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Griffith Morrow. Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew's song, "Let's Go, Americans," with lyrics written for FEPC, brought stirring applause.

Close to $1000 was contributed. This money goes to the Isaac Woodard Defense Fund and to the national office of the NAACP to help defray the cost of the fight against lynching.

Assails Capital's Plan to Segregate Negro Physicians On Gallinger Hospital Staff

WASHINGTON — "Separate facilities for a racial group of physicians are unheard of in American municipal institutions and ould constitute a brand new form of segregation where existing patterns of discrimination disgrace the Nation's capital before the world," declares Dr. W. Montague Cobb, president of the Medico-Chirurgical Society of the District of Columbia in protesting a 1948 District budget recommendation including a provision for use of Negro physicians at Gallinger Municipal Hospital on a segregated basis.

Dr. Cobb's protest was contained in a letter addressed to Commissioner Guy Mason, and was accompanied by a copy of a resolution adopted by the house of delegates of the National Medical Association at the association's annual convention in Louisville, Ky., with 1288 physicians in attendance, condemning the proposal for segregated facilities at Gallinger in its national import.

Dr. Cobb informed Commissioner Mason that the Medico-Chirurgical Society at a meeting on Oct. 24 condemned the proposal as "being contrary to the best interests of the care of Gallinger patients and as particularly retrogressive at a time when great public interest is directed toward introduction of the democratic process in the operation of the District of Columbia' government." Dr. Cobb added:

"It is accepted good practice for municipal tax-supported hospitals to have their professional staffs furnished by local medical schools where this is possible. At Gallinger this arrangement is followed in part in that the staff is furnished under contract by Georgetown and Washington medical schools. Howard is glaringly omitted, however."

Dr. Cobb urged that "all three schools should participate in furnishing this service on an equal basis."

More than 70 percent of the patient load at Gallinger hospital is colored.

American-Soviet Friendship Rally Thurs., Nov. 14

In celebrating of the 29th anniversary of the Soviet Union, the Communist party of Los Angeles is calling a rally for American-Soviet friendship, to take place at the Embassy auditorium, on Thursday, November 14, 8 p. m.

In announcing the meeting, Dorothy Healey, Los Angeles county secretary of the Communist party, stated:

'This meeting will pay tribute to the only socialist country in the world, the country which led the international battle for collective security to prevent the outbreak of World War II, and which sacrificed more than any other nation to defeat German, Italian and Japanese fascism on the battlefield.

"The peace of the world is today being threatened by powerful financial interests who are attempting to foment anti-Soviet hysteria to pave the way for a third World War. Their spokesmen are Vandenberg and Byrnes, who are attempting to use American troops, American food, American loans, and the threat of the atom bomb to starve, bribe and intimidate the rest of the world into becoming passive slaves of Wall street.

"This rally will expose the forces behind this policy, and call for a return to the Roosevelt-Wallace policy of American-Soviet friendship as the cornerstone of world peace."

Featured speaker at the rally will be Oleta O'Connor Yates, county chairman of the Communist party of San Francisco. A colorful, dramatic program of entertainment will be presented.

Tickets at 60c will be available in advance at the Progressive Bookshop, 717 West 6th street, and Room 525, 124 West 6th street.

(SCP)—Acting on a phone call from Hazel McCowan, white apartment manager, Long Beach police officers were summoned late Sunday evening to 1104 E. 19th st., and informed that a disturbance had occurred in the residence of Sarah Mae Hamilton, one of her tenants.

They found the body of Fred Cobb, 1202 Olive st., fatally stabbed in the chest.

Booked on suspicion of murder, and questioned by Inspectors Elmer Vance, Everett Kennedy, and Fred Whitmore, Miss Hamilton revealed that she had been very friendly with Cobb, who had called upon her Sunday. They later quarreled, she said.

Rats Menace Health Of City, Uhl Warns

(SCP)—City Health Officer George M. Uhl yesterday warned of a possible increase in epidemic typhus fever here as a result of an increase in the city's rat population.

Twenty-six cases of the usually fatal disease have been reported in Los Angeles this year, Dr. Uhl said. If the present rising trend of typhus cases continues there is danger of a plague, he stated.

A major disaster can be averted only "if the people of Los Angeles will cooperate and practice rat-control," he said.

Typhus is transmitted to man by the bite of fleas from infected rats.

Aid of Byrnes Sought to Place S.W. Africa Under UN Trusteeship, Bar Gen. Smuts' Annexation Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C.,—(NNPA).—The State Department has been asked to grant an audience to a delegation of Negro and white Americans who favor a United Nations trusteeship over Southwest Africa instead of annexation of the former German colonies by the Union of South Africa, it was learned yesterday.

A similar request has been forwarded to Premier Jan Christian Smuts of the Union of South Africa, who is pressing at the United Nations general assembly for annexation of Southwest Africa by the Union.

The requests were submitted by Paul Robeson, chairman of the Council for African Affairs, New York City. Max Yergan is the executive secretary of the council.

In New York last Saturday, Dr. Alfred Bittni Xuma, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, explained to a press conference that South Africa has laws and regulations restricting the movements of natives and the time they may stay in a given area.

Dr. Xuma, who is president of the African National Congress, received a passport to visit this country for "reasons of health." He said he felt free to talk because he had refused to sign an agreement not to engage in political activities.

He said that the congress, "representing 8,000,000 native South Africans," is opposed to annexation because "government policy in South Africa is directed to the domination and exploitation of the natives for the benefit of a white minority of a little more than 2,000,000."

In South Africa, he said, natives are restricted to 13 percent of the land area, are excluded by law from skilled occupations and, on a per capita basis, are allowed one-tenth of the amount allotted for white education. Where natives are assigned to occupations that would be regarded as skilled work if assigned to a white man, they are paid on a ratio of "one to eight of what the white man gets," he said.

He said native workers have been denied the benefits of collective bargaining because the government has persistently refused to recognize native labor unions. He said strikes by natives are treated as criminal offenses and that "95 percent of the Africans who are in jail at any time are in jail not for crimes, as defined in other countries, but because of technicalities arising from native restrictions."

Dr. Xuma voiced the fear that the 300,000 natives of Southwest Africa, if incorporated into the Union, would suffer similar treatment. He said annexation is opposed not only by native Africans but by large numbers of white South Africans and by the natives of the adjoining protectorates of Bechuanaland, Basutoland and Swaziland.

Bandmaster Strangland Joins Staff of Music School Here

Lawrence P. Strangland, bandmaster, has joined the faculty of the 'Avenue to Music," a music and arts school located at 626 S. Vermont at Wilshire.

For seven years Strangland was director of the wind instrument department of the Logan Square Conservatory of Music in Chicago, Ill. His background also includes professional playing and as a regimental bandmaster.

Early in 1931 the bandmaster went from Chicago to Letchworth Village, Thiells, N. Y., which is situated on the west shore of the Hudson river, 35 miles from New York City, to work for the State of New York as bandmaster in the two large schools there. On his arrival he organized and trained from the beginning a girls' orchestra of 35 pieces and a boys' band of 45. Both became fine units which were carried on through his 15 years of service there. Both units played for all school activities and the boys' band was in demand several times a week during the war to escort local draftees, who were leaving for war service, and also to play for War Bond drives.

Coahcing the local county band was one of Stangland's activities also.

This is not Stangland's first trip to Los Angeles. He came here in 1915 as a member of an infantry band. Then periodically on vacation trips he visited a sister, who lives here, and during these trips he has long noted the rapid growth of the city, which is fast becoming the music center of the nation.

Dr. Uhl Issues New Diphtheria Warning

Now is the time to make arrangements for immunization against diphtheria for all children between the ages of 6 months and 10 years, Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer, said yesterday.

"With the cool fall and winter months ahead, no parent dare let his child go into this season unprotected against a disease that kills one in ten of its victims," Dr. Uhl said.

He disclosed that since the first of the year 13 children have died out of the more than 125 diphtheria cases in Los Angeles. Diphtheria's death toll, increased by four new fatalities last week, is rapidly overtaking that from polio, which is credited with 17 deaths.

"Parents should arrange for diphtheria immunization with their family physician, or, if this is not possible, through the schools or health department," Dr. Uhl said.

Court Releases 85 Persons Arrested in Hol'w'd Studio Strike

(SCP)—The 85 film workers and sympathizers who are charged with rioting at Columbia Studios on Oct. 26 appeared in superior court yesterday, and were dismissed by Judge William McKay on writs of habeas corpus.

Averill Berman, progressive radio commentator, and Walter Ruf, publicity director for the conference of studio unions, were listed among those who appeared.

They are now scheduled to appear on November 13, before Judge Kenneth E. White in municipal court to answer to charges of parading without a license, blocking an entrance, and refusing to disperse.

Central Avenue to Get Trackless Trolleys in Vast Improvement Program of L. A. Transit Lines

The Los Angeles Transit Lines has filed application with the California Railroad Commission and the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation of the City of Los Angeles for authority to take a first major step in its modernization program, looking toward improved vehicles, better routing, reduced travel time, and general traffic relief.

Outstanding features of the proposal from the standpoint of the transit patrons are, first, the introduction of a fleet of modern trackless trolleys to be substituted for a number of old wooden bodied streetcars which will be scrapped. These new silent, rubber tired vehicles will be routed through the central business district westbound across Fifth st. and eastbound across Sixth st., so as to conform with the proposed one-way traffic control on these streets and thus dovetail with the program of freeway construction now under way. The rerouting of various lines to conform with this change will result in new service to some areas and in very substantial time saving to several thousand persons per day.

Tremendous benefits will also result for other users of the highways through the elimination of streetcar turning movements at some 30 important street intersections in the city. The automobile carrying capacity of several of the narrow streets will also be increased through the elimination of streetcar tracks and the substitution of curb loading vehicles on those thoroughfares.

In order to carry out its modernization program at the earliest possible date and be in a position to conform to plans of public authorities for improved traffic control, the company placed orders several months ago for 120 new trackless trolleys and 40 new streetcars of the very latest type. These are in addition to a large number of new coaches ordered by the Los Angeles Transit Lines, some of which have recently been placed in service and more of which will be used in connection with this plan.

Heavily traveled intersections at which considerable congestion is now experienced where streetcar turning movements will be eliminated include Seventh and Alvarado, Sixth and Alvarado, Alvarado at Third, Third and Bonnie Brae, Sixth and Rampart, Seventh and Maple, First and Vermont, Beverly and Vermont, Third and Western, McClintock and Vermont, Fifth and Figueroa, and many others.

The routings of lines, as proposed in the application, include the new trackless trolley line to be designated as line No. 3, operating from 58th and Central to a terminal at Sixth st. and private right-of-way west of Gramercy pl., by way of Central ave., Fifth and Sixth sts., with the return trip through the central business district by way of Sixth.

A long felt demand for extended service on Figueroa st. will be met through the southerly extension of coach line No. 49 on Figueroa st. from Manchester ave. to Century blvd. The Alvarado coach line is also to be extended southerly from Adams blvd. to a connection with Figueroa st. coach line No. 49 at Exposition blvd., thus giving a direct cross-town service to the University of Southern California and to the Coliseum from the north and northwest portions of the city. Through its connection with the Figueroa st. line, cross-town travel will be possible into the extreme southern portion of the city without the necessity of traveling through the congested central business district.

The "F" rail line will be rerouted to replace the "O" line along Main st. north of the central business district and the "U" line along Vermont ave. south of Santa Barbara ave.

Blames Fear of 'Voodoo' for Wild Gun Spree

Nobel Cannon Jr., 22, 606½ E. 5th, who seriously wounded Lucius Cal Varnarsdale and Johnnie Stewart in a wild gun spree on October 21, named "voodooism" as the cause last Monday. This, he said, also explained his "hopped up" appearance at the time of the incident in which he himself was shot by police officers.

According to Cannon, who was arraigned in Compton justice court, he has long suspected that he was the victim of "voodoo" practices. He named the alleged practitioner as one "Cutting Sarah," elderly cousin of his girl friend, Josie Belle Austin, 112 Rose st.

Cannon testified that for some time he has repeatedly come home to find his shirts sewed in peculiar places, with numerour buttons around the collars. He also alleged that his clothes had often been mysteriously cut in many places.

Climaxing these strange occurences, the defendant said that on the day of the shooting, he came home to find a white crock full of blood in his closet. He also claimed that he found a bundle of clothes which did not belong to him in his room.

Gripped by superstition, Cannon said he secured a gun and went to "Cutting Sarah's" house, taking the blood-filled crock and the bundle of clothes with him. Leaving the crock, the defendant said he ran away, still clutching the clothes.

It was these clothes, according to Cannon, which he had when he asked Varnarsdale to drive him to the country. He explained that he had intended to bury the clothes where they could not be found.

As Varnarsdale stopped for gas, the defendant related, he heard the drive trying to convince Stewart, the station attendant, that he had a "crazy man" in his car. When Varnarsdale asked Stewart to call the police, the defendant said he shot them both, fearing that he might be prevented from carrying out his plans. His struggle with the sheriff's deputies was also prompted by this reasoning, according to the defendant.

Atty. Walter L. Gordon, defending Cannon, entered a plea of not guilty, by reason of temporary insanity.

The first communicable disease to be recorded on Los Angeles city health department books was diphtheria, in 1876.

Charles Edwards: Seeker After Truth?

By EDWARD ANDERSON

Charles Joseph Edwards sauntered up to the visitors' desk in the County Jail and fixed me with a quizzical stare. His look, while friendly and smiling, said: "Now what do you want, Mister?"

Noticing his keen glance at the book I held in my hand, I asked if he liked to read. He said yes, and his eyes shined, his teeth flashing in a pleasant smile.

Then he told me he thought the newspapers were unfair in calling him a masquerader. "I always used my own name. They're only using me to get at other well-known people whom they want to smear as Communists," he said.

Fixing his brown-flecked grey eyes on me, he asked earnestly what most people on the outside thought of him. I told him he had done a thing which I feel most people have at one time or another wished they could do—meet notable people on their own plane, without really being one of them. For this reason, I explained, no matter how villainous his acts, the average person has a certain amount of admiration for him.

On hearing this, his expression changed to one of joyous relief. He explained: "I am interested in helping people . . . . All I did was for the advancement of the 'One World' concept." Apparently he felt that if the average person understood him at all, he had accomplished something.

He reiterated his much-publicized story of belonging to such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan and Gerald L. K. Smith's organization in order, he asserted, to find out what makes them act as they do." He stated further, "I have accomplished nothing for my personal gain . . . all I did was for the good of the people."

Asked what he meant by "good of the people", Edwards stated: "The things I have observed through my so-called masquerade have been successfully used for the benefit of humanity . . . and the amazing facts that I can personally reveal on various organizations, their leaders, and in comparison with each other could be used to great advantage in bringing about world unity."

When asked to make a statement concerning his racial identity, the tall, scholarly-looking prisoner stated emphatically, "I am an American. That is what I tell everyone who asks me."

HANDLING IMPORTANT CASE—Attorney Crispus A. Wright is handling the case of Charles Edwards and has every confidence that his client will be cleared.

Edwards denied stealing any records, and also said that it was not true that a plea of insanity was being contemplated as his defense.

He further stated that not all the letters the district attorney's office took from him were publicized. Among these, according to Edwards, were letters from Gov. Earl Warren, apologizing to the prisoner for not being in his office when the latter had come to call on him.

When describing Gerald L. K. Smith, Edwards compared the "Committee of One Million" leader with Hitler, his plans, according to Edwards, being based on "racial superiority."

Throwing additional light on his amazing career, the self-styled lawyer announced that during the recent visit of Gov. Eugene Talmadge to the city, he drove the race-baiting Georgian through the Negro section of L. A. in his car. This being another of his alleged attempts to "find out" how the "other fellow" thinks, Edwards gave this account of Talmadge's reactions: first, the governor-elect felt that the country was in need of an educational program to bring the nation back to the views held by the South. Also, according to the prisoner, Talmadge found the Negroes of Los Angeles "different" from the Negroes of his home state. Further, Edwards recalled, the race-baiter, thought that Mexicans should not be allowed to become U.S. citizens, and that no Negro is educated enough to use the ballot.

Growing thoughtful at this point, the slick-haired defendant brought his eyes to focus on me and asked if I would call his mother and ask her to come to see him right away. The phone call was not answered.

As I was leaving, one of the guards said, "Everybody wants to talk to that guy. He ought to be pretty well talked out by now."

I smiled, thinking to myself that it will take an awful lot of talking before that guy'll run out of things to say.

Louis the Politician Is Not Very Political

NEW YORK — (Calvin's News Service)—Joe Louis, for all his invincibility in the ring is right now, riding the crest of a wave of unpopularity. As the heavyweight champion of the world, Joe Louis is something of an idol to millions in his own race, to say nothing of the esteem and respect in which he is held by sports fans throughout the world, but Joe Louis as a politician, — as a Messiah leading his people to salvation by way of the Republican party, is a mess of reaction that is highly unpalatable to thinking Negroes.

Joe brought a storm of criticism on his head when he threw his weight around against Helen Gahagan Douglas of California. Her record is studded with assists for the Negro cause, and when Joe opposed her he opposed the best interest of the people he professes to lead.

The belief persists that Joe is the victim of some of the bright promotion boys who do not have the same integrity that has made the champ a loveable guy. Nobody blames Louis too much for this mistake, but it is frequently pointed out that efficient leather pushing doesn't by a long shot, qualify a man for the leadership of a whole race.

These are trying times, and Negroes have learned to vote for men and measures; they are not blindly Republicans or Democrats. Some one should tell Joe to stick to his trade and let the politicians run the campaigns. They can't lick Joe, and he can't get around the fact that it takes years of preparation to become a champ in any field.

To Increase Use of Educational Films in L.A. County Schools

About $125,000 worth of instructional films are now available for use in Los Angeles county schools, according to a report issued this week by Mrs. Helen Rachford, director of the division of audio-visual education. The Los Angeles county film library includes 709 different educational sound motion pictures to "bring the world to the classroom" for the youngsters of Los Angeles county.

Under Mrs. Rachford's direction, the 2264 prints of silent and sound motion pictures are distributed to local elementary, junior and senior high schools for supplementing textbook work in science, geography, history, home and industrial arts and almost every other school subject as well as vocational guidance.

Eight hundred and twenty-four of the 2264 film copies are Encyclopaedia Britannica instructional films produced in collaboration with leading subject matter specialists for use in the classroom, such as "Solar Family," "Work of the Kidneys," "Home Electrical Appliances," "Colonial Expansion" and "Industrial Provinces of Canada."

Because sound motion pictures can compress space, reenact history and "visualize the invisible," students learn faster and remember longer, it has been found, when they have the advantages of modern audio-visual education. The Britannica film, "Digestion of Foods," for instance, features actual photographs of digestive processes going on in the organs of experimental animals.

The division of audio-visual education holds institutes, workshops and demonstrations to help teachers use educational films most effectively, emphasizing proper preparation, discussion and related learning actitvities to get the most out of each instructional film. In cooperation with such efforts in the interest of better utilization of films, Encyclopaedia Britannica Films supplies teachers' handbooks for each motion picture, and produced "Using the Classroom Film," a motion picture for teacher training.

Two hundred and thirty-three Los Angeles county schools made use of the film library in 1945, and plans have been made for extending the service still further during the new school year. About 75 percent of the teachers in the county use motion pictures from the division's film library as a regular part of their courses.

In addition to its sound and silent films, the division of audio-visual education has 93 color subjects available, as well as 232 filmstrips, 2807 2x2 inch slides, study prints, phonograph recordings and models to supplement Los Angeles county school work.

Audio-visual education was pioneered by the Mexican government. It gained popularity in this country only in the past few years.

2 Chinese Jailed in Slaying of Filipino

SAN PEDRO — Two Chinese were taken into custody Sunday night in the aftermath of the killing of one Filipino and the wounding of another in an argument arising out of a gambling game at 377 W. Second st., San Pedro.

James Jue, 43-year-old merchant, was arrested at his home at 645 Oxford ave., Hawthorne, and police found in his possession a 32-caliber pistol which they believe may be the weapon which killed Ray Manuel Paxcual, 38, Filipino cannery worker of 634 S. Palos Verdes, and wounded Frank Foranda, also a Filipino cannery worker, of 490½ Fourth st., San Pedro.

Also arrested was Archie W. Yee, 51, restaurant owner. Yee surrendered himself to harbor divlison authorities after contacting his attorney, Paul Taylor.

Both Yee and Jue are being held on suspicion of murder.

Foronda was taken to San Pedro Receiving Hospital after the shooting. His condition is said to be not critical.

Because diphtreria is such a quick-acting disease, immediate medical attention is necessary to save the lives of its victims.

Atlanta Police Jail 4 Members Of 'Columbians'

ATLANTA—Police this week arrested on charges of "inciting a riot" four members of Columbians, Inc., a new anti-Negro secret order accused by police of trying to usurp their powers and by civic group spokesmen of being "hate-preaching" and "Hitler-like."

Police swooped on a demonstration against a Negro family moving into a house formerly occupied by white tenants and jailed the four on verbal, on-the-spot orders of Chief M. A. Hornsby.

The four men were docketed as Homer L. Loomis Jr., 32, James M, Atkins, 18; Jack Price, 27; and R. L. Whitman, 33. All except Whitman, police said, gave local headquarters of the order as their address.

As Negroes and whites faced each other across the street, the police chief, shouted.

"I want to tell you, once and for all, you Columbians, the Atlanta police department is policing this town."

Small Southern Cotton Farmers Hard Hit by Collapse of Market

By LOUIS LAUTIER AND JAMES L. HICKS
For the NNPA News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., — As a result of the losses from the recent drop in cotton prices, nearly all of the 670,000 Negro farmers in the South who are largely dependent upon cotton for a livelihood, in common with other cotton farmers, have been deprived of the profits they hoped to make by the boom in cotton prices.

While they missed the chance to sell at peak prices, they may hold their cotton off the market by obtaining government loans at 92½ percent of parity, the Agriculture Department pointed out yesterday.

With domestic supplies very short and consumption very high, the chances are excellent that prices will eventually stabilize above present levels. Spot market prices are still above the average of last spring when farmers were planting cotton and way above the average selling price of last year's crop.

More than half of the 10,000 farms raising cotton in the South are operated by colored farmers.

The experts explained that under a parity loan a farmer does not lose title to his crop and if cotton prices advance beyond their present value he will still be able to benefit from the increase in prices, while, on the other hand, if prices fall below parity the farmer will already have 92½ percent of the parity value of his crop and the government will absorb the loss.

The department, however, brushed away any suggestion that cotton might fall below parity prices.

They point to the small carry over of cotton predicted for August, 1947. Representatives of the Department have estimated that the carry over next year will only be four million bales, the smallest carry over in 17 years.

Despite the department's rosy predictions the value of the south's greatest cotton crop has shrunk by almost a half billion dollars in the last two weeks.

On October 8, cotton was selling at 39.13 cents a pound or a little over $185 a bale. On October 29 that same cotton was selling at $29.15 a pound or about $145 a bale. The exact drop as figured by agriculture economists was $49.90 a bale. Cotton exchanges have been ordered closed three times in the last two weeks to halt selling panics that first began when Thomas L. Jetden, New Orleans speculator, was forcibly liquidated.

While most of the cotton in the deeper southern areas has already been sold the Agriculture Department said that 6,300,000 pounds of cotton is still waiting in the fields to be picekd.

The cotton problem is complex. Among the factors involved are: (1) United States cotton exports have dwindled from 70 per cent of the crop in 1910 to less than 20 per cent of it during World War II; (2) United States and world stocks of low grade cotton are piling up, and (3) foreign cotton and domestic synthetic fibers are offering American cotton stiff competition.

From the viewpoint of small farmers and day laborers, white and Negro, the on-coming mechanization of cotton production poses still another serious problem. It threatens to displace many of them perhaps before industrialization in the South has advanced far enough to absorb any appreciable number of them.

Mechanization is needed both to reduce production costs so that United States cotton can better compete with synthetic fibers and foreign cotton, and to relieve men, women and children of backbreaking toil and give them an opportunity to contribute more effectively to the industrialization of the South.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain
Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:
1—Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.
2—Started 2 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.
Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

U. S. Bond Sale Campaign Opens Thurs., Nov. 11

"Protect your future and buy your extra Bonds now" will be the slogan of a national publicity campaign sponsored by the Treasury Department during the period beginning Nov. 11, Armistice Day, and ending Dec. 7, Pearl Harbor Day.

The formal announcement was made this week at a luncheon of the Los Angeles Advertising Club by Fred H. Johnson, Southern California director of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division.

In citing reasons for the campaign, Johnson pointed out that individuals will have more than 20 billion dollars in excess income, above the costs of available goods, services and taxes this year. Diverting this surplus money into savings, such as savings bonds, he said, will tend to reduce inflationary pressure. Too, he stressed that sound government debt management calls for the continued maintenance of widespread ownership of the public debt among individuals and less by the banks, where it has an inflationary influence.

"Every individual who has any surplus cash will be urged through newspaper and magazine advertising, over the radio and by other means of publicity during the campaign to put that money into U. S. Savings Bonds, the safest and best investment in the world, yielding him a good rate of interest and helping him to build future security for himself and his family. We have received pledges of wholehearted cooperation from civic leaders and from many large organizations including those representing the banks, industry, farmers, labor, newspapers, radio stations and various other groups."

Hampton Recognizes UPWA As Agent For Teachers, Employes

HAMPTON, Va.—(NNPA)—The board of trustees of Hampton Institute has unanimously agreed to recognize the United Public Workers of America (CIO) as the bargaining agent for its teachers and employes, it was learned yesterday.

The board accepted a recommendation of a sub-committee which had checked the membership cards of the union against the school's payroll and found that the union represented a substantial majority of all the school's employes.

Organization of the Hampton Institute local began in March, 1945. Among those who assisted in the organizing compaign were Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, dean of the Howard university medical school; Mrs. Sarah Walsh, head of the UPW-CIO teachers' division; Max Rothman, CIO organizer; and Daniel H. Schwartz, UPW regional director for Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Negotiations for a contract will be opened immediately with Dr. Ralph P. Bridgman, Hampton president, the union said. Dr. Roscoe Lewis, professor in the division of general studies at Hampton is president of the newly formed local.

Report Luncheon Of Chest Campaign Set for Tomorrow

The second report luncheon of Community Chest Campaign progress will be held Friday, November 8, at the Biltmore Bowl.

Community Chest workers from this area will attend the noon luncheon, which will honor the work of volunteers in the Corporations, Big Ten Industrial, and Special Gifts collection departments; the Public Information Department including Women's Committee, Radio, Newspapers, and Speaers' Bureau; and Headquarters Volunteer Corps and Motor Corps.

Door-to-door solicitation for the Chest is getting under way in the Adams-Central and South Park districts, where chairmen ask that you give generously when visited by a volunteer worker for the Community Chest.

Give enough to support the 152 agencies which have combined their appeal for funds. This annual appeal relieves you of many solicitations so you can give to all at once and be assured your dollar will go the farthest in service to the community.

Social Clubs Must Get Police Permits

(SCP) — The city council this week, by unanimous vote, passed an ordinance which will bring all card, bridge and social clubs under the jurisdiction of a police commission permit system.

In passing the ordinance, the council specifically included "social clubs" following an investigation by Capt. H. M. Lorenson, chief investigator of the police commission, who said many such clubs in residential areas evaded being called card clubs by featuring ping pong and other games.

Mussels are "in season" again.

The state quarantine on mussels was lifted today (Thursday) by the State Department of Public Health, as announced by Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, director.

The quarantine, which has been in effect since May 1, prohibited the gathering of mussels from all California bay and ocean waters.

Mississippi Denies Negro GIs Education Rights, Truman Told

WASHINGTON, D. C.,—(NNPA).—Inequalities in educational facilities available to Negro and white veterans in Mississippi have been brought to the attention of President Truman, it was learned yesterday.

A petition asking for the establishment of additional facilities for the education and training of colored veterans under the GI Bill of Rights was received at the White House Monday morning. It was sent to the President by Percy Greene, of Jackson, by direction of a statewide mass meeting of veterans of the first and second world wars, held in Jackson, Miss., Oct. 30. Greene acted as chairman of the meeting.

Copies of the petition also were sent to Gen. Omar N. Bradley, administrator of veterans affairs, members of congress, the governor of Mississippi and members of the state legislature.

The petition sets out that under existing state law providing for separate "but equal" educational facilities in Mississippi, the state has provided for white students nine colleges, 14 junior colleges and 1109 high schools and consolidated rural schools.

In contrast, for Negro students there has been provided two colleges; no junior colleges and 48 high schools. Only a few of these institutions have limited accreditation, and for the most part they are overcrowded, understaffed and poorly equipped. Negroes constitute 50 percent of the state's population.

A total of 30,000 white veterans are in training in Mississippi, representing one-fourth of the white men inducted into the armed forces from that state, while there are only 4000 colored veterans receiving training in the state under the GI Bill, representing approximately 4.6 percent of the 87,000 colored men inducted into the armed forces from Mississippi.

The petition further sets out that there are 700 clerical and professional workers employed in state and regional offices of the Veterans Administration. None of these federal employes is colored. Moreover, the petition states, Negro veterans applying to these offices for assistance are usually met with the question, "Boy, what do you want?"

Existing educational facilities for the training of colored veterans in Mississippi can accommodate not more than 5000 of the 68,000 Negro veterans eligible for training under the GI Bill of Rights, the petition asserts.

ness allies are concerned. On the morrow of election day, those forces were threatening reprisals against The EAGLE in an attempt to whip this paper into line with their reactionary program. The editor-publisher of The EAGLE was "advised" over the phone to play ball with "the victors"—or else.

Returns from the 14th district, up to the time The EAGLE went to press, showed Mrs. Douglas holding a substantial lead over Republican Fred Roberts, with 44,828 votes for Mrs. Douglas, 37,358 for Roberts.

OTHER FRIENDS LOSE

In the 12th district, Republican Richard Nixon appears to have nosed out the Democratic incumbent Jerry Voorhis, who has a fine record of voting for Negro and progressive measures.

In the 18th district, incumbent Clyde Doyle, another friend of the Negro people, was slightly behind Rep. Willis Bradley as The EAGLE went to press.

In the 16th district (Beverly Hills, Santa Monica, etc., Republican Donald Jackson early piled up a substantial lead over Democrat Harold Harby.

Returns on the write-in campaign of Ellis Patterson, stalwart friend of the minority groups, showed Patterson trailing far behind both Jackson and Harby.

In New Mexico, the fate of Dennis Chavez, Democrat who championed the FEPC in the senate, was still in doubt late yesterday afternoon. Chavez is opposed by Patrick J. Hurley, old line Republican.

GOP SWEEPS N. Y.

In New York state, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who aided the whitewash of the police killer of the Ferguson brothers in Freeport, L. I., was returned to office by the greatest margin ever given a Republican gubernatorial candidate and projected himself as a leading contender for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

Indications were that Dewey would receive a 700,000 plurality over his Democratic opponent, U. S. Senator James M. Mead.

Riding to victory with Dewey was Irving M. Ives, who defeated Herbert H. Lehman for the U. S. senate.

Labor incumbent Vito Marcantonio (New York) was re-elected in a hotly contested campaign. There was, however, no news of Congressmen Adam Clayton Powell, New York, or of William Dawson, Illinois, both incumbent Democratic congressmen.

Here in California, Judge Goodwin J. Knight defeated State Senator Jack Shelly in the race for lieutenant governor. Governor Earl Warren had been virtually elected when he received the nominations of both the Democratic and Republican parties in the primary election last June.

Republican incumbent Sen. William F. Knowland defeated Will Rogers, Democratic candidate, to retain his seat in the senate.

Los Angeles District Attorney Fred Howser defeated San Francisco District Attorney Edmund G. Brown for the office of state attorney general, now held by Democrat Robert W. Kenny, foe of the Ku Klux Klan.

Up to late yesterday the returns showed that the Republicans had harvested 24 house seats. They need only 26 new seats to wrest control of the house from the Democrats. Even before the elections, however, the Republicans had exercised a negative control of the house through their alliance with the Southern polltaxers in opposition to progressive legislation designed to benefit the American people as a whole, and minority groups in particular.

Meridian Prepares for Gala Opening of $100,000 Hotel

MERIDIAN, Miss.—On Armistice Day, down in Meridian, Miss., folks will gather by the thousands to attend the grand opening of the $100,000 hostelry, The Hotel E. F. Young, Jr., built by the celebrated philanthropist and manufacturer of beauty preparations, E. F. Young, Jr., president of the company bearing his own name. Many feature attractions are scheduled in connection with the grand opening, and the climax will be in the form of a testimonial banquet to be tendered Mr. Young on Armistice night.

Reservations for the banquet have been sent in by the hundreds, and an elaborate souvenir program is being published for this event.

The new hotel is of ultra-modern type with 30 rooms, private baths, radio, telephones, hot and cold water in every room. On the ground floor of the building is housed the E. F. Young, Jr., Mfg. Co., a beauty shop, barber shops, a drug store, a coffee and peanut manufacturing concern, and a bootblack parlor.

The elaborate marquee of the hotel, and the $3,000 Neon signs enhance the exterior pretentiously. The rich appearance of the entrances are accentuated by heavy brass doors. The thick rugs, carpeting, furnishings and effects of the interior are not only modern but priceless. An added enhancing effect of the lobby is the transparent lighting which gives a vari-colored hue to the interior.

While this may not be a large hotel, it is about the most modern of its kind in the country.

Mr. Young having traveled extensively, and having many representatives of his manufacturing concern constantly on the road, became so conscious of the inadequate hotel facilities throughout the length and breadth of the country, that he thought it would be a practical idea worthy of emulation to build and erect at least one such hostelry in his own home town, in order that any one visiting that sector of the deep South might have every comfort and convenience of a modern hotel.

was connected with planned activities of the "Columbians."

According to radio patrolmen K. A. Wooster and J. T. Bowen, Hines was found sobbing hysterically in the back seat of an automobile with a severe bruise on the forehead and other bruises on his body.

Wooster said two white men were holding Hines in the automobile. The police identified neither of them. A third white youth, James R. Childers, 17, was on the running board of the car.

Chief Hornsby said Hines and Childers were being held without bond "until we can get at the bottom of this thing."

Childers confessed being a member of the Columbians at police headquarters and that he was wearing the insignia of the society at the time of the assault, Wooster disclosed.

Hines said he had been on McDaniel street to borrow a radio and was on his way home when attacked.

Hit-Run Driver Kidnaps Victim

embarking passengers. As everyone dived for safety, one man was seen to be hopelessly caught in front of the oncoming car. Just prior to the time the auto struck the red car, the victim was seen to drop to the ground and as the bumper of the car hit the transit at an angle, it is believed that he escaped serious injury by lying between the wheel and the tracks.

Rising to his feet as the driver of the auto was trying to extricate himself from the tangle, the victim was heard to say "Oh, no, you don't . . ." as he climbed into the car in an effort to prevent the driver from making a get-away. However, the car shot away as he climbed in, taking the victim with it.

Jack Hammond, owner of the Purple Heart Cafe, in front of which the accident occurred, quickly noted the license number of the green-blue two-door Ford and reported it to the conductor of the P. E. tram.

At this point, according to reporters, bystanders, both white and Negro, tried to intervene, but the policeman ordered them to "get back."

jury found that Teeter fired in self-defense.

The youth was adopted as a child by Anibal Trujillo. Prior to the adoption, the youth was named Seijas, which he continued to use in his formal signature.

A State Department official in Florida reportedly had been advised of the shooting. However, Walter W. Walters, representing the State Department at Miami, was away on vacation.

Sheriff Wells gave this version of the shooting which follows closely the pattern of similar killings involving southern policemen and colored men:

Trujillo and a companion, listed as Louis Henry Todd, a Jamaican, stopped at a cafe just before midnight and were refused service because they were, thought to be colored. They argued that they should be served, and the sheriff was called.

Deputy Teeter was sent to the scene. He found Trujillo seated in his car with Todd standing nearby.

Teeter testified at the inquest that Trujillo drew a pistol, was told twice to put it away, and then was shot through the chest. He died instantly.

Bunnel is 25 miles northwest of Daytona Beach.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The State Department disclosed yesterday that it had twice apologized to Dominican Republic representatives over the killing in Florida last Friday night of Jose Adrian Trujillo Seijas, nephew of Dominican President Rafael Trujillo, who was mistaken by a deputy sheriff for a colored American insisting upon service in a cafe.

It was also revealed that the department has requested Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida to give it a report concerning the killing as soon as possible.

Capt. Gordon Bowers of the sheriff's office and Deputy District Attorney John Barnes, who would like to have a confession from Tony Adams, questioned Edwards. Capt. Whom the Gods Would Destroy They First Make Mad

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, closing his campaign for re-elction with a speech at a meeting in Harlem, was virtually booed and heckled out of the building.

A crowd of some 3000 persons greeted him in the Golden Gate Ballroom, shouted questions at him, and unfurled banners with such questions as "What about housing? What about the police murder of the Ferguson Brothers?" etc., etc. Dewey stopped his speech several times to strike back at his hecklers.

"We Republicans don't want support from bums, Communists, or fakirs, he yelled one time, completely losing his head.

Well, now, Mr. Dewey, those people in Harlem whom you call "bums, Communists ,and fakirs" did not control enough votes to defeat you in Tuesday's election. Across the nation, Gov. Dewey, all kinds of citizens, but especially those concerned with the Democratic way of life, will be on the lookout for reprisals or corrections in this case. Which shall it be?

Is This a New Order Of Terror?

Columbians, Inc., is an anti-Negro secret order operating in the South. They are accused by civilians as being "Hitler-like," and the police department of Atlanta, Ga., accuses them of attempting to usurp the powers of the police.

Recently they held a demonstration in Atlanta against a Negro family which was moving into a house formerly occupied by white people. But the police department of Atlanta swooped down upon the demonstration, arrested four of the Columbians and sent them to jail.

Atlanta is to be congratulated for its police department. Its quick action no doubt saved the city from a riot.

But we are wondering if this is a new order of terror originating in the deep South the birthplace of so much terror against the Negro race? Perhaps the KKK in a new dress? These Columbians wore no hoods, no white gowns. But their purpose may nevertheless be just as sinister as those of the hooded terror. We hope the police departments of other cities will emclate the example of Atlanta and nip any sprouting organization of the kind in the bud.

As Negroes and whites faced each other across the street, the Police Chief raised his voice and declared:

"I want to tell you once and for all, you Columbians, the Atlanta Police Department is policing this town."

Armistice Day

Next Monday we shall again celebrate Armistice Day. The day which put a stop to hostilities for World War I.

It should have been Peace Day. And all historians agree it might have been so, a day which marked a permanent peace for the peoples of the world, had American isolationists not destroyed the hope of all nations through their own selfish interests.

These isolationists yielded temporarily at the close of another horrible World War, and today the United States takes its place with the other nations of the world in the town meeting of the world.

In this town meeting, in spite of all the reports that tend to confuse us, the nations are discussing their problems with as much unanimity at least as the members of our own United States Congress are debating and voting upon the problems that confront the American people.

There is confusion everywhere. But we are engaged in world discussions today. Not world warfare. Therefore the outlook as seen through these murky clouds is brighter than on November 1, 1918. We have decided definitely at last we shall have peace, and we are bending all our efforts toward that end.

We, the people of America, will have no small part in making that decision a final goal. And today, please God, we shall not have Armistice Day. But Peace Day.

How to Get Disarmament

IN ONE of the most dramatic moments since the ending of the war against the Axis, Soviet foreign minister Molotov proposed to the big powers of the world—especially to the United States and Britain—that they cooperate immediately on a plan to reduce all armies and armaments and to outlaw all atomic warfare forever.

Thus, the cards of the big post-war debate on peace are laid on the table.

To a world which went through ghastly war, and which then was deliberately subjected to the vast hysteria of a new war tension, the Soviet delegate talks in the blunt language of peace and disarmament.

Armies and weapons are for war. But the world does not want war. Therefore, let the atom bombs be destroyed and outlawed. Let the governments begin at once jointly to cut down the huge budgets for armies, navies, bombers and bombs which are now eating up even greater portions of the national incomes of Britain and the United States. The billions now being rushed for armaments should go for the nation's social needs, to its housing programs, its schools, and for the welfare of its people.

WITH hard-hitting, incisive logic that cannot be refuted except by deceitful evasions or lying propaganda, the Soviet delegate put his finger on the three things that are keeping mankind in a state of jitters long after the Axis powers were wefeated in battle.

They are: the effort to torpedo the principle of unanimity on which the United Nations and world peace rests; the scheme of certain cliques in London, Washington and Wall Street to set up a new world Anglo-Saxon empire with the dollar as the boss; and finally, the determination of our big boys to wield the atom bomb monopoly over other countries.

Fascism Threatens Our Democratic Way of Life

"There is a menace to our nation that far overshadows any Gommunistic threat," warned O. John Rogge, until recently special assistant to the United States Attorney General.

Many other people, especially those who desire peace, feel as does Mr. Rogge that not so much Communism as Fascism thratens not only the honor but also the safety of this nation and its people.

Fascism bobs up under many misnomers in strange and unexpected places.

"The new cry of Fascists, of course, is nationalism," Rogge said "Actually this is a phony slogan. Fascists are international."

One of the signs that Fascism is at work in this nation was shown plainly in the political campaign that has just ended.

Men who parade before the people as leaders and honorable citizens have lost all sense of truth. They use their tongues and their pens to lie and blackguard their fellow citizens—all in the name and under the caption of politics.

These are all signs of a growing Fascistic state in our midst. But we turn our backs on the real threat and scream, "The Communists are coming."

Particularly is this condition rampant in the political life of the Negro people. While the Fascist forces hurl their prejudices at them, they, the Negroes, hurl verbal brickbats at each other.

It's Always a Guess

Even when we have done our best we can only guess who the winners will be in a political campaign.

This is being written Monday evening, November 4. For the next twenty-four hours or thereabout we shall wait with bated breaths the results of Tuesday's elections.

Both sides, of course, are predicting victory. We wish we could be sure of this—victory for all the progressive forces. Then we could be certain this country would be safe on the road to peace and prosperity—that new world for which our friend Franklin Delano Roosevelt gave his life to create.

That one integral part in the building of a lasting peace, the Fair Employment Practices Act, we do feel confident, however, will be adopted by the people of California who believe in fair play and justice for all. It will not pass by an overwhelming vote, no doubt. There has been too much money spent, and too much trickery used in its defeat, for this to happen.

But the FEPC will become law, we believe, and on this last night before the election, therefore, we can go to bed feeling sure our hope will be realized.

The next great issue to us in the Fourteenth District is the election of some one to represent us in Congress. We unhesitatingly predict the re-election of Helen Gahagan Douglas, who served us with such outstanding vigor during the past two years. The people of California will be mindful of her services. They will vote for her in increasing numbers on Tuesday.

Will Rogers, Jr., will no doubt be our new United States senator. His friendly grin, warm handclasp—so like his father's—has won him many votes. He, too, like Mrs. Douglas, is on the list of the liberals of the country and when he takes his seat in the hall of the United States Senate, we the common people will have one more voice raised in our behalf.

Any one can predict the re-election of Governor Warren, of course. By our peculiar primary election law, which makes California the butt of many jokes in other parts of the Union, Warren was able to masquerade as a Democrat in the primaries and so win the nomination of both parties. He can scarcely be defeated, although there will be many write-in candidates. One facetious young man declared he was going to write in the name of Adolph Hitler!

While the race between Shelley and Knight for lieutenant governor, and between Houser and Brown for attorney general, is very close, we are pinning our hopes on the election of the liberal candidates: Shelley and Brown. Shelley, although a Democrat, steered the welfare legislation proposed by Governor Warren in the State Senate last session, and would be of tremendous service to our state as lieutenant governor.

The election of these liberal candidates should do more than grant the little man a real voice in his government. It should silence forever the mud-slinging and red-baiting tactics of the reactionary forces in this State. The liberals or progressives have won before, in spite of being called Communists by the Hearst publications. We hope they will win again.

But whatever happens, The EAGLE and with it all decent Americans will continue the fight for democracy.

'Surely the World Knows—Mr. Byrnes!'

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

An iron-clad rule of The California EAGLE is that all columns and feature articles must be on the editor's desk by Monday evening. We have no way of knowing, therefore, as this is being written what the outcome of this momentous election will be. A landslide for the liberal forces in every part of the country! We hope.

But although we can scarcely really expect such sanguine hopes to come true, one thing we can be sure of. Win or lose, we'll have to keep on fighting. Fighting harder than ever.

We "sure" will have to continue to fight for FEPC. It is inconceivable that that could fail, in spite of the fact The Daily News, an otherwise liberal newspaper, apologetically recommended a "No" vote on proposition 11, the FEPC proposition. And the Committee on (In)tolerance in Los Angeles at once had that recommendation reprinted on large sheets, and left on every door-step. And in spite of all the other smear sheets and vicious propaganda thrown around by other reactionary forces, the FEPC should surely win.

But getting a law on the statute books of the State does not mean that law will be enforced. Oh, of course, if the law-enforcing agencies were sympathetic to our cause, the FEPC would almost enforce itself. But we here in Los Angeles surely know by this time that our police department, our judges and juries and courts are not sympathetic toward anything that will promote the advancement of any of the minority groups, especially of the Negro.

So we shall have to take it upon ourselves to be law enforcement officers for the FEPC. Report every infringement promptly. And from now on, with our FEPC law, "reporting" won't mean simply pouring our tale of woe into the sympathetic ears of the editor of The California EAGLE, for her to make a front-page story out of her experiences. It will mean going to the FEPC Commission, or to someone appointed by the Commission, where we shall get real redress for our grievances.

Then we can go on with our heads held high, knowing that the great state of California is backing us up in what we are doing.

But let's not be too high hat. Oh, of course, it'll be only natural to exult over our enemies. To say within ourselves: "Good for you. Good for you. Good for you," when we win and they lose. But outwardly let's be quiet. And calm. And dignified. And smiling. Let's meet the slightest show of friendliness more than half-way. Then those who would ostracize us because they don't know us, will some time say, "Isn't she sweet? Isn't he wonderful?" And we will have made a great contribution towards the cause of racial understanding and unity.

Sunday evening: Just returned from a tour of the churches in the Echo Park district, where I live, I asked them to let me place some FEPC literature in their foyers. You know the leaflet: Churches are Supporting Fair Employment Practices.

And can you believe it? Angelus Temple turned me down. In direct contrast to the courteous cooperation I received at the other churches, at Angelus Temple I was channeled from one person to another until I finally reached one who could speak with authority. He blandly told me Angelus Temple was recommending a "No" vote on Proposition 11!

I couldn't have been more shocked if he had spit in my face! Angelus Temple! The church which claims such deep spirituality! Being Baptized with the Holy Ghost! Holding direct communication with God!

No, he hadn't read the measure. Neither had anyone else who gathered around and tried to tell me what terrible things FEPC "could" do. One man made the preposterous assertion, "You could be deported to Alaska if you refused to hire anyone you didn't want, or wouldn't work with someone you didn't like."

But the "committee" had decided. So of course there was no use arguing.

But the scathing denunciation of Jesus against the Pharisees of His day kept ringing in my ears: "Hypocrites! Child of hell! The publicans and harlots will before you will."

go into the Kingdom of Heaven

Imagine the wrath and scorn Jesus would pour upon these Pharisees of today, conducting their hypocricies in a temple supposedly dedicated to the cause He espoused! Verily, Angelus Temple has gone a-whoring after other gods! And the woes pronounced upon the Pharisees of that earlier day will also surely descend upon these of today.

Oh, no, I didn't take all this lying down. I crossed over to the other side of the street, where the street cars discharge their passengers, and distributed leaflets to the members of Angelus Temple as they alighted. They took them gladly. Many thanked me.

Not every member of that temple of ignorance and bigotry kowtows at the command of its Fascist Pharisee higher-ups.

But, brother, we sure do need to keep on fighting.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

ISAAC PRATT

Suit for damage in the sum of $208,824 was filed against the police department Monday, November 4.

Those signing the complaint included Beatrice Chilson, Audrey Weaver, Robert Weaver, Morse L. Hazelrigg, Benjamin Sapkin, June Sale, Benjamin Richman, Nathan Wolfson, Shirley Kanter and Louis Spector.

The group was arrested Nov. 3, 1945, at the Gerald L. K. Smith meeting at Polytechnic high school.

Plaintiffs charge that they were arrested without warrant and had committed no breach of the peace, nor any offense under the law.

That man Pegler is gloating over election returns today. His chief crack, as usual, is aimed straight at Negro voters—hinting that they, the Negro voters, had been aligned with the "luxurious amateur politicians." Pegler's rejoicing is reflected in his statement that "the precious poseurs of the New York and Hollywood chapters of the New Deal, patronizing Negroes in absentia in gaudy caravanseral where Negroes are not even employable at washing dishes, are homeless now."

I believe it was Tennyson who said that man's control ended with the grave. Well, Pegler, we the people who are striving to bring about that world in which all men are free, realize that you and those other birds of your feather will not always stand guard blocking our path to freedom.

We know that there are a few men, even in the Republican party, who believe that this world cannot always survive half slave and half free.

Mr. Pegler, there is an old expression, hackneyed, I admit, which says: "He who laughs last laughs best."

We, the people, still have leaders on whom we shall pin our hope—Pepper, Wallace, Ickes, Marcantonio, Adam Powell, De Lacy, and James and Elliott Roosevelt, sons of that great American humanitarian and interpreter of men's needs.

The way it looks from Los Angeles most of the men who have been trusted with the political destiny of the people have failed us—

The Congress of American Women, which grew out of the International Women's Conference in Paris, France, some months ago, is greatly encouraged over the election of five women to Congress, among them California's Helen Gahagan Douglas. They believe that this new blood injected into the congress will eventually lead to an end of Bilbo's and Rankin's influence in our great lawmaking body.

The results of Tuesday's election, however, remind us that there must be a closer union and better understanding between the laboring people and labor unions.

The CIO unions, undaunted by their political adversaries, threaten another strike to force West Coast ship owners to meet union agreement terms—and in Washington soft coal negotiations are to be resumed.

This is why you should be interested in becoming a part of the labor movement. On the inside you are protected against starvation and mistreatment on your job. Six thousand dairy workers have been awarded a 6 per cent wage increase and a 40-hour work week.

Expect 6-Year Boom In School Activities

There will be a boom in school activities for at least another six years.

This was the consensus of representatives of 42 Southern California colleges and universities and veterans agencies following a conference held last week.

The representatives were the guests of Director Roscoe Ingalls of East Los Angeles junior college at the 12th conference on veterans education at the college.

W. J. Wheaton Says

The suspense is over and Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Public have registered their choice of the candidates who they believe best fitted to make the laws that will govern them. There are many disappointments, and no doubt some very grevious errors have been made in some of the selections; but being good citizens in a democratic government we acquiesce to the will of the majority. At this stage the closing words of Lincoln's speech on the battlefield at Gettysburg "That this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." What words can be more fitting: That this nation under God shall have a new birth."

When men deliberately are sowing the seeds of hate, seeking to foment strive between men because of color, race or religious belief: This nation needs a new birth. Under God! If this nation hopes to combat the spread of fascism that is boring like termites into the very foundation of democracy it must cleanse its "Augean Stable" of the excrement of racial hates which befoul it. Under God it will then have a new birth. It can then give to the world an example of true democracy, that it is a stable form of government, the fundamental source, the foundation of progressive civilization.

That should be the credo of this government; coupled with that declaration of this nation's Founders "That all men are created equal."

The irony of it!! The State Department is running a temperature. The secretary of state, (Jimmie Byrnes) is up in arms! Jimmie doesn't believe that the Yugoslavs have had a square deal. They have been "cheated," their civil rights "violated." Home James! Better look over South Carolina's attitude in regard to civil rights. Remedy conditions there. That's your bailiwick. When conditions are remedied in S. C. you can, then, criticise others and your criticism have some weight. As it is, they know that your claim for a democratic government is, to use an inelegant word: "Phooey."

A news report of a meeting of the Klan informs that a medal for bravery was presented to a 17 year old white youth who had bludgeoned a 60-year old colored man. The youth was commended for upholding the "ideal" of "white supremacy." The story stated that there were some young men of Hebrew lineage in the audience who resented the proceedings. Unnecessary to say, they were forcibly ejected.

Those Hebrew youths had seen service on battle fields of Europe, they knew what it meant to fight a foe drunken with the poison of racial supremacy. They knew that it was the Hitler idea to teach the German youth that they were the gods of creation, that all others should be their slaves. It was the Hitler ideology which plunged the world into a war from which it will take a generation to recover.

In Georgia, Talmage is the Hitler and his consorts are the termites boring holes in the government foundation. Yes Tom Clark: We know that there are hindrances which prohibit you from doing certain things. But is not this public exhibition of racial hates primafacie evidence of fomenting riots? There should be some way to punish those who abet crime, and make perverts of American youths. Those youths are to determine the future of this nation, when they become inoculated with the virus of hate it will not be long 'til they will balk at constituted governmental authority and see its overthrow. There will have to be some central authority to curb this tendency to violence. If we would establish true democracy why not make mob violence, lynching a federal offence, punishable under a federal law, through a federal court? It might be when such laws are enacted and enforced, we can go before the world with clean hands. Until then the "Bar sinister" will remain to thwart any good intention this nation puts forth.

INDONESIA

By GEORGE K. ANANG

The struggles of the Indonesian people for freedom were continued after 1904, and were actuated by one motive — the struggle against the oppression of imperialist control.

Abdul Rivai, a graduate of the medical school in Batavia, completed his education in the universities of Amsterdam, Paris, and London. He was the pioneer of the modern way of thinking, and is credited for the modernizing of the native press. His efforts resulted in a mental revelutio revolution. Youngsters discarded the old adats (customs), and replaced them with freedom tionsof thinking. They critized the conditions of all social life. These youngsters led the way in the sincere study of politics, organizing political activities in the modern fashion, mass actions, demonstrations, etc.

Boedi Oetomo (high Ethic, beautiful stiving), was the first Indonesian political society in the modern trend. Most of the members consisted of medical students in Djakarta (Batavia), but it enjoyed a rapid growth among the common people. The second biggest political organization was founded, the Sarekat Islam. This organization's objective was economic independence for the people of Indonesia. By 1917 its membership had grown to 2,500,000 and its influence was extending rapidly.

DUTCH PROMISES CANNOT BE TRUSTED

In 1918, when the political situation in Europe was very dark, revolution was in the air in Indonesia. In that year, Governor General of the Netherlands East Indies. Graaf van Limburg Stirum promised: "The new position in Holland caused by war will bring also a big change in Indonesia."

ation in Europe d. isitu- e

On December 2, 1918, he repeated his promise by saying, "The change will be put into effect very soon, and what we thought was too extreme in the past is now about to happen".

In May 1918, the Volksraad, the central legislative body, legally formed in 1916, opened its session. Twenty five of the members had to be nominated by the governer general, required to be Dutch by birth and appointed by the queen. The rest were elected on a franchise by a system of indirect election and with the exclusion of the majority of the Indonesian people.

Seventy-five million Indonesians had 30 representative of whom 20 were elected in an undemocratic way, while 250,000 Dutch in Indonesia had 25 representatives.

Therefore, this "People's Council," cannot be considered to have been a representative body of the people in the exact sense of the word.

The Indonesians learned the uselessness of trusting in the honor of the Dutch. By 1924, grants for education and health dropped. While these drastic reductions were made, taxes rocketed to enormous heights. The position was so critical that even an Indonesian loyal to the Dutch in the "People's Council", filed a complaint about the terrible conditions. As was to be expected no notice was taken by the Dutch government.

During these years the Indonesian people, realised that so long as they were ruled by the Dutch government, they could not have better conditions. Instead they were being carried deeper and deeper into misery, poverty and starvation.

The resulting unrest was met by the Dutch with a law forbidding public meetings and strikes. Article 161 of the Dutch Penal Code says, "Anyone who initiates, or urges persons to neglect duty whereto they have bound on account of their occupation, with the intention of disturbing or of knowing or reasonably expecting that such action will result in disturbing the public peace or the economic life of the community, is liable to a penalty of a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment or a maximum fine of 1000 guilder."

This law gave the Dutch government the power to break up a gathering of more than two people, either in public or in their homes. However, the Dutch government was satisfied with the above law and in 1926, an even more drastic one was passed.

Penal code (Art. 153, first addition) states, "Anyone who wilfully expresses in words, writing or drawing (including caricature) sentiments with the intention of urging or recommending either directly or indirectly, conditionally or in veiled terms, the disturbance of the public peace, or of overthrowing or undermining the government in the Netherlands or the government in the Netherland Indies, is liable to a punishment of a maximum fine of 300 guilders."

The result of these fascist methods of government, was a wide spread and spontaneous revolt in 1926 and 1927. The revolt, caused by ill treatment, and hunger was blamed by the Dutch on the Communists, an old trick of the imperialists.

Presumably to the Dutch, no one realizes he is hungry, poor, or unhappy until somebody tells him so.

Trail Blazers: Arthur F. Adams

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

With all the excitement, rushing, and buzzing around during the past few weeks, I don't know when I've enjoyed a more relaxing interview than I had this week. In between numerous telephone calls and customers, round, jovial Arthur F. Adams of Gold's Furniture Company managed to give me enough time to get my story. He is one of Gold's top-notch furniture salesmen, having been with the company for over 15 years.

"I feel just as much at home here at Gold's as I do in my own residence," declared the happy-faced, smiling man. He has tried to retire for four years but Gold's and his customers won't let him. "It's too hard to break away from the people," he admitted, finally.

Adams and his spouse have just returned from a three months' tour of most of the United States, with the exception of the South. And he plans to take another extensive trip around the first of the year.

Over 35 years ago Adams came out of the regular army to take his first position as a salesman with the Western Wholesale Drug Company, now McKesson & Robbins, in this city. At that time discrimination in public eating places was very prevalent and Negroes could seldom be served outside their own community. Adams, recognizing the paramount need for a large eating place, left the Western Wholesale Drug Company to go into business for himself. In 1917 he opened The Ponce de Leon Confectionery, one of the largest and most exclusive of its kind west of Chicago, located at 12the and Central. It was the mecca for all better class people. He employed 14 people at a living salary. Successful for seven years in this enterprise, he pulled out to blaze the trail in a new phase of the selling business.

Pioneer bona fide Negro salesman in Los Angeles, he was the first to sell mechandise on an equal basis with 65 whites at Eastern Columbia, on 6th and Main. When Adams was transferred to the 9th and Broadway store, he was one of the highest paid salesmen to work exclusively throughout the store.

About thi stime the slogan, "Don't Spend Your Money Where You Can't Work" was popularly launched by the EAGLE and the Chicago WHIP. This slogan was instrumental in opening the doors all over the city for Negroes in all phases of industry and business. Especially was this true of the businesses on Central avenue and downtown where Negroes were not employed even on menial jobs.

Negroes boycotted the businesses on "the avenue" where they couldn't work. And those employers who refused to hire Negroes were either forced out of business or had to move elsewhere. This crusade met with huge success and Adams opened the wedge in getting five or six other Negro salesmen in the store but they didn't stick long enough to derive any of the benefits.

Flooded with liberal offers by many of the large downtown furniture stores, including Barker Bros., and not content to remain just a salaried furniture salesman with little future, he turned these down to accept a position at a reduced salary in what promised to be a growing concern.

Gold's original store, located on Washington blvd. and Central, was small—just 25 by 75 with three employes. But now it is one of the larger and more beautiful furniture and clothing stores on the eastside with a staff of over 100 employes.

Adams, who has financial interest in the store, has grown with Gold's. It's a part of his system, he can't break away. He would welcome the thought of retiring if he could get along without the many people who go to him with their problems. He thrives on this. It gives him more pleasure than anything he can think of.

Before and during the war, he had one of the largest clienteles of all nationalities in Los Angeles but due to overwork, he has had to give up many customers. He has mainly confined his work to sales counseling by appointment only. He gives each customer private assistance in the selection of that merchandise which will best fit their purse—often helping them with their personal problems.

Adams has been happily married to Fannie C. Adams for 32 years. He is the father of two married sons, Joseph, popular radio emcee, and Arthur Jr., and one daughter, passed.

"I love to talk with young people . . . to suggest and advise them because I never had anyone to talk with me when I was young," said Adams, affably.

"Every tubs has its own bottom and it pays to set your stake," is his earnest advice to all young people. And that spirit, which has been responsible for his success, demands the stalwart attention of all confident, progressive youth who wish to share in this nation's abundant wealth.

PULPIT VOICE

By Hamilton T. Boswell

WHEN COMMUNITY HAS THE MIND TO WORK

Nehemiah, the great spirit in the reconstruction of Jerusalem after the captivity and exile of the Jewish people, demonstrated with the people of Jerusalem the power of group action when motivated by a common cause. Nehemiah obtained a leave of absence from the position which he held in the Babylonian court. There was heavily upon him a concern for the wretched and desolate city of Jerusalem which was yet in ruins from the invading armies.

Jerusalem was devastated, the broken walls were yet as the invasion left them. Weeds grew in legion where once the sacred gardens of Israel grew in splendor. The Temple, the core of the Judaistic Faith, sprawled over its site in the ugliness of chaos and ruin. No one had moved to rebuild the fallen glory of the city of David. The people were disheartened, theirs was discouragement and despair. Nehemiah came to the city of his fathers' graves, he surveyed the shame and disorder by night, then he assembled the people and appealed to them with the full force of his conviction and hurt. Nehemiah later wrote: "So built we the wall, for the people had a mind to work."

The United Nations have emerged from World War II victoriously. What in the early days of war seemed hopeless and impossible has now been accomplished. The United States, which was referred to in Hitler's prewar speeches as a land of softies and weaklins, became overnight a land of strength and might. Workers who had never seen the complicated machinery of industry, in a short period became efficient and skilled workers in the mushroom of defense plants which encompassed the land. Citizens whose lives before had been selfish and individualistic transformed into civic and community workers.

Every USO was with a full quota of volunteers who had caught the spirit of the common cause. Thousands migrated from the agricultural South to the nation's industrial centers. Over night families and even communities were transplanted under the demand for workers in the common cause. Today, men look back in amazement at many of the feats which were accomplished. But the obstacles mastered were only done because, as Nehemiah says with respect to the wall: "So built we the wall, for the people had a mind to work."

When the latent powers of the people are uncovered by a cause which unifies community cooperation and spirit, even mountains can be moved and "trees made to pick up their roots and walk."

If ever we as a community needed a mind to work it is today. The war was won because the community had a mind to work. If we would maintain the peace for which we united and worked and fought, we must yet have the mind to work. Look at the flimsy walls of peace which tremble each time the diplomats speak. Our foreign policy is a threat of ruination to everything our collective efforts achieved under the pressure of war. The home conditions are even more appalling.

This land which once had a reputation for liberty and democracy is being exposed by the abortive graves of the four who died for the cause of freedom not at Okinawa but at Monroe, Georgia. The blind eyes of Isaac Woodard, though forever imprisoned by darkness, yet with one last shaft of light lights up the shame of South Carolina and its honored son, Jimmy Byrnes, who made mockery of democracy as he spoke before the Bulgars. Now with the war over, fair employment practices, the greatest morale builder of the war, is being junked, as too costly for peace.

Every man, woman and youth who works in the employ of others must by now realize what is at stake in Proposition No. 11. By the time this column comes from the press we shall have known the fate of election results. What they will be as this is written is shut off by the future. It is even now with hope mixed with anxiety that these lines would, if only to express faith in that victory. But even should a crueler fate await, the result is not a child of fate, but born of lineage of the community's mind to work. The answer to what we would now know lies in the degree of work to which we engaged ourselves that FEPC might win.

It is not lack of power in our community, but the degree to which we exerted that power. The record of history clearly reveals in every age and time that when a community which unites itself in cause and spirit sets that power into action even the foes of right and good are powerless before its stand. Let these waiting moments and the election's answer be moments of self searching and prayer.

Life's history will not stop now, but the challenge of the future beckons and calls ever reassuring: "So built we the wall, for the people had a mind to work"

Seeks Curb on Fees Of Loan Companies

LOS ANGELES, (SCP) — A curb on interest charged on personal loans exceeding $300 was sought here yesterday by James Monroe Jefferson, of 1709 W. 8th street, in the court of appeals.

State Corporation Commissioner Edwin M. Daugherty was asked to place a limit of 10 percent a year on interest charged by loan companies, and reported that he had already taken steps on his own to fix limitations and carrying charges and brokerage fees in relation to actual costs.

By state legislative act there is a limitation of 2 percent per month on loans between $100 and $300, according to a recent opinion from Attorney General Robert W. Kenny. Legal experts now say that Daugherty's office has authority to put the proposed changes in effect.

History and Exploits of The 447th Composite Group

The California EAGLE herewith presents the following historical sketch of the famous 447th Composite Group which is participating in joint army and navy amphibious maneuvers at Blythe army air field, California.

The 99th fighter squadron, 477th Composite Group is the culmination of more than four years experience in single-engined aircraft.

The original 99th fighter squadron, activated in 1942, was commanded by Col. B. O. Davis, Jr., and committed to action in the European Theater in that same year. Based in Africa, it was part of the 323rd and later the 33rd fighter group, flying Warhawks and Bell Airchobras, on coastal patrol.

Following allied victory at Pantelleria, the squadron moved to Sicily with the 33rd and performed patrol and low altitude missions. It was next based at Foggia in Italy, where after a brief tour it joined the 332nd, a new All Negro fighter group, then based at Ramitelli. Member units of the 332nd were the 100th, the 301st and the 302nd fighter squadrons. The 99th swelled the unit to four squadrons and the whole was based on the Adriatic side of Italy.

Outstanding in this service was the part played by the group over the Anzio beachhead, where it gave an air umbrella to assault troops. Operating on a tactical basis, it engaged in extensive train-busting operations and low altitude strafing missions, taking a high toll of German rail traffic and ground installations, achieving marked recognition for itself. As the "Red Tails", the unit delivered on the spot assistance to beleaguered troops and doughboys welcomed their appearance.

Smashing radar installations on the south coast of France in pre-invasion operations, ripping airfields about Athens and destroying transport activity along the Danube, was all a part of work that included many high altitude missions. The fighters rendezvoused with heavy bomber aircraft far from their home base and escorting to such distant targets as Lake Balston near Vienna, the Ploesti oilfields in Roumania and deep into Bulgaria. On an exceptionally long mission of 1600 miles, the group escorted bombers over Berlin, a trip of more than seven hours duration. For the manner in which they accomplished the mission, the unit was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation. It was on this mission that the pilots had their first experience with the German jet aircraft, forerunners of our P-80 Shooting Star, and downed three of the propellorless ships.

Shortly before the 223nd completed training at Selfridge Field, the nucious of a new group arrived for training at the Michigan base. This was the 477th medium bombardment group, flying B-25's. The training of this unit was a more lengthy project than had been the case with the fighters. Navigators and bombardiers came from Hondo in Texas and from Roswell in New Mexico. Gunners and radio men came from Yuma, Arizona, and from Rantoul and Chanute in Illinois. At battle strength in mid 1944, the group completed its O.T.U. training early in 1945 and stood ready for action. Not long after this the War Department, in the light of developments in the European Theater, deemed it advisable to revamp the group.

Accordingly, Col. B. O. Davis Jr., was recalled from the ETO and assumed command of the new organization. The four squadrons which had at one time comprised the bomber group were reduced to two, and later to one squadron, the personnel being carefully selected from the total personnel. This unit was supplimented by the activation of the 99th- fighter squadron which was recruited from man of the old 99th and 332nd, and which drew on fighter pilots then in training at Waltorbore, South Carolina. The new fighter-bomber team was committed to action in the Pacific early in September. Before this date arrived, the atom bomb spelled defeat to the Japanese war effort.

The group became occupied with the main task of the army air forces, that of separating from the service men who were eligible under the various directives which were issued from controlling headquarters.

A simultaneous and secondary mission had been that of recruiting enlistments and re-enlistments in the regular army.

Coupled with these two diametric tasks, has been the continuing, and personal—as far as it concerns the future of the 477th. Composite Group—occupation of weighing carefully officers and men alike who are to make up the post-war air force allotment to Negroes.

The Composite Group now at Lockbourne, largely staffed in key positions with combat veterans, or with men who have had long terms of service in the army, reflects the care which has been, and will continue to be, used in selection.

The Common Defense

MAGGOTS OF HATE

Kurt Daluege is dead. He was hanged in a Prague prison on October 23, for crimes committed against the Czech people while he was the Nazi deputy "protector" of Czechoslovakia.

He ordered the razing of Lidice in reprisal for the assassination of the tyrant, Heydrich, by Czech patriots. He was convicted, among other things, for having signed "869 death warrants in six days for Czechs who 'approved Heydrich's assassination,' is478 for Czechs who failed to register with police in the 24 hours after the assassination, 158 for 'other crimes,' and 567 for general executions in the following year."

But, Daluege and other Nazi malefactors are now dead. In a recent column in the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Ralph McGill muses on their tragic end. Maggots will consume their bodies now, he writes, as long ago the maggots of hate began to consume their minds. Maggots of hate—which first ate away the life of Germany—then reduced Europe to rottenness and despair — and spread across the seas to lay siege against the strength of America. The Nazis expected it would work out that way.

"They knew," McGill writes, "that in other countries the maggots of their idea and philosophy were at work. They knew it in the early 1930s, when they heard Americans and other peoples saying: 'You know, that fellow Hitler has got something. A little crude, maybe. And, of course, he is an impossible person, a clown. But still, he has got something. . . .'

"Anr they licked their lips and their eyes shone as the maggots of hate and prejudice moved in their brains . . . They had no idea the maggots had eaten so deeply. But they had. Very deeply. Fear came. The craven were for opening the gates. But opened instead were the furnace gates of war. Misery came to all the world."

Well, there it is. There's the story of how hate issues in misery for one and for all. No decent man can stand it. The conscience of America cannot stand it. We must—we wil—join the fight against racial and religious hate.

A LAYMAN'S VIEW

By Leon W. Steward

TRIAL BY FIRE—A PLAY DIFFERENT

You can't see "Trial by Fire" and forget its story and message easily. Those witnessing it will praise Father George H. Dunne or curse him. It all depends upon the way they feel about racial prejudice. Every one who has suffered from it felt greatly indebted to this St. Louis-born Jesuit priest, it's author, and the Los Angeles Theatre Unit of the National Catholic Theatre Conference and the cast of the play! Those with sincere sympathy for the victims of racial prejudice and those free of racial prejudice might also feel so indebted in proportion to the degree of their sympathy or freedom. But many whose liberalism is only skin deep had a real night of it and most all other Americans present at the play doubtless felt like running the whole enterprise and its author out of town.

TRIAL BY FIRE

The play opens with the scene of the coroner's inquest into the deaths of a Negro family, a man, his wife and two children, who were burned to death in a mysterious explosion and fire following a series of warnings that they were not to occupy the home which he had about finished building (all but the paint) in the town of Acacia, to which he had fled from the big city where restrictive covenents had prevented his finding a place to live.

Father Dunne cleverly planned this one - act play. Flashing the light first on the coroner's inquest, which was to the left of the stage, when each witness testified, and then on the right center of the stage at the Johnson home (the family's name was Johnson) the true facts regarding the testimony just made were revealed. By this device the discrepancy between the testimony and the actual event were sharply emphasized.

Introduction before the coroner's jury of the District Attorney and coroner who sought by every means, fair or foul, to convince it that the Johnson's death was due to an accident, described the role of fascistic officials all over the South and even in California where justice to racial minorities depends on their official testimony.

The attitude of the coroner toward the Negro press is also typical of that kind of official, and of many others who complain that the perfidy of all too many Americans towards these minorities is pointed to in type which they may read as they run. They yelp because it strikes them between the eyes and they feel to guilty to do naught but yelp. The arson expert hired by the NAACP was disgusted by their attitude towards his findings, evidence indicating culpability of others, as was the audience. Those represented by the white neighbors who testified in favor of the Johnsons, as neighbors, and who declared that the burning began by a great explosion, are a growing lot as Americans are beginning to sense a challenge to their own sense of decency in these community conflicts due to the cruel wickedness of the racists among them.

THE ACTORS

Much credit is due the Los Angeles Theatre Unit for undertaking such an unpopular task and for doing its work in the spirit of real artists. Jean Spearman as coroner, Robert de la Torre as D. A., and those associated with them really knew their parts and portrayed them true to the types. Earl Smith, as Roy Johnson and Camille Canady justified their training and experience in dramatics by their splendid performance. Leland D. Whitney and Dorothea Towles as the in-laws of the Johnsons, and little Phyllis Pitts and Sylvan Laurent who played the parts of the Johnson children showed considerable talent for acting.

THE AUTHOR

The real hero of this production is the writer of the play. He states that a nun whose name he could not divulge caused him to write the play. Of course, she might have given him the encouragement to go ahead, but we believe that the same thing that led him to write two previous articles — "The Short Case" and "Segregation by Fire," resulted in his writing the play which is destined to bring the "Sin of Segregation", which is a deep conviction with him, out in the open in a manner and to a degree never before known in America. Father George H. Dunne, S. J. was born in St. Louis, educated in Chicago and Los Angeles, attended Loyolo university school of law before entering the Jesuit Order. He spent four years as a missionary in China, has a doctorate in International Relations from Chicago university and is now a teacher in Loyola university. If you heard his excellent address at the NAACP meeting in the interest of Isaac Woodard last Sunday night, we are sure that you agree with us when we hail him as a Christian leader such as the world sorely needs. We thank God for his youth.

Rogge Warns of Grim Menace of Native Fascists

The threat to American democracy comes from the native fascists, not the Communists, O. John Rogge, until recently special assistant to the United States attorney general, declared here this week.

Rogge spoke on "The Reconversion of American Fascism," before 800 members of Town Hall at a luncheon meeting in the Biltmore hotel. Rogge was fired from his job when he began making speeches on a report suppressed by the government, of Nazi plotting in this country.

Rogge warned that American soil is being made fertile for the sowing of dragon seed by the Bilbos and Rankins and the Gerald L. K. Smiths.

He said anyone who thinks fascism died at the end of the war, or when a few Nazi leaders were hanged, is simply naive.

"The new cry of the fascists, of course, is nationalism," he said. "Actually, this is a phony slogan. Fascists are international.

He declared that evidence he has dug up through years of investigation shows that subversive groups in this country have connections with fascists in Spain, England, Canada, South Africa and other countries.

His investigation in Germany showed that the Nazi government subsidized American publications, many German language schools here, and individuals who tried to block America's entrance into the war against Germany.

Rogge revealed that an advertisement opposing the war, published under the name, "We, the Mothers," a native fascist outfit, was paid for by George Slyvester Viereck, convicted Nazi agent.

Rogge discounted the so-called menace of Communism. "It is easy to go fascist, however. We make our nation congenial to the native fascist.

He urged Americans to make sure that some of those who beat the drums against Russia are not native fascists.

Road to Health

FOOT NOTES

"I always feel tired all over," Mrs. Jackson said, as she sat down heavily in the chair beside my desk. Her shoulders slumped and her eyes filled with tears. "With three children and a husband to do for, I mustn't feel tired. Maybe there's something wrong with me."

I gave Mrs. Jackson a complete physical examination. She seemed in good condition, until we got to the feet.

"My feet and legs do give me a lot of trouble," she admitted. "I get aches and cramps in my legs, and my feet hurt a lot, I guess because I'm on them so much."

It was not surprising that she felt "tired all over." I pointed out to Mrs. Jackson that weak and painful feet result in lowered energy and vitality. The trouble was not so much that she was a busy housewife. Nor had she inherited any foot trouble. The fault lay entirely in the way she had abused her feet. It was clear that she had broken down her arches by wearing badly fitted shoes for many years.

"But, doctor, I wear these arch support shoes," she protested. "The shoe salesman said they would help me."

I explained to her that an ordinary shoe salesman is not trained to fit corrective shoes. In most cases, there is no need for the self-inflicted torture of such shoes for normal feet. They are supposed to relieve arch troubles, but actually they may weaken arches even more and cause flat feet. Metal supports in a shoe should never be worn without a doctor's advice. The fact that Mrs. Jackson was too heavy had also weakened her arches.

I prescribed a reducing diet, foot exercises, rest periods for her feet every day and specially fitted supports to wear in her shoes.

Mrs. Jackson was surprised to discover how important the feet are to the general well-being. She determined to make no mistakes with the feet of her three children, and asked my help.

The baby, Sally, was just beginning to walk, so I explained that her shoes should have a pliable leather sole and fit so as to give plenty of room for toes to wiggle. A child just learning to walk should wear a high shoe, with no heel.

Town and city children who are on hard pavements much of the time need a firm sole to protect the feet and take hard usage. Older children also require a low heel in order to walk correctly on hard surfaces.

Joseph, aged five, was wearing shoes a little too short, but no permanent damage had been done. Shoes of growing children should be watched carefully, because they may outgrow them before they are worn out. Jane, aged seven, was already walking as if she had flat feet: with her ankles bent, toes turned out and body slumped. Her long and slender feet had grown a bit too fast and had been weakened during the time she spent in bed with scarlet fever. We had to teach Jane to walk all over again with the proper rolling heel-and-toe gait. It is very important for youngsters to learn good habits of walking and standing. It may be too late to cure flat feet when they are grown up.

I also warned Mrs. Jackson to be sure her children got plenty of cod liver oil for Vitamin D to prevent rickets, which softens the bones and causes foot deformities. It is not enough to put them in the sun, because the health-giving rays are often filtered out by smoke, cloudy skies and window glass.

Another important factor in preventing foot trouble is proper hygiene. Everyone should take a daily foot bath, followed by careful drying, especially between the toes. Hosiery should be washed after each wearing. Toenails should be trimmed squarely across at least every two weeks. Any blisters, cuts or cracks in the skin should be treated carefully to prevent infection. Take measures to prevent excess sweating of the feet, which encourages athlete's foot and other fungus growths. A doctor will recommend the proper liquid preventive or dusting powder. Avoid barefoot walking. Never try to "break in" a pair of uncomfortable shoes. It is of the utmost importance that shoes be carefully fitted.

"I'M GOING ON A DIET"
★ Perhaps overeating is the most common dietary indiscretion. The natural result of overeating is obesity. It has been said that we in America eat ourselves into a premature grave. The pendulum then frequently swings back to the other extreme. We go on a diet. Many self-imposed reducing diets wouldn't keep a bird alive, and often serious vitamin, mineral, and protein deficiencies result.
In recent years great strides have been made in our knowledge of nutrition. For the maintenance of optimal health one must be assured that proper balance of various foods is maintained. For dietary advice of any kind see your physician. You can then be certain that all bodily needs are being adequately met. Bring your prescriptions to us.

SERVICE--HONEST AND FAITHFUL

With the Army discharge rate increasing by leaps and bounds, the number of Negro enlisted men and officers passing through the Separation Centers is growing proportionately. Following is an account of the processing system at the Camp Atterbury (Ind.) Separation Center where 2,637 Negro enlisted men had been discharged and 16 Negro officers released from active duty from VE-day to the end of August. The Atterbury Center serves Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Rosters, usually of 40 to 50 enlisted men, are made up and, in charge of a non-commissioned officer, the group, made up indiscriminate of rank or race, moves through the separation process as a unit.

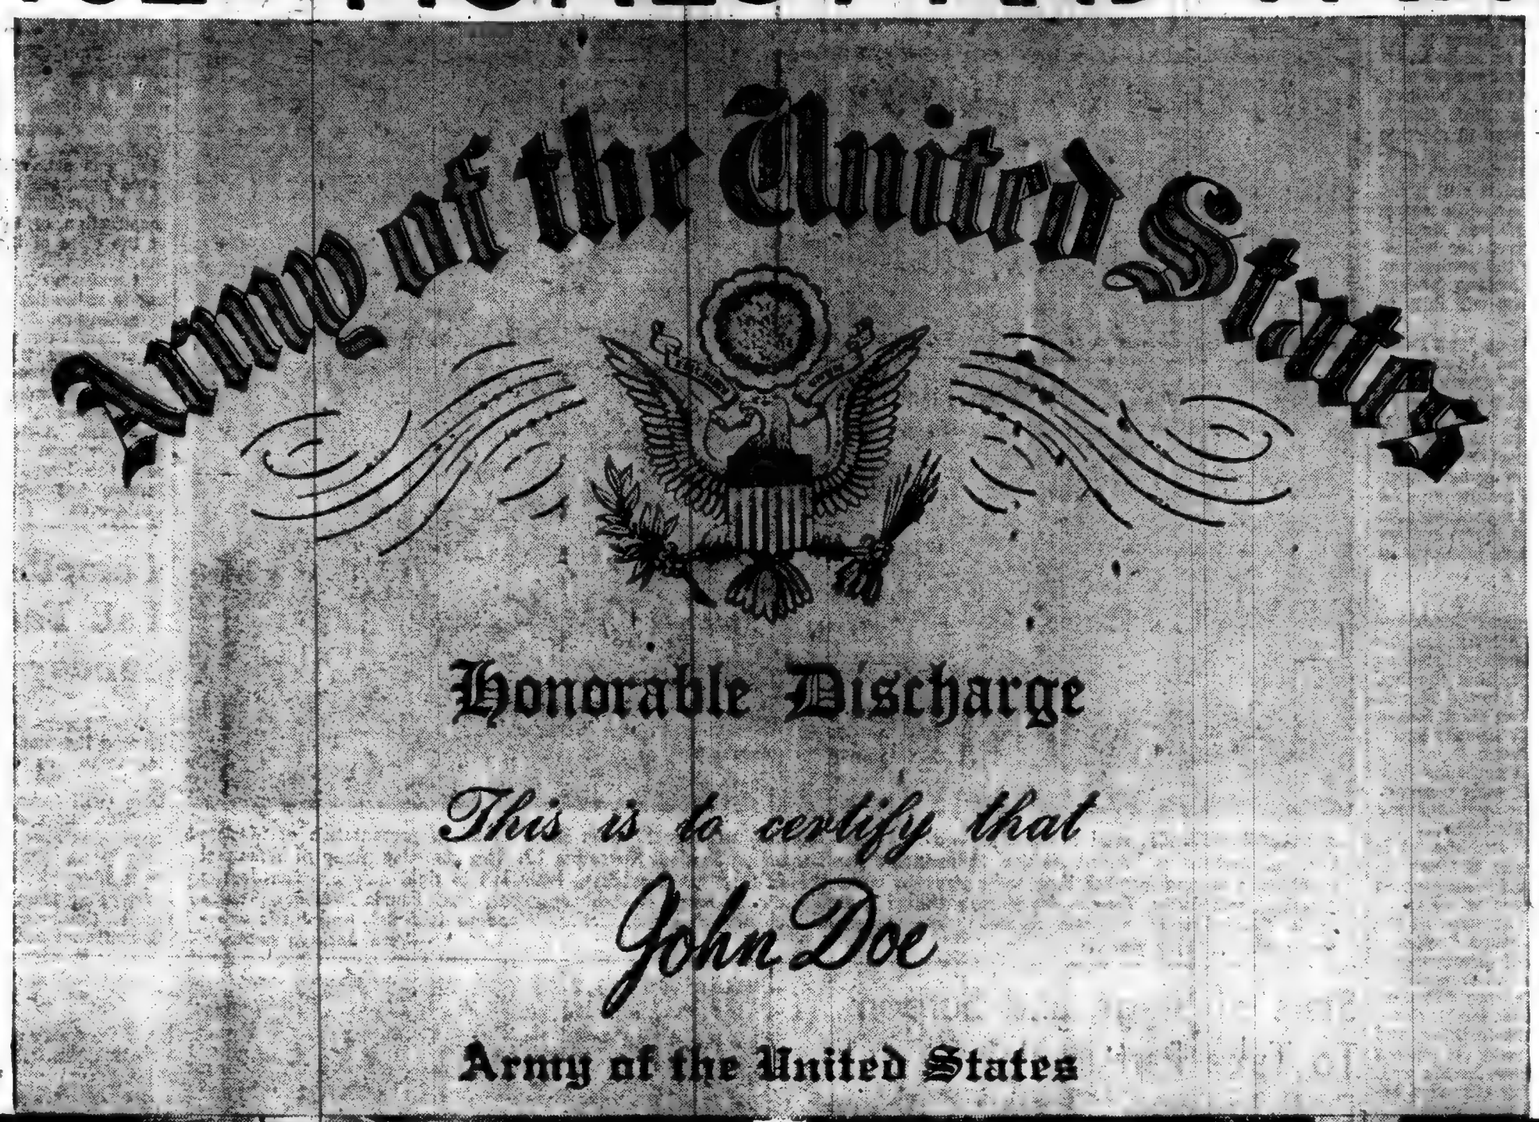
An orientation talk in which operation of the center is explained and questions of procedure answered, comes first. The group then moves into the counseling section, where after a brief explanation, the men are assigned to trained counselors who go over the records of the separatee a civilian and military job qualifications and in an interview which may last 50 minutes, explain and answer questions regarding opportunities under the GI Bill of Rights, insurance, employment and other privileges to which veterans are entitled. The counselors, which include Negro non-coms, are mostly college graduates, specially trained for this important work.

The next step is a thorough medical examination after which the men are given an opportunity to apply for disability pensions for any injury or disease incurred in service.

A clothing "shakedown" follows in which excess GI clothing is turned in.

During this processing the separatees records have been carefully checked and a final payroll for the group made up. At the finance office the men are paid to date, given the first installment of mustering out allowance and travel pay home at the rate of 5¢ per mile. If the total amount is more than $75, the discharge receives $50 in cash and a check for the balance and is advised to mail the check home immediately.

The final step is a "graduation" ceremony in which the men are addressed by an officer of field grade who, in behalf of the Army, thanks them for their service and presents the discharge certificates. The officer, calling each man by his first name, shakes hands and wishes the new civilian the best of luck.



Pictured below are GIs being processed for discharge from five Army separation centers. (1) Staff Sgt. Chrespin W. Nochen, with 91 points after three years' service in England, chats with the folks in Pasadena, Calif., from a telephone booth at Fort MacArthur, Calif.. (2) Corp. Kennedy Parker, left, a counselor at the Fort Sheridan (Ill.) Separation Center, advises Pvt. Cecil Hartwell, 1607 Walnut St., Chicago, who is about to be discharged. Hartwell was overseas 24 months with the Transportation Corps, serving with the 609th Port Company at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea. His home is at 5412 Indiana Ave., Chicago. (3) First Lieut. Edward A. Burch, 2053 W. 28th St., Los Angeles, Calif., is administrative officer of the Counselor Branch at the Fort Leavenworth (Kans.) Separation Center. (4) Staff Sgt. Benny Young, (third from right) 1806 Coleman Ave., St. Louis, Mo., who fought in Europe as a member of General Patton's Third Army, fills out the initial papers at the beginning of his processing at the Jefferson Barracks (Mo.) Separation Center. (5) Staff Sgt. Harold M. Wills, with 87 points, prepared to send a telegram to his home in Pasadena, Calif., from the center at Fort MacArthur, Calif. He served in France, Belgium and England for two years. (6) A big moment at the Camp Atterbury Separation Center. Following a talk in which they are thanked in behalf of the Army for their services, the dischargees are called individually to receive the coveted discharge paper. Here, PFC Donald Smith (right) of Cincinnati, Ohio is being wished the best of luck by Major Francis B. Collins. (7) Listening to a medical orientation talk at Camp Atterbury prior to his physical examination is Corp. Phillip Tucker (center) of Columbus, Ohio, who has a total of 104 points. (8) Sgt. William Gathright (left) of 2603 Fairfax Avenue, St. Louis, Mo. is among separatees turning in their clothes for a final check at Jefferson Barracks. (9) At Fort Sheridan, PFC Willie D. Commander of American Woodmen Lawrence H. Lightner Is Honored Guest of Organization

Mr. Lawrence H. Lightner of Denver, Colorado, and supreme commander of the American Woodman was guest of honor to the organization at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elmoore, 2156 So. Hobart, October 31.

More than 15 guests enjoyed the evening of business, music and entertainment. Clarence D. Hargraves, commander of Camp No. 2, as Master of Ceremonies, commended Mr. Eugene Robinson, district manager of California for the past seven years for outstanding work in San Francisco, San Diego, Oakland and Los Angeles. Other outstanding members are L. N. Ross, acting commander of Camp No. 1; clerks, Mrs. Bernice Mays, Mrs. Jewel Travis Brown and Adella Rhodes who heads the list for new certificates totaling $11,500.

Sixty new applications were brought in amounting to $42,000. Special honors were conferred upon Mr. Lightner who has been supreme commander for 13 years and has been wit hthe Fraternal Insurance Organization of American Woodman a total of 36 years, during that time, serving also as a Supreme Clerk.

Many interesting facts were given concerning the organization which heads all other Negro fraternal insurances, heading many white organizations and now stands in the multi-millionaire class.

According to Dunn's 1946 Insurance Publication of N.Y. and London, American Woodman operates in 23 states and Washington, D. C. It has 58,000 members; own U.S government bonds amounting to $2,088,922; 24 million insurance in force, 5 million in cash and securities. Real estate is estimated at $119,588. Legal reserves on total certificates in force aggregate $3,619,959.

The American Woodman has earned an enviable reputation for prompt payments of all its claims. Funds left with the association in trust to be paid as specified in various trust agreements total over $234,878. This is an indication of the confidence the members have in the investing ability of the organization.

Key Members Speak At Jefferson PTA.

The Thomas Jefferson PTA held its regular meeting Oct. 24 in the school cafeteria. Mrs. Margaret Clarks addressed the group on various propositions that would be beneficial to them as parents and teachers. Another speaker Mrs. King, addressed the PTA body with these words, "We don't break laws; we break ourselves upon laws." The topic of her talk evolved around the theme, "Challenge of Youth Tomorrow." As parents, teachers, and friends of the PTA organization, everyone was whole heartedly interested in the talk.

A program of entertainment followed the speakers. Mrs. Marie Jackson sang "Because;" Allen Jackson played a piano solo, Chopin's "Polonaise Militaire." A feature of current interest was brought home to everyone by a speech on the Community Chest Drive, delivered by Pauline James, a student from the public speaking class. Arthur Murray sang "Still as the Night." The meeting was adjourned after singing "Happy Birthday" to all PTA members.

Lilacs Entertained By Velda Thompson

The Lilac Girls club held its last meeting at the lovely home of Mrs. Velda Thompson. The complete membership was present and business of importance was taken up.

Winners for the evening were: Mrs. Hazel Bruce, first; Mrs. Freda Notte, second; Mrs. Myrtle Robinson, third; Mrs. Maggie Daniel, guest prize.

Mrs. Alice Cotton Shearod will be hostess to the next meeting.

L. A.'s First Head Nurse Returns From Travel

Mrs. Willie B. Bruce, retired registered nurse, now a prominent business woman, wound up a fall vacation last week by a tour through the northern cities of the state. She was accompanied by Mrs. Hattie Brown, manager of her apartment house and bungalow court.

They visited San Francisco Berkley, Richmond and other cities, where they were honorees at a number of social events, and escorted on many sightseeing trips. Mrs. Bruce, who officiated as head nurse at Dunbar Hospital when it first opened, is said to have been the first colored woman to hold such a position in Los Angeles.

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By Doris Austin

Hello There:

May I take a bow? My ever growing public seems to think I need to. Thank you for the very nice things you say about the "Shopping With Doris" service and my sincere appreciation for your passing the word on to your friends. As to the column, If you can stand reading it—I shall continue dishing it out.

As long as I hear the cue for my song and dance act—how I hate to shop, I will be "Johnny on the Spot" to pass one of my souvenirs (cards, to you). Incidentally, if you are looking for a worthy dressmaker or tailor, for pockets or otherwise, look at the ads in the column or call me if you don't see what you want. (There is no fee, just do not forget to say I sent you.)

I do like to shop and more shopping is more pockets to be tailored but, please, let's get together and get in those orders for gift shopping as early as possible because believe me, folks, there is only one of me (no cracks) and I have a few limitations in shopping; so give me that gift list early and we'll get through and really enjoy the holidays without rush and worry.

If you cannot decide what to give anyone, that's just a small part of my service, to think of what's buzzing around in your mind and just need a small push to come forward into the very gift you want for family or friends. All I need is the age (for you men who do not know the lady-in-question's years, I will work that out, too), something of the likes and dislikes or maybe all I need is a look at you to know just what your better half or lady of the moment would be like—hence just the gift to purchase.

Why should you fuss and fret, worrying about what to get, then push and thresh through the mob of shoppers to get anything when my service is as close as your telephone and my fee so small you'll only have to miss your weekly double feature (you need to catch up on your reading anyway, read those back copies of mine you have pushed aside—I might be saying just what you want to hear; thus another order for me and more culture for you). Besides, don't you think it is about time we got acquainted? Really now, wouldn't you like to meet the "author" of this column—if for no other reason than curiosity's sake—and to see the person that will do all the labor for you, and you get all the thanks and appreciation at Christmas time or whatever the occasion for gifts.

All of the stories are featuring early gift selections for the entire family and the prices are not too bad on lots of very nice things that are both practical and lovely, as a gift for the hard-to-please, as well as the-ever-appreciative person. These are the things I shop for, at the stores of reasonable prices of good quality in merchandise and courteous service to everyone.

There are more and more of the scarcity items coming back on the markets (short though their appearance by the standing-in-line method may be) I am nearly always on hand to get whatever it may be; so why not let me shop for you for those very practical gifts of linen (that the war shortage played such havoc with), lovely lingerie, that is always an appreciative present, or some of those scarce items for the men—such as shirts of nice material and not of black market prices, socks are always nice and practical and you won't go as far wrong on them as on selecting ties, although I bet I could please even the hardest to please (I am not a betting person, just sure of my ability to "shop to please").

To all you shop owners, men and women with trades, or any of you who have something to advertise, even though you might already have it in this paper, why no. let me give you a plug also, you never know who might read my column and become your next client. I keep a complete file on all I deal with and I am always able to direct callers as to your stock and quality of merchandise so give me a ring, there is no obligation to answer questions and I might help your business as you'll help mine. Just give it a try.

Remember I shop for each and every one and I do like to shop for nice people, so get your list of gifts or anything else you need shopping service for, then call me and we'll work out a price limit chart, a preference in stores, if you like, and I'll get busy on your shopping tour. Call Doris at CE. -0619 and I will be glad to give an estimate of fee on the amount of purchases you may want or any other feature of the service you may want to know about. The address is 1171 E. Santa Barbara Ave., and I am available at most any time.

Remember to mention this column at all the following shops whenever you shop at them.

The Charm of You

By NATALIE T. SCUDLOCK

In these days of synthetic this and synthetic that, beware of developing a "synthetic personality." Automobiles may be able to run just as well on synthetic rubber tires but the same principle cannot be applied to you. None but the genuine you will do.

During the war manufacturers, because they were unable to get the necessary materials, were forced to produce synthetic dyes, drugs, rubber and silk. You will never be faced with a situation such as this because you have within yourself all that is necessary to produce the real, the genuine, the one and only you.

Do not imitate others. Imitation will get you nowhere at all. Be yourself as sincere and charming as possible. Do not assume affectations in the hope that you are impressing people with your sophistication. The persons you most want to impress will be those most likely to detect a cheap imitation. And you know there just is no equality between the real thing and the artificial.

The only sophistication worth while is a simplicity of manner—a simplicity that includes a complete knowledge of correctness. If you wish to achieve distinction, you can do it only by emphasizing your own best points, your own natural talents and aptitudes.

Why should you stoop to imitating someone else? In doing this you are admitting that you do not think much of yourself. You must think well of yourself or you will be a failure from the start—and this does not mean that you should be conceited.

There is a difference between self-assurance and arrogance. Self-assurance is the knowledge that you are doing your best to look right and be right, that you are living up to your own standards and that you are simply trying to get from life what you want and deserve. Arrogance is a pretense to something you are not—a manner that is assumed to hide a lack in character or position.

You will find that a woman who is loved by her family and who holds her friends through the years is a woman that is gentle, feminine, who has a genuine tolerance for the shortcomings of others, who grows with each experience and who can be depended upon for her tact and kindness.

The surest way of achieving distinction is by developing your own personality. There will be no disharmony when you have succeeded in bringing out your own individuality because your personality is an outward display of your true character and general attitude toward life. There will be a perfect blending in your dress, manner, conversation and appearance. You will be expressing the person you really are and what you are is more important than what you appear to be.

By not trying to act a part you will be at ease in your surroundings, a favorite with others and more valuable to your community.

KINLOCH'S ☆ KORNER

By Y. S.

Dedicated to the memory of my childhood chum, John Kinloch, who died in the struggle to destroy Fascism.

Dear Chum:

There has been a lot of talk recently about "signs of the times." And believe me, there's a lot to it.

Everywhere you look, you see it.

But perhaps in no field is it as apparent as in the increasing political awakening of the youth of Los Angeles. And not only are they developing politically but, glory be, they're traveling in the right direction. Building the foundation for a better America.

This is the way they're doing it, these young people of Los Angeles. They're helping to elect candidates fighting in behalf of the people's interest. Candidates fighting for progressive legislation which, in turn, will lead to a fuller realization of our widely flouted "democratic way of life."

And these are some of the things our young progressives are doing.

Many of the youth clubs published special leaflets calling on citizens—young and old—to support FEPC No. 11, and to vote for liberal candidates. Members of the John Kinloch Club of American Youth for Democracy, for instance, issued a leaflet urging the adults of the community to support progressive measures and candidates. Candidates who will fight to pass laws for the protection and security of all segments of our American citizenry.

The Lit-Phi-Soniens, another club of progressive youth, conducted a forum in which they discussed "Your Ballot." At this meeting, held late last month at the First A.M.E. church, the young people—many of whom came of voting age this year—led discussions on issues of vital importance to the people of this state.

Actually, the program was unique in that youth assumed the role of leadership.

The Democratic Youth Forum gave a dance last week honoring Ellis Patterson, write-in candidate of the 16th congressional district. Patterson is the one congressional candidate of that district to come out in support of Proposition 11.

In Watts, the Treswell Club of AYD sponsored an FEPC rally for local citizens.

And over the week-end, young people like Ike Adams and others campaigned in the streets, through the medium of sound trucks, urging a big vote . . . and a correct vote.

On election eve—Monday—youth cooperated with the adults in hitting the sidewalks, going from house to house leaving sample ballots, voting records of candidates, and literature calling for the support of liberal candidates.

All in all the young people did a bang-up job, what with supporting campaign rallies, making donations of time and money, and serving as poll watchers.

Our deadline hits us before election returns are in, chum, but we're hoping that the older people of Los Angeles have not failed their young folk.

This past week in Greensboro, North Carolina, Clara Yates, representative of the World Student Service Fund, called upon the students of A. & T. college to extend the hand of fellowship to displaced students throughout the world suffering from the ravages of World War II.

Her message was one we would like to hear echoed in the halls of all our colleges and universities, high school and junior highs, right down to the elementary grades.

In a stirring report, Miss Yates reminded American students that they are the most fortunate in the world.

"Many students in Europe are suffering from mental fatigue and strain brought on by the horrible years of war," Miss Yates reported. "For these and other students who are physically ill, the World Student Fund has established rest centers throughout Europe." She added that American students should be glad and proud of the opportunity to cement the bonds of friendship with students in other parts of the world by helping them through WSSF.

It's my hope that students throughout the length and breadth of America will participate wholeheartedly in supporting the work of the World Student Service Fund.

The Los Angeles Youth Council has great plans for its "Salute to World Youth." On Saturday, November 16, at the Philharmonic auditorium, the people of Los Angeles are invited to celebrate the first anniversary of the World Federation of Democratic Youth and International Students' Day.

And what a wonderful program they'll see!

At this colorful "Salute to World Youth" rally, they'll see actor Glenn Ford, slated as star narrator of a half-hour dramatic play; Jane Powell, who scored her first film hit in "Holiday in Mexico," will sing popular melodies; and Mauri Cliffer, who presents "Teen and Twenty Time" on KMPC, will act as master of ceremonies.

This is one of the ways, chum, that the 35 local youth organizations making up the Los Angeles Youth Council will celebrate World Youth Day and International Students' Day.

Tickets go on sale at the Philharmonic box office beginning Nov. 13 or may be secured through major youth organizations.

Whether you're young or old, you'll enjoy this program, so don't miss it!

Your chum,
Yvonne.

Young Negro to Head Boy Scout Drive in India

NEW YORK—A boyhood dream of directing educational programs among the youth of India is nearing fulfillment for Lawrence C. Burr, now enroute to a YMCA World Service post in the province of Madras.

Burr, formerly attached to the Wabash ave. YMCA in Chicago, sailed out of New York recently with his wife, Mildred, former high school teacher and social worker.

First Negro secretary in YMCA history ever to be assigned to work in India's provinces by the International Committee of the YMCA, Burr will remain away at least five years, during which time he will virtually pioneer in the teaching of boys' work technique among Indian youths of high school levels.

City College Has Large Enrollment

Los Angeles City college is bulging with a 42 percent increase in enrollment over last year, accounted for by the influx of veteran students, Superintendent of Schools Vierling Kersey reported at a meeting of the Board of Education Tuesday evening.

Attendance throughout the city school system, however, has increased by only 14,000, bringing to 268,817 the total number of students in daytime sessions, Dr. Kersey said.

Urged to Utilize School Lunch Act

The Board of Education was informed this week at a meeting that Los Angeles was the only major city in America which did not take advantage of the national school lunch act. Vierling Kersey, superintendent of schools, recommended to request the subsidies granted under federal law since June 4.

If the program is adopted, at least $475,000 can be saved by students of public schools, and those unable to pay for lunches would automatically be provided for.

Book Week Slated Nov. 12-15; Festivity to Mark Observance

In keeping with the centennial spirit, Book Week, November 12-15, will be marked by music, dancing and a general atmosphere of fiesta and festivity, Margaret Hickman of the Los Angeles Public Library announces. The Library has planned a series of programs and exhibits, honoring some of the many nationalities which make their home in Los Angeles, and evoking the cosmopolitan spirit which the city has maintained during its colorful history since Mexican days.

Today's Youth

Many of us fail to do what we set out to do because of the simple reason that we are much too impatient. We are in too great a hurry for success, and we waste more time in looking for shortcuts and quick, easy methods than if we settled down at once to hard work that will for sure get us the things we want.

It is a good thing for everyone to desire success and to hope to reach this goal as soon as possible. No one in his right senses would suggest making the road any longer. But if we do have to take shortcuts, try to make sure that it is leading us in the right direction and not up a blind alley of failure and disappointment. There are those who try to get rich through the shortcut of gambling and stealing and they are certainly headed in the wrong direction. So are those who depend on clever tricks or "lucky breaks" rather than putting forth real effort and really earning the success they seek. The people that spend all their time in trying to win prizes of one kind or another, by solving contests and puzzles, often neglect their own work on the small chance that they will win something big without much work, time, or trouble.

It's a fact that most of us would do better if we gave up the idea of succeeding without hard work. We would be better off if we gave up the idea of winning prizes and spend more time performing well the tasks that lie before us. We can find real happiness along the road to success if we learn to get a part of our reward each day from the satisfaction of knowing that we have done a good job. Ask any person who has accomplished something worthwhile and see what he thinks about this. For success lies within the reach of everyone, but only those who work for it will get it. We will never enjoy real success if we wait for it to fall at our feet.

The fiesta will open with a fanfare of music and dancing on Tuesday evening, November 12, at the library. A grand march and folk dances, led by Ray Shaw, will be presented by dancers in native costumes. All programs will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Children Hail Santa Claus' Yearly Debute

The ever-popular, ever-lovable Santa Claus made his yearly debut this week-end in toy departments of all major downtown department stores.

The jolly gent with the red cheeks and white beard will be on hand again next Saturday and starting Nov. 16 will be available for interviews every day until Christmas.

Children from all sections of town crowded up to St. Nick's throne at a rate of over 500 an hour in each store, with the little girls asking for dolls and the boys toy guns and drums.

Youth Council Conference Sun. To Highlight World Youth Day

Eyewitness reports of conditions in the Far East as seen by youth observers will highlight a delegate meeting of the Los Angeles Youth Council in observance of World Youth Day Sunday, Nov. 10, at the First Presbyterian Church, 2000 S. Figueroa st., at 1:30 p. m.

Honored guest will be M. de Gracia Concepcion, editor, author and organizer of the underground resistance movement in Manila before his imprisonment in the Fort Santiago camp.

Heading a panel discussion on significant trends in the Far East will be George Anong, who escaped from Indonesia in 1941 to serve as a seaman with the American Navy; William Belton, who was wounded while fighting with the famous 28th Division on Iwo Jima and who later served in Japan with occupation forces; Sam Chernoff, veteran of the Okinawa campaign who lived eight months in China; Alice and Peter Hyun, who served in Korea with the American military government as interpreters, and Hugo Morris, UCLA student and a veteran of the Philippines campaign.

Helping to plan a course of action that youth can take to insure peace will be 60 delegates and observers from Los Angeles youth organizations who attended the National Conference on China and the Far East in San Francisco October 20.

Vets at A. & T. College Organize

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Recently organized on the campus of the A. & T. college of Greensboro, N. C., is the A. & T. Veterans Association, composed of former servicemen and women of World War II. In a very short period this group has become one of the most progressive campus organizations at the college.

With over 1100 veterans holding membership, the group is the largest single campus organization. It plans to begin a loan cooperative among its other projects, and has a platform including social welfare work in helping the displaced students of European countries through the World Student Service Fund.

Students in Mass Protest Over Hint of Bias in Football Game

RENO, Nev.—Students of University of Nevada, led by former GIs, are staging a protest movement urging the cancellation of the November 16 football game with Mississippi State stemming from hints that Nevada's two ace Negro grid stars might not be welcome in the game at Starkville, Miss.

GIs have flocked to the support of the two players, Halfback Wm. Bass and En Horace Gillom, both of whom are war veterans.

While Nevada's board of athletic control withholds a decision on cancelling the game, messages of encouragement to the students on their stand are pouring in from all over the nation.

Negro, White Youth Organize For Progressive Social Action

DALLAS—For the first time in the history of Dallas, youths of all races, religions and nationalities are organizing to work for the brotherhood of men. The organization, known at the Dallas Progressive Youth League, is the result of the efforts of liberal young people who believe in progressive social action and education.

The league, according to Samuel J. Murphy of Dallas, "is established to provide an opportuinty in Dallas for inspiration and action for teen age and colleg youth. It is organized because a new pattern is needed in youth programs, a pattern that takes youth for what they are — intelligent, cooperative, democratic, and interested in a modern approach to social problems, non-sectarian and non-creedal."

All presidents of youth organizations between the ages of 15 and 26 are invited to attend.

Needs Young People To Aid in Planning 'Tribute to Youth'

Choral clubs, nationality groups, church choirs, drama clubs, dance groups, folk dancers and teen age and young adult clubs are invited to attend a preliminary meeting of the Los Angeles Youth Council at the YWCA, Olympic and Figueroa, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m., to participate in the planning of a "Tribute to Youth."

This festival will be in pageant form, depicting the contributions of young people throughout the world to the struggle for freedom and peace. Young people interested in participating are urged to call Letitia Innes, AN. 1-3118.

Blind Musicians in Series of Concerts

NEW YORK—A series of free concerts given at various local churches by blind musicians and dramatic students marks the introduction of an unusual event for the coming season.

The program will be given for the purpose of interesting the people of Greater New York in establishing a home and cultural center for the blind people of this community.

Every child between the ages of six months and 10 years should be immunized against diphtheria, according to Dr. George M. Uhl, city health officer.

Sunday School Lesson

Subject: Paul Founds the Church at Philippi. Devotional reading, Psalm 122. Lesson Text and Otuline, Acts 16:11-15; Philippians 2:5-11. Motto Text, Philippians 4:13.

INTRODUCTION

Beginning his second missionary journey, Paul revisited the missions in Asia Minor. Proceeding westward attended by Silas and from Lystra onward by Timothy, Paul went on contrary to plan but under impulse of the Spirit to the seaport city of Troas. Here Luke joined the party and the visional Macedonian summoned them to Europe. They responded at once and so planted at Philippi the first church on that continent. It was during the second year of his first imprisonment at Rome that the apostle received from the Phillippians a timely offering for his relief. This was conveyed to Rome by Epaphroditus, whose arrival was followed by a dangerous illness. Upon his recovery he returned to Philippi, Paul having placed in his hands this letter of affectionate remembrance and sincere appreciation.

COMMENTS

1. The conversion of Lydia, who probably was the first wrought upon there to believe in Christ, though not the last. In this story of the Acts, we have not only the conversion of places recorded, but of many particular persons; for such is the worth of souls that the reducing of one to God is a great matter. Nor have we only the conversions that were effected by miracle, as Paul's, but some that were brought about by the ordinary methods of grace, as Lydia's. It is not enough to be worshippers of God, but we must be believers in Jesus Christ, for there is no coming to God as a Father, but by him as Mediator.

2. Christians must be of Christ's mind. We must bear a resemblance to His life, if we would have the benefit of His death. If He was lowly-minded, we should be like minded; and if we were like Christ, we should be lowly-minded. We must walk in the same spirit and in the same steps with Christ, who humbled Himself to sufferings and death for us; not only to satisfy God's justice, and pay the price of our redemption, but to set us an example that we might follow his steps.

COMMENT ON THE MOTTO TEXT

The strength of Christ is omnipotent and illimitable. Strength in Christ equips the believer for every task he has to perform and every trial he has to face and every temptation he has to endure. Without His strength, everything is impossible to us; with it, nothing is impossible.

Christian Science Theme 'Adam and Fallen Man'

Paul's statement to the Romans will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston: "If by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ."

The Lesson-Sermon includes this Bible citation from Genesis: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. . . . And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion . . . over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; . . . But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Spiritually followed, the book of Genesis is the history of the untrue image of God, named a sinful mortal." "The first record assigns all might and government to God, and endows man out of God's perfection and power." "This second Biblical account is a picture of error throughout."

We, the family of the late John Haynes, who passed October 20, 1946, wish to express our sincere gratitude to Connor-Johnson Funeral Home for their excellent service, and Rev. Porter and members of the Progressive church for their services on the death of our loved one.

We thank friends for their many cards of condolences, telegrams, words of sympathy, and flowers. We also thank our neighborhood for their kind service and beautiful spray, Mrs. Grant Jones for her faithful effort in securing the floral spray. Think of him faring on as dear,

Racial discrimination and all other forms of Fascist practices in the United States were hit hard by writers in the second annual contest conducted by the DAILY PEOPLE'S WORLD, California labor newspaper. The winners were:

Second prize—($50.00) "The Brother-in-Law," by Robert Price, San Francisco.

Over Third of South's Farms Electrified Through REA Aid

WASHINGTON.—More than one-third of the South's 2,900,000 farms—which include 670,000 farms operated by Negro farmers—are now electrified, reports the Rural Electrification Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

For the nation as a whole, REA estimates that 52.9 percent, or over half, of the farms now have central station electric service. Administrator Claude R. Wickard says that 11 years ago when REA was established, only 743,000, or 10.9 percent of the farms in the country were electrified by central station service. He says that REA is responsible for about half the increase in rural electrification since 1935.

A total of $82,000,000 has been earmarked for loans in the Southern states during the current fiscal year, on the basis of need as indicated by the number of unelectrified farms in these states as compared with the national percentage of unelectrified farms. The amount allotted to the South represents 65.6 percent of the $125,000,000 to be allotted on the basis of need as required by federal law.

Another $125,000,000 will be allotted this year at the discretion of Administrator Wickard. Southern states will also receive part of this loan fund.

Department officials point out that some Negro farmers are making wide use of electricity to save labor on their farms. A few have electric pumps, feed choppers, brooders, hotbeds, and air compressers for mechanical milking machines, heat their irons, light their homes, and operate their radios and fans.

REA power also is used to light rural churches and schools. Electricity for the schools helps out in more ways than one. In some communities it has marked the beginning of courses in electricity for white and Negro youngsters in high school. In these courses, students learn about fuses, switch boxes, how to wire houses, and repair electrical equipment.

The two Negro high schools that are most outstanding for their courses in electricity are the Dinwiddie training school at Dinwiddie, Va., and the Valley View high school at Valley View, Texas.

Transit Co. Condemns Bus Driver's Insult To Jewish Passenger

The Civil Rights Congress of Los Angeles this week was successful in obtaining an apology and statement of policy from the Los Angeles Transit Lines regarding discrimination.

Anti-Semitic remarks made by a bus driver in the course of an altercation with a passenger were investigated by the Congress and as a result, officials of the transit company have issued an apology for the action of the driver, plus a statement of policy.

In a telephone conversation with Mrs. Ruth Slade, executive secretary of the Congress, James A. Bodley, superintendent of Division 3, which was the division involved, revealed that the bus driver in question had been called in and told that any reoccurrence of this evidence of discrimination on his part would mean his job.

The complaint was made to the Civil Rights Congress by Miss Beatrice Stadler of 4022½ Monroe street.

A. J. Brehm, chief clerk, transportation department, in a letter to the Congress states:

"It is not the intention nor the policy of this company to permit its employes to pass discriminating remarks to any of our patrons, regardless of how aggravating the situation may become. The operator in question has been given to understand this, and we do not anticipate any further difficulty with him along these lines.

"We regret the incident and assure you of our desire to render a safe and courteous service to all of our patrons, regardless of race or religion."

The incident took place on September 26 on the "A" bus.

It's Bargain Day for EAGLE Subscriptions

Increased cost of production makes it necessary to increase the subscription rates of The EAGLE beginning January 1, 1947 from $3 a year to $4 and from $1.75 for six months to $2.20 for the same period.

Meantime, subscribers and other readers have the opportunity of making a substantial saving in the cost of their favorite paper by taking out a subscription now, while the old rates prevail. If you are already a subscriber, you can take out a renewal at once, new subscription to go into effect at the expiration of the old.

While there will be no increase in newsstand prices, taking out a subscription is still the smart thing to do as it allows you a substantial saving, especially if taken out before the new rates go into effect.

And with Christmas around the corner, it's well to remember that a subscription to The EAGLE makes the ideal gift, serves as a year-round reminder of your goodwill.

You can also help the cause of better race relations by sending a subscription to a white friend or shop mate. Make The EAGLE your ambassador to acquaint members of other groups with the achievements and aspirations of your own group. Subscribe now and save!

Dewey, Heckled In Harlem, Calls Audience 'Bums'

NEW YORK—Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey closed his campaign for re-election Saturday night (Nov. 2) at a raucous meeting in Harlem at which he was heckled and interrupted by members of the audience and booed by several hundred spectators as he was led to his car through a cordon of New York City police.

Dewey was forced to stop speaking to a crowd of 6000 at the Golden Gate ballroom in Harlem as members of the audience hurled questions at him on housing and his whitewash of the police murder of the Ferguson brothers in Freeport, L. I.

Most of the audience backed the hecklers and Dewey departed from his text to lash back at his questioners and declared that the Republicans do not want support from "bums."

Landlords in Move to 'Freeze Out' Tenants; Demand OPA Death

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—The nation, paying Republican prices on meats, was faced with the specter of Republican rents this week as a landlord strike which started on the west coast spread to Colorado and took on a new and sinister angle—a proposal by Colorado Springs landlords to turn off the heat and let their tenants "sit and freeze to death."

Parroting the demands of Republican leaders for the complete liquidation of OPA and the removal of rent ceilings, a rally of the El Paso County Landlords' Association cheered a suggestion by Frank A. Mobley, attorney for the association, to "give them 10 days' notice and then shut off the gas."

"It will serve a lot of tenants right," Mobley added.

He said he had found a legal loophole which would allow landlords to freeze out their tenants.

He said Colorado state law provides that the occupant of a dwelling is no longer considered a tenant after a 10-day eviction notice has been served.

He proposed that each member of the landlords' association take it upon himself to instigate the "freezeout."

"We can be accused of conspiracy if we get on record as having voted to conduct this move as a group," he said. "But by taking individual action, we won't be violating the law."

Mobley also proposed that Colorado Springs landlords emulate landlords in Washington and other west coast states in refusing to re-rent any homes or apartments. He said the "landlords can afford to do it."

OPA, in refusing the demand of the nation's landlords for an increase in rents, has pointed out that the landlords are making bigger profits now than at any time in the nation's history, because they do not have to allow for empty apartments, renovations and repairs.

British Policy Lashed at Rally On Palestine

(SCP)—British foreign policy and the concept of empire were vigorously assailed in a series of speeches by prominent Southern California officials, civic leaders and members of the bar and bench at a mass demonstration on the Spring st. steps of the City Hall.

"All over the nation—all over the world, decent men and women of goodwill have taken up the cry that the British carry out the provisions of the mandate which allowed her to enter Palestine in the first place," declared Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor. "The British have violated their pledge not only to the people of Palestine, or the Jews of the world, but all people of the 52 nations which approved the Palestine mandate."

Postmaster Michael D. Fanning accused "higher-ups in the ranks who make British policy" of obstructionist policies.

"It's time we stop thinking in terms of empires, power politics and wars and start thinking in terms of people," Father George Dunne, S. J. of Loyola university, declared. "The interests of humanity are too often sacrificed to the interests of politics."

"A matter of honor is involved in the Palestine question. The British people have always boasted, and not altogether without reason, of their high sense of honor. Two decades ago the British government gave its word that the national Jewish home would be established in Palestine. The world now calls on Great Britain to honor its word."

New Racist Outfit Aims to Control U. S., Deport Negro

ATLANTA—Control of the United States, deportation of Negroes to Africa yesterday were listed among the aims of "The Columbians, Inc.," a new anti-Negro, anti-Jewish organization with headquarters here. Homer L. Loomis Jr., 32, organizer of the secret society, boldly proclaimed its objectives as:

- To control the United States by making Columbians politically dominant in all 48 states.
- To convert the United States into an "American nationalist state."
- Deport all Negroes to Africa.
- Make America "a one-race nation."

"The Columbians" are the subject of much local attention because of their efforts to stir race troubles here. Loomis, who is a war veteran, and three other members, were arrested yesterday on charges of inciting to riot.

Gov. Arnall's administration was studying means of revoking the charter which a Geogre county court granted the outfit last August.

But despite mounting criticism and hostility toward his order from Georgia newspapers and white and Negro citizens alike, Loomis made no bones of his views and objectives to reporters who called at the three small rooms in an old brick building near the YMCA, where the organization has its headquarters.

"I plan a small, solid society I can control," he told reporters. "This police trouble now is purging out the weaklings. It's good for us and all this publicity, good and bad, is all to the good."

'Dena Officials Back Down on FEPC Parade

A Pasadena parade in support of Proposition No. 11 on the November 5 ballot went on as scheduled Saturday after it had received vigorous opposition from city officials, who had refused to grant a permit for the parade.

A complaint had been filed in the Superior Court by Dr. Edna L. Griffin, co-chairman of the Pasadena FEPC committee, on behalf of the FEPC committee and its affiliates against City Manager Harold Hines and Police Chief Clarence Morris. They were ordered to appear before Superior Judge Henry M. Willis to show cause why they should not be restrained from interfering with a parade in support of the Fair Employment Practices Commission (Proposition No. 11).

The denial of permission to hold the parade, according to the complaint, filed through the committee's attorneys, Katz, Gallagher & Margolis, was "an arbitrary act and denial of right to freedom of speech and freedom of assembly as guaranteed by the constitution."

The parade was held Saturday without interference from the city.

JOHN THOMAS WILL MEET LEO RODAK TUESDAY

LAYIN' IT ON THE LINE

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

SPORTS AT A GLANCE

Xavier university's Gold Rush defeated a hard-fighting Bishop college eleven, 9-0, last Saturday on the former's home-stamping grounds at New Orleans. The victory was gained by sheer power on line plays, the aerial attacks of both teams failing to click . . . Bill Yancey, one of Philly's great sport celebrities, has been named by the Professional Baseball league of Panama as the legal representative of that body in the United States. Yancey, who spent about eight years in the Republic of Panama as head of its athletic set-up, is a former baseball and basketball star himself, having played with the New York Black Yankees and with the Rens . . . Fisg university's Bulldogs turned on the heat to defeat Philander-Smith college, 18-6, last Saturday. It made the Fisk record read 2 wins, 2 losses and one tie thus far for the season . . . The Lincoln Tigers of Missouri and the Green Wave of Wilberforce battled to a scoreless tie in a sea of mud at Jefferson City, Mo., last Saturday. Because the footing was so bad on the field it was almost impossible to run with the oval so both teams turned the fracas into a punting duel and hard-driving line plays . . . 23,000 fans saw North Carolina State down the hitherto unbeaten Tennessee State gridders, 14-6, at Griffith stadium in Washington, D. C., last Friday night. No. Carolina won the tilt by capitalizing on two Tennessee fumbles in the first period and a display of heads-up football in the third session. This added up to two touchdowns and two conversions . . . In the Southern league of the local high schools last Friday Fremont romped over Roosevelt, 33-0, the Jefferson Democrats blanked Manual Arts, 20-0, and Washington topped Los Angeles, 31-0 . . . George Moore, who formerly piloted Henry Armstrong during the latter's comeback, is the acting manager of Midget Jones on the west coast. Jones is managed by Albert Graber of New Orleans, La.

With Buddy Young in the Illinois backfield in the second half for the first time last Saturday at Iowa City, the Illini took charge after the kickoff and after one threat failed came back to begin their 68-yard drive which brought the only touchdown of the game four minutes after the fourth quarter began to defeat Iowa, 7 to 0.

Young, who usually runs like a racing colt, found Iowa's ends and secondary too much for sprinting so he joined in the line crashing fun during the Illini's lone touchdown drive.

Tunnell was one of the chief workmen in the Hawkeye offense. He was ever a threat to the Illini, returning punts ten yards, 71 yards and 21 yards and alternating with Bob Smith in the Hawkeye's passing attack.

In the last three minutes of play Tunnell connected for three passes, one of them being a forward lateral involving himself, Jack Dittmer, end, and fullback Dick Hoerner.

Kenny Watkins Beats Jackson

Kenny Watkins, 164, scored a closed 10-round decision over Emery Jackson, 158½, at Ocean Park arena Monday night. The verdict was in the way of a split decision.

Charlie Randolph refereed the sizzler. There were no knockdowns.

The world record for quick kayoes was tied in one of the preliminaries when Sidney Hitchens, 126, knocked Trino Perez, 123, cold 11 seconds after the fight started.

Cecil Schoomaker, 117, decisioned Henry Evaro, 117, in the semi-windup. Other results:

Harry Cole, 138½, and Johnny Armando, 136½, draw; Charley Salas, 144, dec. Billy Mitchell, 145½, and Bobby Corbett, 156½, technically stopped Leon Lewis, 156, in three rounds.

Sam Houston to Play Arkansas

Classy Chi Boxer Will be Tough Foe

John Thomas, making his first appearance since the blistering 12-round battle with California Jackie Wilson, will face the veteran Leo Rodak, of Chicago, in the 10-round feature at the Olympic Tuesday night, Nov. 12.

Originally, John was booked to battle Danny Kapilow, Al Weill's talented New York welterweight. But Danny suffered injuries and cuts in his last fight which made it necessary to ask for a postponement.

Rodak is no stranger here. While serving in the marines he filled in at Hollywood Legion Stadium against top-ranking Willie Joyce; Willie was a prohibitive favorite before the fight. And Willie was a beaten favorite afterwards. Leo gave Joyce a boxing lesson.

A glance at Leo's record shows plenty of impressive wins to his credit: three victories over Slugger White; wins over Julie Kogan, Dave Castilioux, Canadian star; Jimmy Perrin and many others. Rodak won and lost with Sammy Angott when that young gent was at his peak.

Thomas is ranked third among the nation's lightweights in the November issue of "Ring" magazine. Ike Williams, the N.B.A. champ, heads the list, Wesley Mouzon is second, John Thomas third, and Bob Montgomery, the New York champ, fourth. Therefore Thomas will be defending his new laurels Tuesday night.

Local promoters have tried hard to bring Ike Williams or Bob Montgomery here for title fights with Thomas but the matches have never been made. Williams is said to have demanded too large a figure to make the match profitable for anyone but himself. Thus Thomas is campaigning to clean up the division and force a fight with the champion or champions.

Matchmaker Babe McCoy has arranged several excellent prelims to round out the card.

ON THE TURF

By Geo. A. Ramsey

HIPODROMO DE TIJUANA—A. G. Tarn's Cargo Ship, claimed about four weeks ago, accounted for his third straight victory last Sunday in winning the feature attraction, the "Borderland handicap." The distance was 1⅛ miles. Installed as a 3-5 favorite on the morning line, the son of Slave Ship-Lucy T. paid in the mutuels $4.00 straight and $3.80 to place. He ran the distance in 1:52 flat. Regan was second and Creole Pass, third.

The secondary feature went to Vettura, who showed her fast heels to a good bunch of sprinters to win the 5½ furlong sprint by three lengths and pay $4.00 for $2.00. A longshot, Two-Ton Tony, was second, and Dashing Beau, another longshot, third.

It was even stephen with the favorites and longshots. Five of each reached Judge James J. Murphy's charmed circle. In the seventh, three horses bolted to the outside fence.

The daily double backers received $29.80 when Quick, Jr., won the second and Charlie Bane the third race. In the nightcap, the quiniela, the combination of Roller Skates-Vickie Ellen clicked for $104 for $2.

This Sunday, General Manager Agustin Silveyra will offer for the two-feature attraction "the Aztec" at six furlongs with an added value of $1200, and "the Fallbrook", allowance at 1 1-16 miles. Cargo Ship and Regan will again meet and a hot battle is looked for by the fans.

Racing Secretary Judge James O. Cunningham has arranged 10 races which will keep the fans on edge during the afternoon. Post time will remain at noon. So until Sunday, when the lovers of the sport of kings will gather at the border course for a day of excitement and pleasure, keep smiling. Heard at the track, "My horse lost by a nose." So long, George.

Boxing Monopoly of Jacobs Rapped by Nat. Boxing Ass'n

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The boxing monopoly maintained by Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, was rapped last week by the National Boxing association because of the freezing out of Charley Burley, Pittsburgh boxer, at a shot at the middleweight title.

Abe J. Greene, NBA president, said he agreed with the protest of Burley's managers that under existing arrangements their boxer will not get a chance at the middleweight title for a year.

Pointing out that Jacobs has Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano booked for a return match in March, six months after Zale knocked out Graziano, Greene proposed three elimination bouts to determine the opponent for the winner of the return match between Zale and Graziano.

Greene proposed that Georgie Abrams fight Marcel Cerdan, the French champ, and Burley fight Jake LaMotta, and the winners of these two bouts to fight each other.

"In this way," said Greene, "the middleweight class would develop a challenger who would have won his spurs by shipping the field."

Greene calls Jacobs' setup a "monopoly with a vengence." The NBA contends that Jacobs uses contracts calling for exclusive services of boxers to set up a boxing monopoly.

'POPS' HAMPTON INTRODUCES NEW INNOVATION

NO FOOLING

By Eddie Burbridge, Theatrical Editor

A GUEST COLUMNIST—Because we think that DOLORES CALVIN pens one of the brightest theatrical columns in the nation we gladly turn "NO FOOLING" over to her this week as she writes on "SEEIN' STARS." Here tis.

—EDDIE BURBRIDGE

THE BAND WIVES CORNER

NEW YORK CITY—Mrs. Count Basie has just moved from their lavish Fifth Avenue apartment with the huge mirrors and pastel furniture, to a home on Long Island near Lena Horne and Etta Moton... The country air will be good for the Basies' baby daughter, Diane... Mary Kirk, Andy's wife, spent the weekend with him and the band in Boston and saw "Happy Birthday," starring Helen Hayes, which comes to Broadway soon... She liked it better than "Dream Girl"... Also caught "The Big Sleep," which she admits she'll have to see again to piece all the loose ends... Flossie Hawkins is now a full fledged member of Actors' Equity and pays her dues on time... Her stage career began this summer with "Deep Are the Roots"... Taking her acting seriously, she considers small parts a stepping stone to stardom... Meanwhile, Erskine, who at first stood back and watched the little wife—until the critics had passed over—drives on to Chicago on tour...

TIMMIE AND ARTIE

Timmie Rogers, Cafe Society Downtown's uprooting now funny man, is meeting much trouble in decorating his 2½ room apartment at 555 Edgecombe... The living room features a carnival red and white wall but the rest of the furniture, which Timmie had designed and made, hasn't arrived... When finally finished, the truck strike kept it from being delivered... Meanwhile, Timmie, without a telephone, has only has white leathered recording machine to comfort him—which plays over and over his new favorite—Artie Shaw's heaven-sent "What Is This Thing Called Love" (incidentally, Artie should know all the answers now that he's teamed up with the author of "Forever Amber").

IS LENA MARRIED?

From what we can gather, Lena Horne and Lennie Hayton are definitely married... In fact we're inclined to believe she has been since last year when she wore that Jewish cross in New York... Rehearsing for her forthcoming personal appearance tour, which begins in Philadelphia, Lena refuses all interviews, and all contact with the press while she decides in her pale yellow Long Island home what to do with MGM... We doubt whether MGM officials yet know her private phone number...

MAURICE ROCCO

Maurice Rocco made a last minute dash to a Carnegie Hall concert before shuffling out to the middlewest where he begins nightclub engagements... And last minute packing was done by everyone but him as he nervously flitted about his small 50th Street hideaway which was completely designed a la Hollywood by him... All friends of Joe Louis' sister got a smooth ride in the new Studebaker—a gift from Joe...

THIS AND THAT

The Bill Robinsons are again "living in a trunk," as Elaine Robinson so aptly puts it... They're on tour... Benny Carter left immediately for L. A. and doesn't expect to return for three years... Butterfly McQueen would be ready for her nightclub opening but the poor girl is rehearsing eighteen different songs—all of them with an individual style—and she can't choose the type she wants...

Sy Oliver has fallen in love with a new tune written by the wife of a prominent Long Island doctor and will introduce it shortly at a celebrity party... Panama has sponsored a large intercultural program with people of Panamanian birth, but of many different racial extractions participating... Panamanian Negroes, Jews and Orientals, etc., made it a great success... In addition, they have published a small booklet, well documented, exploding many racial myths...

THREE BLAZERS CLICK

The Three Blazers, headed by Johnny Moore, handed in one of the neatest shows in months at the Apollo... The Blazers, whose recording of "My Silent Love" is being oohed and aahed to, made this their first big date... Noble Sissle's orchestra blooms at Billy Rose's great Diamond Horseshoe this week with Billy Banks still in the lead of the show... M. H. Fleming, the only Negro successful impresario, has presented Ezio Pinza, the basso, through the Clarence Cameron White Art Society...

ON NEW WAXINGS

Nat Cole's singing of "Merry Christmas" will be his greatest yet, backed by another terrific side, "I Was The Best Man," which he has introduced on the Kraft Music Hall... And speaking of records, Louis Jordan's "Ain't That Just Like a Woman," written by Mrs. Jordan, is catching on...

—By DOLORES CALVIN.

NAT COLE, the ol' King himself, gets a kick out of an new song he does weekly on his own show every Saturday (5:45 EST, NBC). Pointing to the words is J. Ward Maurer, advertising manager of the Wildroot Company, the King's new sponsor. The song? Why "Wildroot Cream Oil, Charliel," of course.

SLAP HAPPY

After Joan Crawford had given Van Heflin four resounding slaps on the cheek in a scene for Warner Bros.' "Have you looked at page 121 in the script?"

"No," replied Joan. "Why?"

"Well," retorted Van, "on page 121, I slap you."

HORRIFIC!

One of the erriest scenes in Warner Bros.' murder-mystery, "The Verdict," was photographed, upwards, from the very bottom of a freshly-dug grave! Menace man Sydney Greenstreet and horror-man Peter Lorre are starred in the production.

☆ THEATRES—NIGHT SPOTS ☆

SWINGIN' ON THE SHOWBOAT—Two Hollywood prima donnas of popular songs are among the galaxy of stars in "Till the Clouds Roll By." All dressed in a sweet old-fashioned gown is Lena Horne with Virginia O'Brien, singing memorable Jerome Kern melodies in the lavish "Showboat" sequence of the film. —Calvin's News Service.

Doings at The LINCOLN

ALL THE CRITICS, local and national, united in praising Frankie "Sugar Chile" Robinson's specialty in "No Leave, No Love." In fact, to a man, none of them gave Van Johnson, Keenan Wynn, or any of the glittering fixtures of the MGM super, a thing. The little prince of boogie-woogie stole the picture, which makes us very proud, especially as he made his Los Angeles stage debut at the Lincoln.

Will Have 21-Piece Group With Fine Vocal Ensemble

NEW YORK CITY—Lionel Hampton, the king of vibes and America's outstanding exponent of exhuberating swing, in keeping with his reputation for producing sensational innovations, tossed another musical bombshell into the entertainment world recently when he announced a new feature in his band . . . a 21-piece aggregation with a well trained vocal ensemble.

The idea has long been an ambition of the vibes king and according to his plans, the new setup will be one of the most versatile groups in band business, backed with a vocal section which which is expected to win acclaim equal to the Fred Waring aggregation. To insure himself a well polished song section with an unusual style of delivery, Hampton has secured the services of a former gob who turned out several record song groups at Great Lakes Naval Training Station during the war. The boys will give out from "Boogie to Bach" in their own creative style.

In addition to the vocal feature, the maestro has developed three well rounded combinations around himself. He will give on the vibes with one, the drums with another and double on the piano with the entire band background for his antics.

The Hamp's two bass viols resound like a tuba. Extra reed and trumpet men give the band a "beat" and ryhthm that becomes especially vivid under the goadings of the maestro's relentless drum beating, infectious smile and driving showmanship.

This new show-in-band idea is expected to boost the already popular Hampton organization to a still higher perch in the realm of pleasing entertainment. With the exception of the Tex Beneke band, which sports 33 pieces, Hampton has the largest band organization in the popular field.

The vibes maestro and his men invaded the Broadway Strand last Friday for a run, after which he will move to the Aquarium.

Pretty dancing beauty on the "Love and Learn" set at Warner Bros., was heard to remark, "Darling, you sound so preatomic!"

NOTES FROM A NEWSGIRL'S NOTEBOOK:

Celebrating recently in a grand and groovy fashion were the Eddie Greens (Duffy's Tavern). Reason for all the celebration was their first wedding anniversary . . . The two Hot Shots, "Sneeks and Amiel," had to close out at N. Y.'s Zanzibar when Sneeks became ill. It was a tough break for the fellas, because they were rating raves aplenty from onlookers . . . The annual "Drag" ball on Hallowe'en at the Alabam, was really a knock-out, drag-down affair with folks packed jammed in the place . . . Of course all the "girls" were on hand, out to win the prize . . . Those Sunday afternoon jam sessions out at Billy Berg's are a natural . . . enjoy very much the new recording Hadda Brooks "You Won't Let Me Go" . . . Artie Graves says "some guys wanna go to Heaven when they die, others would like to be stranded on a desert island with georgeous Lana Turner, but all he wants is a knock-down to pretty Velma Miles" . . . Jeannie Herndon "the gal with the beautiful profile all the way down" passed the exam for police woman . . . GOING PLACES—"With a little experience you'll be tops some day."

These were the words of Lee Young, who hired Ralf Bateman to play with him during his engagement at the "Downbeat," a local night spot.

Young's prediction seems to be materializing as news reaches Los Angeles that young Ralf Bateman is "going places in the east.

During the summer, Bateman toured Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri with the Tommy Douglas band of Kansas City, and played with the King Cole Trio during their engagement in Kansas City.

Bateman, who is one of the many Godchildren of EAGLE editor-publisher Mrs. C. A. Bass, is now with Merle Johnson and his Gentlemen of Rhythm, going into their seventh week at Club "66" of Joplin, Missouri. The son of Mrs. Idell A. Bateman (one of the well-known Albritton sisters of this city), young Bateman not only performs at the piano, but has been writing and arranging music since his early teen age.

Jackson Trio Scores Hit at Tavern Club

The Jackson Trio, now appearing nightly at the Tavern Club in Westwood Village, continued their climb to success when they played a one-night stand in San Diego last week. They were engaged by the Logan Heights Democratic Club.

The up-and-coming trio broke all records for a musical unit of its size and were offered two return engagements.

The Jackson Trio features Eugene Jackson on tenor sax, Freddie Jackson, drummer, and Virgil Johnson, pianist.

Use Two Camera Crews for Film

To speed up production, two first camera crews will photograph 20th Century-Fox's picturization of Samuel Shellabarger's novel, "Captain From Castile."

TRAVELING TROUPE

After eight weeks spent in Santa Cruz, Calif., Van Johnson and the 101 other members of M-G-M's "The Romance of Rosy Ridge" company have packed their bags and said their goodbyes. The entire unit has moved to Kennedy Meadows in the High Sierras, about 250 miles from Santa Cruz. Then, after 10 days of shooting ,the group will pack and move again—this time to Sonora, Calif.

ANN'S NOTED ANCESTORS

Ann Sothern's grandfather was a famous inventor. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star of "Undercover Maisie" is the granddaughter of the late Simon Lake, one of the pioneer inventors of the submarine.

H. B. Warner, who has one of the top featured roles in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," has appeared in more than 400 motion pictures. Prior to that he was a noted stage star.

Diogenes' search for an honest man in these days might well be extended to turn up a driver who is realy courteous.

NEW YORK—Coeds from Hunter College's famed Little Theatre are also back stage experts. The girls make their own scenery as well as write the plays and produce them. Here Coeds Mary Fay (left) and Marion Dunne are Kem-Toning some props for this year's production, while Dramatic Director A. Joseph Loudis supervises the operation.

"SISTER KENNY"—The very human story of "Sister Kenny" will screen at the Lincoln theatre starting Sunday. Rosalind Russell has the starring role.

Jimmy Stewart, star of Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," is an amateur tree surgeon. He became interested in the work when several acacia trees on his property were badly damaged in a winter storm.

Virginia Patton, honey-haired Liberty Films' starlet featured in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," is a charter member of Beta Pi chapter of Alpha Phi sorority. Virginia helped found the chapter while studying dramatics at University of Southern California.

Even Members of His Staff Thinks He Sold Out, Washington Says

If members of a man's own business family distrusts him, who can trust that man?

On his own admission that is the situation in the staff of Leon H. Washington Jr., publisher-editor of a local paper.

Writing under the caption of "Wash's Wash," Washington made the following statement in a Fred Roberts editio of his paper:

" 'I sold out. I was forced and pressured into my decision to support Frederick M. Roberts for congress.' "

"That's the story that some of the boys are whispering, even some of those whose bread and meat depend upon my signature on their check each Friday."

Indian Spokesman Calls on UN To 'Advance Freedom', Outlaw Racial and Color Discrimination

By LUCILE SELZ
For the NNPA News Service

NEW YORK—(NNPA)—An official representative of the Indian minority in Southwest Africa declared yesterday that the United Nations can only succeed if it can advance human freedom and outlaw all forms of racial and color discrimination.

Jan Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, vigorously advocated the incorporation of Southwest Africa in the Union, H. A. Naidoo, native spokesman for 300,000 Indians in the Southwest African mandated territory, hit out at the social and political discrimination against Indians and black people in his country.

Smuts made his appeal before the U. N. Trusteeship Committee, after failing to present it as originally planned to the 51-nation general assembly.

Smuts described Southwest Africa as an "integral" part of South Africa. He asserted the people of Southwest Africa had been consulted on their future and had declared themselves in favor of annexation.

Smuts admitted there had been no real referendum to decide the wishes of the natives of Southwest Africa, but claimed informal polls revealed 208,850 for annexation, 33,250 against, and 56,790 not consulted.

Naidoo, replying to Smuts' thesis on non-interference, said if the United Nations decided that it had no jurisdiction over Southwest Africa then, at some future date, the doors of the world organization might be opened to fascist states.

A representative of the South African Pacific resistant council, Naidoo explained that the 1910 South African constitution specifically prohibits non-Europeans from becoming members of parliament and the provincial councils in Natal, Transvaal and the Free State.

In Cape Province, he added, Indians enjoy limited franchise which, however, carries with it heavier qualifications than that required of Europeans. Naidoo continued:

"It is true that a recent law makes provision for indirect representation of Indians in parliament by three members. This has, however, been rejected by the Indians because it carries with it the odium of discrimination in the sense that they (the Indians) are not to enjoy equal franchise rights with the Europeans."

Naidoo listed the following grievances:

Indians are subjected to Jim Crow laws on buses and trains.

They are prevented from holding skilled or professional jobs, such as engineering positions.

They are forbidden to move freely between provinces.

Indian families are not allowed to settle in the vicinity of mines and factories where the family breadwinner is employed.

That the issue of human rights and racial discrimination is bound to loom large in the UN proceedings was indicated by Dr. Francisco Castillo-Najera, Mexican foreign minister, who predicted a "showdown" on this question in the social, cultural and humanitarian committee and ultimately on the floor of the general assembly.

The Russian and other delegates hold to the view that the racial issue is universal and transcends boundaries of individual states and must therefore be settled on a "world level," namely, in the United Nations.

Progressives to Meet Nov. 8

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—"The Conference of Progressives," which held its first meeting in Chicago recently, will meet here on November 8 to plan the agenda for the second conference, which also will meet here in mid-January after the 80th congress has been organized.

Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is one of the leaders of this coalition of labor, racial, women's, professional and religious groups. Mr. White has denied that there were any third party implications in the organization.

Charged With Bookmaking; He Wins Freedom

Clifton C. Jones recently went to one of the barber shops and was seen by police officers receiving a slip of paper from another person. Suspecting that Jones was a bookmaker officers pounced upon him and carried him away to the local bastille.

Jones protested that he was not a bookmaker; that the individual who handed him the slip of paper which turned out to be a betting marker was merely showing him points on a horse.

This week when Jones appearedincourtwith his attorney, Charles H. Matthews, the latter argued that the police officers had undoubtedly made a mistake when they arrested Jones; that there may have been an individual in the barber shop who wa staking bets on horses but that certainly it could not be Jones for the reason that the only money found in Jones' hands was three $1.00 bills, whereas, the size of the bet foun don the betting marker was $4.00. The court agreed with this contention and dismissed the bookmaking charges without the necessity of a trial.

Cincinnati Crescents Back in United States

SAN FRANCISCO — The air-travelling Cincinnati Crescents, comprising some of the greatest stars in the Negro baseball world, came back to San Francisco last week by Pan American Clipper after a triumphal visit to Honolulu in which they made a clean sweep of their series of 12 games against the best teams the Island could produce.

One of the first professional baseball teams ever to make a round-trip trans-Pacific flight, the members of the Crescents, together with Manager Abe Saperstein, left San Francisco on September 29 aboard the Pan American World Airways Clipper Southern Cross and returned October 20 on the Clipper Resolute. All were enthusiastic over the speed and comfort of the Pacific flights.

Crescents who made the trip were Winfield Welch, John Markham, Lorenzo Davis, Ulysses Redd, Gread McKinnis, Reece Tatum, Luscious Easter, Mike Berry, Jesse Owens, Paul Hardy, Walter Burch, Collins Jones, Herb Simpson, Sherwood Brewer and Greene Farmer.

All came home with ukuleles and leis, souvenirs of their visit to the Islands.

Midget Racing In 7th Month

Mighty midget night speedway racing moves into the seventh month of its record breaking 1946 season Thursday night with the Trojan Sweepstakes at Gilmore Stadium, home base of the sport on the Pacific Coast and the only track now operating regular weekly races.

Ex-Fighter Is Given Divorce

Jack Taylor ex-Negro prize fighter who fought such prominent Negro heavyweights as former heavyweight champion, Jack Johnson, and the great Sam Langford, was granted a divorce this week from his wife, Florence Cowan Taylor of Chattanooga, Tenn., the decree was granted by superior judge Frank M. Smith.

Vandalism Drops as Youngsters Go to Parks for Hallowe'en Fun

Praise for the most outstandingly successful Halloween events in Los Angeles history was being showered on the municipal playgrounds and the community groups which cooperated with them, following record-breaking attendance last week at fifty-two huge community Halloween carnivals held at as many recreation centers.

Though final reports on attendance have not yet been compiled, recreation leaders believed that the total exceeded the goal of 250,000 set for the Halloween celebrations.

A greater percentage of the children appeared in costume, there were more youth and adults in attendance, and altogether entire families showed that they had been looking forward to the playground carnivals as their big Halloween parties.

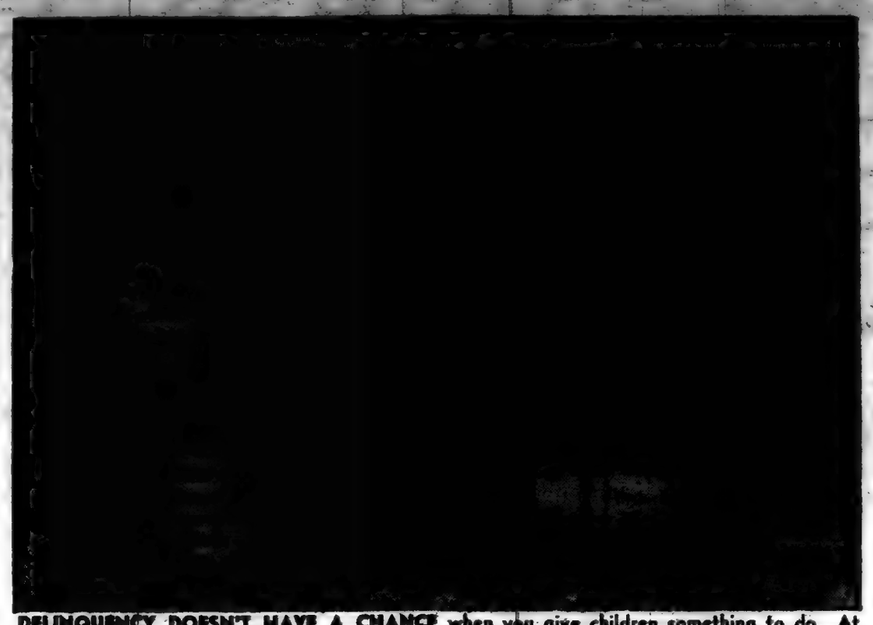
The Western Aces' Regular Meeting

The Western Aces' Social Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ivie.

The club wishes to extend thanks to its many friends for helping to make their Barn Dance such a huge success. Quite a large crowd attended and an enjoyable time was had by all.

The women of the club wore plaid skirts, white blouses and ribbons in their hair and the men were "barnish" in their blue jeans and plaid shirts.

Many things of interest were discussed during the meeting, which culminated with supper served by the host and hostess in their own delightful manner.



DELINQUENCY DOESN'T HAVE A CHANCE when you give children something to do. At All Nations Boys' club, a part of the Los Angeles Youth Project, these boys are making good use of their leisure time. The project which makes the club possible is part of the Community Chest and has an enrollment of 22,000. Your contribution to the Chest makes this club possible.

Jeff High Teachers Join In Broad Y-Teen Program

An important move forward along cooperative working relationship between community agencies and the public schools was made Friday when a group of interested teachers and girls, and the vice principal of Jefferson High school met with Mrs. Inez Allen, the program director for Teen Age Work at the Woodlawn Branch YWCA; to discuss methods of work with semi-high school girls.

Those who will serve are as follows: Mrs. Hazel Campbell, Mrs. Blanche Bloomberg, Mrs. Charlotte Messenger, Mrs. Hazel Wheadon, girls' vice principal, Mrs. Honore Carey, chairman for YWCA Program For Youth.

A committee was formed which will serve as advisory and coordinating unit to Mrs. Honore Carey.

Mrs. Hazel Wheadon, stated that major emphases at this time should be placed on organization and work with tenth grade girls. It is her thinking that perhaps best results might be obtained if the girls are reached while they are freshman and a continuous experience is afforded throughout the high school period.

Speaking to the point of value of a program of character building offered by the YWCA; Mrs. Bloomberg stated that the opportunity for girls to participate in a leisure time character building program under supervision by intelligent leadership in an ongoing agency such as the YWCA is invaluable to the girls who participate. There is a definite carryover in the kind of experience and learnings that the girls receive in club experience that bids fair for effective living now and in adult life Mrs. Hazel Campbell believes.

Mrs. Charlotte Messenger, director of health education, thinks the plan of cooperation is a splendid opportunity for the school staff and agency worker to work as a team in their attempt to serve the total needs of the total child.

CPAC Tea Huge Success

The FEPC Tea sponsored by the Community Political Action Council at the home of Mrs. T. R. Lott, 1245 South Arlington avenue, on Sunday, November 3, proved to be one of the outstanding social events of the season, as well as an occasion of political significance. Many distinguished citizens and stage, screen and radio celebrities attended, and a great punch was put in for the campaign.

The Council announced that following the close of election season, it shall enter into a program of continuous activities, both to broaden its membership and to enlarge its program of political education to the citizens of this community.

Mr. Adolphus B. Clay, president of the Council, also made a stirring address acquainting the citizens with the organization and the work of the Council, and told them that the Council was in nowise connected, as some appeared to have had the impression, with the CIO Political Action Council, but was an independent and chartered incorporate body of itself, having no political ties or obligation to any party or political organization, but serves only to promote the political interest of the citizens of the community in which it operates.

U.S. Attorney Calls on FBI To Probe Anti-Douglas Libel

United States Attorney James Carter has referred to the FBI for investigation a pamphlet containing a scurilous attack on Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of the 14th district. Carter said the pamphlet constituted a civil and criminal libel in his opinion.

The pamphlet, widely distributed in the 14th district, was signed only by the name of an association and Carter called attention to Public Law No. 544, approved by Congress on Dec. 23, 1944, which makes it a crime to publish or distribute such a pamphlet unless "there shall be attached the names of the officers of such association, the committee, or corporation." The Act carries a penalty of one year in jail and a $1000 fine.

Carter stated he had received affidavits refuting the slanderous charges made in the pamphlet against Congresswoman Douglas.

He pointed out that it was the intent of Congress to fasten liability for libelous pamphlets and leaflets such as the anti-Douglas pamphlet, and added "We intend to vigorously prosecute the offender and all other persons who violate the election laws passed by our Congress."

New Tel. Directory Out; Got Any Bonds In Your Old Book?

Delivery of 600,000 copies of the new Los Angeles extended area alphabetical telephone directory of the Southern California Telephone Company started Monday in Los Angeles. The separate classified directory will be delivered a month later.

The new green covered directory with 1600 pages of 600,000 alphabetical listings weighs four pounds, four ounces, and is the largest telephone directory ever issued in Southern California.

It is expected that delivery of the directory will be completed in about 10 days.

Directory officials in the telephone company said that if past experiences are a criterion, the paper salvage company that gets the old directories for re-processing into cardboard may find photographs, crisp ten dollar bills, war bonds, automobile pink slips and an assortment of other valuable papers neatly tucked away in the old books. Their advise is "shake out the old directory" before turning it over to the delivery man.

Teachers' Institute Slated for Nov. 18

Discussion and talks will center around teachers' health under the general theme of "Fit to Teach".

All teachers in the city and county schools are invited to attend the program. Speakers will be announced at a later date.

P. O. Representative, Dist. 10, NAPE, Meet

District Ten, National Alliance of Postal Employes, recently closed one of its most successful conventions. The convention, held at the 28th st. YMCA had as one of its highlights an address by a post office department representative, Thomas P. Bomar, chief clerk at large, R.M.S., Washington, D. C. This was the first time that the department had been represented in an Alliance meeting on the West Coast.

The 33rd anniversary of the founding of the alliance and the fifth anniversary of District Ten were celebrated by the delegates with a gala party at Club Alabam.

Delegates in attendance included Roydon C. Hall and Napoleon Smith, Oakland; Leslie Scott, Marion Walker, William Wynn and Robert La Marr, Los Angeles; Isadore Maney, Portland, Oregon; Cuney White and Robert C. Moss, San Diego; Sidney L. Staton and Henry Robinson, San Francisco.

District Ten officers are: William Borders, president; George S. Mouton, first vice president; Fred M. Pitts, secretary-treasurer.

Courtesy of branch members was extended to Thomas P. Bomar and Roydon C. Hall, the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Borders, and other members of the convention.

It would appear from Department of Motor Vehicle accident records that the West has exchanged the bad men with itchy trigger fingers for drivers with itchy throttle feet.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

MONDAY MORNING when I read Manchester Boddy's stirring description of the present status of Stuttgart, Germany, pale images of a passing civilization gripped my imagination.

"After a year of peace, only 17.5 per cent of Stuttgart's pre-war industry is operating."

In a little more than seven years Stuttgart's factories and business enterprises have been reduced to 627 establishments, and of the 160,000 persons formerly employed there are only five or a few more employed in each of the 627 factories now in operation.

Our Los Angeles editor's picture of work opportunities in Stuttgart are indeed gloomy. But gloomier even are the living conditions of the people of this war ravaged German city.

MR. BODDY cited that the American people seem to think that the important issues involved in Germany are whether to be hard or soft with Russia; whether or not we should "play Great Britain's game"; should or should not have a "United States of Europe", and general matters of that sort.

"But as I stand in the ruins of a great industry and watch cold, listless figures slouch silently — unseeing — along the rubble-strewn earth, such issues seem very remote from the business at hand."

Mr. Boddy's newspaper, The Daily News, is published here in Los Angeles and I believe he also lives somewhere near Los Angeles.

I am thinking how much mor complete would be the picture of conditions in Stuttgart if Mr. Boddy had put on his fishing togs and paid the Eastside of his own city a little visit before going to Germany. Even some of the people of Stuttgart who live four and five in the dilapidated apartments described by Manchester Boddy would be surprised to know that some minorities in rich America live under similar conditions.

Mr. Boddy would have found, had he visited the Eastside, in what is designated as the Negro section, the bulk of the 150,000 Negro population of Los Angeles hemmed in an area sufficient to accommodate only about 50,000.

A LITTLE investigation at home would reveal that race restrictive housing covenants are agreements entered into by property owners, subdivision developers, or real estate operators in certain neighborhoods binding them not to sell, rent, or lease nor convey their property to colored people.

He would have found that Negroes and other minorities are often denied even half-way decent housing facilities in his own home city.

Another important matter Editor Boddy should know about and ponder seriously is the stand taken by his newspaper in the fight to pass a Fair Employment Act in California in the November 5 election.

People who believe in fair play can't understand how you, Mr. Boddy, wax emotional over the sufferings of the people of Stuttgart, and keep your hands over your eyes, ears, and mouth concerning the evils that threaten to destroy what you call Americanism.

You and all the big business interests under the head of capitalism knew that the passage of a Fair Employment Practices Act was an effort to safe-guard certain individuals against discrimination in industries. But you became a party to its defeat.

After pointing out a few of the issues that affect the lives of the people of Stuttgart, you ask: "What are we, the American people, going to do about them?"

Some of your own neighbors in Los Angeles would like the same type of relief that you demand for the German people of Stuttgart.

In fact, Mr. Boddy, all the people in all the countries where proscription and subjugation are practiced, are demanding freedom from race, color and national discrimination.

Helping people and nations to recover from the ravages of the war does not grant a license to step in and take control politically and otherwise.

Negro Americans, because of outstanding service rendered in this and all wars in which they served, have qualified for citizenship. And they are asking you, Mr. Boddy, Secretary of State Byrnes, and all the others intensely interested in the internal affairs of Germany, Russia, Yugoslavia, Poland, and other foreign nations—you who are outstanding Americans—what are you going to do about it?

Dewey Fails to Carry Harlem; Powell Re-Elected, Ben Davis Polls Big Vote

NEW YORK—(NNPA)—While the Republican landslide in New York state gave Governor Thomas E. Dewey a plurality of more than 675,000 for reelection, he lost New York City to Senator James M. Mead by a plurality of 189,620 and failed to carry a single district in Harlem.

A summary of the votes for governor in Harlem's four districts—the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th follows:

Dist.	Dewey	Mead
11th A.D. Man.	7,703	11,411
12th A.D. Man.	15,820	21,418
13th A.D. Man.	12,498	17,454
14th A.D. Man.	4,751	11,281

Governor Dewey carried the state outside New York City by 865,208. The total vote in the state with eight election districts missing was Dewey 2,813,133, Mead, 2, 137,545. The citywide vote for Dewey was 1,179,832 as compared with 1,369,452 for Mead.

The Freeport, Long Island, killing of two Negro GI's by a white policeman which Governor Dewey investigated only after much pressure with a resulting whitewash, was an important anti-Dewey issue among Harlem voters. Governor Dewey also was charged during the campaign with failure

Girl Who Lost Unborn Baby in Accident Joins Companion in Action

By EDWARD (BABE) ANDERSON

Mrs. Juanita Judy, 1380½ E. 45th st., and Mrs. Rosie Lee Ham, co-plaintiff, were asking 17,000 in damages at press time yesterday (Wednesday) in the courtroom of Judge Frank Smith. A jury of 10 women and two men are to decide the issue.

The suit, result of an auto accident which occurred at 12th and San Pedro on Jan. 7, 1946, and which resulted in the loss of Mrs. Judys unborn child and injuries to Mrs. Ham's leg and back, causing her, she testified, to lose over six months' work. Employes of the Bristol Laundry, both stated they have since been forced to quit work due to their injuries.

Counsel for the plaintiffs Atty. Crispus A. Wright, pointed out that both of his clients were standing on the sidewalk when struck by an auto driven by Peter Panos, white. He also emphasized that Panos himself had admitted, upon being questioned by Mrs. Ham's husband, that his brakes were faulty and that he was responsible for the collision with another car which resulted in the injury to Mrs. Judy and Mrs. Ham. The other car was

Trustees Evict Rev. Stephenson From His Pulpit

Snatching at everything in sight, including the pulpit, Rev. Don G. Stephenson reportedly tried desperately to cling to his position as pastor of The First Church of Deliverance, East 102nd and Wilmington, as he was escorted to the street by trustees of the church last Sunday.

The eviction culminated action by the congregation which filed a suit against the minister two weeks ago for church property which they charged him with appropriating as his own, as reported exclusively by The EAGLE.

More than 600 people witnessed the incident as the pastor, held by three men, struggled in vain to re-enter the church until police officers took him in hand.

Over two-thirds of the members of the congregation are reported as backing the eviction. However, the minister's faction is charged with precipitating a free-for-all fight. This melee,

Negro Congress Hits Acquittal In Venice Case

The National Negro Congress issued a statement of protest yesterday over the acquittal of 19-year-old Richard Shepard, white, who was charged with kidnaping 13-year-old Clifton Aleaxnder during a race riot in Venice Sept. 7.

In acquitting Shepard after a court trial, Superior Judge Orlando Rhodes asserted that there was "insufficient evidence to convict Shepard." The prosecuting attorney stated that identification of Shepard was too

Wins New Trial For GI Doomed By Army Board

NEW YORK—Victory in its fight for a new trial for Pvt. Lemas Woods Jr., Negro GI sentenced to hang in Manila for the shooting of his tentmate, was announced yesterday by the Civil Rights Congress.

Reversal of the death penalty sentence by the Army Reviewing Board in Washington was based on evidence contained in an appeal placed before the board by the CRC, showing that Woods had not been granted a fair and just trial. Under-Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall announced the decision and ordered the case to be retried.

Witnesses involved in the court-martial will be sent back to Manila to testify. Important evidence, suppressed at the trial, proving that the fatal shooting was accidental, will be fully presented. Because Woods' confession was given under duress and could not be verified in a single detail, there is little likelihood that Woods will again be convicted of murder.

Both prosecuting and defense officers connected with the trial expressed belief that Woods is innocent.

Ga. White, Negro Baptists to Hold Joint Session

SAVANNAH, Ga.—The Georgia Baptist convention, white, in a precedent-breaking move yesterday voted to hold a joint session with the state Negro Baptist convention, which is holding its annual session here simultaneously.

The vote of the White Baptists was unanimous with no unfavorable discussion from the floor.

Vets Group to Push Fight on Jimcrowism In Nation's Capital

By JAMES L. HICKS
NNPA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — The American Veterans Committee this week declared war "against the whole idea" that some people are superior "merely because their ancestors did not have the foresight to get their skins tanned against the rays of the sun."

Addressing the first assembly of the Greater Washington Area Council at the Commerce Department auditorium, John J. Motley, acting chairman of the council, told AVC's 22 chapters that the fight against the barring of Negroes from George Washington university's Lisner auditorium is only the beginning of a nation-wide fight against race discrimination.

The AVC has been picketing the Lisner, where Ingrid Bergman is now appearing in "Joan or Lorraine," since the play opened there two weeks ago because university officials bar colored people from attending performances.

Simultaneously with the AVC declaration of war came the announcements that the National Symphony Orchestra has transferred its student concert series from Lisner auditorium to Constitution Hall because Negroes would not be permitted to attend the concerts at Lisner. Colored people are not barred from at-

GOP Victory Followed by Jump in Prices

First effect of the Republican victory and the resultant action of President Truman in removing price ceilings from all but a few commodities, was a wild skyrocketing of prices, with the powerful General Motors Co. setting the pace.

The auto manufacturing company jacked up prices 100 on all its cars.

Soap manufacturers increased their wholesale prices on their products by 50 per cent.

Food prices took another jump upward, while prices of lead, copper, zinc and other construction material spurted upwards simultaneously.

When he couldn't raise $5,000 bail, Gipson went to county jail yesterday awaiting arraignment on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

Gipson, 305 S. Central avenue, had previously been booked for assault with a deadly weapon on Emma McDonald, sister-in-law of Williams. William's testimony at the hearing had angered Gipson.

Entering William's home at 136 S. Rose street, Oct. 28, he found him in bed, and blasted him three times with a 16 gauge shot-gun.

Williams is recovering in General Hospital, and Gipson will be arraigned on the second assault charge on Nov. 29 in superior court.

Fire Destroys Upper Floor of Rooming House

(SCP)—A $15,000 fire destroyed the roof and upper story of a rooming house—formerly the Hook Mansion—at 2460 S. St. Andrews pl., early yesterday.

The rooming house, now operated by Manuel Reyes, was converted from the mansion once owned by the Hayes family and William Hook families. Firemen, who worked four hours to put out the blaze, said it apparently started in the attic. Furnishings on the lower floors suffered smoke and water damage.

UA Hospital Official Accused Of Discrimination in Refusing Admission to Sick Veteran

By JAMES L. HICKS
NNPA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The Veterans Administration has denied a charge by Mrs. Mabel David that her ill son, T. J. David, a veteran, had been refused admission to Mt. Alto, veteran's hospital, last Wednesday night because he was colored.

Mt. Alto is a 332-bed hospital here with 45 beds set aside for Negro veterans in a Jim-Crow ward.

According to Mrs. David, when her son grew violently ill last Wednesday night she telephoned his doctor, Dr. Charles Prudhomme, who advised her to place him in Mt. Alto at once. Dr. Prudhomme had previous knowledge of David's case and Mrs. David immediately called Mt. Alto and requested Dr. William

The four groups and the amounts allocated to them are: National Negro Congress, $2500; Southern Negro Youth Congress, $1000; Southern Congress of Human Welfare, $1000; Crusade to End Lynching, $500.

Asserting that "continued organization of the American people is the only guarantee that fascist terror in the South will be brought to an end," a report adopted by the Council declared:

Hints France Will Join Russia in Opposing in UN Assembly Smuts' Move to Annex Southwest Africa

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—France's attitude toward the controversial issue of annexation by the Union of South Africa, raised at the United Nations Assembly, will be guided by the freedoms guaranteed in France's new constitution, it was learned yesterday.

Gustave Moutet, adviser on overseas affairs of the French foreign office, indicated strongly that France might oppose annexation of the mandated territory, if it appears that the 300,000 Indians there and the native population resist this move.

The French overseas expert called attention to the preamble of the new French constitution which pledges that France "proposes to guide the peoples for whom she has assumed responsibility toward freedom to govern themselves and democratically to manage their own affairs."

He recalled that France since 1936 has introduced liberal labor laws and higher wages in Indo-China and her Indian possessions.

Admitting that annexation of Southwest Africa by the Union might "smoke out lingering nests of Nazis who have sought cover in that territory," the French diplomat nevertheless solidly based the French position on the "free will of the people to choose their own government."

He emphasized, however, that France was without official information at present as to whether annexation was the expressed will of the Southwest African people, as contended recently by Premier Jan Christian Smuts of the Union before the UN General Committee.

The Indian delegation has taken sharp issue with Smuts, pointing out that the Asiatic Tenure Act legislated by South Africa discriminated against 300,000 Indians in Southwest Africa, "ghetoizing" them and depriving them of elementary political rights, including the vote.

Explaining that not all submerged or oppressed peoples are colonials, Moutet cited a remark made by British Parliamentary Secretary Crech-Jones at the London meeting of the UN assembly last February that: "When one speaks of dependent peoples in terms of colonies, it is wrong, because many dependent peoples are not in colonies."

Thus Moutet touched on an inflammable subject which within the past few days has been hotly debated within the United States delegation and in committee, namely, interference in the domestic affairs of a sovereign state to right plain wrongs, such as discrimination against minorities because of race, color or religion. (The National Negro Congress several months ago filed a petition with the UN asking it to investigate jim-crow oppressism of Negroes in the U. S.—Editor.)

Senator Emilio Saint-Lot of Haiti spoke eloquently on this very theme Friday in the committee on Human Rights, urging that "racial equilibrium" should prevail in the distribution of official position in the United Nations.

Moutet did not comment on the issue of intervention in the domestic affairs of sovereign states, which is specifically forbidden by the UN Charter. He noted, however, that many big powers, hitherto condemned as imperialist, have cleaned house and have relegated discrimination to the past.

He observed that France has replaced her colonial empire by a federal union which grants citizenship to all dependent peoples. He explained that the trustee agreements for the disposition of French Cameroons and Togoland were made in complete agreement with the local population.

He went on to say that two colored representatives who are in the French assembly will come to the UN assembly to represent these territories. They are Prince Douala Manga-Bell from the Cameroons and Auithe from Togoland.

Several Latin-American republics—notably Panama and Cuba—Russia and her border states have emphatically voiced their opposition to South Africa's annexationist proposal.

Panama and Cuba, through their delegates, have branded South Africa's move as "agrandizement," and both Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov and Ukrainian Chief Delegate Dimitre Z. Manuilsky have taken the stand that Smut's demand is in "flagrant" contradiction to the United Nations Charter.

Georgia Links Klan to Bund In New Charges

ATLANTA, Ga.—(NNPA)—The state of Georgia yesterday accused the Ku Klux Klan of attempting to recruit veterans along violently anti-Semitic, anti-Catholic and anti-Negro lines.

Assist. Atty. Gen. Daniel Duke, named by Gov. Ellis Arnall to prosecute the hooded order, filed the charges in Fulton county (Atlanta) superior court as an amendment to the state's suit to revoke the Klan charter. A hearing on the demurrer to the original petition is scheduled for November 25.

According to the amended petition, the Klan front organization in the recruitment of veterans is the Continental League for Christian Freedom, headed by Millard Grubbs of Louisville, Ky.

The state's amended petition also sets forth that in 1940 certain local Klans on the eastern seaboard made "a definite planned effort" to combine the Klan and the German-American Bund into one racially supreme "all-Aryan" organization and undertook joint operation to boycott Jewish, Catholic and Negro businesses.

"Similar activities were planned and executed by the order in collaboration with racially like-minded Fascist and Nazi organizations," the petition declared.

The state seeks dissolution of the Klan charter on the ground that the order "systematically is carrying out a policy designed to violate the rights of Georgia citizens guaranteed under the Constitution of the State and of the United States.

Woman Held Justified in Shooting Mate

(SCP)—It took the coroner's jury exactly 17 minutes to return a verdict of justifiable homicide and to recommend that no charge be made against Mrs. Evelyn Gratt, of 202 North Westlake avenue.

Mrs. Gratt was held on suspicion of murdering her former husband, Robert L. Gratt, from whom she had obtained an interlocutory divorce decree last year. He had been living in the same house, according to her own testimony, because of the housing shortage. Last week she testified, he entered her room and slapped her. Following an argument in which he menaced her, she shot him, she said.

Mrs. Gratt has custody of four minor children.

No Relief in Sight On Small Bread Loaf

(SCP)—Housewives who have been awaiting an increase in the weight of bread loaves will have to wait until at least February 7.

County officials had previously announced their intention to enforce the state law governing bread weights. Bakers and federal officials sought to block the county by pleading that they are allowing a reduction of 10 percent as a conservation measure.

Yesterday a modification was made in the order preventing enforcement of the state law. Attorney for 10 Los Angeles baking companies, and for public officials, said that the order would be changed to allow a 10 per dent tolerance in the state prescribed weights.

The case was continued to Feb. 7.

Two Buddies Reunited At Recruiting Offices

Two outstanding soldiers, graduates of famed Tuskegee institute, yesterday were reunited at the Los Angeles Army recruiting offices.

Master Sergeants Henry Moses, 58, of 901 North Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena, and Grafton C. Poole, 30, of 1859 East 53rd street, Los Angeles, won their commissions as officers after distinguished service as enlisted men.

Poole takes credit for having re-enlisted "old timer" Moses, who has a distinguished record of 31 years in the service—27 years as an enlisted man, and four years as an officer.

Master Sergeant Moses first enlisted in May, 1915, and served with the 25th Infantry in Hawaii and at Fort Huachuca, Arizona. In 1942 he was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry, and assigned to Tuskegee, where he was a ground forces instructor of an Air Base Unit.

Poole, who holds the highest non-commissioned officer grade in the army, wears the ETO ribbon with one campaign star.

Urges Grand Judy To 'Continue' Probe Of Ku Klux Klan

The grand jury today had under consideration an appeal that "it continue its investigations until there is every assurance that the Ku Klux Klan will be uprooted in Los Angeles."

Kenneth van Leuven, Purple Heart veteran, made the appeal to the grand jury on behalf of the American Youth for Democracy. It is understood the grand jury has been looking into Klan activity for several weeks.

Reopens Eve'g Legal Secretary Course at Poly

A former course for legal secretaries was re-established at the Polytechnic Adult Evening high school beginning last Tuesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the school, 400 W. Washington blvd., in Room 359. Legal secretaries and those who are interested in becoming legal secretaries may still enroll.

The course will cover California pleadings, practice, and procedure in civil, criminal, probate, and appellate courts, and will include discussions of the California law of contracts, wills, corporations, persons, and other legal subjects with which a legal secretary should be familiar. The preparation and filing of court forms and pleadings will also be included.

The value of this course is readily apparent. Aimed at producing better, more efficient personnel, the benefit to both attorneys and prospective secretaries is immeasurable. After completion of training, secretaries may demand better pay for their services—and lawyers can expect to find assistants able to carry out numerous legal technicalities without supervision.

Cognizant of the need for just such personnel as the course is expected to provide, the California EAGLE urgently recommends it to you. Let's PREPARE—it pays DIVIDENDS!

Given under the adult education program of the Los Angeles school system, the course is without charge.

Houston College to Get Surplus Material

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Four Texas colleges are to obtain government-owned surplus structures and equipment to accommodate increases in enrollments of veterans studying under the GI Bill of Rights. They are Brownsville Junior college, San Angelo college, Houston college for Negroes and Texas Technological college. Their applications were approved by Major General Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator.

Houston College for Negroes, at Houston, received approval of a request for structures to provide laundry and dry cleaning facilities, a cafeteria, a music building, maintenance facilities, physical education and sports facilities and equipment. Houston college has an enrollment of 1200 including 900 veterans. It is expected to enlarge its student body to 1800, including 1500 veterans.

IT DIDN'T WORK

NEW YORK—(CNS)—New York is chuckling over the attempt of Grant Reynolds to capitalize on a special courtesy extended to him by Isabel Powell, former wife of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell. HOUSING FUNDS INCREASED

NEW YORK—(CNS)—Prospects of a determined assault on the housing shortage and unsightly slums in New York state are brighter as the result of the approval by the voters of an increase in the annual subsidy from $6,250,000 to $9,000,000. The subsidies will be used to keep the rents of housing projects to be built within the means of low-income groups.

To Honor Former Members Of Famous Cadet Corps at Annual Competitive Drill

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The Department of Military Science and Tactics of Divisions 10 to 18 of the District of Columbia public schools at its next annual company competitive drill will honor former members of its Cadet Corps who served in the armed forces and the merchant marine during World War II, Colonel H. C. Atwood, department head, announced yesterday.

The department is currently compiling statistical data on the former cadets, which will be incorporated into a souvenir program and made public at the nert competitive drill to be held in May or June.

Colonel Atwood estimates that of the more than 4000 cadets, who entered the armed forces and the merchant marine from the District, more than 10 per cent of them rose to the rank of commissioned officers.

The Cadet Corps, organized in 1891, has a brilliant record among military men wherever the uniform is worn. Included in the 30,000 men who have graduated through its ranks to positions of prominence in civic and military life are Brigadier General Benjamin O. Davis, only Negro man to hold the rank of general in the prejudice-riddled United States army; Colonel West Hamilton, now on duty at War Department general headquarters at Washington; William F. Hastie, governor of the Virgin Islands; Colonel Campbell C. Johnson, executive assistant to General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service; Prof. Buford Logan, Howard university; and Lieutenant Colonel James Robinson, member of the Secretary of War's discharge review board.

Of the seven Negroes who have graduated from West Point since 1889, three have been members of the colored high school Cadet Corps. They were Major James D. Fowler, Coloney Benjamin O. Davis Jr., and Lieut. Ernest Davis. One graduate of the Corps, Cadet Eddie Howard, is currently enrolled at West Point, while another, Midshipman Wesley Brown, who entered the United States Naval Academy last year, already has been there longer than any other Negro and is expected to be the first Negro to graduate from the Naval Academy, where racial caste is even more entrenched than at West Point.

While compilations are still incomplete, the Corps is known to have suffered more than fifty casualties in World War II.

White Tenants Win Judgment Of $437 Against Evangelist in Rental Overcharge Case Here

(SCP)—Crowded housing conditions brought three persons into Municipal Judge Joseph Marchetti's court yesterday, and after wrinkling his judicial brow and covering a dozen sheets of paper with complicated arithmetic, the justice awarded a $457 judgment against Rev. Cora Martinez, rooming house operator, on a rental overcharge.

Rev. Martinez was hailed into court by a 21-year old white couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gamill, now living at 1195½ W. 30th st. The Gamill's had asked for $2000 damages resudtin from a 6-day stay with their two children, Patricia Ann, 5, and John Edward, 4, jn a room in Rev. Martinez' establishment at 1053 S. Vermont.

Rev. Martinez, calling herself an evangelist preacher, ordained by the Church of the Kingdom of Christ and of God, said she was born inn Bombay, India, in 1917. She offered to pull out naturalization papers to prove her citizenship, granted in Red Wing, Minn.

The Gamills, who came to Los Angeles from Chicago two years ago, said they had to send their two children back to Mrs. Gamill's mother in the windy city, because they could find no place for the whole family to live. They had charged in their complaint that the children became ill from food served at the Martinez establishment, but Judge Marchette struck out that claim in his decision.

Four Negroes Win in Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio. — All wards in this city with large Negro populations voted Democratic by large majorities in the Nov. 5 elections. Dayton's Negro voters also gave the Democrats a heavy vote. This pattern did not obtain generally, however, in the rest of the state. In Cleveland, most of the Negro vote went to the Republicans.

Three colored Republicans were elected, including Harry E. Davis who is the first Negro to be elected to the Ohio senate in 55 years. William B. Saunders and Francis E. Young, both attorneys, were elected to the state assembly from Cleveland, while Moses H. Dixon, lone Negro candidate in the judgeship race, failed to place in the contest for juvenile court judge. Chester Gillespie, candidate for the Ohio senate, and Frank Lyons, candidate for state representative, on the Republican ticket, were defeated.

Rev. David D. Turpeau, Republican, of Cincinnati, was re-elected to a fourth term in the lower houe of the state assembly. Other Negro candidates for the state assembly in Cincinnati and Columbus were defeated.

Democrats to Push Probe of Senator Bilbo

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Democratic members of the senate war investigating committee will support a thoroughgoing investigation of the dealings with war contractors of Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, Democrat, of Mississippi, Senator Harley M. Kilgore, committee chairman, predicted after a conference with President Truman.

Senator Kilgore told reporters that he personally will vote for such an inquiry and he believes other Democrats on the committee will do likewise.

The committee's investigators have not yet reported their findings, but Senator Kilgore emphasized that if they uncover evidence he favors going ahead with the investigation.

Hoover's Tarzan Act Worries Dewey's Men

NEW YORK — (CNS) — The post-election pronouncements of former President Herbert Hoover have the strategy boys who are surrounding Governor Dewey in preparation for the big kick-off in 1948, worried.

Hoover took to the air as soon as he saw the trend pointing to an overwhelming Republican victory, and revived his philosophy that has been universally disowned and disproved by men and events since he was repudiated by the whole nation.

Dewey, it is privately reported, is concerned lest Hoover's role as elder statesman and traditional head of the Republican party, dim his chances of success by becoming too articulate. Dewey believes in the same things that made Hoover's administration a nightmare, and he has reported them frequently, but when Hoover says them, the people begin to remember the breadlines and the apple sellers.

City's Revenue Up, But Council Snags Workers' Pay Hike

(SCP) — Expected revenue for the City of Los Angeles will exceed expectations by $2,088,660 by June 30, 1947, exclusive of expected revenue from the new municipal airport among other items, according to facts presented the city council by Mayor Fletcher Bowron.

But salary increases for city employes as recommended by Bowron to the extent of $375,000, more or less, ran into a snag when the council voted 7 to 6 to refer his recommendations to the "appropriate committees" of the council for further study before submitting the wage adjustments to the finance committee.

The mayor had asked that salary adjustments be "rushed through" in an effort to make them effective by December 1, but Councilman G. Vernon Bennett's motion to that effect was voted down by the bare margin of one vote.

Delegation to Visit City Hall November 25 To Protest New Wave of Police Brutality

A call has been sounded this week to the citizens of Los Angeles to join the National Negro Congress, Civil Rights Congress, Mobilization for Democracy, youth, veteran and labor groups in a delegation which will wait upon the Police Commissioner of Los Angeles 10 a.m., Tuesday, Nov. 26, at City Hall to demand an investigation of recent cases of police brutality and an end to police terror.

The most shockin case of increasing incidents of police brutality todate is that of Tyree Williams, 36, of 1170½ E. 46th st., who was attacked by traffic policemen at Fifth and Broadway in front of a crowd of people, beaten unconscious, taken to Georgia st., booked at Lincoln Heights jail on a drunk charge and later released on 60 days' probation when he pleaded guilty to win his freedom.

After hearing a detailed account of the case Tuesday evening from Mrs. Tyree Williams, members of NNC's Lynch Terror and Police Brutality committee announced that they will get an attorney and try to re-open the case.

The attack upon Williams, made in the presence of his wife and their two young boys, started after a police officer ordered him to pick up a traffic sign that had been knocked down. Williams obeyed and was then seized, dragged across the street, threatened, slugged with a blackjack, handcuffed and kicked.

Exhausts Alphabet in Filing Exhibits at Edwards' Hearing

Using up most of the alphabet, Deputy Dist. Atty. Edw. L. McLarty seemed limitlessly resourceful as he piled up evidence "exhibits" against Charles J. Edwards, in a preliminary hearing in the courtroom of Judge Edwin L. Jefferson. Papers, letters, criminal files, photostats, a license—and more—were exhibited for identification, leading to trial of the self-styled "seeker after truth."

Playing to Standing Room Only, the dramatic proceedings were highlighted by the testimony of Clark Sellers, examiner of questioned documents. His findings on "Exhibit B" explained the move which made Edwards' posing as an attorney possible. In examining this "exhibit," a letter of recommendation to the State Bar, Sellers explained how the defendant allegedly had erased certain typewritten phrases of another man's letter of recommendation, and substituted words of his own choosing.

Subsequent testimony, including that of Gerald Weil, secretary of the California State Bar, established the procedure by which Edwards finally obtained an attorney's license.

At a glance, one could hardly tell which was the defendant, as Edwards sat between Attorneys Wright and Knapp, alternately peering around the courtroom and conferring with the "other" lawyers.

Edwards' loose-fitting, two-toned blue sport jacket accentuated rather than modified the thinness of his shoulders. His "brownish" hair had a subdued gleam—suggesting a light pomade. Lying close to his head, it heightened the contrast with his Gable-like ears.

He seemed intently interested in the audience as his bright, piercing eyes darted here and there, usually coming to rest in the general direction of his blonde-haired mother, who sat in the rear of the courtroom.

The audience, a 50-50 mixture of white and colored, and composed largely of elderly people, was conscious of his eyes flitting over them—as if wanting to know "who came to see the show."

As he turned, I noted that he was badly in need of a shave; his face, which appeared even thinner than when I visited him a week before, was paler, more drawn, and in spite of his defiant eyes, I got the impression that here was a sick man.

Edwards sat with his hands over his mouth as Weil recounted the chronological order of his acts in fooling the State Bar, as recorded by documents brought in evidence. A ghost of a smile played about his lips as a City Hall Record Room clerk explained how he had duped her into giving him his own police record; pretending to be a detective and presumably taking the records to the "chief's office."

In closing the preliminary, Judge Jefferson found sufficient cause to hold Edwards on five counts. He denied pleas of Edwards' attorneys, to lower bail—to facilitate his removal to a hospital. Since, they argued, he was in dire need of medical attention.

Leaving the courtroom, Edwards looked moody, the lines about his mouth deepening as though he was in physical agony. His eyes flashed, however, as he smiled weakly in greeting a feminine acquaintance.

Arraignment was set for Nov. 25.

Man Freed for Lack Of Evidence on Two Counts of Forgery

(SCP)—Two counts of forgery against Robert H. Heyman were dismissed by Municipal Judge Leroy Dawson for lack of evidence.

Heyman was charged with forging two checks on the account of the Atlas Sponge Rubber Co., 806 E. 61st street, which were drawn on the Security-First National Bank.

The checks were payable to Leo Black, allegedly one of Heyman's aliases, and were signed by "P. R. Lewis" but there was insufficient evidence to identify Hyman as either "Leo Black" or "P. R. Lewis." Officials of the rubber company said no official by the name of Lewis was in their employ.

The checks were allegedly cashed by Jerry Freeman, 4120 S. Broadway, and William St. Pierre, 2765 E. Olympic boulevard.

B. Margolis, J. Somerville Main Speakers at HPA Rally

The rally of the Home Protective Association, held in the editorial rooms of The California EAGLE last Friday evening, partook of the nature of both Thanksgiving and Hallowe'en. The room was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, while a centerpiece of fruits and vegetables graced the long table at the side of the room. Mrs. Wicks was chairman of the decorating committee.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing games and in social chatter. Attorney Ben Margolis, who is steering the case of the Laws family versus the restrictive covenant owners through the courts, gave a synopsis of the case in the second part of the program.

Mr. Margolis expressed a fear that the trend of the country was towards Fascism, and stated that no matter how the case of the Laws family was decided, the people who are working for the rights of all people everywhere would not dare lie down on the job now.

"Should the case be decided against Henry and Anna Laws," he said, " we shall go to the United States Supreme Court with it."

By a ruling of a municipal court more than two years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Laws were ordered to leave their home on 92nd Street, because of a restrictive covenant unearthed by two real estate men. They refused to leave, were sent to jail for a week for contempt of court, and upon being released took up the fight for the right to live in their own home.

Dr. John Somerville, prominent civic leader, discussed the desirability of coordinating the work of all anti-restrictive covenant groups.

In referring to the Sugar Hill anti-restrictive covenant group, Dr. Somerville said that "Too often people join these anti-covenant groups only when they are deeply in trouble." He stressed then point that drives must be conducted to interest people of the community to participate in the work of anti-covenant groups so that the organizations may grow stronger and more effective.

The Home Protective Association was organized by Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California Eagle, to mobilize the fight against all restrictive covenants, with the case of the Laws family as nucleus. The case is now awaiting a decision by the State Supreme Court.

Funds for the fight have been raised through voluntary contributions, rallies, sales, etc.

A jam and jelly sale was also conducted in connection with the rally. Matt Laws, brother of Henry Laws, was the lucky winner of the fruit cake given away. The total amount raised was about $80.00. To date the HPA has raised a grand total of over $2000.00, all used in the fight against restrictive covenants.

Mrs. Tommie Reeves presided at the rally.

'Eagle' Story Cited in Protest to Police

November 11, 1946

The Police Commission
City Hall
Los Angeles 12, California

Dear Commission Members:

Enclosed herewith is a clipping from last Thursday's issue of the California EAGLE. The description is typical of many which have preceded it in the last couple of years and underscores the urgent need for such a program of education and discipline as a committee of the American Civil Liberties Union presented to your body on October 29th. We hold that, wholly aside from the brutality here reported, there must be an end to the use of racial epithets by officers of the law in our American democracy. The frequency with which this sort of thing is reported seems to indicate a lack of concern on the part of those responsible for training and discipline.

Sincerely yours,
American Civil Liberties Union, Southern California Branch.
A. A. Heist, Director.

Hike in Fines Cuts Parking Violations

(SCP)—The $10 parking tickets ordered by the municipal court on Oct. 21 have resulted in a 34 percent decrease in parking violations, Police Chief B. R. Caldwell said yesterday.

In a speech to the Metropolitan Traffic and Transit Committee of the Chamber of Commerce meeting at the University Club, the chief added that there had also been a 26 percent drop in other traffic violations since the order went into effect.

Nell Petree, chairman of the committee, also gave a resume of the Collier Committee report on freeways and highways. The report recommends an expenditure of $312,000,000 for 175 miles of freeways in the county, he said.

Haitian Delegate Calls on UN To Outlaw Racial, Religious Hates

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(NNPA.)—Senator Emilio Saint-Lo, delegate of Haiti, called for the fullest support for an Egyptian resolution aimed at stamping out racial discrimination and religious persecution which was placed on the United Nations General Assembly. The Egyptian resolution, originally aimed at Russian occupation forces in Eastern Europe, backfired on its Anglo-American instigators when it was amended to cover the entire field of race and religious relations:

In an impassioned voice, the eloquent spokesman for Haiti appealed to the 51 delegates, not on the grounds that his country was a Negro republic but that Haiti attaches the highest importance to the work in the field of racial discrimination.

He went on to say that this issue cannot be evaded by the UN organization if it is to reach the noble goal of "understanding and fraternity to better mankind irrespective of the color of a man's skin."

He condemned the racial superiority doctrines of Alfred Rosenberg, and declared that these will take more than a few years to disappear. However, he urged that the UN Charter which "underlines the dignity of the human person and condemns discrimination," be applied at the earliest date.

Justice Mohammedali Chagla, of India, with apparent emotion declared that this proposal must be accepted because it will strengthen the UN organization and make it "the great moral force for which it is intended."

He questioned the opposition to this resolution by saying:

"Is there any member state here who is in favor of persecution or discrimination? Is there any member state here who does not want to protest against any persecution or discrimination if it is taking place in any part of the world."

Speaking for Poland, Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate to the UN, said his country had felt racial discrimination.

"After six years under Nazi occupation, 6,000,000 poles were killed, 3,000,000 out of them Jews," he said.

Lange lent his wholehearted support to the Egyptian resolution, but he stated he would reserve the right to introduce amendments to the resolution at a later date.

The resolution which was adopted by acclamation at the General Assembly plenary session, was rejected in the steering committee because of misunderstanding between the Slav states as to wording in the preamble. This was cleared up at the larger meeting.

The crime of genocide, another item, put on the agenda for the General Assembly to take up, was added to the list without discussion.

In the same way as the Nurenberg statute has become an international law, the extermination of large blocs of persons because of racial hatred will become an international crime. The assurance of international cooperation for its prevention and punishment may well be a revolutionary advancement in international law.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1— Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "days" to come.

2— Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Dawson to Offer Bill to Outlaw Housing Bias

CHICAGO, Ill. — A national housing fair practices act, aimed at illegalizing race discrimination in federally-financed housing projects, will be introduced in the forthcoming session of congress by William L. Dawson, (D. Ill.), the United Negro and Allied Veterans of America announced yesterday.

Dawson, in discussing the proposed bill, stated that he is studying a preliminary draft of the measure before announcing the final form of the bill.

The projected national housing fair practices act, grew out of a resolution passed by UNAVA's national council at a meeting here September 28. The resolution called for congressional action to stop widespread discrimination against "Negro and other minority veterans in federally financed housing."

Some of the points contained in the resolution are:

- Make illegal discrimination because of race, creed or color in housing financed in whole or in part by federal funds.
- Deny federal financial assistance to any public or private housing project or venture, which so discriminates.
- Deny federal financial assistance to any state or local housing program from which persons are denied benefit because of race or color.
- Establish a federal Housing Fair Practices Commission with power to subpoena, appointed by the President to enforce this policy.

UNAVA officials said they hope to see these recommendations incorporated in the bill.

Minority Status Vague as States Take Over USES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Labor Department officials were unable to predict yesterday what the future status of the minority interest section of the United States Employment Services will be when that agency is returned to the states Friday.

Although department officials were unanimous in their opinion that "some kind of headquarters will have to be maintained in Washington," not one of them would hazard a guess as to where the minority section would fall in the headquarters setup.

One official stated that since the present function of the section is to draw up programs for the handling of minority groups at all levels, there is strong possibility that the functions of the section would remain unchanged, and it is even possible that it may be enlarged under an increased work load brought on by the many different methods of operation which are certain to appear in state-controlled operations.

On the other hand, another department official called attention to the strong attitude taken by the Inter-State Council of Employment Agencies against federal "interference" in state-controlled agencies and said that he would not be surprised if not only the functions of the minority group passed out of existence but that congress might soon bring an end to the entire USES as a federal agency.

CIO Union Wins Fight on Job Bias at City Hall

LeRoy Jennings passed the examination for elevator operator, but was told by the starter at the City Hall that he had "not used any niggers" since he had been starter and did not intend to use any as long as he was starter at the City Hall.

Jennings took his case to the CIO United Public Workers, his only hope of getting any consideration. Rubin Kaufman, international representative of United Public Workers, together with Jennings and James R. C. Cotton, chairman of the City Hall Custodians unit of UPW-CIO, met with Milton Offner, in charge of the custodial department.

The result of their discussion was that Jennings reported for work on the elevators November 12, thereby breaking a long-standing rule in the City Hall of using only white elevator operators.

Detroit Elects Negro Democrat To State Senate

DETROIT— (NNPA) —Joseph A. Brown, Democratic candidate in the second district, was elected state senator by a vote of 39,086. His white Republican opponent, Wierserckl, was trailing by 20,247 votes, with 106 precincts out of 162 reported in.

Robert Ward, Republican in the third district, failed to unseat his Democratic opponent for the seat once held by Charles C. Diggs.

Jeanetta Welch Brown, who ran for state representative on the Democratic ticket, failed to place as Republican precincts continued to pour in.

In the first, 13th and 15th congressional districts, the Democrats, George Sadowski, George D. O'Brien, and John Dingell, were far ahead of their Republican challengers.

Those observing the results of the November 5 elections scored it as a complete Democratic ticket. However, the Republicans drove a wedge into the solid Negro vote of the Democrats in Detroit and won some support among minority groups.

Wyatt Asks Mayors Set Housing Goals

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Establishment of community housing goals, including the proportion to be available for minority groups, headed a list of four suggestions sent to 700 Mayors' Emergency Housing Committees over the nation by Wilson W. Wyatt, national housing expediter yesterday.

The suggestions were aimed at aiding communities in developing desirable building sites for the veterans emergency housing program in 1947.

Wyatt estimated that nearly 300 square miles of raw land must be developed for the 1947 program. The cost of acquiring this land and providing it with the necessary public services has been estimated at about one billion dollars.

'So Often We Look Only on The Surface,' Says Estranged Wife of Joseph Thierry

By EDWARD (BABE) ANDERSON

"Gail, if that's you playing pranks again . . . " the well modulated, if slightly irked, woman's voice filtered through the partially open door as I rang the doorbell.

"Oh, it's you," Mrs. Florence Thierry, estranged wife of Joseph M. Thierry, smiled pleasantly, recognizing me. I had met her at her husband's trial, when she testified that she felt that the shotgun murderer of one year old Judith Ann Carter was insane. Remembering now, I could see her once more as she took the stand. Limping just a bit—from an injury received in an auto accident—yet retaining much of the grace of her naturally beautiful body.

I looked at this brave and lovely young woman whom I had come to admire greatly through hurried conversations with her at the trial. "I've often thought that blind people must live fuller lives than people with vision'," she had told me then. "You see, they have to form their opinions of other people on their character alone—while we often let appearances guide us. So often, we think a person is good simply because he looks good."

Mrs. Thierry was reluctant to talk about Thierry: "I don't want it to look as though I am seeking sympathy . . . the sooner it's forgotten, the better", she protested. Thierry was sentenced to life imprisonment.

She did say, however, that earlier reports that she and her husband had been already separated when he met Mrs. Carter, mother of the murdered child, were untrue. She states that her husband confronted her in August of 1943 with the announcement of his infatuation with Mrs. Carter, saying: "This thing has not started over night . . . It's been going on for a long time."

My lovely hostess called in Gail, her four year old daughter, whom she had mistakenly accused of ringing the doorbell. I gazed into the pretty wide-eyed child's face. Her chestnut colored hair lay in two braids almost to her shoulders, as did her mother's black tresses.

When asked about her plans, Mrs. Thierry told me she was taking a stenographic course at present. She talked easily, but seemed deep in thought.

By way of summation, Mrs. Thierry rejected: "So often we look only on the surface of life . . . and Joe was a handsome man."

Survey Reveals Native Fascists Worked for GOP Victory; Defeat of Progressives, FEPC

Un-American propagandists of nationalist, anti-Semitic, Ku Klux Klan and like extremist groups were unprecedentedly active during the 1946 election campaign, as compared with any recent non-presidential campaign, is the conclusion of a survey by the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, presented to the league's board of directors by Prof. James H. Sheldon, administrative chairman.

On the other hand, the league's survey discloses that although dangerous forces have been "unprecedentedly active," the vigor and effectiveness of "organized groups of good Americans," bent on unearthing and stopping the flood of propaganda of religious and racial bias, has been more effective than ever before in minimizing the evils that might otherwise have resulted.

Unfortunately, most of this subversive political activity has been carefully concealed behind more-or-less anonymous fronts—although several well-established groups, like Gerald L. K. Smith's followers, have perhaps been more open than before in labelling their activity as "political."

The league's survey cites cases stretching across the United States from New York to San Francisco.

CONCENTRATE FIRE ON ROOSEVELT DEMOCRACY

In California, one former congressman, J. H. Hoeppel, who sought re-election, heads a self-constituted "veterans committee" and writes to prospective members "unless the veterans take over . . . the Jews will . . ." (Hoeppel ran a poor third in the 12th district.—Editor.)

In Kansas, "Rev." Gerald B. Winrod, conspicuous defendant in the federal sedition conspiracy case, who earlier earned official Nazi praise for his "Roosevelt's Jewish Ancestors" chart, used the resources of his "religious" publishing establishment, the Defender Publishers, in an out-and-out partisan attack upon all progressive forces in American politics, and in particular upon the friends of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In a last-minute appeal for election funds Winrod, hiding his ultra-Nationalism behind a psuedo anti-communism, enclosed a 36-page brochure labelled Persecuted Preachers and declared, "This is the most critical year in American history. Every copy of Persecuted Preachers circulated at this time is a nail in the New Deal's coffin."

The opening paragraph of Winrod's booklet (the title page of which carries the legend "Fifth printing, 1008 copies") contains a vigorous endorsement of American Action, Ins. (Maryland corporation), followed by an open letter addressed to the Congressional Committee on Un-American Activities and signed: "In behalf of the directors of American Action, Inc., Rev. Walter Haushalter, 4201 Underwood road, Baltimore, Md." This open letter contains an extreme attack upon various Jewish newspapers and Jewish community organizations, smearing them as "communist." (Winrod's accompanying endorsement commences: "America Action, Inc., is the name of a legally incorporated organization in the state of Maryland devoted to the task of upholding constitutional democracy as against the encroachment of un-American ideologies.")

Possibly the weirdest campaign document produced by these propagandists is a 14-page pamphlet entitled, The Roosevelt Death. A Super Mystery—Suicide, Assassination, Natural Death, Still Alive? This violently anti-Roosevelt and anti-Semitic publication, identified only as "Compiled by Mr. X," was offered by a group called the Midwestern Political Survey Institute, at Detroit, but distribution seems to have been effected primarily through Gerald L. K. Smith's organizations.

This pamphlet, reminiscent of Streicher at his worst, is replete with scurrilous and defamatory statements against several of the surviving members of the President's personal and official family, and Roosevelt is pictured as the prisoner of "a terrible international cartel" of Jewish background, including the Rothschilds, Warburgs, etc.

SMITH DEFENDS "WHITE PRIMARY"

Gerald L. K. Smith also came out in vigorous endorsement of the American Action, Inc., movement, of which he states in his October 26 news release:

"The America First Crusade has no organic or financial connection with the so-called American Action Committee, Inc., headed by General Robert E. Wood, Col. Robert McCormick, and others, but all people associated with the America First Crusade have been advised to cooperate on the grounds that we are working toward the same end."

Smith chose election eve as the time to launch a reprint of the notorious anti-Semitic book The International Jew, issued a quarter of a century ago by Henry Ford. He offered complimentary copies to all contributors who sent in $10. The October Cross and the Flag (Smith's monthly) contained a defense of the white primary in the South and disclosed what Smith labels "an effort to frame Talmadge."

In New York City the Steuben Society of America, representative of the most reactionary groups of Americans of German descent, combined violent attacks upon the Nuremberg trial with defense of local right-wing candidates. The society's political activities for this fall opened at its annual anniversary banquet, on Sept. 28, where greetings were received from several of the society's "favorite sons" in public life. Funds were raised through publication of an elaborate program, advertisers in which included more than a score of local German business concerns previously listed as members of the Nazi Bund-affiliated DKV (Deutscher Konsum Verbund) or anti-Jewish boycott organization which functioned as an economic adjunct to the Bund up until Pearl Harbor. One full page was credited to Romanoff Cavier, Inc., whose head subsidized Hamilton Fish's National Committee to Keep America Out of Foreign Wars, etc. (When Hitler became Chancellor of Germany, Theodore Hoffman, who is still Steuben's national chairman, visited Germany and declared: "Hitler is an idealist . . . honest and sincere . . .".)

HONORS AUTHOR OF ANTI-NEGRO CANARD

On October 26, the eve of election, the Steuben Society apparently decided to come out more openly in the cast of at least one candidate, who was seeking election to Congress in the 18th New York district. The society's October 26 letter to members of its Astor-Zenger Unit No. 26, reads in part:

"Our Unit . . . endorses the nomination of Mr. Fredrick F. Bryan . . . a candidate for congress . . . We must vote the Republican ticket next week . . . Every member of the Steuben Society should make himself a delegate to talk to his friends and win at least one, better two, and still better ten persons . . ." The letter concludes with a statement of appreciation from Mr. Bryan "for all the help that you are giving me."

The Steuben Society at its recent national convention introduced as one of its most distinguished guests, Dr. Austin J. App, of San Antonio, Texas, author of Ravishing the Women of Europe and an originator of the notorious canard charging American Negro troops with raping German girls in the subways of Stuttgart. This tale was laughed to death when Walter Winchell pointed out that there are no subways in Stuttgart.

ATTACKS FEPC, PRAISES TAFT

Most active centers of these propagandists during the recent election have been California, Illinois, and some of the southern states.

The Broom, edited by C. Leon DeAryan, who is also under federal indictment for sedition, chose the month of October for a violently scurrilous attack on proposals for a State FEPC Act in California. "Go to the polls and stop this un-American communistic Moscow type procedure," cries DeAryan, and in the next column printed an attack upon Hon. Robert E. Hannegan, signed by Kurt Mertig, lately imprisoned former head of a New York affiliate of the Nazi Bund.

Other space in the same issue of the Broom was headed "Taft's Great Heart and Mind," following which the editor declares: "Intelligent Christians owe a debt of gratitude to the GOP's greatest Senator Robert A. Taft for having the guts to denounce the infamous, biased and illegal court at Nuremberg, which is lynching the defeated German leaders." (The Broom, October 21, 1946, page 4.)

Another agitator active on the West Coast is the pro-Arab propagandist Salem Bader, who opened his political activities some months ago with a private breakfast in San Francisco, arranged in honor of Prince Feisel, at which he brought together Upton Close, Beatrice Knowles, and others since connected with American Action, Inc., "We the Mothers", and similar propadanda groups. Related to the same propaganda efforts by Bader is a series of ostencibly anti-Zionist discussions at Los Angeles sponsored by a group calling itself The Public Affairs Forum, and comparable in some respects to the Philadelphia Current Events Club recently exposed as a front for Gerald L. K. Smith in that city. Bader has also been associated with Merwin K Hart, head of the National Economic Council, and now Upton Close's sponsor on the air.

BEAT GHOST OF F.D.R.

Special target of many of these California groups were Congressman Will Rogers Jr., who was defeated in his bid for the senate by Republican Senator William Knowland; and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, returned to congress by voters in the 14th district.

Several other defendants in the Sedition Conspiracy Case violently engaged in pre-election beating of the ghost of F.D.R.—especially Court Asher (publisher of an Indiana weekly, The X-Ray) and Edward James Smythe, notorious Ku Klux Klan organizer. Both of these men are mostly concerned in an anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic line of agitation, and Smythe's so-called Protestant War Veterans organization has long been a notorious front for Nazi-like propaganda.

Racial and religious election-time bigotry reached its all-time high in the South, where Ku Klux Klan influences, including groups like the Columbians in Georgia and the Continental League for Christian Freedom in Kentucky, made anti-Catholic and anti-Negro agitation into a dangerous weapon of political gangsterism. Most extreme organ of these groups is the monthly, White Horse, published at Atlanta, Ga., and circulated through Klan circles.

In Mississippi, Senator Bilbo (D.) was himself the spearhead for the hate propagandists, his campaign gradually deteriorating from a program of deporting Negroes to Africa to out-and-out threats of coercion and physical violence, ending up with the advice that the "best way to keep a n—— (Negro) from voting is to see him the night before."

This campaign of bias and nationalism was studiously extended to minority groups not ordinarily touched very much by political campaigning. In New York City, for example, a special committee of Lithuanians from the Lithuanian Council group, generally identified with the interest of the late dictator of Lithuania, Smetona, who served as one of Hitler's most notorious quislings, undertook to guide the ballots of Lithuanian-Americans. A protograph of this committee, meeting in Washington with Republican Chairman Carroll Reece, appeared a few days before election day in many Lithuanian language newspapers. Sopkesmen for this group on its Washington visit was Mrs. Violet Tysliava, wife of the editor of Vienybe. (New York Lithuanian weekly with pronounced right-wing leanings).

A great recrudescence of activity was noticed with groups allied with Dr. Erward Rumley's Committee for Constitutional Government. (Dr. Rumley was tried for contempt of congress following his refusal to disclose sources of this committee's funds expended during the 1944 presidential campaign. Following the First World War he was sentenced to federal prison for activities as an agent of the German government, but was subsequently pardoned by President Calvin Coolidge.) Rumley's highly financed committee collaborated with such groups as the Life Insurance Policy-Holders Protective Association, a "paper" committee which also played a part in the 1944 campaign.

This year the "Life Insurance group abandoned its policy of non-partisanship and declared: "You should make every effort to elect a Republican congressman from your district," on the theory that the dreaded control of Roosevelt's friends may be broken only if all present congressional chairmen are evicted from their seats.

Outstanding amongst these more highly financed but nevertheless nationalist-type organizations is American Action, Inc., which embraces many of the most conspicuous leaders of the America First Committee including its chairman, General Wood. Formation of American Action, Inc., as a political force, was forecast by the Anti-Nazi League in an exclusive expose as long ago as April 1943, when the League revealed proceedings of a secret two-day meeting held in an upstairs room of the Palmer House Hotel, Chicago, and attended by Merwin K. Hart, president of the National Economic Council, and well-known Franco sponsor, Earl Southard, Illinois chairman of Gerald L. K. Smith's America First Committee, Harry A. Jung, head of the Chicago Tribune-subsidized American Vigilent Intelligence Federation, and other persons conspicuous in propaganda activities. The alliance formed at the Palmer House Hotel, subsequently became closely consolidated during 1944 and 1945 and blossomed into the newly incorporated American Action, Inc.

By coincidence or otherwise, the quarters occupied today by American Action, Inc., in New York City's Murray Hill Hotel, are exactly the same as those occupied in 1944 by the MacArthur Associates—a group widely exposed in the press on account of its isolationist backing—in 1944.

McGee, Brown Exonerated in Hijacking Case

Elihu McGee, popularly known as "Black Dot" McGee, was exonerated this week along with one of his co-defendants, Norris Brown, when the pair appeared in Superior Judge William R. McKay's court with their attorneys, Charles H. Matthews and Earl C. Broaday to press a motion for a dismissal of charges of hi-jacking a truckload of whiskey belonging to the Williams Transfer Company.

McGee, popular cafe operator and sportsman, was arrested recently together with Brown, Lorenzo Davis and Melvin Blackshear, when police officers saw Davis and Blackshear driving the stolen truckload of whiskey with McGee's automobile being driven some distance in the rear of the truck.

McGee protested his innocence as did Brown and explained to officers that he and Brown had done business with one another for some period of time, Brown being in the poultry business and McGee purchasing his meat for his cafe from Brown.

Both McGee and Brown were originally charged with grand theft of the whiskey and receiving stolen property.

At the preliminary hearing Attorney Matehews representing McGee, as well as Attorney Broady, representing Brown, were able to secure a dismissal of the receiving stolen property charges. Later when the case reached the superior court, the district attorney's office refiled the receiving stolen property charges along with the theft charges over the objection of both attorneys. Both attorneys joined in a motion for a dismissal contending that the evidence did not warrant either of the defendants, McGee or Brown, being forced to the expense of a trial.

Residents Urged to Combat Rat Invasion

(SCP)—With a million rats beginning their cold-weather invasion into warm buildings, and no Pied Piper to lure them away, Dr. H. C. Pulley, acting health officer, warned that Los Angeles faces the greatest typhus fever and plague danger since 1924.

Dr. Pulley said all residents could help in the health department's anti-rat campaign by cleaning up rubbish piles and other rodent hiding places in and around homes and yards.

In 1924, the health officer stated, 31 plague fatalities occurred from typhus fever, a rat-borne disease. Present evidence indicates that by the end of this year, 36 cases will be reported in Los Angeles. Already 26 cases are on record, and at the current rate 10 more are expected, he said.

No plague has been reported yet, but Charles K. Stewart, city rodent control director, said that cases of rat bite have increased, with frequent reports that sleeping children have had their ears nibbled.

After several delays, Republic's untitled musical drama starring Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey started rolling Monday, with veteran Associate-producer-director Allan Dwan at the helm.

Nation-wide Strike of Radio Artists Looms

(SCP) — A Sunday evening without Jack Benny, Phil Harris, Fred Allen, and Senator Claghorn was more than a remote possibility here today when the American Federation of Radio Artists, in local meetings in Los Angeles and Chicago authorized the national board to call a coast-to-coast strike of radio artists.

Similar actions by the New York and San Francisco locals would almost automatically put the strike in force.

The radio artists, according to Claude McCue, executive secretary of the local AFRA group, have reached a deadlock in the negotiations which have been going on since last October. Their present contracts expired Oct. 31.

The networks have offered a 10 per cent increase in salaries, in face of a union demand for a 35 per cent raise and several other proposals. The union also asks that no "local affiliated" station of the four major networks shall be fed any shows which use AFRA personnel unless the stations first sign the union contracts.

THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

United Nations at Work

The United Nations Assembly now in its third week in New York City, is getting a lot of work done despite all the cumbersome details it must overcome and the red tape it must cut through.

Helen Gahagan Douglas who with Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of the United States delegation, describes some of those details most interestingly. Mrs. Douglas is a member of the committee on Economics and Finances, and Mrs. Roosevelt the committee which deals with the Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural aspects of international life.

Members of the American delegation are staying at the Pennsylvania Hotel, and they meet there every morning at nine o'clock to talk over what happened the day before and to plan for that day. The committee meetings are held at Lake Success, about an hour's drive from New York.

There are members from many nations on each committee, and there are many different languages spoken. Very few, of course, can understand the English language. So when any speeches are made they must be translated. Most of the committee rooms have the instantaneous translation system. Each person is given a set of head phones to wear. As the speech is made it is translated, sentence by sentence, into the various languages. When Mrs. Douglas makes a speech in English, it is translated as she goes along into French, Russian, etc.

Not all the committee rooms have this system, and the other day when Mr. Vyshinsky made a speech in Russian, it took three hours to have it translated first into English and then into French.

But in spite of all these difficulties, says Mrs. Douglas, we seem to get our viewpoints across and I believe progress is being made."

Mrs. Douglas is especially interested in a resolution which would make genocide or the murder of a race, an international crime. Any person, as Hitler did, or any nation as Germany did, which would deliberately attempt to annihilate an entire race of mankind as the Jews, the Negroes, or any other minority group, would be guilty of a crime before the United Nations.

This is truly an important subject under discussion. And although the United Nations as an organization is barely learning to walk, it has already tackled some very tough problems. But by international goodwill and friendliness, such as Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. Roosevelt are emanating, we believe these problems will eventually be solved.

The hope of the world is in their hands.

Militant Action Called For

There are some people who fear that the upsurge of the returned war veterans against Fascist tendencies in this country may lead to the establishment of a regime in which the veterans would be dictators. They cite the incident at Athens, Tennessee, in which the veterans attacked the courthouse where the ballot boxes of an election had been taken for skull duggery purposes, and captured those same ballot boxes.

But these returned war veterans acted against those very forces which might bring dictatorship to this country. There can be no danger unless the reactionary forces gain control of such movements.

The Negro people with other progressive forces of America must seek to prevent control of these popular movements by reactionaries. This cannot be done by standing on the sidelines, speculating what it's all about, or appraising such movements from the legalistic point of view. "Unconstitutional", seems to be the cry of some of these fearful ones.

But if we consider the movement of these young veterans as unconstitutional, as illegal, and potentially dangerous, would not every revolt against the established order of things be considered illegal and dangerous? They would be illegal, it is true. But under whose laws? Dangerous to whom? It depends upon which side of the fence we are on.

The armed defense by the vets of their constitutional rights might convert the South into a rehearsal ground for native storm troopers, say those who want to remain as we are.

But what is happening right now in the South? Isn't the wave of lynch terror a rehearsal for native storm troops? The feudalistic regimes and political machines which have controlled the South for decades need to be opposed strenuously.

The capture of those ballot-boxes by the vets in Athens, Tenn. was simply a vigorous execution of the law by persons who had fought to defend it. If the law enforcement officers of the country do not want their jobs taken from them, then let them, themselves do their work more effectively.

The Record Speaks

Echoes from all across the nation, aftermath of the November 5 elections, point out that the masses are confronted with a new phase in the struggle for freedom.

Perhaps it is well to define the elements in the political life of the so-called common people that tend to confuse and frustrate them.

In the Los Angeles' realm of the November elections, a separate and distinct pitched battle was waged in the Fourteenth Congressional District. Racial representation was the issue injected into the campaign. Of course people who over a long period have been denied equal rights and privileges are sensitive on the point of supporting an individual of another race against one of their own. Shrewd poltiicians know this and use it to cloud the real issues.

Thus in the Fourteenth District, the Republicans sought to stampede the electorate on the race issue, tried to blind them to other questions involved, such as the fine record of Helen Gahagan Douglas, and the contrasting political and economic outlooks of the two candidates.

The Republicans not only sought to stampede the voters on the racial issue, but tried to whip into line all those to whom the voters might look for guidance. They concentrated a veritable barrage of attacks against The California EAGLE, the one newspaper which had steadfastly refused to either shift or modify its support of Mrs. Douglas.

Some of the daily papers, taking their orders from the coalition of Republicans and Fascists which sought to defeat Helen Douglas at any cost, and aided no doubt by certain Eastside newspaper racketeers, utilized the Charles Edwards case in a frantic attempt to discredit the EAGLE and its editor. They got hold of some photographs that had been removed from the editor's office without her knowledge. They doctored those photographs to suit their unholy purpose, used them in an indirect attack on the EAGLE, the only newspaper in the Negro community that supported Mrs. Douglas on her record without attacking her opponent, Frederick M. Roberts.

In this dastardly attempt to smear The EAGLE, the daily press did not lack allies on the Eastside. One Eastside newspaper editor telephoned Mrs. Marguerite Edwards, mother of the much publicized Charles Edwards, and suggested that the editor of The EAGLE had used her son for certain purposes—but at this point Mrs. Edwards angrily hung up on her caller, who was not given even the opportunity of stating for what imaginary sinister purposes the editor of the EAGLE had used young Edwards.

Distorting the Edwards case into an attack on the editor of The EAGLE was only one phase of the pressure campaign directed against this paper by those who sought to bring about the defeat of Mrs. Douglas, ostensibly on the grounds of electing a Negro, actually because of her courageous championship of the Negro and other minority groups.

The California EAGLE is proud of its all-out support of Mrs. Douglas. We declare, without fear of contradiction, that Helen Gahagan Douglas' record of fighting for the rights of Negroes is unparalleled in the Congress and in the nation.

We serve notice on all the Pegler pets, on all the stooges of reaction, that The California EAGLE stands ready at all times to defend the interests of the people, to make its own decisions in the light of those interests, and to defend them to the hilt. Neither the pressure and reprisals of the big money boys nor the slanders and lies of their stooges can deter us in that determination.

"For inreality woolly hair, in serving as the usual basis for the division of humanity into pariahs and privileged stocks, establishes a kind of superiority for the Negroes. If man is essentially more noble as the distance between him and anthropoid apes widens, it must not be forgotten that these monkeys only have straight and little undulated hair . . . The woolly hair of the Negroes, having nothing in common with that of the apes, procures for them in this way a decided advantage (?) over men of other colors and races!"—Jean Finot, in Race Prejudice.

". . . If the word halfbreed was strictly applied to the progeny which has really issued from a mixture of (racial) varieties, it would be necessary to include under this denomination all human beings with rare exceptions."—Jean Finot in Race Prejudice.

—and upon you rests the fate of their freedom!

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

Well, the liberal forces of America certainly took a beating on election day. Now that the government of the United States is almost entirely in the hands of the Republican party, it is up to the members of that party to prove to the American people that they are worthy of such a trust. The responsibility for a government for the people is theirs.

The situation is similar to that of the splitting of the kingdom of Israel into two parts. Solomon was considered the wisest of all men, you remember, but he had a son who wasn't so very wise. When Solomon died, this son, Rehoboam, inherited the throne. Young, hot-headed, arrogant, he was just the kind of dictator the Hitlers and Mussolinis of today would have adored.

Representatives of the people came to him after his coronation and asked him to make their burdens lighter.

"The service of your father was grievous," they said. "Make this service a little easier, his yoke which he put upon us a little lighter, and we will serve you."

Rehoboam had sense enough not to answer them at once and tell them to go about their business, as he really wanted to do. He told them to come back in three days.

In the meantime he asked the advice of the old men who had been in the council of his father. They told King Rehoboam to speak good words" to the people, to say he would be their "servant" ("servant of the people" is a term, you know, which all clever politicians use when they want to get anything out of you).

"Then," said these wise men, "they will be your servants forever."

But King Rehoboam didn't like this advice at all.

"Me!" he said. "The king! Tell these riff-raff I'll be their servant! Not if I know what I'm doing."

So he went to the young men, his friends, who were just as headstrong, arrogant ,and stupid as he was. They gave him advice after his own heart.

"Get tough," they said. "Use the 'get tough' policy all the way through. Rattle the sabers. The swords. The atom bombs. Tell them, 'My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.' Then these people will crawl at your command. Kiss the very ground you walk on. And be slaves forever."

Rehoboam did just that. But did those people crawl? They did not. They gave one startled gasp, then broke into a derisive shout, marched straight out of the conference hall, and went back home.

"To your tents, O Israel," they called. "Now see to your own house, David."

The tribes of Israel were never again united under one king.

There is a spark of freedom in the breast of the lowliest slave which, fanned by too great humiliation, will burst into a consuming fire.

Members of the Republican party, together with a few Democrats, have been advocating the "get tough" policy with Russia. Now that they are in power, will they use the same policy toward the American people? The working people? The labor unions? The small business men? The farmers? The minority groups?

They are planning to reduce taxes. Whose taxes? The taxes of the big corporations, already swollen with excess profits, who need only to cash their checks for refund taxes and they will be getting millions of dollars? Of yours and mine?

They talk about reducing government expenses. How? By firing thousands of Federal employes. By reducing salaries. Their own? Never. The salaries of government clerks who already are straining every nerve to make both ends meet.

To date they seem to be following in the footsteps of Rehoboam. And incidentally the radical element in the Communist party, the Trotskyites, are turning handsprings of joy at the trend events seem to be taking. They say, you know, that President Roosevelt saved the capitalist system. If it hadn't been for him, if Hoover had been re-elected, we would have had our revolution, destroyed this system of private profit, and would have been well on our way toward establishing a socialist state long ago.

President Roosevelt did save us from a revolution. He saved the capitalist system. He did not wish that system destroyed. The liberal Democrats whom the reactionary Republicans dub "Communists" do not wish that system destroyed. They want to save it and make it work for mankind. If it is destroyed it will be the reactionary members of the Republican party who will do it. As Rehoboam destroyed his kingdom.

Thurman, Muste Discuss 'Techniques of Survival'

To what extent can a minority group use violent methods? Can non-violent techniques be successfully used to improve racial tensions? These were the main questions raised in a stimulating symposium on "Techniques of Survival," held recently at the Hamilton Methodist church, 12th and Naomi streets.

Leading the discussion were, Dr. Howard Thurman, former dean of the school of theology at Howard university, and at present co-pastor of the Interracial Church of All Nations in San Francisco, and Dr. A. J. Muste, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, who was in town for the annual regional conference of the Fellowship, Nov. 6 to 10.

Opening devotions were led by Rev. D. Dewitt Turpeau, pastor of the church, with Rev. Glenn Smiley, southwest regional secretary of the Fellowship, acting as chairman.

Speaking first, Dr. Thurman assailed the idea that there is necessarily a sharp dividing line between theory and practice, arguments that a certain theory may sound fine, but 'we have to be practical.' He pointed out that the world has been controlled by "practical" people for a long time, and we have had two world wars in 25 years. He continued:

Those who have been in battle say that hatred for the enemy (stimulated by a careful system of propaganda) is the thing which enables men to murder nad still keep their self-respect. Hatred enables a person to say he is autonomeus, independent, therefore supreme; thus it becomes atheistec.

To what extent shall we make use of vialent methods? To say they are totally ineffective is untrue; those of us who have children realize that within its limitations violence vcan be effective.

Whether or not non-violent techniques, based on the dignity of life, the meaning of God, etc., can be operative in a given complex situation of racial conflict depends on whether or not a moral approach can be made. With many situations involving the Negro in the South, there are no hooks for a moral appeal.

The effectiveness of a moral appeal depends on the amount of moral atrophy on the part of the person to whom the appeal is made. A person cannot act constantly in violation of his sense of decency without losing that sense of decency. Some degree of health may have to be restored before the patient can be operated upon. How to reconstruct a moral sense where it has been lost, in order to perform a moral reforming operation, is the job of the churches.

Dr. A. J. Muste continued the discussion, with the following thoughts:

It was from an early minority, the Jews, that we learned the meaning of true religion. When the Jews became a majority, they became like orther majorities, exploiting and domineering, and (like other majorities) eventually got licked. In fact they kept getting licked. Unlike other conquered or subdued people of that time, however, they were neither exterminated nor absorbed by other groups. Prophets came and taught that God was not power and might, but justice.

In accordance with this ethic that has come down to Christianity from Judaism, five principles of action can be indicated:

1. Do not hurt the oppressor, or hate him.

2. Do not appease or pamper an oppressor either; keep stabbing his conscience awake. Those who believe in force take aopression lying down until they get enough force to dish it out, and the circle never ends.

3. Refuse to obey unjust laws or confirm the evil customs.

4. Oppose evil and discrimination wherever found, especially when it is evidenced against another minority. If Jews would fight anti-Negroism, instead of crying only about their own sufferings while practicing racial discrimination, and if Negroes would similarly fight anti-Semitism, and other minorities would do likewise, these minorities would soon become themselves a majority.

5. Strong commitment is necessary to successful action; be willing to die, if necessary, on behalf of your convictions.

INDONESIA

By GEORGE K. ANANG

(No. Four in a Series of Articles)

Thousands of Indonesian patriots were sent to the infamous jail house in Glodok, Batavia, during the various struggles in Indonesia before World War II. There, many were killed by chemical injections administered by doctors.

Many people agree that Hitler took a lesson from the Dutch, a little modernized, in establishing his notorious "gas chambers."

Deep in the jungle of New Guinea, surrounded by malarial swamps, and blackwater fever, inhabited by head-hunting tribes, the Dutch established the notorious 'Bungalow" Tanah Merah (Red Ground) a concentration camp.

To this tropical hell they sent about 2000 innocent people.

These political victims of the imperialist Dutch died slowly from the various diseases. Those that lived led a life of misery. Some of these so-called political "offenders" were in exile in this notorious camp for 17 years. But in spite of all the treacheries of the Dutch, the desire of these men to be free, to see Indonesia become a free nation, was not crushed.

Prior to the Japanese occupation of New Guinea, these men were transferred to Australia and put in exile there. A small number of them were taken back to Tanah Merah, as soon as that place was liberated by the allies.

SUKARNO FIRST PRESIDENT

The "Partai Nasional Indonesia" (Nationalist Party of Indonesia) was established in 1927, on the 4th of July, under the leadership of Sukarno, now President of the Republic of Indonesia.

In this same year the national anthem "Indonesia Raja" was composed, from beginning to end exulting in tre affection for "Ibu Pertiwi" (Motherland) and the inviolable authority of the people.

Sukarno, a graduate from the University of Engineering in Bandung, an intellectual, and a brilliant orator with a complete knowledge of international politics, is considered a national hero by his people.

In 1929 at a mass meeting, Sukarno, was so highly revered by people that even high Indonesian police officials, sent to keep order, could not refrain from admiring him and applauding.

These police officials were dismissed from the police department for being disloyal to the Dutch.

In 1929 the Dutch imprisoned Sukarno, later exiling him to Flores Island, and to Benkulen in Sumatra. By popular choice Sukarno was acclaimed by the Indonesian people on August 17, 1945 and became their leader, and the first President of the Republic of Indonesia.

EDUCATION

After 350 years of Dutch rule the percentage of literacy in Indonesia is very low. Of the 75,000,000 inhabitants only 10 percent can read or write.

Schools are divided in two classes: first class and second class. The first class schools were intended for the aristocratic and wealthy families. The second class schools, on the other hand were designed for poor people, that just can afford to send their children to get a little education.

This divide and rule system, is one of the tricks of imperialist powers, especially of the Dutch colonizers, who like to see the people of Indonesia divided and ignorant.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

ISAAC PRATT

"We shall, as we have in the past, dedicate ourselves to the simple objectives of fighting for peace, the improvement of living conditions for all, and the full enjoyment of democracy by all regardless of race, creed, color or national origin."

This statement appears on the cover page of the Nov.-Dec. 1946 Citizen's CIO magazine.

There is something interesting and lasting about this statement —"He came unto his own, and his own received him not." In the opinion of this writer it symbolizes truth.

Exactly five years ago the CIO, while in convention in Detroit, set up a National Committee headed by Irving Abramson, with its main objective democratizing peoples engaged in a life-and-death struggle against Nazism and Fascism.

To all the oppressed the CIO has opened wide its portals. Especially has it demonstrated a deep interest in the working class Negro people.

Realizing that Negro workers are subjected to the same sort of abuse given other workers by the bosses of big business enterprises, and race and color discrimination often within the union itself, the CIO has made a special effort to educate white and Negro workers the importance of a better understanding between the races.

There are many causes why Negro workers are slow in realizing the benefits they will enjoy through labor affiliation. First: the Negro worker was used as a scab and a wedge to keep workers divided. Second: political stooges hired by big corporations to spread poison within the ranks of labor keep a certain type of white workers saying: "We will not work with Negroes."

Such techniques of divide and rule have been attacked by the CIO.

It is up to the Negro worker to realize that the one path that leads him away from starvation row is labor and we advise him to choose it now.

The politicians would have you believe that the GOP victory will benefit the people. Any policy that is a menace to labor is a menace to the people.

The first rattle out of the Republican box is a demand from Sen. Joseph H. Ball, Republican of Minn. to outlaw the union closed shop.

Does this mean anything to you?

The Maritime workers struggle for higher wages and better working conditions from the shipowners is your fight too. The strikers need food. You can help them!

"We have just begun to fight," said national PAC Director Jack Kroll, as the returns of the recent election swept reactionaries into office all over the country.

"Beginning today — right now —the CIO-PAC will intensify and expand its activity. There will be no halt in our work. There will be no retrenchment. We will go on fighting for Franklin D. Roosevelt's program."

The Los Angeles CIO council declared: "It was not a vote for the Republican party. It was a vote against the disruption of Allied unity, appeasement by big business, runaway inflation, and union "busting." But the people will soon realize that they jumped out of the frying pan into the fire."

The call for more intensive working and fighting was heard all over the country as the result of the November 5 election. A conference of the liberal forces will be held in Washington in January where the direction for future action will be planned.

Newspaper Guild strikers at Hearst's Herald Express rejected by a vote of 83% the offer of the management for a 14 per cent increase in wages. Hearst had previously offered a 12½% increase. The vote was by secret ballot. Nearly 400 voted. Negotiations are continuing. The strike of 525 workers is in its third month.

A contract covering office workers at L. A. Young Spring & Bumper Co. was signed recently between United Auto Workers local No. 809 and the company. The agreement provides $20 monthly wage increase, two weeks vacation, seven holidays, and automatic progression.

Members of Columbia Steel Local 1414 in Torrance will receive back pay checks totaling more than $300,000 in the early part of January, 1947. The checks will make up for wage inequities retroactive to January 4, 1944.

A one-day picket line established by the United Office & Professional Workers at Bedwell Laboratories, Los Angeles, resulted in the recognition of the union, reinstatement of a fired senior chemist, and the presentation of a contract. The company president's son allied himself with the union in the dispute.

Old Chinatown Bows Out Under City Action

(SCP) — Los Angeles' old Chinatown, where once incense burned in the joss houses and the sandaled tread of Orientals whispered in the tortuous byways, soon will be no more.

The last surviving block in the district received its death sentence in condemnation proceedings this week in superior court. City Atty. Ray Chesebro had filed proceedings to condemn the property of 22 owners in the area.

The city will use the block in its expanded Civic Center program.

Colonial Africa's Frontiers

By ROBERT KWEKU ATTA GARDINER
Vice Principal and Professor of Economics
At Fourah Bay College, West Africa

The California EAGLE herewith furnishes its readers with the full text of a significant address delivered by Professor Gardiner at the 19th annual New York HERALD-TRIBUNE Forum on Current Problems at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, October 28, last.

Madame Chairman, Ladies and gentlemen: The fact that the organizers of this Forum have gone to considerable trouble to have me, an African, speaking to you tonight, is evidence of America's growing intest in colonial affairs. I hope it also indicates a growing faith that Africa is ready to take her place in world councils and conferences.

There are, throughout the world, an increasing number of colonial peoples who now have the knowledge and the ability to speak for themselves, and I am sure Americans will agree with me that they should have the right to do so. This right, however, has not yet been recognized by the United Nations. I am one of 150,000,000 native Africans who have no representative of their own race on its councils—a fact which naturally makes us distrustful of United Nations' decisions and policies, at least where Africa is concerned.

To make clear to you the position of native Africans, perhaps I should first recall to your mind briefly the names of the African colonies and how they are governed, confining myself to those ruled by members of the British Commonwealth, since they are the onces with which I am most familiar. On your maps, these territories, are all colored the same pretty pink, but their government is not the same. Together, they comprise an area in round numbers of 4,000,000 square miles, considerably bigger than the United States and Mexico combined. They have a total native population of over 50,000,000.

The largest portion of British Empire-ruled territory forms a wide band running along the east side of Africa from Capetown to the southern boundary of Egypt. At the bottom is the Union of South Africa and adjoining it on the Atlantic side is the former German colony of South West Africa, which was mandated to the Union after World War 1. Running north on the east side of the continent are, in this order, Beechuanaland, the Rhodesias, Nyassaland, Tanganyika, Uganda, Kenya and Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. Tanganyika, another former German possession is a British mandate. It, together with the colonies just mentioned, is ruled by the British Crown. There is also, on the Gulf of Aden, the small but strategically situated colony of Brtish Somaliland.

around the bulge of central Africa, are four more British colonies—Nigeria (the largest); the Gold Coast, where I was born, Sierre Leone, and tiny Gambia. This is one of the most densely populated regions of Africa; the four colonies, known roughly as British eWst Africa, have a native population of 27,000,000.

CONDITIONS IN WEST AFRICA

I have been asked tonight to talktalk to you about the conditions, and the aspirations of my people in British West Africa. Reversing the order of the meal, let me begin with the sweets, an dfirst tell you about the good points in the government of these four colonies, which are sometimes cited as an example of humanitarian and successful colonial policy. For one thing, we are free from the curse of absentee landlordism. There are no white settlers in this region, and consequently no large plantations on which the natives might be exploited, as they are elsewhere, to earn dividends for a foreign corporation. There are no mines—such as I myself have seen inother colonies, where native workmen live on location under unsanitary condition, separated from their families. British West Africa is a region of small native proprietors. It is African peasants, working on their own land, who produce, here, two thirds of the world's output of cocoa.

COLONIAL AFRICA FRONTIERS

(The climate of West Africa is not conducive to white settlement.—Editor.)

Another bright spot; in British West Africa we have native judges, native doctors, native teachers, and native men in responsible administrative positions. This is not true in the rest of British controlled Africa. We also have native legislatures, with African representatives elected by Africans. This was an early gain over British East Africa where, until a few Africans were recently nominated to represent their peopel in Kenya, natives had only Europeans to speak for them. It also contrasts with conditions in the Union of South Africa, where natives cannot vote. They are now, however, allowed to approve the nomination of four white senators and three white representatives in the Union Assembly—these 7 to represent eight million people. The 2,000,000 whites in the Union are represented by 44 senators and 153 representatives.

MONOPOLIES FIGHT UNIONS

But having given you the bright spots of British West Africa, let me show you the dark ones—and they are very dark. First, we labor under extremely low wages. Even today, we are struggling against great odds to raise the wages of unskilled African laborers to 20 cents a day. Until very recently, trade unions were illegal; leaders who had tried to promote them spent the war years in jail. Even after unions had won legal sanction from the government, British officials tried to ignore them and to dictate policy to them, under the pretext that Africans have no trade union experience. It was this attitude, in part, which produced a general strike in Nigeria in 1945.

Another reason why it is difficut for natives to get ahead in British West Africa is that import and export trade is under the monopolistic control of a few European firms. In 1937 the Gold Coast farmers refused to sell their crops, and boycotted imported goods, as a protest against the cocoa-buying monopolistic combines. A Royal Commission which was sent there by the Colonial Office to investigate, stated that the Africans were justified in their action. But monopolistic activities still continue under the leadership of the Association of Western African Merchants. The much boasted West African Council has not a single African member on its board. The so-called West African Transport Authority, recently created, is an entirely white affair.

Our mineral resources are also in the hands of European mining firms, and very often the British Colonial Office carries on negotiations for mining concessions with European firms in secrecy and over our heads.

FREE SPEECH NON-EXISTENT

A Sedition Bill, passed in 1934, and still in effect, stifles free discussion among the people. It carries penalties for anyone to whom seditious literature is posted, with or without his knowledge.

In politics, the colonial authtorities of British West Africa have repeatedly sought to discredit African representation, and prevent Africans from achieving a united front. The Gold Coast Aboriginies Right Protection Society has been rendered ineffective by the policy of divide and rule. The officials have succeeded in pitting the chiefs against educated Africans. The West African Congress, which brought all West African leaders together at the end of World War 1, has suffered the same fate. Indigenous movements in other arts of Africa labor unions under this same handicap; their leaders are inevitably described as irresponsible agitators.

However, partly as a result of the Second World War, the colonial powers have had to review their policies and to make new proposals. The British have decelared that their colonies are not subject peoples, but "equal partners," and have created a Colonial Development and Welfare Fund. The French have redefined the relationship between metropolitan France and her dependent territories; and Holland has offered her Pacific possessions equal status with the mother country and joint sovereignty under the Dutch Crown.

FEW REFORMS—NO SOLUTION

These moves, of course, represent in advance in colonial thinking, but it is a question whether they will bring about any material change in the economic condition of dependent peoples. What is needed is the effective application of clearly thought - out - policies which will lead to economic and political progress.

Let us examine, for instance, the "Colonial Development and Welfare" idea. Up to now, this has been the private concern of each colonial power, and some people are inclined to regard it as a form of philanthropy. But colonial development, in "one world," is neither philanthropy nor the exclusive affair of individual colonizing powers. It is an international obligation, the exercise of simple justice on behalf of people who are not in a position to protect their own rights and interests.

In 1942 the Times of London stated that "If the true balance sheet between Britain and her colonies were worked out, the grant of 10 million pounds a year for five years might not appear the final figure of generosity." This grant, which was to pay for roads, hospitals, schools, water supply systems, and agricultural and scientific research, boiled down to 50 cents per head. In 1945, the British parliament decided on a block grant of 120,000,000 pounds, and suggested that local revenues make an adequate and substantial additional contribution to this fund for colonial development and welfare. The 120,000,000 pound figure sounds large, but it works out to only ten dollarsperhead, and implies a return to the pre-war static policy of developing colonies out of local budgets and loans.

LOW PAY, VAST PROFITS

In West Africa one British trading company made a profit of $35,000,000 in one year. The mining companies of Sierre Leone alone, between 1939 and 1942, realized a net profit of $40,000,000. Looked at from the point of view of profits made by the British in this small section of the Empire, the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund appears an insignificant contribution toward what is needed in the colonies.

I have highlighted for you, briefly, the situation of the native population in my own British West Africa, and pointed out the necessity for improvements. But the African problem is too big to be corrected by simply local measures. Overall conditions need an overall approach. For example, social and political trends in British West and East Africa are influenced by economic and political attitudes of the Union of South Africa. The union, although independent of and unconnected with British Colonial policy, is the only part of Africa which is represented in Imperial and world conferences. The Colonial Office has refused to surrender the three British Protectorates in South Africa to the Union, and progressive elements in Britain, and I suppose in this country too, are uneasy about the desire of the Union to incorporate the mandated territories.

POVERTY, DISEASE, HIGH DEATH RATE

The situation in Africa today presents two aspects: Widespread poverty, political and social disabilities, disease and high death rates on the one hand; and on the other, an increasing frequency of unrest, mass movements, strikes and riots. To concentrate on the elimination of any one of these specific problems would be futile.

What is needed is a planned transition from an agricultural and cheap-labor economy to an industrial and balanced economic system; and from racial and political servitude to full and responsible citizenship under conditions of self-government.

The United Nations might establish regional sub-committees of either the Trusteeship Council, or the Economic and Social Council to guide and direct this transition. We already have the beginnings of this type of International cooperation in the Caribbean Commission. It should not be difficult to institute similar commissions for different parts of Africa.

The idea of Trusteeship, which gained currency after World War 1, recognized the need for protecting the interests of dependent peoples. But it was ineffective as a means of promoting constructive development. It produced the absurd situation in which the Permanent Mandates Commission could consider only written eitions from dependent peoples. There are in Africa today capable men who command the confidence of their people, and who can bring the willing cooperation of Africans to aid organizations seeking to preserve world peace.

African and other colonial leaders today are not begging for special favors. We seek to join forces with peace loving peoples everywhere who are striving to build a new order of justice for all men. Is there justice enough among men of all colors, all nationalities to allow us this right? To demand for us this opportunity.

A SOURCE OF WARMTH

The warmth of summer has in its seasonal orbit come to an end, and the sweeping winds of Autumn are now about us. The winter season is closing in and with it comes the dropping of temperature, rain and a multitude of winter's ways. For the past month the shut-off of Nature's source of heat has caused us in home, office, factory and church to light the stoves that warmth might be had from another source. That extra blanket has been added to the bed, warmer under clothes and overcoats have been excavated from their summer tombs, all to supply in the dropping temperature another source of warmth. Street loungers, so numerous in the heat of summer, now keep an eye on the "stem," from some warm corner of a street front cafe or store.

The retreat is on; man is fleeing to other sources of heat before the mighty offensive of winter's cold. Across the nation, stoves, the open fireplace, furnaces, gas heaters and whatever contraption that gives off warmth and heat are burning, and men are gathered about.

Despite the dismay felt in winter's cold, there are many joys associated with its presence. Memories of winter experiences stick out in the minds of all, though years have come and gone. Who cannot remember childhood days gathered about the fire with members of the family, popping corn, roasting sweet potatoes, hearing the same old stories, but interesting around the fire? Cold and rainy days were soup days, tongues were burnt but the soup was good and warm. In winter we seek warmth and heat, then it is as never before that man becomes aware of his need for warmth from other sources than his own.

Cold is not only a concept in reference to weather; it can be applied, if only for the sake of analogy to other areas of experience. Equally as well is there the cold and hot of the human spirit. The tragic defeat of progressive legislation, the failures of world justice and peace, the tirade of the rising cost of living, the dark future of domestic affairs and the multitude of individual and personal problems have let loose upon the human spirit a freezing cold. They who in the summer of the human spirit were vigorous and dynamic are today downcast, shivering in a wave of futility. Where, then, is a source of warmth and heat, greater than our own that will restore the spirit to normal, despite the defeats and losses of the day?

Up through the ages a myriad of ideologies have promised warmth to the human spirit in its winter. Men have devised various schemes on the promise that its warmth would suffice in the lowest ebb of circumstance. We have seen New Deals after New Deals rise and fall. For a while it kept us through life's cold assault upon our hopes and fears, but today it is dead. We, too, can be warmed by a humanism that consoles us that we have done our best, but even this cannot last for long. Men have scoffed at the idea of God, they would not burden themselves with extra weight. Yet, the turning points of history were only pivoted in circumstances of defeat because men had faith, men found eternal warmth that kept them undaunted despite the onslaught of defeat or loss.

There is great admiration for the courageous resistance which Palestinian Jews are waging against imperialist Britain. Without an army, without a navy and even without the ordinary weapons of war, that small band of Jews are making Britain an international joke. Britain with all her mighty powers is unable to subdue a small band of fighting Jews. There is but one reason, and that reason is that Britain is not fighting a nation, she is not skirmishing with an "ism," her assault is not against an economic class; Britain is up against a religion. Her "tens of thousands" are helpless against the fives and tens who have as their weapon a faith in God. They believe that God gave to their fathers Palestine, the promised land, and although every man, woman and child of Judaism is killed, that faith in God will wage its unrelenting battle from the grave.

The odds against the Jews are many, their prospects to us are very narrow. The cold of the human spirit in ordinary circumstances would have discouraged the resistance. But the Jehovah of the Jews is that "help and shield" in times of trouble. To the Jew his God is that source of warmth and heat, so essential for life.

Though some have ridiculed the church, cursed it because its program was eternal rather than focused for the present, yet today, though defeat and loss have encompassed our land, and defeated politicians walk with bowed heads, and pressure groups are stunned by failure, the church yet resounds with the singing of praises, and men gathered around warm their spirits before the altars of God. —Minister, Bowen Memorial Methodist church.

Farmer Manages His Timber on Sound Basis

WASHINGTON — Alonzon Williams, 65-year-old farmer of Pachuta, Miss., is managing his timberland so that his children and grandchildren will have a source of wood supply when they need it, reports Mississippi State Extension Service.

When Williams bought his farm in 1914, the timberland had just been cut over. "There was nothing here but little saplings, 12 to 14 feet high," he said recently, as he walked through his woodland with his county agent and pointed to some trees that have grown into 24-inch sawtimber.

Although Williams has drawn on his woodland for fense posts and firewood frequently, he made his first important cutting for the market four years ago when he sold 16,000 board feet.

He was planning recently on making another cutting, he said, for sawtimber and had six acres marked to cut for crossties and pulpwood. The cutting would be done by himself and his grandson. William said when his timber was marked he had in mind the thought of leaving his woodland in better growing condition. "You see," he explained, "I have several boys and grandsons and I want them to have this timber some day."

Trail Blazers: Emily Brown Portwig

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Parents, Architects of Peace—that is the title of the article I so recently read a few nights ago. "In order to develop the qualities of leadership necessary to insure peace—vision to see the needs of all humanity, willingness to work, sacrifice and cooperate for a common goal—parents must give their children not social security but personal security."

Now what has this to do with Emily Portwig, you probably ask. We feel, as do others in Los Angeles, that Emily Portwig is such a person—an architect of peace. For a goodly number of years she has been unselfishly giving her time, her sympathetic understanding, and thoughtful guidance to the children of Los Angeles. And for this, she has won their love and admiration. Many of "her children" have grown up—Jessie Mae Brown, Society Editor of The EAGLE, is one of them.

Emily Brown Portwig comes from pioneer stock. Her parents were the late Major William B. Brown and Harriet Gourdin Brown. A product of the Los Angeles schools, she was graduated with honors from Los Angeles high school, taking her college work at University of California at Los Angeles. She attended Howard university medical school in Washington, D. C., and returned to be graduated from University of Southern California in pharmacy, where she has been doing graduate work for the last three years.

In 1923 she set up Beta chapter of Rho Psi Phi medical national sorority, sister sorority to Chi Delta Mu medical fraternity. Rho Psi Phi sorority and Rho club at one time maintained a sorority house for college women for several years on West 36th place near Vermont in 1924. When the attendance in college dropped they were forced to give it up.

For the past ten years she has been the adviser to the Los Angeles high school Tri-Y. The rest of the various fraternal and civic bodies to which Emily Portwig belongs include: YWCA, NAACP, Los Angeles League of Women Voters, member of the PTA board of West 36th street school, Just for Fun Bridge club, and secretary of the Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical Association of Southern California.

One of the first two Negroes to finish the Red Cross Nurses' Aide course, she has received stripes for a number of free hours she has put in at different hospitals.

Great groups of young and old people may be seen rusticating about her Val Verde country home. She likes people, and she mixes and mingles freely. She is married to James Rufus Portwig, now retired from the United States navy after serving 20 years. She has invested a lot of interest in rural life and children's activities. Our architect of peace, affable and unselfish, can meet the modern designs of the age because she has achieved an inner sense of appreciation of the art.

A LAYMAN'S VIEW

By Leon W. Steward

LOOKING BACK AT ELECTION RESULTS

This is the second time we have found ourself writing this column on Armistice day, which is also our own birthday, as cards, telegrams and a kindly spouse have reminded us, but the intention of commenting on some of the election results has already put to flight the memories of Flanders fields and our battle for the milk of life which continues to this very moment, even from that very first one.

THEY LICKED FEPC

Nearly 500,000 Californians voted for Proposition 11. They were, we believe, either those who would stand to profit by its passage and execution on the one hand, and on the other, a smaller number, whose fair mindedness, Christian ideals, or faith in real democracy survived the lies told about FEPC by such groups as the so-called "Committee for Tolerance" and the "Women of the Pacific" and the program of coercion such as was instituted against the bill's well wishers by such large (but not great) institutions as the Standard Oil Co.

Nearly 900,000 voted against it. Among them were those whose racist attitudes make the necessity of proposing such a law a distinct embarrassment to the democratic claims of our nation before the peoples of the world. Others voted against it out of a confusion directly traceable to the effects of large cash outlay in radio propaganda, billboards, and newspapers and by the last-minute flop taken by the self-styled liberal Daily News.

Others who helped defeat FEPC were Negroes and other minorities who were either too indiffertnt, stupid or confused to register, go to the polls and vote for it. Some either voted against it purposely or inadvertantly. And so, from 85 to 90 percent of the jobs referred to the United States Employment Service will continue to be marked "for white," and many jobs will continue to be advertised "for white Protestants only." In the Golden State of California, where, judging by this and reports of increasing police brutality against racial minorities, fascism is on the march.

REACTION IS CHOSEN

It is not surprising for a people to penalize a party that fights a war by almost instinctively turning away from it as from war itself when once the war is over. We did it before and we have done it again. And for the last two wars we have turned from the Democrats who led the government at war time to Republicans. Not being a party man it has been interesting to note how consistently the workers of the nation jump on the Republican band wagon with assurance, only to find as time passes that that Grand Old Party is filled to the gills with the disciples of reaction who will fight for property rights as against the rights of the people until their gluttony for profits result in a depression.

Every piece of progressive legislation enacted by the New Deal was put on the books over the vigorous protest of the reactionary Republicans. The same ones who spent considerable money in this most recent election in an effort to purge congress of all liberals of either party. But it can be said of the 14th congressional district that with all of their money and the injection of the race issue and the popularity of prize fighter Joe Louis the reaction boys did not purge its liberal congresswoman.

Yes, the record of the Republican party to date is one of reaction. We find ourself hoping that this time the leopard might change its spots. And if he does we shall be among the first to jump on its bandwagon. Yes, if the Republicans show a change of heart in matters affecting the welfare of the people we shall be for it in 1948 But lo, we fear that our hope is in vain.

A GOOD PLAN

In examining many of the score sheets hanging out in front of polling places in the 14th district we ran across evidence that makes real sense of a proposal made by G. E. Bryant, a Central avenue insurance broker, at a recent meeting of the Citizens' Emergency Committee in the interest of the FEPC bill. Bryant proposed that the NAACP take the lead in setting up a NON-PARTISAN VOTERS' LEAGUE for the purpose of teaching each eligible voters the value of his vote and how to use it effectively. More power to such a suggestion. The committee voted approval and so does this column.

Citizens Are Urged to Help Their Districts Meet Chest Drive Quota

At the third Community Chest noon luncheon meeting at the Biltmore Bowl Tuesday, figures were released on progress of the campaign in this area.

In the Adams-Central district, where Mrs. Josephine Brown is chairman, 231 residents contributed $3,283, 59 per cent of the revised quota of $5603.

South Park Chest workers have brought in 32 percent of their revised goal of $1687. $541 was contributed by 123 persons, reports chairman Mrs. C. A. Troy.

The battalion headed by Mrs. Malinda Garland(who is on the board of directors of the Eastside Settlement House, has achieved 200 per cent of its quota.

Solicitations from home to home is still under way, and chairmen urge Eastside residents to give generously according to their ability so that the quota may be reached. Agencies participating in the Community Chest which are dependent on your contributions for their support number 152, and with higher cost of medical supplies, food, equipment, nad increased salaries for workers in these agencies, minimum requirements can only be met by every district reaching its quota.

Added to the volunteer staffs working for the campaign are Majors James Robinson Jr., and Mrs. William V. Scott in the Adams-Central district nad Major Mrs. Hattie D. Brown in the South Park district.

VA Waives Rules to Permit Disabled Vets To Renew Insurance

(SCP)—Between 25,000 and 30,000 disabled veterans in the Los Angeles area who have permitted their national service life insurance to lapse can reinstate their benefits by paying two back premiums and submitting a statement concerning their physical condition, it was announced here yesterday by the Veterans Administration.

There will be no need for another physical examination, according to the VA authorities, if the veteran is in the same physical condition as he was at the time of lapse. Many ex-soldiers, who because of disabilities could not pass regular physical insurance tests, will thus have the chance to protect their families with government life insurance.

In cases where the veteran has already converted his term policy all back premiums will be required. The waiver of regulations on physical examinations expires on February 1, 1947, after which time physical exams will be necessary.

GOD IS LOVE

While startling acts may gain and attract the attention of the crowd, nothing counts with God but acts of divine love.

Love leave behind it, in its course, very many things which will remind you that love has gone this way before us. Love behaves well, thinks well and rejoices in the truth. Love seeks not only her own, but is willing to suffer for others.

There is something eternal about love—the love of God in our hearts for our countrymen—for it never fails!

A.B.J.—Dear Sir: You have helped so many people I am writing you concerning my problem so that you can help us. Does the future hold anything for me worthwhile?

Answer: A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that you are very despondent and unhappy. And feel that if your future has no brighter aspect than the past has been, that you are just about to give up. I feel that I can help you, and suggest that you write in for a private reply at your earliest convenience.

E.B.: Does he love me?

Answer: Probing into the matter I find that the person you refer to is very fond of you and you can dismiss your doubts concerning his sincerity.

WORRIED: Can you help me regarding the article that was stolen?

Answer: My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals the fact that a 22-caliber pistol was stolen from you sometime ago and you are wonderingi f you will ever get it back. I am sorry, but you waited too long to mention this theft as it would be hard to trace now.

E.M.S.—Dear Prof. Herman: After reading your column in The EAGLE I decided to write you for your opinion on this matter. Will I marry the man I plan to wed?

Answer: Your Lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate marriage for you in the near future, and it will in all probability be the young man you speak of.

E.N.H.J.: Your question was received, but you failed to send your birthdate. I can, however, advise you more fully if you write in for a private reply, sending birthdate, etc.

P.C.: My wife and I do not get along. What seems to be our trouble?

Answer: Concentrating upon your question I find that you and your wife haven't had a good heart-to-heart talk in ages. I therefore suggest you do so at once. Naturally things continue to go wrong unless you stop and try to get a better understanding and plan to eliminate your difficulties in the future. The same things continue to happen again and again, unless you do something about them.

B.C.: Will I get the one I love? Will he come to see me soon? Will I hear from him soon?

Answer: Only one question is answered in the column. I suggest you write in for a private reply.

VA Hospital Official Accused Of Discrimination in Refusing Admission to Sick Veteran

J. Weaver, officer of the day, to send for her son.

Mrs. David charged that Dr. Weaver questioned her in a rude and abrupt manner and, when informed that her son was colored, stated that he had no vacant beds for Negro veterans at the hospital.

She then asked Dr. Prudhomme to attempt to have him hospitalized. Meanwhile, her son became more violent and broke down the steps in her home and threatened his father.

Dr. Prudhomme is said then to have called Dr. Weaver and insisted upon the veteran being hospitalized.

Under present VA policies, a VA hospital is required to set aside a certain number of "emergency" beds to permit immediate entry to veterans with service-connected disabilities. However, in order to admit a man to a VA hospital, VA officials must either get a signed statement from him or his legal guardian.

While in the service David was hospitalized at the Letterman's General hospital in California. Upon discharge he was voluntarily accepted at the VA hospital at Perry Point, Md. Two months ago he was discharged by the hospital and placed under the care of his mother.

Medical authorities state that David was seized last Wednesday night by an "acute psychotic episode."

According to reports, Dr. Weaver told Dr. Prudhomme to have the veteran arrested and placed in jail. It is further reported that when Dr. Prudhomme asked Dr. Weaver to authorize an ambulance (an authority granted to doctors who are acting for hospital managers), Dr. Weaver hung up the telephone on Dr. Prudhomme.

At VA headquarters last Friday, however, officials denied that the question of the veteran's race had entered into the picture at all. They claimed that the man had been denied admission to the hospital because neither he nor his mother would agree to sign a statement authorizing his admission to the hospital.

participants of which were all women, is said to have reached its climax when a Mr. Mines, a backer of the preacher, hit one of the women. Police stepped in at this point and, after punching him in the stomach, placed him in a police car.

New charges against the minister were made when the congregation alleged that he, in the company of Rev. E. W. Irving and two other men, broke into the church Sunday night. The extent of missing articles, if any, has not been determined.

Taken to the police station, Stephenson was later released. No services were held at the church Sunday. The church is now locked up.

As a result of his eviction, Stephenson is said to have gone to room 206, City Hall, presumably to file a complaint.

weak for the case to be decided against him.

However, the National Negro Congress, with the cooperation of the Civil Rights Congress, Mobilization for Democracy, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and American Youth for Democracy launched a thorough investigation of the Venice case and uncovered evidence of such a nature that all groups have expressed their determination to appeal the case until a just decision is handed down.

Shepard was originally arrested on complaints of several Negro children and their parents that they had been terrorized and beaten during a race riot in Venice in early September. Alexande. charged that he was kidnaped by being hauled into an automobile by several youths, including Shepard, who he charged drove the car.

If the six 17-year-old boys arrested and held by the juvenile authorities on charges of assault and kidnaping, one boy, Gerald Sheppard, pleaded guilty and another, Ollie Phillips, who had a previous record, was held but later released. The other defendants had changed their story and pleaded not guilty.

In a resolution drawn up by the Police Terror and Lynch Brutality Committee of the National Negro Congress, Judge A. A. Scott, who presided over the juvenile court case on Oct. 7, has been charged with attempting to frustrate the Negroes who appeared as witnesses and of manifesting prejudice and bias throughout the trial. Mrs. Josephs, who could have testified to the condition in which she found Clifton Alexander after he was tossed from the car, was not called as a witness.

Two Telephone Companies Drop Employment Bias

ored trainees in the history of the Bell Telephone Company there have been included among a group of high school graduates selected for employment.

Employment policies in this industry have been under close observation for the past year, Julius A. Thomas, the League's director of industrial relations, said.

An Urban League study of the telephone company's policies in 44 cities revealed that the employment of colored persons was generally limited to service and unskilled labor in the majority of cities.

New policies now in force will open opportunities for the employment of a larger number of Negroes as installers, repairmen, linemen, and other operating jobs, Thomas declared. Veterans with army training in communication work should be able to qualify for employment with local units of the telephone company, he added, and they should be encouraged to apply for these positions.

tending performances at Constitution Hall.

In announcing the change of the student concerts, J. P. Hayes, general manager of the National Symphony Orchestra, said that the original arrangements to hold the concerts at Lisner were made last August "when the question involved had not presented itself." The performances were set for November 16 and January 18.

In announcing AVC's determination to carry on the fight Motley said:

"This fight against discrimination at George Washington is in actuality a declaration of war against the whole idea that some people, merely because their ancestors did not have the foresight to get their skins tanned against the rays of the sun, are therefore superior.

"When discrimination is defeated at Lisner auditorium we will move on to defeat it elsewhere in the district. When it is defeated in the district, we will move on to Maryland and Virginia, where we will work in cooperation with the state area councils which should be established by that time.

"If the president and trustees of George Washington university think that AVC's protest against racial discrimination at Lisner auditorium is just a one-night stand, then they have been reading the wrong reviews. And if the president and, trustees think they are dealing with just one AVC chapter at George Washington university, they are again terribly mistaken. AVC has demonstrated unity of purpose and action in the past and it will do so on this issue. Three thousand veterans and their friends are not to be taken lightly.

"Lisner Auditorium has refused to allow an AVC chapter to schedule a benefit performance of Ingrid Bergman in 'Joan of Lorraine' and it has barred AVC members from both 'Ballet for America' and 'Joan of Lorraine'. As veterans we accept the challenge to a democracy which we struggled to preserve—a challenge that is offered by narrow-minded and short-sighted men who pose as guardians of the intellectual inheritance of this country. Veterans accepted Hitler's challenge and Mussolini's challenge of Tojo(and it does not appear that members of the American Veterans Committee are going to be frightened by second-rate fascists."

In line with the AVC fight, officials of the organization's No. 1 Chapter made public a telegram sent to members of Actors Equity, theatrical union, in which members of the union were urged to refuse to play in segregated theaters. In return the chapter members and their friends pledged their full support to any theater adopting a non-segregation policy.

The AVC fight is being led by Don Rothenberg of the George Washington Chapter of AVC and Bob Tatum of the Howard university chapter.

Announce New Rules for 1947 Annual Soap Box Derby Contest

Important changes in construction rules for gravity cars being prepared for competition in next year's All-America Soap Box Derby Contest have recently been announced.

The new rules will disqualify for the 1947 race some cars eligible under the 1946 rules but in most cases 1946 racers can be altered to fit next year's rules with only minor changes.

The principal changes in rules concern construction of steering gear and brakes and new weight and cost limitations.

Other changes include brakes which must be foot operated; total cost of racer must not exceed $6 over and above the cost of wheels and axles; back of seat must be removable for easy inspection; shatter-proof windshields may be used; steering mechanism now includes a "tiller" or steering lever or the airplane type half wheel; "nose" must be the foremost part of the car; allowable weight of the car was raised to 150 pounds, but the combined weight of car and driver remains the same—250 pounds; and every car must be boy built throughout.

Beautiful Winter Wedding Spotlights Social News of the Week

Simplicity reigned at the beautiful wedding ceremony uniting the former Phyllis Jean Brandon and William Sherman Turner. Before a group of close friends and relatives, the Rev. J. Raymond Henderson officiated the ritual promptly at 4 p.m. on the afternoon of Sunday, November 10.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of traditional white satin, featuring a flowing skirt of net. Her fingertip illusion veil was held in place by a dainty crown, and she carried a profusion of white bridal flowers. Her sole attendant was Miss May Robinson, maid of honor, who wore a gown of white and carried a white prayer book. Douglas Jones served as best man, and the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Sam Eastman. The impressive ceremony was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brown, of 1264 West 36th street. Preceding the ceremony, "Because" was sung by the prominent Selika Pettiford, who also played the wedding march.

The bride is a graduate of the public schools of Topeka, Kansas, taking up college work at Los Angeles City college. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Helen Woodard, served 31 months overseas as a Seaman First Class in the navy, receiving an honorable discharge. The couple will be at home to friends following the wedding reception, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, at the palatial home of Mrs. McPherson, 3582 Budlong.

Douglas Jones, best man, the groom, Wm. Turner, and bride, Phyllis, Rev. J. Raymond Henderson, and Miss May Robinson, maid of honor, comprise the above group.

Private ceremonies marked the marriage of Phyllis Jean Brandon to William S. Turner, Sunday, Nov. 10, at 4 p.m., at the beautiful home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Brown, who reside on West 36th street. Rev. J. Raymond Henderson officiated.

Will it be Odessa James, of UCLA Chapter of AKA; Kathryn (Randolph) Shafer, of SC chapter of AKA; Maxine Clark, Delta; Doris Dupree, Zeta; Paulette Dejoie, Crop 'N' Tailer; or Delores Bell of the Philadelphians? It will be hard for the frat brothers to choose the fairest of them all.

The USC vs. Cal. game brought many a northerner to the Angel City. About 11 of the Cal. co-eds visited us on UCLA campus Monday. By the way, "Em" Chapman is the popular gent about UCLA; that Jess gave the Champbell handle in last week's issue. Center of attraction at Ivy Leaf meeting Sunday, and feeling a bit proud were: Shirley Rakestraw, Ysabel Gray, Cullie Lee Hubert, Nancy Lewis, Molly Wilson and Mildred Gauthier, who have been officially pledged to Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, and are awaiting the trials and tribulations of "Hell Week"... Like to make mention that Teddy Williams' party Saturday night was on "beaucoup" time. Teddy can take another bow for being the host of hosts.

In glancing over Jess' note book, seems that Eadward's house warming was tops, and the master boudoir, with its leopard drapes, along with ceramic lamps, is the deal to write home about. Four popular debs 'round town have been invited by the Crop 'N' Tails to ride and breakfast Sunday morning. Hear that Dorothy Dandridge and Gloria Bunch are in the group.

Jimmy Lewis tells us that the sweet deal from Mobile, Margaret Inston, is house guest of Pauline Price while in the city. A party is pending—if all goes well, she'll meet the gay blades and lassies Saturday night at a party given in her honor. The Doll League Charity Club will join the public in having the time of their lives at a matinee cabaret dance, Sunday at the Alabam from 3 'til 7. I see here that Betty Shaw has invitations to her Saturday night party in circulation. The Sherman (Phyllis Brandon) Turners' reception will be Sunday afternoon. Arthur Trent, chemistry expert and recent graduate of UCLA, is deep in study at Howard Med. school, while his road buddy, Frank Dupas, is mixing chemicals to make the local ladies beautiful.

The Political Youth Forum is making ready for another year of hard and interesting work. Last Friday election of new officers was held. In the near future installations services, I turn the gavel into the hands of the capable Sherril Luke. Here's hoping he will find presiding over the group as interesting as I found it.

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

That: Bobbie Jean English became Mrs. Harry Davis over the last weekend... USC's Louis Brathwaite will soon be a member of the Euterpians... Kenneth and Hugo Hill have more deb trouble than book troubles... Ella Mae Crossland is engaged, and the lucky fellow is Theodore Lumpkin. They plan a late winter marriage... My Sis Marion Jackson hit L. A. Wednesday morning via City of Los Angeles... Albert Vendange celebrated his (ahm)teenth birthday Monday the 11th... Elaine Broady and her brother have an excellent record collection... Johnny Weems has eyes for only one issue at present... Teddy Loupe's picture album is sure to include one of even you... Wendell Dow is home to stay.

Now I see what Jessie Mae goes through each week and I also see why she's enjoying her vacation. At this point Joe Oliver takes over, so hold on to your seats...

OLIVER SCRIBES

Here we are. So "you want to write a column week" is now at hand. What a job. I wonder if any of you have thought about writing a column or being a guest writer? If you have or haven't there are many minute problems that must be considered. They might be called the "doggone dogmas." In the very first place you might as well "police up" (army term) on some of the intricacies of the English language, and in the interim think over what you are going to write so some lost soul will be able to understand you. In other words, keep it simple. "That's easy," you say, right up your alley, for aren't half the people in the world simple anyway, especially in the United States? But let us get back to the problems at hand. The majority must be satisfied. Everybody, including Charles Edwards, likes to have and see his or her name in black and white, but it doesn't end there, they—le fems—adore reading about persons they know and like and the—el heads hard—say the cat is only "on."

The writer must go on the human nature assumption that people are jealous. Woe to the well known scribe who has the effrontery to give out with "info" about someone unknown or someone not liked. Perhaps the person in question took out a girl friend, knew your wife before you did, belongs to a certain "dogmatic" club; or maybe she had on the same formal, same hat, same hairdo. Those things do happen, you know. So when reading about this uncouth character an instinctive sneer comes on your face and you might mutter "what's this cad doing in the news," or "how does that broken down hen rate"? Then and there the erstwhile writer is sitting on a hot platter and the paper loses its utility; it is easy to find a variety of uses for it. To more readily understand the perplexing situation confronting the bearer of news, we must realize just where all the information comes from.

When you want to find out what is happening in this dear old "Angel" city you don't question some character on the street, or start scanning the telephone book under the Joneses, Smiths or Johnsons, even though it might be good news, but not quite appropriate. The point we are driving at is that the main source is from friends, a grossly misused word, for it is difficult to know who they exactly are at all times.

Of course you receive phone calls from Nancy Whippelton or "Lena the Hyena" that Joe Doakes or Ezra Applebottom the III, is giving a knock down drag out affair over the holidays, but only the elite snobs of the greenish veins will attend, and they don't buy newspapers, race or otherwise, anyway they can't read, so you don't report it. Back to this word friends, a very loose term; anyway that is where the majority of the news is derived. If you are invited one place one week and not the next, I can't answer that, except some of the silverware might be missing, or you had better change your soap. Now you know what some of the problems are. Let's go to press with some news and views here and there:

Last week the puissant Alpha Delta chapter of the Alphas in Los Angeles went through a complete turnover in the election of officers. Here they are: Reudy Henderson, president; Albert Jones, vice president; Hank Melton, secretary; Owen Knox, treasurer; Artis Grant, corresponding secretary; Ed Maddox, sergeant-at-arms; Roy Andrews, parliamentarian; Albert Harday, chaplain; Art Lewis, editor of the Sphinx; and Joe Oliver, publicity head. Wish you luck, fellows.

Leroy Milton, Pepperdinete, ran across a novel idea. Last week on Dalton, he supported a bridge party with only one married couple—a policy practically unheard of in this neck of the woods. Present at this delightful repast were Jane Criner and Betty Hall, both who can play with the best of them; Vervon Dumas from New Orleans, Fergie Rhemm, John Johnson, Ted and Katie Shaffer and Joe Spaulding with not one, mind you, but two very charming and attractive visitors from Columbus, Ohio, Jo Ann Johnson and Kathleen Mason, both of whom plan to make their home here.

Incidentally, Joe Spaulding just opened up a florist shop on Western and 36th place, next to Don Barksdale's Record Shop. Here are two young veterans making a name for themselves. I know that they will appreciate all new trade, so let's not be typical and helps the lads along during the holidays. By the way, don't all rush, but Don has a ticket agency in his shop and will have some USC vs. UCLA tickets soon. Heard some sharp fillies talking about Maurice Trokey's latest styles; his shop is next to Dr. Cato Robins' one off Jefferson. "Trok" is another veteran making his way in life. His wife is the lovely Bernice Elliot, formerly of Oakland.

While on the subject of couples don't you agree that of the many newlyweds, Corinne and Bal Kemp and Barbara Faulkner, Sis and Rip Russell, seem to have that certain "it" of being happy? Other points of possible agreement: Jane Hampton and Marguerite Lewis are two all around beauties; Alice Watkins has pretty red hair; Wally DeCuir is one well dressed young man, as is Russel Brooks. There are a lot of young ladies drifting in from here and there—talent ratio going up; Leroy Beavers is a "hunk" of all man—have you ever seen him box?—former heavyweight champion at Univ. of Calif. at Berkeley; and Norman Houston held the wrestling title as another note of interest; now that basketball season is almost here, that Don Barksdale and newcomer All-American Dave Minor will make UCLA's team click; Evelyn Boberts has terrific pair of legs; and last that one lovely Miss Jessie Mae Brown has been one of the most pleasant and nicest personalities that we have ever had the pleasure to encounter.

JOHNETTA ARMSTRONG

Guest Reporter—PLES GRIFFIN

Despite the claims of race baiters, that unity between races for a common goal is impossible, the members of the Student Christian Association of PJC joined in fun and fellowship at the first "We Are One" Club party of the semester. Things that made these students different were overshadowed by the things that they shared in common; among them, the desire for a good time. The party, held last Friday at the First Methodist church, was planned by the "We Are One" club under the competent chairmanship of Don Mims. The evening's activities were highlighted by folk dancing and mixer-games...

Thomas "Triple Threat" Kelly watched his fellow "Bulldogs" receive a 21 to 10 defeat at the hands of Long Beach City college last Saturday night in the Rose Bowl. Kelly, suffering with a leg injury received in the Glendale game, will hardly be ready for action before the Compton clash.

After Saturday night's game, the usual gang stopped at Mabel Duncan's to warm up a bit before going home. The hot chocolate, together with good records, provided the background for a fine party. Thelma Jackson, Bill Duncan, Alva Neblet, and George Morrow, along with Barbara Durham and Alvin Johnson, provided the laughs. Gwen Munford, Harrison Baily and Jeffalyn Brown were other figures whose presence helped to insure an evening's merriment...

The Interclub Council of North Pasadena has, for some months, been studying the possibility and means by which they could help the starving people of the war ravaged countries of Europe. With the interest of the local populace as well as that of the needy, the Council presents a "can dance" and basketball game Saturday, Nov. 16, at the Washington junior high school gym. The Alpha chapter of the Phalanx fraternity will play the PCAC at 7:30, after which there will be dancing until 12:00. Admission will be a can of food. I'm going to be there! How about you?

I understand that the ZAE restrictive club will hold initiation for its nine pledges Friday, November 15. You can safely bet that the members of ZAE have planned a very eventful evening for Charlotte McAfee, Myrtle Martin, Lula Bunch, Mary Louise Mims, Mavis Jamerson, Irene Higgins, Beverly Couton, Irene Brown, and Alma Oliver Thornton. Knowing the present members of ZAE and of previous club initiations, I will extend my sympathies...

By the by, I hope that you are planning to attend the Autumn fashion show and dance in the Gold Room at the Civic tonight. Extensive plans have been made to bring to you the latest in Fall fashions modeled by members of various clubs of Pasadena and L. A. You can also dance to the music of Robert Farlice and combo. Don't miss it. It's likely to be the event of the year...

The Youth Council of the NAACP will hold its annual election Friday, November 15, at 7:00 at the Friendship Baptist church. All members in good and regular standing are eligible and are urged to vote.

"You Are Not Too Young to Lead" is the theme of the eighth annual NAACP Youth Conference to be held in New Orleans, La., November 21 through 24. Madison Shockley will fly there to represent the Pasadena Youth Council. Madison will leave on November 20 from Burbank...

In keeping with the sports minded attitude prevailing on the Pacific Coast, a group of fellows have joined together to form an athletic club. Although they go in for other sports, boxing is their major interest. Under the guidance of Roscoe Skelly, the club officers are as follows: Orville McRiley, president; Mike Duncan, vice-president; Donas Jones, secretary; Jacob Clayman, treasurer; Felton Jamerson, sergeant-at-arms.

I am glad to hear that Buddy Foster is rapidly improving. We hope to see you up real soon, Bud...

I guess that we all have our pet peeyes; some, perhaps, are justified, others are not. But one that "gripes" me is the way that some people delight in making derogatory remarks about individuals, commonly called "putting your business in the streets." This practice causes embarrassment and many breaks in friendship. If someone does do something, or go some place out of the ordinary, that's generally his own affair. People who persist in participating in such activities tend to make out of the noblest motives the most vile intentions, and in so doing lower their own prestige by spreading malicious gossip. But then, on the other hand, these other individuals should be careful how they "carry on." In other words, let your actions be compatible with your interest. Need I say more?

Here's an important date to remember. The PCAC's are going to give one of the greatest balls of the season in Exhibition Hall of the Civic auditorium on November 21. Pete Collins and his 20 piece orchestra will furnish the solid beat.

My thanks to Johnetta Armstrong for the opportunity of writing this column. It has been a pleasurable experience.

S'long.

P.S.—As you know, your ole reporter will be out of circulation for a while and for the next few weeks you will have much excellent reporting from Ples Griffin and Barbara Durham. Please call them and tell them if you have anything you want in the column.

The Charm of You

By NATALIE T. SCURLOCK

In a truly well - dressed woman, what you cannot see is as important as what you do see. The building of your costume must start with the right undergarments.

A brassiere and a girdle are required by every figure. Of course, the slender, well-proportioned figure ca nuse very lightweight types but they should be worn to achieve a smooth contour of the hips and bustline.

As a general thing, a corset or a girdle and a brassier are more desirable than an all-in-one foundation garment. In so many instances the bustline is pulled down by the all-in-one. If a heavy corset is required, the figure is seldom well-proportioned, and ready-made one-piece foundation garments are necessarily planned for average figures. Of course, if they are made to order that is an entirely different matter.

A separate brassiere may be fitted to give the proper uplift line, leaving the diaphragm section smoother and more slender. A long brassiere is necessary when there is excess flesh on the back and diaphragm. The corset may then be fitted according to the figure requirements.

Be careful that the corset you select does not fit too tightly. That excess fat must go somewhere and if the corset binds too snugly around the hips, it forces excess flesh up to the waistline and you get, as a result, what is known as a "spare tire."

If you have an outstanding figure problem, go to a good store or shop and consult the corsetiere. Try on several different styles. Sit down in the corsets to be sure they are comfortable in all positions. Before you decide to purchase it, put on your dress again and see whether the corset does what you want it to do.

If your figure is overweight you must wear your girdle or corset all day and every day. This is most important. When you first buy a girdle continue to wear it—not on one day and off the next. Without it, your figure will spread as you grow older. Naturally, exercises will help to keep you firm, but you need the gently, confining effect of a girdle also. If fitted correctly it should be a comfortable support.

Uplift brassieres are sensible and helpful in maintaining the contour of the bust but do not wear exaggerated models. There should be a good division at the center. As in the instance of the girdle, try on several types and sizes of brassieres to make sure that you have the proper fit and it is comfortable and does what you want it to do.

The new strapless, wired bras are just the thing for the new off-the-shoulder necklines being featured this season. But here again, be sure that you are correctly fitted.

Helen Douglas Pledges Fight For Good of All

NEW YORK—In a statement issued here this week, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan expresses her thanks to those who worked for her reelection and to the voters of the 14th district who endorsed her record and pledged herself to "continue to stand for the same things and fight the same battles as in the past, since I assume that that is the premise upon which I was elected." Her statement follows in full:

Now that the recent campaign has passed into history, I wish to thank the good friends who carried on my campaign in my absence as a delegate to the United Nations. I also wish to extend my thanks to the voters of the district for their endorsement of my record and to assure them that, regardless of the radical change in the political complexion of congress, I shall continue to stand for the same things and fight the same battles as in the past, since I assume that that is the premise upon which I was elected.

Further, I wish to state that I am proud and happy over the manner in which my campaign was conducted. Before I left for the United Nations assembly; it was agreed among myself, my campaign manager, and my various district leaders, that, regardless of what happened in the ensuing weeks, the question of race was never to appear in my campaign in any manner.

This injunction, I am informed, was carried out to the letter. The campaign on the West Side neither circulated race propaganda nor engaged in sly race-baiting by references to "our distinguished Negro opponent." This fact, in conjunction with the huge vote cast for me on the East Side, means that I have again been elected by the liberals and progressives of all races and nationalities. On no other basis could I have accepted election, for I would not know how to comport myself as a representative of White Supremacy.

South African Leader Would Place Union Under UN Rule

NEW YORK—"If I had any seat in the United Nations council, I think one of the first things I would do would be to put my own country, South Africa, under trusteeship, in order to enable all sections of South Africa's population to get justice and fair play."

This was the statement made by Dr. Alfred B. Xuma, president general of the African National Congress, at a press conference arranged by the Council on African Affairs shortly after he arrived in New York from Johannesburg.

As the only African representative of his country who is here in New York, Dr. Xuma has no status with the all-white official South African delegation. Dr. Xuma said that this delegation and General Smuts represent only the 2 million white people in his country. "I, he said, "represent 8 million Africans who are opposed to most of the things that our delegation have come for to the United Nations—that is, the incorporation of South West Africa into the Union and also the disabilities against which the Indians are fighting.

"The Indians are supported by all non-Europeans in South Africa, including my own organization, the African National Congress, because we feel that freedom, justice and liberty are indivisible.

"If UNO fails to take up the Indian question, if it fails to listen to some of the appeals and claims of the underprivileged, UNO, so far as those groups are concerned, will become just an empty shell and nothing to hope for," Dr. Xuma said.

Continuing, he emphasized that "Africans, Indians and progressive whites are opposed to the annexation of South West Africa because the Union has proved its unfitness to retain even trusteeship jurisdiction over the 300,000 black people in South West Africa."

The African leader expressed loyalty to his country, but said that he had fought and would continue to fight "to save South Africa from itself." The whole policy of his country, he said, was dictated by the extreme reactionary forces, "and is one which politically, educationally, economically, industrially, restrains and restricts the natural advancement and progress of the Africans."

This statement was documented with a detailed account and statistics relative to the landlessness of the Africans, their declining health, lack of educational facilities, industrial discrimination restricting Africans to unskilled labor, denial of trade union recognition to black workers, and the mass arrests of and brutal police violence meted out to African workers who defied the law denying them the right to strike. He stated that the recent mine workers' strike in which over 50,000 Africans participated was broken by the police, "simply because lead is harder than human flesh."

General Smuts was described by Dr. Xuma as a "statesman abroad and a politician at home," and he mentioned that it had been necessary for him to fly 10,000 miles from Johannesburg to New York in order to meet General Smuts, his prime minister, face to face. This happened at the recent Herald Tribune Forum at which General Smuts spoke.

Matthews' Tactic Frees Client of Narcotic Charge

Phineas Goodloe was freed of a charge of possession of marihuana cigarettes this week when his attorney, Charles H. Matthews, showed that police testimony apparently rational on the surface was in fact contradictory.

Goodloe was arrested last Sept. 22 while nonchalantly matching coins with a friend on East Fifth street when two rookie officers thought they detected something sinister in the action of the two men because two other men were in a huddle near them. The officers made a rush for the four men, found some marihuana cigarettes on two of them, and charged each man with possession of marijuana in separate complaints.

When Goodloe appeared for trial in Superior Judge Harold B. Landreth's court, each officer, on the motion of Attorney Matthews, was excluded from the courtroom while the other was on the witness stand. On cross examination, Attorney Matthews produced all the evidence presented at the separate preliminary hearings of the four men, showed that each of the two officers had testified that he was the one who had reached into Goodloe's pocket, removed two marijuana cigarettes, booked the cigarettes as evidence.

Obviously only one of the officers could have found the cigarettes. From their testimony, it was impossible to determine which one, if either had found any cigarettes on Goodloe and Judge Landreth promptly found Goodloe not guilty.

Farm Youth in 4-H Clubs Win Awards for Outstanding Work

RALEIGH, N. C.—Practically all 4-H clubbers in the county, teachers, farmers and farm agents assembled at the Chapel here recently to hear the Hon. Josephus Daniels predict the expanding opportunities which lie ahead for farmers and artisans.

He urged parents to learn in a practical way the things which the young people have already demonstrated; urged the training of the head and hand together to bring about changes in our social order; and referred to the glorious Roosevelt Era and the Alphabet Age, stating that it had changed the I.O.U. in farm language to F.S.A.—Farm Security Administration.

Daniels reported that F.S.A. had caused to flow in the coffers of North Carolina $18,000,000 to be used by tenants and sharecroppers to own farms and become more independent.

Awards were made the following achievements — gardening, cows, poultry, cotton production, pig and pork production, sweet potatoes, room improvements, garden improvements, tobacco, corn, food preparation, peanuts, handicraft, wild life, exhibition at a recent State Fair and Junior Cattle Show.

Today's Youth

Suppose you were a visitor from another planet making a hurried visit to this Earth and observing the forms of animal life, most likely you would be most impressed by the relative weakness of the human race. You would note that certain animals are stronger, swifter, and have more acute senses of hearing, taste, and smell than man. Animals are also sturdier and more capable of thriving under conditions that men couldn't endure. They are physically rated above man.

Then, after this brief survey, you may wonder how the frail human came into possession of the earth and dominated these stronger animals. The simple answer to this question is that man can learn more than animals can. He has found out how to educate himself and to adapt his environment to his needs. Man delves into the past and uses the experience of those who have gone before him. He causes complicated machines to do his bidding. Through education he learns to reason and to achieve mastery. Man is equipped with curiosity which prods him on to learn and invent. The farther man goes with his education, the more civilized and unlike animals he becomes; the more he assumes the real stature of man.

Large fields of adventure lie before those who are mentally curious, energetic, alert and, above all, ambitious. For instance, if a person stops sleeping there must be something wrong physically; so if a person stops wanting to learn there is something wrong with him mentally. Books give the unsurpassed opportunity of studying and reliving the dramatic moments of the past; real science and uncover the mysteries of the universe, and read literature and meet the greatest thinkers of all time.

Yes, the education that offers these benefits is not a temporary but a lifetime job. The student gets started at a job while still in school. During his school years he begins to acquire an education. His habits of thinking, reading, and discussion form; and he should try to maintain these habits throughout his life. Always learning, growing in power, culture, and satisfaction, never stopping by the wayside or taking wrong shortcuts, but going straight forward always. If, through education, we are able to dominate the stronger animals, surely through education we can thrive to dominate and abolish racial discrimination and all other problems which grow up from the fact that we are just ignorant. Through education alone can we advance; and schools give us these opportunities. Think of your future always.

Wealthy Socialites File Countercharges In Divorce Action

(SCP) — Two prominent and wealthy socialites were involved in a divorce action this week when Ethel George, 33, 437 E. 52nd st., filed a cross complaint against Arthur George, who filed suit for divorce against his wife last week. Both charged cruelty.

They were married in April, 1938, and separated in February, 1946. They have no children. Mrs. George says that her husband has an income of $2000 a month, or more.

Employment topped 40-million in Sept. for the first time since 1944, reports the gov't. The 40,147,000 jobs were a 266,000 gain in one month. There's still 2-million jobless.

Revokes Rental Permit Of Kelly Kar Company

(SCP)—The Kelley r Co. has been put out of the car rental business by a decree of the police commission.

The company's car rental permit at 1215 S. Figueroa st. was cancelled after a hearing charging misrepresentation in an auto deal, but was allowed to retain its two used car lot licenses.

The revocation of the permit was asked by Capt. H. M. Lorenson, chief investigator for the commission. Frank N. Valenzuela, 232 E. Chestnut st., Monrovia, had complained that the company's employes had swindled him when he thought he was buying a new car and found he lost his old car and rented another for $200 per month.

Water from the faucet enters the outer cylinder, passes through the perforations to the rotating vegetable, and drains out below.

Last Minute Decision Averts Showdown in Washington NAACP Over Contested Appointment

WASHINGTON, D. C. (NNPA)—An eleventh hour decision of the executive committee this week averted a membership showdown on who is to be the executive secretary of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here.

Following a heated controversy over the dismissal of Mrs. Beatrice Reed as administrative assistant of the local branch and the hiring of William A. Hill as executive secretary, a corresponding position, a local membership meeting was called to consider the controversy. The meeting was held at John Wesley A.M.E. Zion Church last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Reid's dismissal last August and the hiring of Hill caused a split in the local branch and brought from George H. Rycraw, an executive committee member, the charge that Mrs. Reid was dismissed because she would not carry out the biddings of Eugene Davidson, another executive committee member. Rycraw later resigned.

At the membership meeting Sunday, George E. C. Hayes, branch president, reported that the executive committee had met the night before and decided to appoint a new committee to reopen hearings on the qualifications of applicants for the executice secretaryship which Hill now holds.

Haye's announcement came as a surpris to the NAACP members who met at the church to decide whether or not the executive committee had acted with authority in abolishing Mrs. Reid's position creating a new one, and naming Hill to fill it without consulting the membership body.

The tension created by the forces aligned with either Mrs. Reid or Hill was indicated at the very outset of the meeting when Rev. Robert W. Brooks, pastor of Lincoln Temple Congregational church, in his opening prayer sought divine aid "that our decisions in the future may be worthy of our accomplishments in the past."

The new committee, which has not yet been named by Hayes, will not include any members of the original personnel committee which first heard applicants and selected Mr. Hill for the job.

The new committee will be charged with the responsibility of reviewing all applications for the position and submitting a report to the membership body at a meeting December 15.

Only business actually transacted at the meeting Sunday was the selection of a nominating committee to nominate officers for the local branch for the coming year. The seven-man committee selected included Thomas Frazier, Rev. Gill Spotswood, Rev. E. W. Brooks, W. A. Haynes, Mrs. Eunice Johnson, Austin Fickling and Ulysses S. Tate.

Wiley Professor Blasts Myths of Race and Class in Frank Talk to Students of University of Texas

AUSTIN, Texas—Standing in a packed auditorium, on the campus of Texas university, from which President Homer Rainey had been fired for his liberal policies, Melvin B. Tolson, professor of English at Wiley college, blasted the myths of race and class superiority. For two hours his pointed epigrams evoked thought, while his eloquence and mastery of facts held the audience.

The Daily Texan, official organ of the university, carried quotations and a summary of the speech on its front page. It was the most dynamic speech ever made here in the struggle for minority rights.

The Daily Texan pointed out that Tolson blasted three groups: (1) the government; (2) the upper classes; (3) and the weak-kneed intellectuals. He declared himself a defender of the rights of the underdog, the little people, all over the world. He said that in modern society we find "a government of the big boys, by the big boys and for the big boys." That's the reason Negroes find themselves hemmed in by jim-crow laws and white Southerners by poverty.

Speaking of his friend, Dr. Frank Dobie, visiting professor at Cambridge university, England, who had just been attacked by Governor Coke Stevenson, Tolson said: "During great crises and struggles for human rights, many intellectuals get cold dfeet, and to warm them they climb into an ivory tower, like T. S. Eliot and Claude McKay. The ytalk about 'spiritual.' ues. That's the of hypocrisy that keeps the fighting these dirty battles, bloody struggles, for racial and social democracy."

Tolson said "freedom of speech" in the United States is a myth. Every Negro in the South knows that. Since Truman fired Henry Wallace, every member of the Cabinet of the United States knows that. "Freedom of speech" means the freedom to say what the big boys want said. Ask Wallace. Ask Rogge. Ask William Hastie, ex-member of the Black Cabinet.

The Daily Texan emphasized Tolson's argument that: "Civilization is made up first of economics, out of which come laws an dethics. The upperdogs regard laws as number one; the underdogs, ethics as number one. The Haves enact laws. The Have-nots use moral appear. A man at the top of a mountain can never see what the men at the foot of the mountain sees. Therefore, morality is the weapon of the weak to curb the power of strong. That's the reason the southern highways are crowded with Negro leaders on their way to the supreme court of the United States. The makers of jim-crow laws were ignorant men; therefore, they left the laws full of loopholes."

When the author of Rendezvous With America finished, he was given a great ovation. The points made in his speech were widely discussed on the campus. Tolson's long poem, Dark Symphony, won the National Poetry Prize in Chicago.

THE CHINESE-AMERICAN DEMOCRATIC YOUTH LEAGUE

Dear Chum:

We saw it. That oft-times illusive thing called "democracy." And it really was an eloquent expression of democracy in action.

As California County Leaders of American Youth for Democracy, we were up in San Francisco this week-end attending a State Council. It was after our heap big pow-wow Saturday afternoon that we were entertained as the guest of the Chinese-American Democratic Youth League.

It was an evening we'll never forget.

We went to the CADYL clubhouse at 812 Stockton Street, walked down a steep flight of stairs and stood dumbly, blinking in astonishment.

What we saw was almost unbelievable.

It was a miniature reproduction of the United Nations.

Young people of as many races and nationalities as we could name. Among them Hawaiians and Negroes, Indonesians and Caucasians, Chinese and Filippinoes.

The atmosphere of friendship and good-will was almost tangible as these young people danced together. Played together, chatted and drank together.

I'm afraid our hosts must have been laughing at the expressions on our faces, but very graciously they answered the questions that poured from our lips.

And this is the story of the Chinese American Democratic Youth League.

In the summer of 1942, during the celebration of "Seven-seven," a group of young people from three different organizations got together in order to participate as one in the big parade.

They got along so splendidly that they assembled again for the "Ten-ten" celebration which took place three months later. Shortly after that, the representatives of the three clubs decided to join hands and form an independent organization in which everyone would be invited to participate.

This was the beginning — the birth — of the Chinese Youth League, later to be known as the Chinese American Democratic Youth League.

There were many problems facing these young people, most important of which was a place where they could meet regularly. Well, they got together, these young people, and rented a place to hold meetings. Just an old basement, really.

Then the hard work began. The months of planning, working, waiting. Unable to get building material because of shortages resulting from war production, members of CADYL, ranging from 18 to 25 years of age, formulated a war-time program of club activity.

They published a magazine in the Chinese language sending it free of charge to over 3,000 Chinese soldiers; became an active vital factor in helping to keep up the morale of servicemen; and gained recognition as an effective force in the community as they launched campaigns toward the building of civic unity and peace.

During this time, bit by bit, they cleaned up the place, and when ing and fixtures, painted, laid floors and did the thousands and materials became available, remodeled it, installed electrical wir- one other things necessary for the completion of the now-beautiful clubhouse.

And this is how they did it. By pooling their strength, resources and talents. It took six months of hard work. Time made up from after-school hours, or hours after work on the job. But they did it!

Taking their problems to the people of the community, they won the support of club sponsors who helped by contributing pieces of furniture, games, and a little of this and that.

But finally it was finished. A tribute to the foresight, industry and ambition of its young members. Their years of planning and working finally materialized into living reality.

Those of us from AYD must have looked a bit silly because we walked around with our mouths hanging open. That's how impressed we were! And out of our mouths flowed question after question. I'm afraid we gave our hosts a time of it.

These are some of the questions we hurled at members of the CADYL. How much did it cost to publish the magazine? $200 per issue. How often was the magazine printed? Every month. How did you raise the money for publication? Through presentation of 2 plays to the public which netted $3,800 in cash.

Do you wonder why we gasped?

We learned that the clubhouse is always open. That there are membership meetings every month and committee meetings twice a month. And most important of all, there is some activity going on at the clubhouse every evening.

There's the drama group which writes and presents its own plays, the choral group, sports teams, dancing classes and dozens of other activities.

And this is an idea of how effective these groups are. One of the plays which members wrote, acted and produced was awarded second prize in a radio dramatization contest.

The choral group? Well, you should have been there to hear them sing songs of the Chinese people and the ever-stirring United Nations Song.

As for political action, members of the league worked on elections, fought for FEPC No. 11, endorsed progressive candidates, and initiated militant campaigns leading to establishment of better civic conditions, building of the peace, and unity of all youth.

It is very inspiring, chum. This story of the Chinese American youth.

Their hospitality was wonderful. Warm . . . gracious . . . sincere. The refreshments . . . delicious. And the entertainment? Out of this world! Including the orchestra of young Hawaiians who not only played and sang folk songs, but who did a bang-up job on the purely American "Be-Baba-Le-Bop".

We're grateful to our Chinese friends for the inspiration they've given us. And believe me when I say that many an ALDer has returned home with a gleam in his eye and a plan to work towards the establishmen of community centers throughout Los Angeles where young people may meet together for constructive work and play.

Your chum,
Yvonne.

AYD Has State Council Meet; Endorses 'Oust Bilbo' Drive

SAN FRANCISCO — County leaders of American Youth for Democracy assembled here over the week-end to attend a State Council meeting where they pooled experiences, evaluated working techniques and planned activities for the coming months.

Delegates from teen-age, collegiate and youth adult divisions of AYD clubs in every section of California discussed the building of individual clubs through the presentation of well-rounded programs including political activity, sports, recreation and socials.

Plans formulated by the three divisions include holding of statewide basketball tournaments, an art contest, initiation of a campaign for lower food prices in school cafeterias and participation in the "Oust Bilboe" campaign recently launched by the Southern Negro Youth Congress.

Appreciation for the assistance given striking seamen by AYD members was voiced by Louis Pinson, Educational Director, National Union of Maritime Cooks and Stewards, CIO.

In a report given by Bernice Pinchback, Los Angeles Membership Director, it was disclosed that there are close to 2000 AYDers in California. Vicki Landish, Los Angeles County Secretary, urged all clubs to renew their efforts to reach the fund drive goal which ends next month.

An evaluation of the Nov. 5 elections was given by Doug Roberts who stressed the fact that progressive forces must not assume an attitude of defeatism because of the outcome of the elections, but must see in the defeat an incentive to work harder.

Yvonne Shepherd, west coast delegate to the Youth Legislature held recently in Columbia, S. C., gave a report of the terrific success of the SNYC-sponsored meeting and of the excellent job the Southern Negro Youth Congress is doing.

In a summary report, Howie Ross, Los Angeles Executive Secretary, congratulated the young people for their militant attitude and urged the day-to-day struggle against pro-fascist elements in this nation, as well as those abroad.

Youth, Adults Are Attracted To Playgrounds

Older folks are taking an increased interest in the recreational possibilities of municipal playgrounds and the number of elderly men and women entered in activities is growing along with increased attendance of children, youth and young adults, Superintendent George Hjelte stated in a recent report to the Los Angeles City Recreation Commission.

Among the variety of activities for oldsters now flourishing at playgrounds are stamp clubs, photography, old-fashioned dancing, horseshoe pitching, leathercraft, sewing, drawing, ceramics, painting, sculpture, handicrafts, weaving, orchestras, choruses, chess and checkers, card clubs, gardening and social activities.

Aids Vets Unable To Enroll at USC

The CPA approved construction of a $135,000 music and arts camp at Idylwild in the San Jacinto mountains, where the ex-GIs will be sent for their courses.

Further units for the project will eventually lead to construction of 10 dormitories, six music studios, a library, infirmary, dining hall and four practice buildings. In addition, cabins are available for 300 families on a rental basis at Idylwild.

Blind Youth Is Awarded Badge At Annual Eagle Scout Dinner

Eagle Scouts and their hosts, numbering 400 in attendance at the second annual Eagle Scout dinner at the Biltmore Ballroom last Friday, articipated in the Scout Jamboree radio broadcast which is a regular feature of station KFI. Radio Scoutmaster Clem Glass and Jimmy VanDeveer dispatched a select group of the Scouts throughout the hotel to record the number of good turns they could perform. The radio group interviewed some of the prominent citizens in attendance.

Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., was the principal speaker of the evening and was introduced by John Henry Russell, president of the Los Angeles Scout organization, who served as toastmaster.

Aubrey Metcalf, Eagle Scout of Troop 608, represented the Eagle Scouts and delivered a stirring message on the responsibility of participating citizenship and challenged the adult hosts to so conduct their business, church, and home affairs in order to set an example for the youth of today.

Proudest of all the Scouts present was 15-year-old Ronnie Sanders, who despite the fact that he is totally blind, won the Eagle Scout Badge after three years diligently working on the part, ably assisted by his Scoutmaster, R. C. Cochran of Culver City.

Johnson's acceptance of the Fisk university presidency, students and faculty spontaneously honored the president-elect with a special program in Memorial Chapel last week, followed by an informal reception in historic Jubilee hall. Playground to Close If Funds Are Not Granted

A request for $200,000 to be added to the budget of the City Recreation Department and thus enable it to maintain its present program for the rest of the 1946-47 fiscal year, is being considered this week by the Los Angeles City Council following its recommendation by Mayor Fletcher Bowron.

The money requested would not permit any additions or expansion but would allow the Recreation Department to continue its present operations. Without it, the city would be faced with the necessity of closing down 20 of the existing 52 municipal playgrounds and also ending its recreation service to children in public housing projects.

Members of Negro Youth Congress To Assist Farm Extension Agents

To help get needed farm and home improvement information to sharecroppers, tenants, and small farm owners, the Southern Negro Youth Congress is calling on its members to organize into committees during summer vacation time and assist Extension agents in getting their message across.

The congress is suggesting that these youth committees make use of dramatics and music in the presentation and interpretation of important factual information about agriculture.

The suggestion for assisting Extension agents was contained in a resolution prepared by a SNYC farm panel and endorsed by the body at its recent convention in Columbia, S. C.

Other recommendations included in the resolution were: Increased credit facilities for low-income farmers, the inclusion of farm workers under the Federal Wage and Hour law, improved living conditions and medical care services in rural areas, and increased diversification in the cotton region.

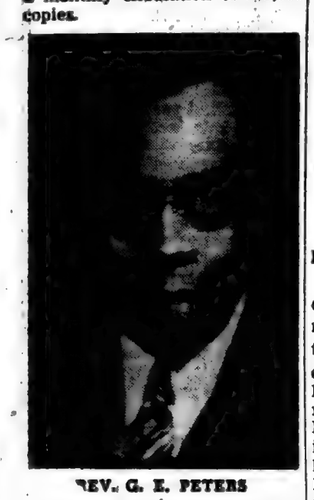
Seventh-Day Adventist Leader Coming West to Conduct Series Of Radio and Pulpit Speeches

On an extensive speaking tour of the Western States, the Rev. George E. Peters, high-ranking Negro executive of the World Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists from Washington, D. C., will arrive in Los Angeles early next week to begin his series of pulpit and radio addresses in Southern California.

Accompanying the Rev. Peters will be Editor Louis B. Reynolds of Nashville, Tenn., editor of the "Message" magazine which has a monthly circulation of 125,000 copies.



REV. G. E. PETERS

Rev. Peters has the oversight of 245 churches in the United States with a membership of nearly 20,000. The tithe and mission offerings from this membership amounted to $1,378,889 for the year 1945. This amount does not include gifts for local educational and building fund projects.

Seventh-day Adventists carry on extensive mission work in Africa. Their largest yearly mission appropriations go for educational and medical work in that great and needy continent. Recently the Rev. and Mrs. Nathaniel Banks, whose parents live in Pasadena and Los Angeles, went as missionaries to take charge of the work in Liberia. Accompanying them were two other couples from America.

LOCAL DOCTOR TO ETHIOPIA

Dr. and Mrs. Warren Harrison of Pasadena are under appointment of the Seventh-day Adventist mission board to go to Ethiopia as medical missionaries. Dr. Harrison is a graduate of medicine from the College of Medical Evangelists here in California and has just completed his internship at the Harlem Hospital. On their way to Africa they are expected to visit in California while Rev. Peters is in this area.

Rev. Peters and Reynolds are scheduled for this first service at the Compton Avenue Seventh-day Adventist church, corner of Compton ave. and 109th st., Wednesday, Nov. 20, 7:45 p. m., with the Rev. Harold A. Lindsey, the pastor, as host. Rev. Owen A. Troy, western denominational representative, will take the visitors to San Diego for services in the Beacon Light church on Saturday morning, Nov. 23. On Sunday evening, Nov. 24, the visitors will speak at the Shiloh church in San Bernardino.

Vesper Worship Speaker Sunday

GREENSEBORO, N. C.—Benjamin E. Mays, well-known religious and educational leader, will address the students of A. & T. college here in their vesper worship service on Sunday afternoon, November 17.

Dr. Mays, one of the most widely read authors and columnists among religious writers, is co-author of "The Negroes' Church" and author of "The Negroes' God." He also writes a weekly column for one of the largest Negro newspapers and has written for many of the large religious and educational journals.

Recognized in educational circles as one of the foremost scholars, Dr. Mays, who was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity while a student at Bates college, received his doctorate from the University of Chicago. He is president of Morehouse college of Atlanta, Ga.

Among the erudite educator's more recent accomplishments is his election to the vice-presidency of the Federal Council of Churches, a nation-wide organization of religious leaders.

On her return to the city she will be the guest speaker at the beautiful temple of Rev. L. L. Beavers.

temple of Rev. L. L. Beavers. These poetic lines were the farewell words of Rev. I. Woolfork to her friends and admirers:

I will follow the upward road of Christ today;
I will keep my face to the beautiful life of Christ;
I will think high thoughts as I go on my way;
I will do what's right to help them on their way;
I will look for the flowers by the side of the road;
I will teach them to laugh and love and be strong;
I will try to lighten another burdened heart as I step by;
To live in Christ and never die.

Sunday School Lesson

Subject: Paul Minister to the Thessalonians. Devotional reading, 1. John 5:1-5. Lesson text and outline, Acts 17:1-7; 1. Thessalonians 1:2-8. Motto text Thes. 3:13.

Introduction

Thessalonica (now called Salonika), situated at the head of the Thermaic gulf in the midst of a most fertile district, was at the time of Paul the metropolis and a free city, governed by seven native politarchs and occupied by a mixed population of Jews, Greeks, and Romans. Hither Paul came after release from the Phil. jail. For three Sabbaths he preached in the synagogue (the only one in all this region) with such power that fierce persecution followed, and he was compelled to flee for his life, but not before the establishment of a Christian community.

In this new church some Jews were gathered, but in all probability the majority were Gentiles. His brief say in Thessalonica had enabled Paul to win a number of converts, but gave him no time to develop them in work and doctrine. Driven by violence from the city, he was forced to leave the infant church exposed to various errors, subject to persecution, and with but imperfect conceptions of duty. Disappointed in his own desire and purpose to revisit them, he sent Timothy to encourage them and inform him of their condition. This report of Timothy reached the apostle at Corinth two or three months after he had left Thessalonica, and occasioned the immediate writing of this letter.

Comments

1. The preaching of the gospel should be both scriptural preaching and rational; such Paul's was, for he reasoned out of the scriptures: we must take the scriptures for our foundation, our oracle, and touchstone, and then reason out of them and upon them, and against those who, though they pretend zeal for the scriptures, yet wrest them to their own destruction. Reason must not be set up in competition with the scripture, but it must be made use of in explaining and applying the scripture. Gospel ministers should preach Christ; he must be their principal subject; their business is to bring people acquainted with Him. That which we are to preach concerning Jesus is that He is Christ; and therefore we may hope to be saved by Him and are bound to be ruled by Him. If Christ is faithful ministers, even those that are most quiet in the land, be invidiously misrepresented and miscalled, let them not think it strange nor be exasperated by it; we are not better than Paul and Silas, who were thus abused.

2. As there is much that we ought to be thankful for on the behalf of ourselves and our friends, so there is much occasion of constant prayer for further supplies of good. All those who in the fulness of time are effectually called and sanctified were from eternity elected and chosen to salvation. The election of God is of His own good pleasure and mere grace, not for the sake of any merit in who are chosen. The election of God may be known by the fruit thereof.

Rev. Marshall Preaches Sun.

The Rev. Paul M. Marshall, minister of the Carver Memorial Community church at 1105 E. 21st st., will deliver the second sermon of a series on the general theme "Lord, Teach Us How to Pray," 7 p. m. Sunday, November 17.

Last Sunday morning marked the beginning of the series which was "Spontaneous Prayer."

Whenever we are giving thanks to God for His grace either to ourselves or others, we should run up the streams to the fountain, and give thanks to God for His electing love, by which we are made to differ. It came by the Holy Ghost, that is, with the powerful energy of the divine Spirit. Wherever the gospel comes in power, it is to be attributed to the operation of the Holy Ghost; and unless the Spirit of God accompanies the word of God, to render it effectual by His power, it will be to us but as a dead letter; and the letter killeth, it is the Spirit that giveth life.

Baha'i Lecture

"God Is the Lord of History" is the subject of the lecture to be given by Mrs. Charles Reed Bishop on Sunday afternoon, November 17, at 3 o'clock at Los Angeles Baha'i headquarters, 321 S. New Hampshire avenue.

The prophet is the manifestation of God on earth, the divinely appointed mediator between God and man. The manifestation comes to the world approximately every thousand years and the cycle of human life is the reign of a revealed religion. The fundamental aim and purpose of all prophets has been identical. Each prophet has foretold the coming of the next manifestation and made faith in God conditional upon acceptance of the later prophet. The light is the same in each lamp.

Go through, go through the gates; prepare ye the way of the people; cast up, cast up the highway; gather out the stones; lift up a standard for the people.

—Isaiah 62:10.

People's Funeral Home Now Offers Airplane Service

In keeping with its policy to provide its hundreds of patrons with the most modern and up-to-date conveniences, the People's Funeral Home this week announced an airplane service for shipments anywhere in the United States.

Because of the importance of time in present-day civilization, Norman W. Hopkins, vice president and manager of People's Funeral Home said that patrons will find air service in reality more economical than using the railroads.

Persons wishing to attend the service ofa loved one or friend, or who wish to accompany the remains to any distant city, will find that traveling by air will reduce the loss of time from their work to a minimum, the manager pointed out.

Analyzing The Situation

By DON LORING

There is a heck of a lot happening around us daily which the full-time reporters fail to acknowledge, but that does not mean that they are not doing a good job. To the contrary they are doing a marvelous job in keeping the public informed. But they are so busy covering the big happenings they overlook the little things which so many of us wonder about. Some consideration should be given to the little happenings because they are the headlines of tomorrow. All summed up this means that I'll be here every week to tell about various events which did not make the news. And also to offer some advice and criticisms so as to remedy the given situation. I shall also use this column to criticize events and people so the next time they run up against certain circumstances they will think twice before they react.

As an example as to what this column will be about, let us get on the subject of Negro publications. It was brought to my attention some time ago that there are no Negro newspapers on sale at Los Angeles' Union Station. As many times as I have been in and out of the Union Station it never occurred to me to buy a Negro paper there. Well, I decided to investigate and learn for myself if there was any truth in the report.

There are four newsstands in the Union Station, where one can purchase newspapers, magazines, candies, cigarettes, and many other articles which we care to take with us on our trip. Well, I approached all the stands and to my utter surprise among the many periodicals offered for sale there wasn't one published by Negroes. The operators of two of the small stands had never heard of the local Negro papers. How strange! Upon closer observation I noticed they offered for sale the Negro Traveler and a few copies of Richard Wright's "Black Boy." So it couldn't be prejudice. Maybe it's the delinquency of sales managers of the local publications who have not as yet approached the managers of these newsstands.

I think many newcomers to our fair city would appreciate purchasing a Negro paper so they can learn right off what L. A. Negroes are doing. Also there may be some who might want to know where the best hotels are located. They certainly wouldn't get this information from the local daily papers because the only news printed about Negroes is scandalous. What about it, folks?

Next week I'll have something more to tell you and let Central Avenue beware.

Editor's Note: Readers can help immensely by asking for The EAGLE at the newsstands mentioned above. Meantime, our circulation department will again take up the question with these stands of handling The EAGLE.

no child is born "bad"

Want of something better to do . . . lack of wholesome ways to let off healthy energy . . . unwholesome influences . . . these are the ingredients of delinquency. Don't blame the child . . . blame the adults who have failed to provide healthy recreational facilities and influences for a young generation raised under the hysterical influences of war-swollen populations. 361,000 girls and boys in the Los Angeles area look to us to do something about it . . . now! If you and other good citizens ignore this grave responsibility . . . where will our families, our communities, our nation end up?

WHAT YOUR COMMUNITY CHEST DOES ABOUT IT . . .

The Community Chest includes 43 agencies serving 167,913 boys and girls with vocational classes, social groups, clubs, recreational settlements, camps, and other wholesome activities. Included is the Youth Project, attacking delinquency in eight underprivileged areas. This is only 40% of the young people that should be reached by your Community Chest.

WILEY COLLEGE WILL PLAY IN ANGEL BOWL

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

Because this scribe has used up plenty space on the ability of Johnny Haynes, the heavyweight fighter who was knocked out by Pat Comiskey last week, we thought it wise to give our opinion on this timely subject as to why Haynes was kayoed. Okay, so his chin got in the way . . . but you can't get off that light, Chum, Johnny's chin got in the way too many times that night. The ropes held him up on some of these occasions, other times he just wasn't hit solidly enough for a knockdown. Haynes demonstrated lots of courage on that night. We could call some fighters by name who would have politely requested the referee to halt the fight, because Johnny took a terrific and bloody beating before being stopped. Now on to Johnny's faults . . . this is strictly for the benefit of his manager and trainer and if Johnny sees this we hope that he'll read it to them word for word. Haynes has the goods to make a good fighter. I've said it once and I'll keep on saying it . . . but the guy just doesn't have any defense. He is too easily hit . . . he's too wide open. His brain trust should concentrate on teaching him defense and stay with it until he has acquired one. He has a good punch, he moves about the ring fairly well for a big man and he has courage. If his trainers can't teach him the one thing he lacks they should start selling pencils on the corner of 7th and Broadway and give up the boxing game. Lack of good common sense was also shown by these masterminds when Comiskey came pretty near killing their man in one of the rounds and not a peep was heard from his corner. The towel should have sailed into the ring on that occasion. We hope that the guys will see that Johnny gets his lessons in defense from now on daily . . . or else manager, trainer and Johnny himself should all turn their licenses in to the State Athletic commission.

SPORT QUICKIES

Heavyweight Turkey Thompson has gone up into the mountains to get his massive frame into condition. Back after 19 months on the island of Okinawa, and I'm happy to say, in time for Thanksgiving Day, the "Turkey" will campaign again in the boxing ring . . . Ray (Sugar) Robinson, who is a welterweight, just won't let those middleweights alone. Jake LaMotta was the only man to beat 'Sugar' and he's a middle. Last Wednesday night Ray tried conclusions with another middleweight, one Artie Levine from Brooklyn . . . and almost got himself kayoed, taking a nine count in the fourth heat. Well, "Sugar" beat the count and chilled his man in the tenth and final stanza and all ended well. The moral is . . . stay in your own division. That weight among the smaller divisions makes a whale of a lot of difference. It is hard for Ray to get fights in his division in the east but I'd place a bet that he'd get plenty ring work if he campaigned for awhile in California . . . Jack Chase, the local light-heavyweight, who confided in me that old age was catching up with him just a few weeks ago, will have to take that tall tale somewhere else. Last Wednesday night Jack held the high-ranking Archie Moore to a draw at Oakland . . . and that's pretty nice going for a guy who's beginning to feel his age . . . You fellas who like to go duck hunting kindly be advised that the sport is good just now in the Bakersfield area. Around Lake Irvine and Henshaw the shooting is pretty good also . . . Jackie Robinson made his bow here with the Los Angeles Red Devils pro basketball team last Friday and Saturday nights against the Wisconsin Redskins at the Olympic. Speed is a wonderful thing and that Jackie keed is a streak of greased lightning. He's great in baseball and he is equally great on the cage floor. Think of what a marvelous team you'd have if you had five Jackie Robinsons on the court! . . . UCLA ranks second under Army among the nation's top college football teams for 1946 . . . Speaking of the Bruins, several Negro basketball players are expected to assume starring roles this cage season. Three of the bronze ball-handlers are Don Barksdale, Joe Oliver and E. Campbell. Which all goes to say and allows me to wind up this column by predicting that UCLA will have an A-No. 1 team this year.

Sugar Robinson Hits Deck But Kayoes Levine

CLEVELAND — Ray (Sugar) Robinson, 150, had to get up from the canvas after a fourth-round nine count knockdown last Wednesday night, to score a knockdown over Artie Levine, 159¼, of Brooklyn in 2m. 41s. of the last round of a scheduled 10-round main bout, before 12,102 fans here, who paid 83,171.98 into the till.

The "Sugarman" had a lead over Levine despite the knockdown, which was accomplished with a left hook to the chin. Prior to this bout Levine had run up a string of five knockouts in the local arena.

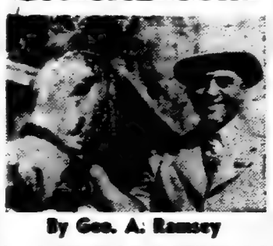
ON THE TURF



By Geo. A. Ramsey

HIPODROMO DE TIJUANA—Facing bad weather the races here last Saturday were hard to dope due to the changing condition of the track. The feature event found good Sabine Rose coming from next to last place in the run for home to score by two lengths over a good field and pay $9.20 for $2. Stepioch missed a killing by two lengths when Jockey B. Fisk had to pull him up slightly entering the stretch. He paid $12.40 to place and $8 to show.

In the secondary attraction Vegas Street caught the tiring longshot Count Alert in the last stride to win by the shortest of noses. King's Gambit, the public choice, finished fifth.

One of the biggest daily-double payoffs in many weeks brought happiness to the lucky holders of the combination of Gerdra in the second race and Arizona Rose in the third. The payoff was $401.20. The quiniela with the combination of Valley Center and Mighty Midget paid $16.20.

This Sunday General Manager Augustin Silveyra will offer two feature attractions to support the 10-race program. The first will be "the Tidelands" and "the Yosemite" the second. Post time will remain at noon. So until Sunday, keep smiling. Famous last words of the horse players, "The saddle slipped." So-long.

GEORGE.

Rudy Cruz in Easy Victory

Rudy Cruz, up-and-coming young lightweight, scored an easy 10-round decision over Eddie Hudson, 135, at Hollywood Legion stadium last Friday night. The verdict was unanimous.

Cruz, scaling 136 pounds, was the aggressor throughout the bout and battered the game but ineffective Hudson from pillar to post to run up plenty points.

Football Dope

By Gole Post

As the old grid season rolls down the home-stretch, upsets and elimination of unbeaten teams prevail. On the West Coast among the colleges U.C.L.A. (as expected) kept her slate clean by trampling Oregon, 14-0; Washington tripped Stanford, 21-15; Southern California topped California, 14-0; and Santa Clara drew with Arizona, 21-21.

The local pro teams took beatings last Sunday. In the National League at the L. A. Coliseum before 68,000 fans (the largest ever to see a professional game in California) the Los Angeles Rams bowed to the Chicago Bears, 27-21. The New York Yankees took a thriller from the Los Angeles Dons, 17-12, in New York. This was an All-America loop game. In the same league the Cleveland Browns won over the San Francisco '49ers, 14-7.

Wildcats Opponent Not Yet Selected

Wiley college of Texas, 1946 national football champions, with an outstanding 1946 record, formally accepted the Angel Bowl Association's invitation to play in the first annual Angel Bowl game in Los Angeles Saturday night, December 28, at Wrigley Field, against an opponent to be selected later among the nation's best in Negro Intercollegiate competition.

The selection of Wiley College will be hailed with enthusiasm in Los Angeles where Wiley graduates and former students are numbered in the hundreds, and where the enviable record of Wiley's Football Teams is known to thousands.

The Wiley College Club of Los Angeles, one of the city's most popular social groups, is sure to take an active part in welcoming and entertaining the players and Wiley supporters who, reports say, follow their team by plane, train and automobile.

Fred T. Long, head coach of the Wiley Wildcats, and Dean of Football mentors in the Southwest, will bring to Los Angeles his 1945 National Champions with only All-American Sherley Ross, half back, Henry Carrel, full, and Satch Turner, tackle missing from the lineup. The Wildcats first stringers are Ritcherson of Waco, and Cutten from Dallas, ends. Cook from Houston, and Riddle of San Antonio, tackles. Keyes and Moses, both of Houston, guards, and veteran center Strayhan of the same city.

In the backfield will be V. Hicks from Waco, sensational quarter, Fisher of Waco, and Peoples of Houston, halfbacks, and Jones of Dallas, fullback.

While Wiley's first team seems to be Texas born and Texas bred, Jimmie Moore, returned service man and former Ardmore, Okla., prep star, Bill Swenton of Little Rock, Ark., Halliday of Tallahassee, Fla., Enge of Oklahoma City, Jess Bell from St. Louis, Mo., and McGray of Toledo, Ohio, give the reegulars the support that makes Wiley's grid squad the best in the Southwest.

The Wildcats opponents in the Angel Bowl Game are yet to be selected. Negotiations are now underway with Tennessee, Florida A. and M., Lincoln, and Tuskegee with Tennessee's great eleven as first choice if the Nashville squad is given the permission to make the trip.

Plays Fullback On Kansas '11'

TOPEKA—Paul Strickland, former Riverside Poly Soph, is now listed as the starting fullback for the Kansas Vocational school. His team has won two out of three contests played thus far. He plans to return to San Francisco State college in September of 1947.

Frankie Moore Fights Hanbury At Legion Fri.

Lew Hanbury of Washington, D. C., a stablemate of Sammy Kaplow, who was to have met John Thomas here Tuesday night, will battle Frankie Moore of Oakland in the 10-round main event at Hollywood Legion stadium Friday night.

Hanbury, who is managed by Al Weill, will be making his West Coast debut and comes here with a splendid eastern record.

Matchmaker Charley McDonald has arranged a card of excellent preliminary bouts to support the headliner.

John Thomas Winner by TKO Over Leo Rodak at Olympic

John Thomas, foremost contender for the world's lightweight title, had easy sailing as he disposed of Leo Rodak via the technical kayo route in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round main event bout at the Olympic Tuesday night.

Rodak, a Chicago veteran, was no match for Thomas, who cut him to ribbons and caused Dr. Lloyd Mace, the house physician, after an examination, to ask the referee to halt the bout, due to a cut over Rodak's left eye. The cut was sustained by Rodak in the third heat.

A snappy left jab and devastating left hooks to the body piled up plenty points for Thomas as he took the role of the aggressor from the start of the battle.

Thomas scaled 140 to 139 for Rodak.

Pee Wee Swingler, 126¼, scored a handy six-round decision over Andy Vasquez, 127, in the semi-final, slapping his Mexican foe to the canvas for a nine count in the fourth.

In one of the best of the four, Chuck Cureton, 137, decisioned Al Sandoval, 136. Sammy Williams, 131½, drew with Vince Padilla, 131, in another four.

Wilberforce to Play Lincoln

PHILADELPHIA — (NNPA) — Wilberforce university, of Xenia, Ohio, will travel to Philadelphia to clash with the Lions of Lincoln university in an intersectional classic at Shibe Park, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 16.

Rens Will Play L. A. Red Devils

Newest sport in this athletically-minded town is professional basketball, which made its bow at the Olympic last week-end. Fans get their second helping this Friday and Saturday night when the Los Angeles Red Devils import the Harlem Renaissance Five, better known as the "Rens" from New York. The Rens hold a host of world records, have been competing for 26 years, and are proudest of having won 88 consecutive games.

Star of the local quintet is the ever-popular Jackie Robinson, who was a sensation at UCLA and during the past summer was the only Negro in organized baseball, playing for Montreal where he led his club in hitting. Jackie plays forward for the Devils in as capable a manner as he did for the Bruins.

Ellington in Two Carnegie Hall Concerts

NEW YORK—When DUKE ELLINGTON and his orchestra take over the Carnegie Hall stage on November 23 and 24 for their annual jazz concert, it will be the first time that a popular band has held this hallowed hall for two consecutive days. Ellington shatters two more precedents this year. He will play music other than his own—that of W. C. Handy, and he will feature an artist not of his orchestra—Django Rheinhardt, the famed French jazz guitarist.

☆ THEATRES—NIGHT SPOTS ☆

GOING PLACES—El Herbert (insert) and band, who have just completed a nine-week engagement at the Blue Turban in Long Beach, an aristocratic club, have moved into the House of Rhythm, another smart spot in the same town. Miss Kremer returns to this country after six years in Latin America.

Italian, French, Spanish and Russian folk songs are on her program for Saturday's concert, according to manager Mary Bran, of the International Artists Bureau.

ISA KREMER

"There is no name more international than that of Isa Kremer," Miss Bran stated. "She was the first to transform the concert into theatre and without resorting to make-up, costume or decor, she creates a series of images which reach a high degree of artistic realism."

Doings at The LINCOLN

PFC. WILLIE WRIGHT from Shreveport, La., with a record of three years in the U. S. Army and a discharge insignia on his well worn uniform, wandered into the Lincoln theatre last Thursday night. The attendant at the door handed him back the stub of his ticket, and Private Wright, who was just killing time until he could board a train for Shreveport, tucked it carelessly in his pocket. During the Ten-O-Win Game, a certain number was called from the stage: He pulled out the stub and his eyes bulged when he discovered that the winning number was his!

Private Wright walked out of the Lincoln in a daze with one hundred and fifty dollars (cash) in his hand and a determination to move back to Los Angeles after paying his respects to Shreveport. And the picture was "Don't Gamble With Strangers." How about that!

'Jazz Cavalcade' A Reader's 'Must'

HOLLYWOOD—Charges that the radio and motion picture industries are guilty of "brushing off" the creative talents of Negro performers highlight a healthy portion of the text of Dave Dexter's new book, "Jazz Cavalcade," which will be published this week by Criterion Books of New York City.

Dexter, widely known editor and writer who broadcasts twice weekly over Stations KLAC and KFWB in Hollywood, is a former editor of "Down Beat" magazine and is internationall noted for his efforts in behalf of jazz and jazz musicians.

The foreward to "Jazz Cavalcade" has been written by Orson Welles, famous actor and liberal. The book contain approximately 30 unusual photographs, many of them never before printed.

Slashing at radio and film factory executives with logic and documentary evidence, Dexter devotes separate chapters of "Jazz Cavalcade" to an articulate plea for wider opportunities. He points out that the King Cole Trio is the only colored attraction to be featured on a sponsored network stanza regularly, and that for more than a decade (until the new Cole program for Wildfoot was launched in October) the doors were closed to Negro performers.

As for the film industry, its refusal to portray the modern American Negro in his true light—its repeated casting of him in menial, exaggerated "Uncle Tom roles"—takes a lambasting rarely offered by white writers. Suggestions as to how this situation can be remedied, and how true democracy can succeed despite the pressure of the South, and its citizenry, are humbly but forcefully offered by Dexter in the "Jazz Cavalacade" text.

The book, comprising some 300 pages, traces the wondrous story of American hot music from its birth to its present position of eminence in the culture of the world. Every jazz musician who has ever made a recording is mentioned in the sixteen chapters. One chapter is devoted to a full history of jazz on 60 available record sides, covering the field from the Original Dixieland Jazz Band to the Erroll Garners, Dizzy Gillespies and Stan Kentons of 1946.

Lionel Hampton rates "Jazz Cavalcade" as the "best reading on the subject ever printed." Duke Ellington and Louis Armstrong are reportedly similarly enthused. The book, first tome to be authored by Dexter in his 15 years as a writer-editor, has just been placed in America's book, record and music stores all over the nation—including the deep South.

Magic Due at Wilshire Ebell

A thrilling circus of magic is promised patrons of Wilshire Ebell Theater when the Great Virgil, famous magician and international illusionist brings his full company of wonder workers for their only Southern California performances on December 12, 13 and 14.

Tons of equipment, scenery, birds and animals, and illusions far surpassing anything assembled on one stage, together with many gorgeous costumes, special lighting effects and background properties will be seen during Virgil's full evening entertainment.

Among the many features of this year's extravaganza will be the grand entrance spectacle, in which witches and demons conjure up ghosts and goblins, and finally through the aid of the magic cauldron, the very spirit of Satan himself is involked, appearing in a huge sulphurous cloud.

All seats are reserved at popular prices and are now on sale at the theater, all mutual agencies and all magic stores.

Bishop defeated Tilloston, 47-0, in their Homecoming game before 25,000 last Saturday.

COUNT BASIE approves the galley proofs of Dave Dexter's "Jazz Cavalcade" book to be published next week by Criterion Books of New York. Dexter, shown with Basie above in Hollywood, has been one of the Count's closest friends since they both lived in Kansas City in the early 1930's. "Jazz Cavalcade" features a foreword by Orson Welles, and is likely to prove extremely unpopular with reactionary groups in the deep South.

Carol Brice in Dec. 'Ebony'

NEW YORK—Carol Brice, whose voice was called a "voice like a cello" by Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, director of the Boston Philharmonic orchestra, is featured in the December issue of Ebony magazine.

The article comments on the fact that seven years after the day Carol Brice began singing at St. Georges Episcopal church in New York City, the singer had reached the position in the musical world where she could demand $1850 per appearance. In other words, Carol Brice has done in seven years what it takes the average singer 25 years to do.

Buddy Banks Scores Again

Buddy Banks, the big little man of music, and his famous sextet who gave the country that sensational hit record "Voo-It Voo-It," has scored again in the Buddy Banks fashion. This time it's on Excelsior Records on four natural hits that simply will not miss on juke boxes and home phonographs. The songs recorded are "Fluffy's Debut," a torrid boogie featuring Fluffy Hunter on the vocal who does a terrific riff style of singing to set the record off to a fast pace. "Banks' Boogie" more than holds its own for the mate side of the record.

From all indications, "Hi-Jinks Blues," backed with "Name It and Claim It," is the outstanding record of the foursome. Fluffy Hunter does the torch chirping of the "Hi-Jinks Blues" ballad in fine and mellow fashion.

Many music critics have predicted that a sensational new singing star is none other than Fluffy Hunter. The personnel of the Buddy Banks Sextet are: Buddy Banks, leader and tenor saxophone; William "Frosty" Pyles, guitar; Monk McFay, drums; Earl Knight, piano; Wallace Huff, trombone; William Day, bass, and Fluffy Hunter, vocalist.

Virginia Patten, Liberty Films starlet featured in "It's a Wonderful Life," has been asked to give the principal address at the annual meeting of Zeta Phi Eta, national professional dramatic serority.

Meet Uncle Remus

(From An Interview by California EAGLE Reporter, Don Loring)

Uncle Remus is a kind, sympathetic, philosophical and loveable old man who tells his tales of Br'er Fox to all who'll listen. Created by Joel Chandler, Uncle Remus makes his appearance on the screen this week in "The Song of the South."

In real life there's little difference in Uncle Remus and the man who portrays him, James Basquette. During an interview with him I could imagine myself listening to him as Uncle Remus, telling me his tales of Br'er Fox. Past 40, James Basquette has come a long way in the theatrical world, and if I may quote Claudette Colbert; " He is an accomplished actor and everyone feels that he will go far in the industry."

Born in Indianapolis, Ind. his career began in high school; he had planned to study pharmacology, but after several school plays he decided he loved acting more than the study of treating medicines. A member of a little theatre organization in his city he got booking with a minstrel show and played with it about a year. He left the minstrel show and returned to school. While doing school plays a show playing his home town recognized his talents and engaged him. A short time later he left this show and joined a one man minstrel show, singing, dancing, and doing dramatic sketches for $12 a week.

At New Orleans, La. the minstrel "disbanded" and he joined the Theatrical Owners Booking Association, doing stock work. He was the first Negro to entertain at New Orleans' St. Charles Hotel. Stayed with the TOBA for nearly six years when he joined the Drake & Walker outfit which played the East coast and at that time was considered to be one of the best theatrical troupes.

From here on Basquette continued to climb. He got a contract at RKO's Alhambra theatre in New York for two weeks and stayed two years. After finishing the Alhambra he signed with the "Hot Chocolates" on Broadway in 1929. A short spell of illness delayed his work and after recovery he returned to the Alhambra. Leaving the Alhambra again he joined the Bill Robinson-Eddie Brown tour, doing the "circuit." Fays theatre in Philadelphia; Royal in Baltimore; Howard in Washington, D. C.; and the Apollo in New York where they signed a two week contract and stayed 18 months. Played around New York for a while and Eddie Green of Duffy's Tavern fame got him his first radio show, a one hour program for Trawmer Beer.

In 1943 when Jimmie Marshall opened the Lincoln theatre, Los Angeles, he sent for James to play ten weeks, he stayed 19 months. While playing the Lincoln he signed a seven year contract with the Amos n' Andy show and was also employed by the Disney studio to do the voice of two well known caricatures; "The Fox" and "The Grasshopper."

When Walt Disney hit upon the idea to produce Uncle emus, his first full length production combining natural life with animated cartoons, his biggest problem was who could do Uncle Remus. James had no hope of doing it in as much as there are so many more experienced actors in Hollywood, nevertheless he got a call from Disney asking him to try for it. He made the test and got the role.

James Basquette is by no means elated over his remarkable success, he contributes it to his interest and love for the work. The theatre is his "greatest love" as he puts it, but he shares that love with his small family. Comprising his family is his wife, very charming woman, indeed, who seems to be devoted to him and vice versa. During the interview she helped him along the road of memory and they both rejoiced as they recalled past events of note. The third member of the family, their dog, Laddie has a definite place in the household and is loved and cherished by them both.

Like all success stories, Baskett says he's had his downs as well as ups. A singer and dancer his greatest interest is drama, but having for many years done stock work he fits into any phase of the theatre. He loves his work and feels he's just beginning. This writer would be willing to lay a wager that James Basquette will make international fame, and contributing to it wil be his role as Uncle Remus in 'Song of The South" which had it's world primiere in Alabama Nov. 12. Supporting him is Ruth Warrick and Bobby Driscol.

Contents of a telegram sent James Basquette from Ralph McGill—Editor Atlanta Constitution: "Just this morning saw private showing of 'Song Of The South.' I want to congratulate you on one of the finest performances I ever saw and am old stock man myself. Br'er Fox was next and I understand you did the voice for that, too. It's swell all around. Someday I hope to be able to tell you in person.

ELECTION RETURNS SHOW NEGRO WARY OF GOP

Negroes Led Suffrage Vote In U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Three polling places, all in colored neighborhoods, voted unanimously for suffrage in the District of Columbia last Tuesday as Negroes showed the way to other Washington residents in indicating their desire to participate in local and national elections.

The three precincts casting unanimous votes for local and national suffrage were precinct 22 in the Cardozo high school, precinct 38 at the Merrit school in Deanwood, and precinct 41, which adjoins precinct 38 in Deanwood.

The Cardozo precinct recorded 2793 votes for home rule and 2790 for national representation in Congress with no votes recorded against either.

Precinct 38 voted 697 to 0 for both home rule and national representation, while precinct 41 cast 937 votes for home and national rule with none against it.

Although the 169,654 who turned out to vote in the city-wide plebescite was 80,000 short of the quarter million people expected to participate, plebescite authorities said the Capitol's Negro population gave both national and local suffrage a much larger majority than whites who participated in the plebiscite.

Four Elected To Missouri Legislature

By LUCILLE BLUFORD

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (NNPA)—Four Negroes, two Democrats, two Republicans, were elected in the November 5 elections to the Missouri legislature—three from St. Louis and one from Kansas City. The Kansas Citian is James McKinley Neal, Democrat, who survived the Republican avalanche which descended even upon President Truman's Jackson county.

Neal, a druggist, defeated Julius B. Jones, Republican, in the fourth legislative district. He is the first colored Democrat ever sent to the legislature from Kansas City.

St. Louis legislators elected are Josiah C. Thomas, Republican; William Massingale, Democrat, and J. C. Bush, Republican.

Dr. G. J. Dixon, St. Louis physician, was elected magistrate in the third district of St. Louis.

In Kansas City colored voters supported Enos A. Axtell, whom they helped to nominate in the August Democratic primary, defeating the incumbent, Representative Roger C. Slaughter, whose vote in the Houes Rules Committee resulted in a 6-6 tie, blocking House consideration of fair employment practice legislation. The vote was Reeves 42,032, Axtell 30,476.

Axtell carried the Negro wards but was unable to survive the Republican sweep in nine white wards. He was defeated by his Republican opponent, Albert L. Reeves Jr., son of a federal judge.

Representative John B. Sullivan, of St. Louis, also was defeated in the Republican sweep.

In Kansas City, Kansas, William H. Towers, veteran Republican member of the Kansas legislature, was re-elected. There was no Democratic opposition to him.

Fred White, the first colored person to serve as Wyandotte county commissioner, was re-elected for a second term of four years. He is one of three county commissioners who conduct the business of the county.

University of Southern California is well represented in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life." Ward Bond, Todd Karns and Virginia Patton, all of whom have top featured roles in the picture, were students at the college.

Chicago So'side Returns Dawson, Backs Demos

CHICAGO (NNPA) — Holding the line against the Republican landslide which buried Democratic candidates in the city, state and nation, Chicago's Southside voters gave substantial majorities to Democratic candidates in the November 5 elections.

Incumbent Democrats, including Representative William L. Dawson, County Commissioner Edward M. Sneed and State Senator Christopher C. Wimbish were returned to office. Three other Negro Democrats were elected to the state legislature.

Balloting in the second and third wards—the city's greatest concentration of colored voters—gave the Democrats a comfortable lead on straight ballots and split tickets.

Outstanding triumph was that of Dawson, who was re-elected over his opponent, Republican William E. King, by a vote of 37,410 to 28,202 with three precincts of 184 missing.

Senator Wimbish collected 30,761 votes to eliminate Attorney Benjamin C. Clanton, who received 27,501.

Commissioner "Mike" Sneed mustered 701,313 votes to remain on the county board in a photo-finish contest.

Other Democratic victories included re-elections of State Representatives Corneal A. Davis of the first senatorial district; Fred J. Smith, third district, and Charles M. Sykes, fifth district.

Republicans returned to the state assembly were Representatives Edward A. Welters, first district, and Charles J. Kenkins in the third district.

Voting on issues rather than negative campaign oratory, voters here in one of the nation's largest urban Negro communities kept polling places buzzing with activity—duplicating the election turnout of 1944. Voters in the second and third wards for the most part ignored smear talk that Dawson was a bedfellow of Mississippi's Rankin and Bilbo. An estimated 77 per cent of the 118,054 registered voters in the two wards marched to the polls.

The first ward—with 35 per cent Negro voters—cast 13,490 votes, giving the Democrats a substantial majority. In the fourth ward, 31,223 were cast out of 47,355 registered, with a 33 per cent colored vote. Also going Democratic was the fifth ward, where Negroes comprised 33 per cent of 51,270 voters.

Reports Increase In Rent Overcharges

(SCP)—"Rent control was never more important than it is now," Ben C. Koepke, OPA rent chief for Southern California, declared yesterday. He added that the pressure to raise rentals is stronger than ever.

Property owners renting a dwelling for the first time set the rent themselves, and then hope that the OPA will not think the figure too high. But, according to Koepke, four out of five landlords set too high a figure, and in the year attempts to overcharge have increased sharply.

In October, Koepke disclosed that the OPA ordered $38,801 in reduction on first-time rentals of 1463 units, compared to reduction in October, 1945 of $38,865 on 2478 dwellings or 70 percent more units.

The average rollback in October, 1946, was $26 per unit per month, compared to $15 in October, 1945.

Five Negroes Are Elected to Penn. Assembly

PHILADELPHIA — (NNPA)—Five Negro Republicans were elected to the state assembly in the November 5 election, defeating four incumbent Negro Democrats. The new assemblymen are Lewis M. Mintess, William A. Upshur, Jr., Dr. Edwin F. Thompson, Howard M. Henry and Rev. Clarence M. Smith.

Smith is a Baptist minister. Mintess formerly served in the state legislature, but was defeated two years ago by a white man, who did not run this time, his place being taken by a woman, Mrs. Mayme Jones Jason. Dr. Thompson, a dentist, served several terms as a Democrat in the New Deal heyday, jumping two years ago to the G. O. P.

The winners were opposed by the following Negro candidates: Mrs. Jason, Thomas P. Trent, incumbent; Lee P. Myhan, incumbent; Rev. Dennie W. Hoggard, Baptist pastor, incumbent, and J. Thompson Pettigrew, incumbent, all on the Democratic ticket.

Watts Inter-Club Council Maps Plans for Community Activity

After chalking up an outstanding record of practical work for FEPC, distribution of leaflets and sponsorship of a dance, proceeds of which were given to the FEPC Committee, the Watts Inter-Club Council is now busy mapping plans for future community activities.

The Council, organized only two months ago, is composed of nine clubs of young people between the ages of 18 and 22 who have united in the belief that through combined activity they can help achieve better civic conditions for the people of the Southeast district.

Florence Duncan, temporary chairman, and Clementine Taylor, secretary, have reported that the Council is winning recognition as a vital force in the life of the community.

Immediate projects facing this group of interracial youth include unifying and enlarging the Council; promotion of better interracial harmony and cooperation; and the establishment of a community center in the area available to all youth.

Raid on Crap Game Nets 2 Men, 3 Women

(SCP)—Attracted by cries of "Come on, you boxcars," police yesterday interrupted a friendly crap game allegedly in progress at 1942 Adair street.

After a quick look in the window, John C. McGowan, 43, of 649 E. 42nd place; Homer Miner, 44, of 652 E. 35th street, both waiters; Gertrude McDade, 37, housewife, 4320 Compton avenue; Marie Peters, 46, of 5210 Long Beach boulevard, also a housewife, were booked for gambling.

Fannie Belton, 32, the hostess at the 1942 Adair street home, was also booked.

Starts Probe of Mystery Death Of Prisoner

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—What is tantamount to a legal lynching in the District of Columbia is under investigation by the United State's marshal's office as the result of the mysterious death of Charles W. Scott, 24, who was held over for 24 hours in municipal court November 1, despite injuries.

Scott died in the District Jail 24 hours later. Judge George Neilson had requested Scott's hospitalization, but he was kept four hours in sole custody of the marshal's office and never returned to any hospital for treatment.

United States Marshal Michael Kearney refused to comment until the investigation is completed.

Scott, who lived at 476 O street northwest, was being held in connection with the death of Policeman Harry E. Hamilton. Driving a stolen car, Scott was spotted by Detectives Hamilton and Clyde O. Rouse. They leaped to the sides of the car and were hurled off when the car crashed. Private Hamilton died shortly afterward of his injuries and Detective Rouse is still in critical condition.

Taken to Gallinger Hospital, his superficial cuts were dressed and Scott was turned over to the police.

Arraigned before Judge Neilson, Scott was barely able to stand while murder charges were being read to him. Judge Neilson asked that the prisoner be returned to the hospital. His request was ignored, although it was stamped on Scott's papers. Scott died less than 24 hours later.

Farm Group Completes 5-Yr. Improvement Plan

WASHINGTON—A model farming community with neat, well-painted homes, and modern conveniences has been the outcome of a five-year beautification program begun in Union county, Arkansas, in 1941, says a report received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from the Arkansas State Extension Service.

The report points out that Negro home demonstration club women chose home beautification as a project when their homes had to be moved to make way for the erection of an ammonia plant. The club women met with Miss Marguerite P. Williams, Negro home demonstration agent of the county, and planned a five-year home improvement program.

Included in their home improvement is a well-rounded home food production program, year-around gardens, poultry flocks, milk cows and home orchards.

A Letter and an Answer

By Clarence S. Smith

The recent campaign for election of congressional representative in the 14th District brought to our attention the inconsistency in reasoning of some of our so-called leaders and influential citizens. In this campaign there was running for congressman an American of African descent, honest and a highly-respected business man in the community, active in church and civic affairs, and outstanding in all matters that make for the betterment not only of his race but of his community; a university graduate, a member of a highly-respected family, an outstanding orator and a pioneer in political endeavor in this state in the person of Frederick M. Roberts.

Roberts was the first Negro to represent the people of California in the state legislature where he served for 16 years. During his tenure of office he served on many important committees and was author of our most important civil rights bills in this state as well as being foremost in the passage of educational, human welfare, financial and other important legislation of state-wide importance. His political career was such as to commend him not only to the Negro voters of the 14th District, but had won for him the support of a major political party and of the leading press and organizations of that party.

Roberts offered perhaps the best opportunity Negroes in California will have for some time to come to send a representative to congress in that, by a strange freak of politics, he had captured the nomination of a main political party which throughout the state and country in this particular election was riding the crest of victory, and with the full support of his own people who in an unusual instance of this sort would have been expected to lay aside all partisan political lines and throw him their full support, could very easily have been elected. As it was, he lost only by a very small margin.

As we have said, he had the training, the prestige, the ability to ably represent us—in fact, everything we so often deplore as lacking in those who aspire to public office among us. Notwithstanding all of this, many of our Negro leaders came out and openly fought to defeat him and succeeded in doing so. Now the question on many lips is, why? That is the question which this writer also wishes to raise. It seems to us that in the stand these leaders took in this campaign and the reasoning they advanced for their actions, they are merely giving lip service to the gospel they have been preaching so long to the community about race pride and advancement. They profess one thing but when the opportunity presents itself to practice what they profess they fail to act.

We have sat and listened to hours of oratory in which these so-called leaders have berated and accused the other group of treating us as second-class citizens and of saying we were incapable of holding responsible office or positions, yet when it came their way to help elevate one of our group who was ably qualified for the office he was seeking, and in so doing to help raise all of us from the rank of second-class citizens, they throw their support to someone else, using the inconsistent excuse that a person of some other group can more effectively represent us than one of our own with equal training and ability; that one who knows nothing of our problems and humiliations from experience can do more for us in representing us and helping to solve these problems for us than can one of us. It would sound just as reasonable for the people of Los Angeles to advocate a man from San Francisco as being better able to represent this city and more capable of presenting their problems than a man from their own city.

I am a member of the executive board of the Los Angeles branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and as such have listened many times to some of these same leaders fume and fuss and appoint committees to call on city, county, state, and federal officials to demand that they appoint competent Negroes to office, yet when it lies within their grasp to help elect a competent Negro to office, do they do it? I have heard them complain about Negroes not being upgraded in industry and call meeting after meeting to express resentment because personnel officers in various industries inferred that a Negro was not as capable of performing certain tasks as whites, yet when the opportunity presents itself for them to choose between the capabilities of two persons of equal ability and training but of different race, whom do they choose?

As we see it, the defeat of Roberts in last Tuesday's election can be laid directly at the door of the inconsistency of this type of Negro leadership. Is it any wonder that many of the men on the street corners and of those of the less favored of our group so far as opportunities are concerned are asking if we "have not been sold down the river" by these so-called leaders. I leave you to draw your own conclusion.

(Signed) CLARENCE S. SMITH,
1361 E. 47st St., Los Angeles.

Florence Bates, veteran character actress now portraying a landlady with plenty of rooms to let in Warner Bros.' comedy, "Love and Learn," has just received an eviction notice from her own landlord.

Nicki Marcellino, twice awarded the Purple Heart in the U. S. Marine Corps, was Bette Davis's personal make-up man during production of "Deception" at Warner Bros.

By Cyril Briggs

The California EAGLE proudly takes its place among those community leaders who supported Helen Gahagan Douglas for re-election in the 14th district, refused to be swayed by the racial issue injected into the campaign by the Republicans in their tricky nomination of a Negro to oppose Mrs. Douglas.

On one point we agree with Mr. Smith. That nomination was "a strange freak of politics." It was that and more. It was a strategy of confusion, dreamed up by a coalition of reactionary forces, including native fascist elements, in a desperate effort to cloud the issues involved, defeat a proven friend of the Negro and other minority groups. It was no accident that those whites who most lustily supported Frederick M. Roberts as lustily opposed Proposition 11, FEPC.

We have no quarrel with Mr. Smith's list of the qualifications of Mr. Roberts. Mr. Roberts' capabilities were not an issue in the campaign. The real issue was whether the Negro people should participate in the political lynching of a tried and true friend, make common cause with the reactionaries who sought to purge Mrs. Douglas from congress precisely because of her fearless championship of minority groups and progressive legislation by which these groups benefit most.

In this projected political lynching Mr. Roberts unfortunately joined with his smear attacks on Mrs. Douglas as a "Communist," as a "pipeline" to Moscow and similar arrant nonsense. Apart from these smear attacks on Mrs. Douglas, Mr. Roberts had no program of his own. Or if he had, he never voiced it.

The California EAGLE and those leaders of the NAACP to whom Mr. Smith refers refused to be a part of any political lynching of one who had proved her worth and mettle in many a battle against the traducers of the Negro people. The Negro voters of the 14th district upheld us in that position.

The Negro people gained in stature by refusing to throw a proven friend to the wolves; they proved to the nation and the world that we can recognize and reward friendship and service, that we are consistent in our demand that each individual be judged according to his merits rather than according to the degree of skin pigmentation.

Our status as second-class citizens, to which Mr. Smith refers, would not have been changed one whit by the election of a candidate who, judging by his characterization of a Roosevelt Democrat as a "Communist" took his cues and his program from the most reactionary circles of the Republican party. On the contrary, that second-class citizenship can be changed only by electing to office more progressives, Negro and white, like Helen Gahagan Douglas.

During the past 15 years more Negroes have been appointed to public office than during the previous 50 years. And more Negroes were elected to public office, too, through the coalition of labor, the Negro people and other progressive forces which supported New Deal policies. Even President Truman has given Negroes more important appointments, including the governorship of the Virgin Islands, than had any Republican administration.

Our inferior citizenship status, buttressed by decades of Republican rule, was greatly improved under the New Deal, and precisely through the efforts of Helen Gahagan Douglas and other progressives. It can be further improved by adherence to progressive ideals, support of progressive candidates for office.

As to who sold who "down the river," we will let the big money boys who poured tens of thousands of dollars into their campaign to defeat Mrs. Douglas answer that one. They know which leaders they could not corrupt, what Negro newspaper they could not buy out.

Research Speeds Up Cotton Mechanization

Cotton research as an aid to mechanization and economical production of an ample supply o fthe right kinds of fiber provides a good example of the present-day complexity of scientific agriculture.

In the first place, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, geneticists are developing varieties that produce good yields of the kinds of fiber wanted, cotton that are resistant to disease and that are suitable for modern methods of harvesting and ginning.

Too, engineers are working up designs of all sorts of new machines for picking and new equipment and processes for ginning, cleaning and compressing the fiber. And finally, communities are being organized so a sto limit them to the production of one suitable variety—a movement that now affects 40 percent of the acreage and 45 percent of the output of the cotton belt and enables manufacturers to cut costs and better their products.

Workers in one group may help to solve problems that had been considered up to another group. For example, cotton breeders are producing varieties with slick glossy leaves that do not stick to the fiber as ordinary rough surfaced leaves do. Such cotton makes it easier for the gin cleaning device to do its job and facilitates mechanical picking.

to provide emergency housing for veterans, particularly by veterans belonging to the United Negro and Allied Veterans of America.

Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., in the 22nd Congressional district, led his Republican opponent, Grant Reynolds, by 13,209.

Reynolds also a Negro, was supported by all of the conservative daily newspapers, including The New York Times, The Daily News, The World-Telegram, The New York Sun, and The Herald Tribune. In addition, he received financial backing from many big business groups.

During the campaign his opponents made much of this issue, calling him a stooge for Governor Dewey and big business, and it is believed this issue contributed to his defeat.

Powell did not campaign until the last ten days before election, and two weeks ago it was even money that Reynolds would beat him. Powell's whirlwind finish during the last week of the campaign got results.

The vote for Benjamin J. Davis Jr., Communist candidate for attorney general, was 86,297 in New York City. He received 26,986 in Manhattan, 20,734 in the Bronx, 31,428 in Kings, 6,801 in Queens and 353 in Richmond. Communist campaign headquarters estimated a vote of about 6000 for Davis in the rest of the State.

There were 15 Negro candidates for office in the New York City area. The election results involving them were as follows:

Powell, Democrat and American Labor, reelected, 32,722 votes to 19,513 for Reynolds.

Charles Collins, American Labor party, defeated for state senate, 15,219 votes to 28,035 for Joseph Richter, white Republican, and 27,870 for Harold Ira Panken, white Democrat.

In Manhattan, William T. Andrews, Harold A. Stevens and William E. Prince, Democrats, and Hulan E. Jack, Democrat-American Labor, were reelected to the state assembly. Mrs. Richardson has demanded a recount.

In Brooklyn, Maude B. Richardson, Republican, received 9674 votes for the state assembly, but lost to John J. Walsh, white Democrat, who polled 9689 votes. In the same contest, Ada B. Jackson, Americal Labor party, received 4397 votes.

Councilman Benjamin J. Davis Jr., Communist, for state attorney general, lost but polled more than 90,000 votes—far more than most optimistic predictions. Charles Charles Evans, Communist, for City Council from Queens, lost, polling 4552 votes.

J. Finley Wilson, Republican, for state senate, polled 32,000 votes to 55,523 for Alexander A. Falk, white, Democrat-American Labor-Liberal.

Roy Soden, American Labor party, for congress from the Bronx, polled 24,373 votes to 39,280 for the incumbent, Benjamin J. Rabin, white, Democrat, and 17,062 for David Scher, white, Republican.

Cyril Stephens, American Labor, Manhattan, for state assembly, polled 4143 votes against his colored opponent, Prince, who received 5576.

Chester Addison, Bronx, American Labor, for state assembly, polled 10,719 votes to 14,322 for Louis Peck, white, Democrat.

Girl Who Lost Unborn Baby in Accident Joins Companion in Action

driven by a Mr. Grogan, co-defendent.

Wright asked $17,000, contending that:

- The loss of Mrs. Judy's unborn child could not be paid for in cash.
- Mrs. Ham lost nearly $700 in wages, plus doctor bills and injury to health.
- Mrs. Ham's husband had to remain at home to care for her, with a resultant loss in pay.

Other witnesses called by Atty. Wright corroborated the stories of the plaintiffs and despite attempts by Atty. Ray Stanberry to discredit them, the ultimate effect of their testimony remained unchanged.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

SOMEONE said:

So many Gods, so many creeds, so many paths that wind and lead,
When just the art of being kind is all this sad world needs.

These are pretty words. They appeal to the aesthetic emotion. But I am wondering if we understand the real meaning conveyed in them.

It seems that men and even nations have created their own separate, distinct Gods. Hate devised paths that suit their convenience or fancy; even to the extent of running roughshod over the rights and liberties of others.

Racist, religious, and political hatreds provide the framework for a new sort of world war that has followed close on the heels of World War II.

Most of the people's and the nations' god is greed.

IN BOTH world wars England saw her cities, towns, and farms laid waste by the enemy's bombs. She saw her people suffering from starvation and deprivation of the things that make for comfort and contentment.

Yes, England was in tears and calling for help, but like Pharaoh of old who refused to let the Israelite captives go until after he had been visited by many plagues, the second World War's ravages on Great Britain's people, her industries, and her morale has not softened her treatment or loosened her grip on her Indian and African colonies. On these her yoke is harder and the burdens of taxation are heavier.

And more than this. The whole world frowns on Britain because of her persecution of the Jewish people whose only crime committed is a desire to return to Palestine, the land of their nativity.

THE United States, like Great Britain, is also piling up a great debt it will have to pay before it can answer, "Yes," to the roll call: Is all clear on the democratic front?

The fact that this nation escaped destruction by bombs in both wars does not lessen its responsibility for rehabilitating the weakened dykes in the foundation of our civilization.

Already the weak spots in the structure of our government show signs of invasion by the Nazi and Fascist hordes who, if not checked now, will destroy our nation and our people even as they destroyed Germany, brought havoc to Italy, and retarded the march of civilization in the Western world.

When the call came to take up arms and move, in the defense of this and all the allied nations involved in the world wars, there were no signs posted saying Japanese, Mexicans, Jews, and Negroes not wanted.

OF COURSE Negro fighters were humiliated everywhere except in convoy duty, where they carried the heavy loads. But these slights and slaps did not discourage them. Like my nephew, John Kinloch, they knew why they were fighting.

John left his place of safety in the war correspondents headquarters, and joined the first mixed infantry formed. As a walkie-talkie in advance of the formation, broadcasting the position of the enemy, he was shot down on German soil.

John did not give his life to have Isaac Woodard's eyes gouged out in the home state of the Secretary of State while he, Mr. Byrnes, gets tough with Russia and sheds crocodile tears over the radio while reading a letter to him by a mother who gave her son also that we might have peace in this sad old world.

John did not think he was giving his life to develop a new order of Fascism in his America.

NO, JOHN did ot die to build concrete walls a foot thick and six feet high and a half mile long to satisfy a real estate developer's desire to shut out from his white customers the sight of Negro families living in squalor on the other side—as one realtor did in Detroit.

We the people—Negro, Mexican, Chinese, Japanese, Jewish, and others who suffer with us—are not deceived by your Red or Communistic scare as being atheistic. We know our enemies by their works. We know whose Gods they worship. It is they, our enemies, who are turning the world to atheism, because they themselves have forsaken the God whom they profess to serve and have gone a-whoring after other gods—the gods of greed, money, selfishness, avarice.

GOP to 'Contest' Election of Helen Douglas

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Apparently on the assumption that too much Republican money was sunk into the 14th California congressional district to tolerate an adverse verdict by the voters of that district, Republicans are planning to contest the election of Representative Gahagan Douglas, a reliable source here disclosed yesterday.

No indication could be obtained as to what form the contest will take. The huge majority piled up by Mrs. Douglas rules out the question of a recount.

The contest will be initiated by Frederick M. Roberts, defeated Republican candidate, with the blessings of the Republican state committee of California, and top national leadership of the GOP, it was reported.

Roberts will be represented by Willis Smith, of Chicago, president of the American Bar Association, and Perry W. Howard, Republican wheel horse and national committeeman from Mississippi. Howard is a member of the firm of Cobb, Howard and Hayes, Washington attorneys.

Indict Three Leaders of Ga. Terror Gang

ATLANTA, Ga.—Emory Burke, president of the Colombians and two other leaders of the terrorist organization were indicted yesterday by a special grand jury.

Burke and Homer L. Loomis, Jr., organizer secretary of the anti-Jewish, anti-Negro society, were indicted on five counts charging usurpation of police authority, a misdemeanor. Conviction on the charge carries a penalty of a year in prison.

James Ralph Childers, 18, holder of the Columbian "badge of honor" for his alleged part in roughing up a Negro last month, was indicted for riot, a felony that could put him behind bars from one to five years.

As the Columbians became more involved in their fight with forces of law and order, Emory

FIRST CHURCH OF DELIVERANCE

REVEREND DON C. STEPHENSON, MINISTER

Rival Choirs Create Din As Stephenson Tries To Take Over Church

By EDWARD (BABE) ANDERSON

"Hold That Line," a chant often heard at this time of year, was the theme when three husky members of the First Church of Deliverance, Inc., E. 102nd and Wilmington ave., stood barring the way as Rev. Don C. Stephenson attempted to enter the pulpit Sunday. Evicted the previous Sunday and finding the doors of the church locked against him, the minister had entered by a back door, only to be met at the pulpit steps by the determined trio. Stephenson's football-like rush up the steps of the pulpit was of no avail. Head down, shoulders grinding against the shins of his obstructors, the pastor was forced to withdraw—the men would not be budged.

As early as 10 a.m., members of the opposing faction had lined the church steps, awaiting whatever action the minister and his group might take. Picket signs, bearing such inscriptions as: "We asked you to vacate," "We are honest," and "Where is your pride," were held by the group who sat in chairs outside the locked doors of the church.

"I want nobody . . . absolutely nobody, to attempt to fight," Charles Mingus head of the opposing group charged his people. "We are peacefully protecting our own rights—$2075 to be exact — that the members of this group have contributed," he elaborated. "If he wants to pay us off, he can have the church."

Leaning heavily upon his crutches, Mingus stood beside Mrs. Pearl C. Garrett, district superintendent of the Cradle Roll of the Independent churches, and Lynne L. Adams, deacon, before

GOP Enemy of FEPC Slated as Majority Leader of U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—A northern foe of permanent fair employment practice and anti-poll tax legislation will become senate majority leader when the Republicans organize the senate next January.

He is Senator Wallace H. White Jr., of Maine, who last Friday announced that he would accept the post of senate majority leader, if the Republican conference would favorably consider him.

Top Republicam leaders, it was reliably reported, have reached a comprise whereby White will become senate majority leader and eSnator Robert A. Taft, Republicam, of Ohio, will continue as chairman of the Republican senate steering committee.

Senator Arthur A. Vandenberg, of Michigan, will be unopposed for president pro tempore of the senate and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and Senator Kenneth S. Wherry, of Nebraska, will be the Republican whip.

Coroner Holds Body For Identification As Investigation Is Begun

(SCP)—The body of an unidentified man, about 21, who died in General Hospital on Sunday from a skull fracture, after allegedly being struck on the head by the barrel of a policeman's revolver, was held in the coroner's office today pending identification.

According to police reports, the man was taken into custody at 5th st. and Towne ave. at 4 a.m. on Sunday by white police officers J. L. Nichols and H. H. Bertch, who were patrolling an alley in the rear where numerous burglaries had been reported recently.

The officers claimed the man turned and started to walk away rapidly when he saw them. When ordered to halt, he broke into a run, officers said, and they turned a flashlight on. When he disregarded another command to halt, Officer Nichols fired a warning shot in the air with his .38 service pistol.

They caught up with the man on Fifth st., the officers reported, and as they approached he removed an object from his left coat pocket and threw it into the street, where it landed with a metallic sound, but "could not be found later."

When the officers came up to him, he put his hand in the same coat pocket, according to the officers, and the officers became cautious, believing he was armed. Nichols came up from behind, and as the man struggled, Nichols struck him

$18,000 Taken In Robbery on Western Avenue

In a daring daytime holdup, two men took a reported $18,000 in jewels, watches and cash from the premises of the Negro-owned Brown Jewelry Co., 3550 S. Western ave., at 4 p.m. Friday. Not bothering to hide their identities by the use of masks, the robbers were easily described by Mrs. Emma Brown, wife of proprietor Noel Brown, 1722 W. 36th st., and watchmaker George Kodama, present at the time of the robbery.

The bandits were described as colored and their ages were reported as being between 18 and 25 years. Brown was away at the time of the incident.

Entering the store, one of them with a .38 calibre revolver in his hand, the robbers held Mrs. Brown and Kodama at bay while

3 Women Sue Bullock's, Charge Service Refusal In Store's Tea Room

Bullock's Tearoom, located on the seventh floor of the downtown department stores, is charged with refusing to serve three colored women in an action filed Saturday through the offices of Atty. Martha Williams.

The action charges that on Nov. 9 at 12:30 p.m. Mrs. Florence Nukes, 3744 Cimarron, Mrs. Idelle Moore and Mrs. Lucy Ewing waited more than an hour for service, but left without eating. When they questioned the management, it is alleged they were told that the management "could not force the help to serve them."

According to Mrs. Nukes, plaintiff, she and her compainions had seated themselves at a table in the tearoom and, after water had been brought, sat around for half an hour, finally asking a waitress if she would take their order.

The women contend that they sat for another 35 to 40 minutes; meanwhile trying to attract the attention of the hostess, who flitted here and there, not seeming to see them.

At 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Nukes reports, she and the other young ladies left the tearoom, explaining, when passing the hostess, that they had not eaten, although they had been there more than an hour.

Date of the trial has not been officials announced.

Nat. Negro Congress Making Strides Here

Rapidly waging to the fore is the National Negro Congress, which has taken a decisive stand on every major issue that has come up since its organization.

Various committees have been set up to carry out the work of the Congress. The committee on police brutality has been meeting weekly in the office of Chairman Leo Gallager. In the editorial room of the EAGLE, the housing committee has been meeting.

All committees, especially the membership committee, are in a drive to put forward the work of the NNC in California. Its influence is greatly needed in a changing and fast growing community, with increasing problems in property restrictions, police brutality, and other reactionary leanings that lead to race clashes and unrest.

WELCOME NEWS FOR MOTORISTS—Officers and directors of the Loyal Automobile Insurance Company of Los Angeles, the first Negro automobile insurance company in California, which began the sale of $450,000 in securities this week. Left to right, Albert T. Patrick; David R. Crawford, treasurer; Wendell E. Larson, president; Forrest A. McCoo Jr., vice president and secretary, and Prince L. Kennedy. All have been active in the insurance, real estate and other businesses here and in other parts of the country for many years.

'No Place for Segregation in a Democracy,' Dr. Johnson Declares In Answer to Alabama Governor

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Answering the statement of Governor Channcey Sparks of Alabama that race segregation is essential, Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, president of the Washington Committee of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare and dean of the Howard medical school, yesterday declared that "there is no place for segregation in a democracy.

Dr. Johnson's statement, prepared for the NNPA News Service, follows, in part:

"The outgoing Governor Sparks made a good beginning in his interview when he stated that Negroes and whites can live together peacefully and harmoniously. Had he stopped there he would have been correct. He destroyed the accuracy of his statement, however, when he added 'only if they recognize that segregation is the first essential of a workable racial society.'

"The pattern of segregation which Governor Sparks advocates is the principal reason why Negroes and whites do not live together peacefully and harmoniously. Segregation assigns to one group an inferior status which is without scientific foundation and which is completely incompatible in anything short of a fascist state. Living together in peace and harmony depends upon an understanding and respect of each group for the other. Contact is essential to an understading and there can be no well-grounded respect without understanding.

"People of good will, whether Northerners or Southerners, whether Negroes, Mongolians or Caucasians find no difficulty living with persons of different races, religions or nationalities when they are permitted to know them.

"There is no place for segregation in a democracy. It is also quite clear that the Boswell amendment to the Alabama constitution is a tactic to evade democratic procedure and to disfranchise any citizen, Negro or white, whom the election officials consider a threat to machine rule. Governor Sparks refers to this amendment as one step in the direction of good Negro-white relations in Alabama—apparently his idea of good Negro-white relations is the slave-master relationship of the pre-Civil War South.

"Even Governor Sparks admits that this amendment requiring the voter to 'understand and explain' any section of the Constitution is merely a ruse and will not be similarly applied to all potential voters. Senator Bilbo last August revealed the intent of such legislation — he stated that it was his intention to change the voting laws in Mississippi to that 'the supreme court could not monkey in their business.' It is a means of circumventin gthe Constitution of the United States and showing contempt for the United States Supreme Court.

"The number of Southern whites who are influenced by the contemptuous statements of Governor Sparks is ever decreasing. This is clearly shown in the results of the Alabama gubernatorial primaries in which the people of Alabama repudiated Sparks' white-supremacy theories and elected for governor Jim Folsom, a man who ran on a platform of repealing the poll tax and opposition to the vicious Boswell amendment."

Gets Divorce, But Must Share Home with Hubby

(SCP)—The housing shortage might have influenced Superior Judge Ruben S. Schmidt's decision.

At any rate, he granted Lula May Beal, 37, a beautician, a divorce Monday from Dennis Beal, 34, on grounds of cruelty, but ruled that they could both continue to live in the house at 1154 E. 24th st.

Mrs. Beal sought possession of the property, but Judge Schmidt ordered the pair to split the real estate and the proceeds from their car, which is to be sold. Beal was ordered to pay his former wife $60 monthly for six months.

The divorce suit charged that Beal called his wife names, came home drunk, and threatened to kill her. Walter L. Gordon defended Beal; Hugh McBeth was Mrs. Beal's attorney.

Nursing Certificates Awarded 11 Women In PTA Class Here

Eleven members of the 36th street PTA this week received Red Cross certificates and pins in informal ceremonies conducted at the 36th street school.

Pauline Johnston, R.N., served as instructor for the class and presented the awards to the graduating students.

Other PTA classes will be formed in the near future in the campaign through which Red Cross aims to place a home nursing certificate in every Los Angeles home.

This course is known as the 6-lesson, streamlined class featuring "Care for the Sick at Home," stressing ability to recognize early symptoms of illness and disease.

The following women were awarded certificates and pins:

Mmes. Clifford Gantt, president of the 36th street school PTA, of 1528½ W. 35th street; Beulah Arnanud, chairman of the school health committee and organizer and sponsor of this class, of 2047 W. 29th street; Dorothy Hatch, 3730 S. Wilton place; Milton Anderson, 1731 W. 37th drive; Velma Pickard, 2160 W. 30th street; Odessa Dotson, 1583 W. 35th street; Almarraine Smith, 3766 Second avenue; Vivian Frye, 1587 W. 37th street; Evelyn W. Caretaker May Make Self-Defense Plea In Knifing of Actor

A plea of self-defense was indicated in the preliminary hearing of Goree Johnson, caretaker at the Troupers' Club, Hollywood, charged with cutting Gary Haines, white actor on the chin ....ov. 11.

Taking the stand, Haines repeatedly referred to Johnson's allegedly telling him to "Close that g--d--- door," as precipitating the action which resulted in theh injury to the plaintiff's chin.

On cross-examination, however, defense counsel Atty. Hugh Culler extracted from Haines the admission that Johnson had backed away from the plaintiff half-way across a 60-foot lobby and was within three feet of the opposite wall when he struck with his knife.

At one point in the proceedings, the judge was forced to tell Haines to "answer the questions and forget the wise cracks. I've sat here listening to your smart remarks long enough."

Taverns Must Use Camouflage to Sell Liquor, Owners Told

(SCP) — Tavern owners today faced a problem in reconversion that must be met within 45 days.

The problem: They must successfully camouflage their bars to resemble restaurants in order to go on selling liquor, according to the words of George R. Reilly, member of the State Board of Equalization, who spoke before 700 tavern operators in San Francisco yesterday.

Reilly told the tavern owners that they had to comply with the law which requires such establishments to sell food and then obligingly outlined the way it could successfully be done. "Be a restaurant," Reilly said. "Make your place look like a restaurant. And then sell liquor."

The state board will be fair and reasonable on the time requirement involved in the switchover Reilly stated, and then set the 45-day deadline. "If your houses are not in order when your licenses come up for renewal in January, we'll get you then," he said.

All governors of Oklahoma since it became a state in 1907 have been Democrats.

Seeks to Expel Student Leader of Anti-Jimcrow Fight in Nation's Capitol

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—An 11-man faculty-student committee at George Washington university here this week sought to have Don Rothenberg, student-president of the American Veterans Committee, expelled from the school because of his leadership in the fight to force the institution to admit Negro Americans to its Lisner auditorium.

Announcement that George Washington's president, Cloyd Marvin was considering a resolution to expel Rothenberg highlighted fast moving events here as the AVC and other organizations sought to break the Capital's Jim Crow theatre policy.

Other events included a protest against the race ban by the cast of "Apple of His Eye," in which Walter Houston is starring and which ended a two-week engagement at the National Theatre last Saturday night, and an announcement by the Committee for Racial Democracy that Marcus Heiman of the E Street Theatre Corporation of New York had promised to admit colored people to the National Theatre if he could be "assured that no serious incident" would occur here.

Jack Motley, president of the Greater Washington Area Council at AVC, gave warning that AVC's 22 chapters in the the George Washington chapter which has spearheaded the fight against race discrimination at the Lisner auditorium.

"If the university is going to make an issue of expulsion of leaders of AVC or remove the chapter there, the area council will come out in full support," Motley said.

"We reaffirm our determination to end discrimination against Negroes who seek admission to Lisner. We seek no strife, no friction and no dispute with any other student organization. We feel that the resolution calling for the expulsion of our chapter leaders adopted by the Student Life Committee is based solely on disagreement of Chapter 341 (The George Washington chapter) with the university's policy of discrimination at Lisner," Motley said.

"The points advanced by the Student Life Committee as reasons for expulsion of leaders of our chapter are specious and a denial of civil liberties a denial that there exists on the campus room for an honest difference of opinion," he concluded.

Miss Ida Fox, executive secretary of the Committee for Racial Democracy, made public a letter from the cast of "Apple of His Eye" joining with 33 members of the Dramatists' Guild in a protest of Jim Crow in Washington theaters.

Commenting on Heiman's statement that he must be assured no serious incident will take place before he opens his National Theatre to colored people, Miss Fox said has written a letter to Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior, asking him to cite instances where the federal government has mixed the races without incident in Interior Department theatres and auditoriums.

Thirty-three of the nation's leading playwrights announced their intention to sign no contracts with Washington theatres, so long as they maintain a policy of race discrimination.

Playwrights whose names appear on the Dramatists' Guild list of signers include:

George Abbott, Maxwell Anderson, Philip Barry, Irving Berlin, Edward Carpenter, Edward Chodorov, Jerome Chodorov, Marc Connelly, Owen Davis, Arnaud B. Usseau, Dorothy Fields.

Also Herbert Fields, Ira Gershwin, Ruth Gordon, Morton Gould, James Gow, Paul Green, Oscar Hammerstein, Moss Hart, Ben Hecht, Lillian Hellman, Garson Kanin.

Also Anita Loos, Charles MacArthur, Elliott Nugent, John O'Hara, John Patrick, Elmer Rice, Richard Rodgers, Robert E. Sherwood, John Van Druten, Jurt Weill, Tennessee Williams.

Text of the dramatists' statement, follows:

"We American dramatists wish to join in effective protest against the practice of racial discrimination in legitimate theatres and auditoriums in Washington, D. C.

"We believe that this practice is not in accord with either the sentiments of the principles of a large majority of theatergoers and leaders of the press in Washington. Racial discrimination is as anachronistic as it is offensive in this great, cosmopolitan capital city. Recently, there has been increasing protest from Washingtonians and we support this protest even if it leads to the boycotting of our own plays.

"In view of the above, we state hereby that in future contracts for the production of any of our plays we will require that the play shall not be presented in any theatre or auditorium in Washington, D. C., our National Capital, from which any persons are barred because of race, creed or color or in which segregation is practiced on either side of the footlights."

Thornton Wolker, author of the celebrated "Our Town" and many other stage successes, said last night that he had not signed the protest because he was not asked to do so. "I am entirely in agreement with the statement's aims, however," he said.

Negro Auto Insurance Co. Gets Under Way

The Loyal Automobile Insurance Company of Los Angeles, the first Negro-operated auto insurance company in California, began the sale of $450,000 in securities this week. A meeting open to the public formally launching the security sale is being held at the Alpha Bowling Club, Western avenue at 29th street, tonight, November 21.

At present, sale of shares is limited to bona fide residents and corporations of California. Full coverage automobile insurance policies are to be issued immediately after the $450,000 in securities are sold. The company's temporary offices are at 4421 Avalon blvd., phone CEntury 2-4246.

Impetus for the organization of the new company was the wholesale cancellation of the policies of Negro and other minority group members by white companies throughout the nation, beginning three years ago. The Loyal Automobile Insurance Company was incorporated under the laws of the state of California on November 19, 1945, to handle all types of insurance excepting life and health.

Officers and directors include: Wendell E. Larson, president, active in the general insurance and real estate brokerage business here for many years; Forrest A. McCoo Jr., vice-president and secretary, former sales director of the Metropolitan Motorist Ass'n. of Chicago and real estate salesman and insurance solicitor; David R. Crawford, treasurer, real estate salesman and insurance solicitor; Albert T. Patrick, owner and operator of a dental and x-ray laboratory here; and Prince L. Kennedy, former president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers in Chicago, and operator of an electrical contracting establishment here.

The company is offering for sale 150,000 of its shares at the price of 3 per share. There will be no promotion stock issued and the entire proceeds from the sale of the 150,000 shares will go to the company, subject only to the payment of such sales commissions and organization expenses as allowed by the California Insurance Commissioner. ....

In the event the 150,000 shares of stock are not fully subscribed for within the time limit fixed by said insurance commissioner, such subscriber is to receive back the entire sum paid by him under his subscription.

British Laborite Denounces U. S. Race Bias, Anti-Russian Policy

LONDON — Support by the Labor government of United States Secretary of State Byrnes' "get tough" with Russia policy was denounced as the "greatest menace" to peace by spokesmen of a rank and file revolt in the British Labor party against British foreign policy.

"The greatest menace the world sees today is an aggressive American economic imperialism," Tom Driberg, Laborite, told the house of commons.

Driberg denounced racial prejudice in the United States and continued:

"I must warn the foreign secretary . . . that the people of this country will certainly not follow him into war now or in five years' time against Soviet Russia in partnership with the barbaric thugs of Detroit or the narrow imperialists of Washington or Wall street."

Both Driberg and W. N. Warbey, another Laborite, demanded cooperation with Russia as well as the United States.

"The United States is the only great nation in the world today in which it is not true to say that none of the ordinary people want war. There is actually a war fever.

"You will find it in people's conversation in drug stores and barber shops and wherever ordinary people gather, and it is of course inflamed by the more disgraceful papers—the newspapers of Mr. Randolph Hearst and Colonel McCormick."

Other leaders of the revolt joined Driberg and Warbey in declaring that the Labor party must back a "Socialist" policy as the alternative to a "conflict between American capitalism and Soviet communism."

Dairymen Seek New Increase In Milk Price

(SCP)—Cost of milk for the kids will go up another cent on each quart, if Los Angeles county dairymen win the increase they are now seeking from the State Department of Agriculture milk control bureau.

In hearings Monday at the State Building, dairy producers asserted increases in the cost of feed and replacement cows for the dairy herds have hiked the cost of producing butterfat. Maximum butterfat price has usually been used by the milk industry to set milk prices.

Russia Opposes Smuts' Grab For S. W. Africa; Hits U. S. Plan for Pacific Islands

NEW YORK — (NNPA) — Russia will insist that Southwest Africa, which the Union of South Africa holds under mandate from the League of Nations, be placed under the United Nations trusteeship system.

Russian opposition to the annexation plan of Field Marshall Jan Christian Smuts is now, but was affirmatively stated last Tuesday by Nikolai V. Novikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States, in the UN General Assembly meeting on trusteeship.

Novikov, who is the Soviet representative on the Trusteeship Committee, showed up the South African Government's annexationist plan as an attempt to "camouflage" the proposal of "direct annexation" of a territory held under mandate.

Smuts attempted to defend himself in a statement issued after the meeting in which he again referred to the expressed wishes of the peoples of Southwest Africa for annexation, and the "exceptional" character of that territory.

Novikov challenged Smuts' comparison of the annexation of Southwest Africa to South Africa to the union of South Wales and Scotland with England, of Texas and Louisiana with the United States and of Eastern Siberia with Russia.

Ambassador Novikov charged "procrastination" in the setting-up of the Trusteeship Council. He criticised Great Britain for not having submitted a draft agreement on trusteeship for Palestine, as she did for Tanganyika, Togoland and the Cameroons. Likewise he criticized Australia for not having submitted a draft for trusteeship for her mandated island of Nauru.

This failure of submitting draft trusteeship agreements was contrary to a resolution adpoted by the first session of the General Assembly in London in February, urging that trusteeship agreements be set up at this session of the General Assembly, the Russian envoy recalled.

Novikov indirectly hit out also at the United States plan for the Japanese mandated islands in his insistence that League mandates must be put under trusteeship.

(Under the American plan, the Pacific islands captured from Japan would be placed under UN trusteeship only if the UN agrees in advance to turn over control of the isuands to the U.S. The U.S. delegation has made it clear that unless this is agreed to, the U.S. will refuse to turn over the islands to the United Nations. —Editor.)

Novikov saw no other option but that former League mandates should either receive "true independence" or be transformed into a trust territory under the UN.

He criticized the draft agreements as they would invest the administering powers with full legislative, judicial and administrative powers even more so than the League mandates.

The Russian made it known in his statement before the Trusteeship Committee that the Soviet Union rejects the United States proposal that states concerned with theh trusteeship agreements should waive their right of veto.

'Oust Bilbo' Parley Here Sat. Morning

(SCP)—An "Oust Bilbo" lapel button is what every well dressed person should wear this month, according to the Civil Rights Congress, which yesterday announced a city-wide conference for Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. in the Royal Palms Hotel, where plans will be mapped for a campaign to prevent Mississippi's Senator Theodore Bilbo from taking his seat in the new senate.

A popular petition campaign, with a goal of one million signatures, is being conducted by the national committee of the CRC to oust Bilbo, headed by two noted authors and journalists, Quentin Reynolds and Vincent Sheehan.

"The charges of violence and intimidation now before a senate committee were signed by a group of courageous Mississippi voters, largely through the assistance of the Civil Rights Congress. Ousting of Bilbo would not only remove an avowed member of the Ku Klux Klan from the senate, but would represent a set-back for the system of terror, disfranchisement, and race supremacy which Bilbo typifies," Reynolds stated.

Solons Oppose State Bonus for Veterans

Hopes of California war veterans for a state bonus went glimmering this week when the legislative committee on military affairs made public a report that will be submitted to the assembly in January. According to advices received from Sacramento.

While rejecting the proposed state bonus, the committee will recommend that the permissable valuations on farms be increased to $30,000 and to $15,000 on homes. However, the report disfavors an increase in the amount of loans to veterans for farm or home purchases.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Mental Patients at Gen. Hospital To Get 50 Extra Beds as Result Of Mosk's Expose of Conditions

(SCP)—More facilities for psychopathic patients at General Hospital will be provided, Supervisor John Anson Ford said yesterday in answer to a letter written to him by Superior Judge Stanley Mosk, which criticized the conditions there as "intolerable."

Fifty additional beds for mental patients will be made available "within a short time" he told Mosk, but there will be at least a two year wait for further facilities.

Ford said that he shared Mosk's concern, but pointed to the rapidly increasing population as responsible for the shortage of hospital space.

Mosk had assailed "overcrowding" and "inhuman conditions" at the hospital, pointed out that the mental ward with a capacity of 95 was at present occupied by 118 patients, that "not only do three persons occupy a room built for two, but cots line the corriders in both the men's and women's sections.

Conditions at Torrance Hospital and Rancho Las Amigos are not much better, Mosk said.

The amendment to the present 90-day ordinance restricting unessential repairs provides that the work can now be done providing the cost is low enuogh that CPA authorization is not needed, and the repairs will not interfere with the building of dwellings.

White Newspaper Hails Reversal Of Contempt Penalties Against Publishers of Arkansas Weekly

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The Washington Daily News, commenting editorially on the decision of the Arkansas supreme court in freeing Mr. and Mrs. L. Christopher Bates, publishers of the Arkansas State Press, Little Rock, of contempt penalties, under the caption, "A Victory for All," last Friday said:

"A notable victory for freedom of the press has been won in Arkansas, where the state supreme court has freed two Negro publishers of contempt penalties imposed by a lower court at Little Rock.

"The publishers — L. Christopher Bates and his wife—had commented in their small weekly last March on the conviction of three Negro workmen for violation of the state's anti-violence-in-strikes law. They charged that the workmen had been sent to the penitentiary by "a hand-picked jury" in the Little Rock circuit court, and that Judge Lawrence Auten of that court improperly had instructed the jury. Judge Auten then cited Mr. and Mrs. Bates for contempt, fined them $100 each and sentenced them to 10 days in jail.

"The Arkansas supreme court's unanimous desicion was written by Chief Justice Griffin Smith, a former newspaperman.

"'There is, it said, 'no rule of law permitting jail sentence and contempt fines merely because a newspaper thinks the judge has mistakenly stated the law. . . Such comment does not create a present danger to the administration of justice.'

"We applaud that decision, not only because of its manifest rightness, but also because those who benefit directly by it are Negroes whose newspaper is published in a southern community.

"It never can be said too often nor too emphatically that freedom of the press is not a privilege reserved exclusively to the wealthy, the powerful and the spokesmen for popular opinion. It is a right guaranteed to all American citizens, and the protection of that right in such cases as this is in a very special sense a victory for all."

Mrs. Bairpaugh Taken by Death

Mrs. Rosa Anna Bairpaugh peacefully slept away in the arms of her daughter, Rose Alberta Bairpaugh, on Saturday, November 16, 11:30 a.m. She had been ill since July 7, 1946.

Born in Lexington, Kentucky, she attended Channel Normal High school and college there. She was appointed the first Negro teacher at the State Reform school at Greendale, Kentucky.

From her marriage to Henry Dunson, she bore two children, a daughter, Bessie Mary Dunson, now married and residing in this city, and another daughter, who passed in infancy.

Sojourning to Chicago, she became the assistant manager of Enterprise Institute, after serving as instructor in 14 courses of the various trades offered in the school.

In 1916 she married William Albert Bairpaugh, lawyer and pioneer rancher of Great Falls, Montana. Rose Bairpaugh was born of this union. Appointed by Governor John E. Erickson of Montana, Rosa Anna Bairpaugh served as a delegate to represent that state at the National Educational Congress at Kansas City, Missouri. She served so ably that by unanimous vote she was elected a lifetime member of this organization.

She served with distinction in civic and political positions in Great Falls and there raised her daughter until they moved to Los Angeles in 1939.

Here she joined and worked with civic groups; namely, the Delta Mothers and Sponsors club, the Sojourner Truth club, the YWCA, the USO, the League of Women Voters and others.

Active in charitable and church groups, Rosa Anna Bairpaugh, friend, neighbor, and mother, will be missed by all who knew her and remembered for her many kindnesses.

Jury Splits 7 to 5 In Suit for $17,500

A jury of ten women and two men were deadlocked last week in the courtroom of Judge Frank Smith. Sitting in the case of Mrs. Juanita Judy and Mrs. Rosie Lee Ham versus Peter Panos, white motorist who struck them down while they were standing on the sidewalk at 12th and San Pedro last January, the jury refused to budge from its 7 to 5 stand for awarding the two plaintiffs the $17,500 which they had asked as damages.

In his efforts to bring about an adequate settlement, Atty. Crispus A. Wright, representing Mrs. Judy and Mrs. Ham, pointed to the loss of Mrs. Judy's unborn child and Mrs. Ham's loss of work as primary causes for damages. His opponent in this legal battle was Atty. Ray Stanberry, well-known white corporation lawyer. Stanberry's arguments were well countered by Wright, however, and he was forced to content himself with the 7-5 decision.

Since a decision of this kind is indeterminate, the case will be retried and a settlement reached at that time.

Five Held With White Man in 'Mercy Slaying' Of His Invalid Wife

ST. LOUIS—Six persons, one of them white, were in police custody today in connection with the "mercy killing" of a white housewife.

They are Emil Hutsel, 37, husband of the murdered woman; Alma Mackay, 32, and Thad Crawford, common-law man and wife; and three others reportedly implicated in a previous plot to kill Mrs. Hutsel.

Hutsel, a mechanic, told police he hired Alma Mackay and Crawford for $70 to kill his semi-invalid wife because he couldn't bear to see her suffering and that he stood by last Friday night while she was shot to death as she lay in bed.

"I figured she'd be better off," Hutsel said in a statement released by Police Chief Joseph Lemberger.

Hutsel said the slaying actually cost $150 because he was double-crossed by another Negro who accepted money "to do the job" but refused to go through with it.

Hutsel named Crawford and Alma Mackay as the couple who finally accomplished the job for him. He said Crawford killed Mrs. Hutsel while he and Crawford's wife and the couple's two small children waited outside the Hutsel home.

Police said Crawford and his wife admitted they were at the scene, but that Crawford charged Hutsel had done the shooting.

Hutsel's wife, Margaret, 34, who suffered a paralytic stroke a few months ago, was slain in her home in suburban Shrewsbury late Friday night, while her two children, Carl, 11, and Emily, 13, were in bed in other rooms. She had been choked and shot once through the head.

Investigators found a .32 caliber bullet in the mattress and stains on the victim's neck which they said appeared to have been made by grease-stained hands.

DENTAL ASSOCIATE — Announcing to the public that DR. WALLACE T. MOORE, above, is now associated with Dr. H. Claude Hudson in the practice of dentistry. U. S. Medical Corps To Recruit Doctors On Non-Racial Basis

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Believe it or not, the medical corps will commission and assign doctors without regard to race in procuring 1600 doctors authorized to be commissioned in the regular army, the office of the surgeon general said last Tuesday.

If true, this represents a complete about-face by the army medical corps. All during the wars while there was a shortage of doctors and nurses in the medical corps, ceilings were maintained on Negro personnel. The surgeon general's office followed the practices of assigning colored doctors chiefly to Fort Huachuca, Ariz., the Tuskegee army air field and a few other installations where there were large concentrations of Negro troops. Two or three Negro hospital units also were sent overseas.

While restricting Negro doctors to service with Negro troops, the surgeon general's office would not adopt a policy of assigning them to all colored units because such assignments would necessarily require them to serve white personnel as well.

Inasmuch as application forms for regular army commissions in the medical corps are not marked according to race, color or creed, the surgeon general's office replied to a question, whoever applies and whoever meets the qualifications will be accepted and commissioned.

There will be no specific assignments for Negro officers, it was added, and they will be assigned according to their specialties and capabilities.

Gen. Norman T. Kirk, the surgeon general, sent out letters last Friday to some 5000 young doctors who received their medical education in the army specialized training program regarding a career in the regular army. The War Department has authorized the commissioning of approximately 16,000 doctors.

A number of Negro doctors received their medical education at Howard medical school and Meharry medical college in the army specialized training program and are eligible for commissions in the regular army.

An army doctor begins to specialize in military medicine and surgery as soon as he enters the service. He receives an initial salary as a first lieutenant of $3804, if he has dependents, and $3372, if he has not dependents.

Negro Youth Makes Good Operating Curb Market

Clarence Harris, 4-H Club youth of Shelby County, Tenn., is doing a $3,000 a year business with his roadside curb market near Memphis, says a report received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from the Tennessee State

Clarence got the idea for establishing a curb market from his county agent, R. H. Brown, who has been carrying out extension work in the county for nearly 28 years. Observing the passed Clarence's home every day going to and from work, Mr. Brown suggested that Clarence might sell them some of the vegetables out of his club garden and fruit from the family's pear, appl and peach trees.

So, one day in June of last year, Clarence and his brother, Willie, dragged a crudely built table into their front table into their front yard near the highway, and placed on it a few heads of cabbage, a basket of tomatoes, and three dozen ears of corn. Within a couple of hours they had sold out, and Clarence was sold on the idea of a curb market.

NURSES' AIDE SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Only 69,095 of the 584,000 nurses' aides trained by the American Red Cross since 1942 are still giving active service, although the shortage of nursing service continues in hospitals throughout the country. If you have had training, see your local Red Cross chapter.

State Takes Over USES Office Here

(SCP)—Offices of the United States Employment Service at 11th and Flower sts. were taken over yesterday by the California State Department of Employment, but the services will continue the same as under the federal agency.

Head of the new state-directed office will be H. R. Harnish, formerly the state director of employment for the War Manpower Commission.

Services provided by the USES—veterans job placement, labor market information, counseling, and personnel services—will continue, with three other state offices located at San Francisco, Sacramento, and Santa Ana.

"ESCORT SERVICE"

We have all watched youngsters going safely to and from school by themselves. But when these same children are escorted by their well-meaning parents, it isn't unusual to see them guided into the street from between parked cars, jaywalk, cross without looking both ways, and commit many other unsafe acts. Don't undo the safety teachings learned in the classroom!

NEW YORK—Nearly 200 leaders of organizations and representatives of various delegations to the United Nations were present at a reception given in honor of three distinguished visitors from the Union of South Africa at the headquarters of the Council on African Affairs, 23 West 26th street.

Union Teachers in Capital Start Drive For Increased Pay

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—A drive to raise teachers' salaries to the level of professional workers in the federal government was launched yesterday by the District of Columbia Schools Branch, Local 3, United Public Workers (CIO). Also proposed was a revision in the present classification system.

Mrs. Catharine Hurley, president of the schools branch and a teacher in divisions 10 to 13 (colored), made the announcement following a meeting of the unit, where representatives of over 800 teachers in 50 schools were present.

Payment of minimum salaries based on those paid professional employes of the federal government would mean $2650 for beginning teachers in elementary and junior high schools, and $3400 for beginning high school teachers.

Suit Challenges New City Tax

(SCP)—Charging that the city's new business and professional tax is "arbitrary, unreasonable, capricious, and discriminatory," Attorney Robert Vivens this week challenged the validity of the new ordinances.

The tax is unconstitutional, Bivens said, because it deprives him of property rights without due process of law, and is in direct conflict with the State Bar Act, because a lawyer can be disbarred for failure to pay the tax, and under that law only the state supreme court can disbar a lawyer. Bivens has named City Clerk Walter C. Peterson and the city of Los Angeles as defendants in the test case.

The new tax sets a rate of $12 annually on all self-employed business or professional persons for their first $12,000 of gross receipts and $1 per $1000 gross above that figure.

Rival Choirs Create Din As Rev. Stephenson Tries To Take Over Church

the locked doors of the church. He branded as "absolute lies" statements made by the minister as reported in the daily papers.

Rev. Stevenson's dramatic entrance held much of the color usually attributed to visiting lodge magistrates. As he emerged from his large black car, neatly attired in black homburg hat, black suit and white-collared ministerial vestment, he was immediately surrounded by three of the eight policemen who launged about, waiting for action.

After police recommended that he return to his home and await the outcome of court proceedings, Rev. Stephenson objected to the locked door. He contended that the opposition was denying his supporters their constitutional rights to worship. For this reason, he asked that the police remove the lock.

However, since two pending court actions—that of the congregation charging the minister with misappropriation of church property, and the reported charge by the preacher that he had been assaulted by the members last Sunday—are civil cases, the officer in charge explained that he had no jurisdiction. He said he and his men were to step in only if some criminal action were instigated.

Rev. E. W. Irving, assistant pastor and follower of the minister ,contended that, "Neither side has a right to lock the door," and asked "Will you stand here and watch us take the lock off?"

"The way things look now, someone's likely to get hurt . . .", the officer shrugged.

"They're meat people just like us," was Irving's hot retort. "The doors are going to be opened!"

A door at the side of the church yielded as Rev. Stephenson, unlocking it, hit it with his shoulder. But he found much more opposition in the knees and legs of three "defenders of the pulpit."

Police were unable to act as no assault was committed. The men just stood with their hands at their sides as the preacher came charging at them.

Giving up his attempt to enter the pulpit, Stephenson donned his robe and proceeded with his services from the floor of the church. His Bible was perched upon a table as he called on the choir, composed of members of his faction, for a song.

"Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine. . . "rang out from the back of the church as members of the ousting group commenced to sing in an effort to drown out the choir. Whatever the choir members were singing could not be determined, but combined with the vocal offerings of the opposing "choir," it made an unmelodious din. The tables were now turned, as Rev. Irving, who had argued with policemen in an effort to get the church doors open to his faction, now asked the officers to close the doors to keep out the noise. His request was refused and even as he began to pray, the people in the back of the church continued to sing.

Children in the audience began to turn around and snicker. Rev. Stephenson began to read, "Fear not those who kill the body, but are unable to destroy the soul in hell."

Although the number of people on the opposing sides appeared equal, no one on the minister's side made a statement. "We don't have any statement to make," said Rev. Irving.

Gazing at the confused scene one impartial observer commented, "Too much religion . . . and not enough Christianity."

Dr. J. S. Thompson Called by Death

Dr. J. S. Thompson, a prominent physician and surgeon of Los Angeles, California, died Saturday night at 10:50, Nov. 16, 1946 at his home 4306 So. San Pedro Place. He formally practiced medicine in the State of Arkansas and was very much admired by all of his patients and friends.

Dr. Thompson finished his medical course at Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., and took a post-graduate course at the National Post Graduate School in Chicago, Ill. He began his practice in California in 1925 in Pasadena, later moving to Los Angeles, where he practiced for several years. He returned to Arkansas in 1934 and resumed his practice there. In 1943 he returned to Los Angeles and continued his practice until his death at his office at 867½ E. Vernon avenue.

Coroner Holds Body For Identification As Investigation Is Begun

over the head with the barrel of his pistol, the report stated.

Officer Bertch then phoned for a squad car, and while they were awaiting its arrival, the man tried to escape twice, the officers claimed. Nichols then slapped him on the left cheek with his open hand, according to the report.

Before the squad car arrived, the man suddenly became limp and crumpled to the sidewalk. The officers had to carry him into the car, they said. He was driven to the City Hall garage and taken to the office of Capt. Stites, where he was searched and several loose marihuana cigarettes found in his pockets, according to the police.

The man was entered on the books at Lincoln Heights jail on a narcotics charge, through an absentee booking, the report continued, and the man taken to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital and later transferred to General Hospital.

He died at 4:10 p.m. Sunday, some 12 hours after being picked up, and the body removed to the county coroner's office, where it was determined death had resulted from a cerebral concussion caused by a fractured skull.

A tattooed army serial number on the man's arm—No. 38025169—a social security card made out to Edmundo Martinez Nacarro, a street car pass in the name of Roy Morgan, and a personal letter addressed to Benny Fisher are the clues to his identity which police have found to date.

Fingerprints have been forwarded to Washington in an additional effort to identify the man. Police said they can find no previous criminal record of him in Los Angeles.

The case was turned over from the narcotics division to the homicide bureau, headed by Lt. Ray Giese. Det. Sgts. J. H. McCredie and R. A. Varela are investigating.

Indict Three Leaders of Ga. Terror Gang

Burke, president of the society, changed his mind about allowing their corporate charter to be revoked by default.

Burke defiantly ripped the petition for revocation to shreds for publicity purposes after Governor Ellis Arnall announced revocation proceedings would start in the courts. But when the time came to hear the state's petition in court last Friday morning, Burke requested and received ten days grace on the action.

The brown-shirted Burke, identified by a shoulder patch of red lightningon a white background, was one of about 40 Columbians ordered before the grand jury today.

John Zimmerlee, of Nashville, a student veteran at Georgia Tech and one of the society's three incorporators, was another. Zimmerlee was a first lieutenant in the army air forces and navigator of a B-24 bomber during the war.

Ralph Childers, under indictment for inciting to riot, and another youthful Columbian last Thursday night publicly McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, to protest "lies." McGill said he was threatened with violence unless he desisted in criticism. Childers boldly wore a Columbia medal awarded him after he was accused of complicity in beating a Negro youth.

Members said they still had no clue to the identity of persons who last Thursday night tossed a tear-gas bomb into the Columbians' meeting hall, but declared darkly: "It was someone hired by the Jews!"

Senate Group To Hold Bilbo Probe in Miss.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The special senate war investigating committee has decided to begin hearings in Mississippi about December 2 into charges that Senator Theodore G. Bilbo achieved his reelection through the intimidation of Negro voters.

Sessions will be held in Jackson, Grenada and Hattiesburg, Mississippi, to give all Mississippians an opportunity to testify.

The action of the committee, taken by unanimous vote of Democrats and Republicans alike followed by two days the decision of the Republican senate steering committee to seek to prevent Bilbo from taking the oath of office when he presents himself to be sworn in as a senator for the six-year term beginning January 3.

Affidavits in the hands of the committee accuse Bilbo of calling on "every red-blooded American who believes in the superiority and integrity of the white race to go out and see that no n—— votes. And the best time to do it is the night before."

He also is accused of calling on Mississippi citizens "to resort to any means to keep Negroes from the polls . . . and if you don't know what that means you are just not up on persuasive measures."

Senator Allen J. Ellender, committee chairman, announced the decision to hold public hearings. He said the unanimous vote to hold hearings was cast by three Democrats and two Republicans on the committee.

Democratic senators were filibustering against the FEPC bill, Senator Allen J. Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana, yielded the floor to Senator White, who was the Republican floor leader, to denounce the bill and declare he would vote for neither cloture nor the bill.

He voted against cloture on both the anti-poll tax and the FEPC bills.

After Republicans adjourned policy talks last Friday Senator Taft announced appointment of study groups to consider key problems. Fair employment practice commission, anti-poll tax and antilyching legislation were assigned to Senator Eugene D. Millikin, Republican, of Colorado.

Assignment of the problems relating to senatorial employes and patronage was made to Senator Styles Bridges, Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota, and Edward V. Robertson of Wyoming.

the unarmed man rifled the showcases. Then, visiting the safe after forcing the woman to open it, the armed bandit held the gun on both victims as his accomplice took rings from their fingers. Mrs. Brown's dinner ring, containing 23 diamonds, was removed, as was Kodama's expensive hand ornament.

Due to the smoothness and daring with which the two men carried out their holdup, it was felt that still another person must have been on the outside to protect their getaway. It is also believed that the planners of the action knew the layout of the store very well.

Another clue to the identity of the bandits might be the fact that only expensive jewelry was taken—all costume jewelry was left untouched.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, owners of the only colored jewelry store on the westside, are busy restocking for the Christmas-gift buyers.

EDITORIALS AND COMMENTS

How Jim Crow Feels

Richard Wright, eminent writer, tells in the November issue of True magazine how a Negro feels upon returning to his birthplace after an absence of 25 years. He traveled from the Mexican border to the Atlantic coast by train, and his humiliations began when he crossed into Texas, "the beginning of the land of the free and the home of the brave." His longest stopover was in Natchez, Miss., the place where he was born.

"What I saw there made me wonder why I had wanted to see and feel it all again," he writes. "I discovered that the only thing that had really changed was I."

It was the same old Jim Crow practices, of course. Separate waiting rooms in the station, with "Whites Only" in big letters over one, and "Negroes" over the entrance to the other. The Jim Crow cars on the train. The being shoved around, being told to stand aside while the white man walked to the front. It was the same as always. Only Wright had changed.

But other Negroes on the Northern side of the Mason and Dixon line are changing, too, and are being recognized as members of the human race who have made good and rank tops among those who have benefited humanity.

John R. Tunis, sports writer and novelist, is one of these. In the magazine This Month he is described as a writer who "voices his passionate Americanism through the medium of an exciting yarn." He is rated as one of America's best juvenile writers. His novel, "All-Americans," is a book on race prejudice that taps the roots of Negro-white, North-South problems.

Constance Curtis, a staff member of Harlem's big semi-weekly, The New York Amsterdam News, has her picture and an article describing her work in the current issue of Mademoiselle. She is listed as writing about slums, racial conflicts, and political developments down South. She holds degrees from the University of Chicago and from Columbia University.

These are highspots in the section of the United States north of the Mason and Dixon line. But even these giants that have pushed their way up to the heights above others as leaders of both Negroes and whites, have been made to feel the fact that they are of another race than the "superior" whites.

True, education will eventually eradicate this bigotry. We hope. At least so our "friends", who opposed the FEPC initiative measure in the last election told us. But we cant' help feeling this education would have progressed much more rapidly if the American people had anything to work with—such as a law that might be called in to help make a point decisive now and then.

We Have the Jitters

"Yeah, I'm scared," said Gene Kelly recently when he presided at a liberal meeting held in protest against our pro-Fascist tendencies.

That was even before the election and the Republican "landslide." What is so terrifying in the Republican victory is the fact that the American people allowed themselves to be hoodwinked so completely.

"The American people like to be fooled," said P. T. Barnum, famous showman. This desire to be made nitwits is never so plainly evident as when it comes to politics. How any person with a memory long enough to remember what happened only fourteen years ago could vote for a return of such conditions is beyond us. But when the apple-sellers again frequent our street corners, remember "We voted for it."

The new Congress, composed of a majority of the enemies of the Common Man, and threatening to pass all kinds of laws that will hamstring labor; the constantly rising prices with the "soothing syrup" offered us that "Things will soon adjust themselves"; the strikes, the arrests of hundreds of workers, the threatened coal strike of John L. Lewis' miners—all this and more is enough to give anyone the jitters.

Of course many of these things have existed before. But we had a real friend of the common people in the White House then. We had friends in Congress. Now when any decisions are made, can we hope they will be made in our favor? Will the Eightieth Congress be interested in a permanent FEPC? In anti-poll tax legislation? In reducing the taxes of those of us in the lower income groups?

The Republican Party has always been considered the party of wealth. We used to boast of that, and urge people to register Republican because "The Republicans have the money, you know."

But now we wonder how things will turn out. Working people are not so eager any more to earn millions of dollars for their employer by the sweat of their brow. They want a fairly good share of this money they earn for themselves. So of course they strike. And with the friends of the employer in power, what will the end be?

"Yeah, we're scared. We sure have the jitters."

The Fight Is On

He who would be free must first strike the blow.

The purpose of the history of the Abolitionist Press published in a recent issue of The People's Daily World is to make available to the Negro people a knowledge of their friends in the present and the past. And to place particular emphasis as to their bearing on their economic, social, and political future.

There are those among us who profess friendship and a deep sympathy for what they call our problems. Their advice is that we stay away from certain newspapers and people whose ideologies differ from those of the ruling groups.

These same friends, however, offer no remedy for the injustices that dog our steps wherever we turn.

The People's Daily World is always out in front fighting injustice and demanding equality and freedom for the Negro people. But The People's World is supported by the Communists. So we've been told.

If these despised Communists are willing to fight for the rights of the Common Man, whether he is white, black, or red, by what equation do we arrive at the solution that they are our enemies?

Hodee Richardson said, in his review of The Abolitionist Press: "In the fight for the freedom of the Negro people, from 1815 through the Civil War, a group of small papers in different places fought for and helped to bring about the abolition of slavery. They were known as the Abolitionist Press.

"'I heard the wail of the captive, I felt his pang of distress, and the iron entered my soul.'

"These words appeared in 1815 in a little paper called 'The Genius of Universal Emancipation.' First of its kind, this Abolitionist paper was published by Benjamin Lundy, a Quaker of Ohio. The first issue was read by exactly six people. Six months later there were 500 subscribers.

"But Lundy decided this was slow. He began to travel. In ten years he covered 25,000 miles of the United States, 5000 of them on foot. Everywhere he found and brought to light sympathy for the abolition of slavery."

All through the history of this nation there have been people who believed in the freedom and liberty first expressed in the Magna Charta, and thy have been willing to fight and even die in defense of their belief. And in every instance they were slandered and attacked by the defenders of the status quo.

Those who fought by the side of Lundy were John Russwurm, Samuel Cornish, two Negroes, William Lloyd Garrison, editor of The Liberator; Lovejoy, Frederick Douglas, and others both white and Negro.

After nearly a hundred years of so-called freedom for the Negro people in the United States and pure democracy in all the recognized nations of the world, we, the common people in all the lands, are engaged in a bitter struggle trying to achieve and enjoy what we thought we had—freedom.

We sincerely hope that the same type and quality of fighting exhibited by those early pioneers for freedom from slavery in this country, will again stimulate constructive thought and action that will liberate all the people from the Fascism which now threatens us.

Who would be free must first strike the blow.

In that fight we must choose our allies not on the basis of the prejudices and the hatreds of our enemies, but on the record of various groups. We must not permit our enemies to dictate our choice of allies, of friends.

Your Job To Oust Bilbo

The Civil Rights Congress is urging all interested in ousting Bilbo from the United States Senate to attend a meeting to be held in Royal Palms hotel, 360 South Westlake street, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, November 23.

There is every indication that Bilbo will not be seated, says the Congress, if work is done to step up the campaign. He can be barred from his seat by petitions to the Senate: letters, wires, resolutions; and public activity that will tell the people the kind of man they have to represent them.

Bilbo wrote: "Dear Kike," "Dear Nigger," "Dear Dago." Let's write him out of the Senate.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

The eyes of all the world are turned upon a beauty spot in the suburbs of New York City, Flushing Meadow Park, where the assembly of the United Nations is meeting. This is really the first regular session of that assembly. It met last winter in London, set up a working organization, and then adjourned to meet again this year in the United States of America.

This world organization is the child of the plans and hopes for peace for thousands of years. The first really organized body for world peace, you know, was the League of Nations, brought into existence after the first World War.

When the treaty of peace which closed World War I and which embodied in principle the League of Nations, was signed in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles, just outside Paris, the helmeted troopers who lined the entrance sheathed their swords. Symbolic of the hope realized, they believed, that there would be no more war.

But this hope was but a will-o'-the-wisp. The United States stubbornly refused to join the League of Nations and do her share to make world peace a reality. Historians agree today that the isolationists of America were directly responsible for World War II, for the millions of human lives that were taken, for the millions more of young lives that have been wrecked.

The League of Nations, even without the cooperation of the United States, was able to settle many minor quarrels, but when it came to major disputes like the seizure of Ethiopia by Italy and the attack upon China by Japan, it seemed powerless. Seemingly smothered by the desire for wealth and the ambitions for world power, the embryo of a world organization for peace, the brain child of President Woodrow Wilson, nevertheless did not die. It became instead the nucleus for an even better organization, as President Wilson himself predicted.

The name for the new organization, United Nations, was given to it by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He was thinking of a name for the nations who were united in the war against Germany at 2:30 o'clock one morning in his White House study. "Associated," "Allied," seemed outmoded terms, as he scribbled them down on slips of paper. Then suddenly he brought his hand down on his desk with an approving smack. "That's it!" he exclaimed. He had written United Nations. It was the name which described exactly the cooperation needed to make a world of peace.

The United Nations was the name adopted by the conference for world organization held in San Francisco in April last year. A name as simple and meaningful as The United States. President Roosevelt had hoped so much to be able to open that conference.

"I just want to breathe on them," he told Mrs. Roosevelt.

His spirit was there, nevertheless, and breathed through every act of the conference. There were many dis agreements, but there was no bitterness. And at last the great work was finished. The charter for world peace was forged. The delegate from China, representing the first nation attacked by the Fascist powers, was the first to sign. He painted his name with a Chinese paintbrush. The Soviet Union was second. Then Great Britain, the United States, and France. The other nations followed in alphabetical order. Fifty-one all told.

"When the signing was finished, the Charter of The United Nations rested, alone, in the center of the brightly lighted stage. The world had taken a long step away from war and towards peace."

The General Assembly of the United Nations which is meeting in New York works like the Congress of the United States. It is the legislative body. Each nation may send at least five delegates. Our own Helen Gahagan Douglas with Mrs. Roosevelt are delegates from the United States.

The Security Council, which has solved several knotty problems in the short time of less than a year, is the executive branch of the world organization. It corresponds to our president and cabinet officers. Then there is an International Court of Justice, and when fully organized there will be a powerful military force to put teeth into the recommendations of the General Assembly and the Security Council.

A meeting of the nations for a better world, as our Congress was and is a meeting of the states to form a more perfect union.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

ISAAC PRATT

The film strike out Hollywood way is becoming hotter and hotter. Some 800 pickets have been arrested to date and sent to jail. They have refused bail, and many are threatening to go on a hunger strike. Mass picketing was prohibited by court injunction, but the studio workers refused to obey the injunction, picketed many hundred strong, and were arrested.

The fight is between the Conference of Studio Unions and the International Alliance of Theatre and Studio workers, an organization accused of being dominated by the employers.

Operators and leaders of the maritime unions agreed to end the costly West Coast strike this week. It lasted 48 days. The agreements still remain to be ratified by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, both CIO. The end of the strike affects approximately 70,000 dockworkers.

Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug went over the head of John L. Lewis when he asked that notices be posted at all the mines that the miners were expected to remain at work under their contract with the government.

The coal mines of the country were taken over by the U. S. government last May 22, and they have been operating under the Federal government ever since. The contract with the government expired on Wednesday. President Truman decided that Lewis take his new contract demands to the private owners of the mines, instead of to the government. The miners do not wish to do this. The miners also refuse to work without a signed contract.

Lewis has asked that the miners' work week be reduced to 40 hours, instead of 54 as at present, without any reduction in take-home pay. Seems reasonable enough to this writer.

Republican leader Leslie C. Arends, House representative from Illinois, has called for a revision of the labor laws of the country "at the earliest possible moment" after Congress convenes in January.

"Perhaps we should reintroduce and pass the Case strike control bill," he said.

This bill, which restricted the activities of labor unions and their leaders, was considered one of the most vicious anti-labor measures ever proposed. It was vetoed by President Truman. It may not be again, or if vetoed may be passed over the presidential veto. Straws in the wind?

The Philippine Sugar Industry Rehabilitation Committee, representing all planters and sugar mill operators in the islands' multi-million dollar industry, has asked that the United States army be restrained from occupying private property belonging to the planters. The industry employs several million workers.

The Kansas City Plaindealer in a neditorial on the outlook for labor in the next Congress, predicts that "The Republicans and their colleagues, the Southern Democrats, will restrain themselves somewhat since they know they still must elect a president in 1948."

The editorial predicts, however, that strikebreaking legislation will be enacted, and "above all the Republicans will work out some scheme to stop labor from raising political action funds.

The closed shop controversy will surely come before the Eightieth Congress. Many are dicting a law will be enacted forbidding closed shop agreements. The editorial in the Plainlealer seems to favor such a procedure. For then, maintains the editorial, Negroes will have a greater opportunity to get jobs in the big industries.

This argument is preposterous. Although there are some unions, as we all know, which have consistently refused to admit Negroes as members, the labor unions nevertheless are the one hope of the Negro people for full and fair employment. This is especially true of the CIO unions.

It was the CIO that worked overtime getting signatures for the FEPC petition to be placed on the November ballot. And worked again to have it adopted. That it failed was due to no fault of organized labor.

It is the CIO again that is organizing the deep South, the sharecroppers, factory workers, farm hands, and all the others kept down by the Bilbos and the Rankins who have always opposed labor unions.

No, the closed shop is not the enemy of the Negro. The enemy in the Union is the handful who would work with the employer in keeping wages down, prices up. Who would grant the privileges that should be shared by all to only a few. These are the workers whom employers would love to have in their factories and places of business—to create disturbances, to divide that they, the employers, might conquer.

Negroes working without a labor union would receive the lowest wages and be forced to do the dirtiest jobs, with no hope of rising any higher. There would be racial riots, strikes, bloodshed. Who wants conditions such as these?

BOOKS and AUTHORS

By DAN LORING

The November selection of The Negro Book Club, Really the Blues, by Mezz Mezzrow and Bernard Wolfe, is called "the damndest book you will ever read." It is the jazz-happy autobiography of a white man who choses to live as a Negro—including marrying a colored girl—and the writing is unusually frank and honest.

The book illuminates the dance floor, the barroom, the jam session, and so forth showing the part they have played in American history. Written in rich, racy American idiom, Really The Blues should be of interest, not only to band leaders, juke-box fans, and jitterbugs, but to scholars and sociologists as well. It adds a link in the chain of history of the progress of the Negro and should evoke as much comment—and possibly controversy—as Richard Wright's, Black Boy.

NEW YORK —(NNPA)— Spotlight on Gary, the National Urban League's first publication on its Community Relations Project, pays tribute to Gary, Indiana, as the city with the most outstanding record of accomplishment of any studied during 1944-45, the first year of its operation.

The 32-page publication, with drawings by Russell Sherman, noted artist, is designed to illustrate the principle, "American Teamwork Works." It presents Gary's story as one "of people and a dream—of American people, in an American town who found a Big Fear growing that wasn't American at all, and of how they began to kill the Fear, to make the Peace work, to help the Dream grow."

Both poetry and prose are used in the narration which includes statistical references, a little of the history of the town, and the character of its population, and emphasizes principles underlying American democracy, relating these to the positive efforts made locally to alleviate negative racial conditions, where they exist.

One of the "positive" efforts was the invitation to the Community Relations Project, whose research-study and recommendations for action on specific problems proved so effective that Gray citizens later formed a local Urban League.

Following that main areas in which the Urban League works, the book focuses attention on employment, housing community organization, education and recreation, and health—and the handling of these problems by the total community.

The emphasis of the publication is upon the city's change in attitude and its evident determination to continue its healthy growth. An example is the fact that the Gary school board has only recently announced a non-discrimination policy for all schools, to become effective September 1, 1947, after a preparatory period of education to meet the change.

The Urban League launched its community relations project, financed by the General Education Board, in 1944 to assist local community leadership in improving race relations and the welfare of the Negro population as a means of avoiding post-war racial conflict. Five cities were chosen for intensive work during the first year of the project, which receives its invitation from the local Co uncil of Social Agencies in cooperation with a local advisory and sponsoring committee of colored and white citizens.

The project is under the direction of Dr. Warren M. Banner, head of the League's department of research and community projects. He is assisted by five consultants in employment and industrial relations ,housing, health, group work and recreation, and family and child welfare.

Spotlight on Gary, recently released, was written by Manet Fowler, newly appointed public relations consultant for the league.

The Common Defense

ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Thank God in your church or synagogue for the blessings of peace and brotherhood we enjoy in our democracy.

Honor the American tradition of fair play and mutual understanding, an important source of our people's strength and well-being.

Answer the defeatists, the "nationalists," and the fear-makers with a united determination to make democracy work better.

Nourish our way of life by respecting differences, and giving everyone an equal chance to contribute to our country.

Know your neighbor, your partner in our common enterprise of self-government.

Sow seeds of brotherhood in your community by practicing the same teamwork for which Colin Kelly, Meyer Levin, Dorrie Miller and their fighting partners gave their lives.

Give generously to those worthwhile causes which help us to be our brother's keeper, and to express our thanks for the blessings we enjoy.

Insure America against every form of tyranny by being loyal to the principles of our republic; —"one nation, indivisible," of many races, many religions— —"with liberty and justice for all," for men of every religion and every race, Catholics, protestants, Jews, whites and Negroes.

Value your fellow-Americans for their individual merits, whatever their national origin, race, or creed.

Impress young people with the conviction that freedom is not a gift on a silver platter, but a responsibility which every American must discharge for himself.

Nail the hate-rumors which would poison us by setting Catholics against Protestants, Gentils against Jews, whites against Negroes.

Grant to all people the same opportunities you want for yourself.

If we all do these things, then every day will be a day for Thanksgiving.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Bass:

As you of course know, the people of California at the November 5 election gave overwhelming approval to Proposition No. 3 which guarantees a minimum salary of $2400 a year for each full-time teacher and increases state support of public schools to $120 per year per pupil.

This action by the voters of California marks the opening of a new epoch in public education —an epoch which without doubt will be reflected in general improvement for schools throughout the entire country.

You favored Proposition No. 3 and allowed the use of your name as a member of the Los Angeles County Citizens Committee for "Yes" on No. 3. On behalf of the teachers of Southern California we wish most heartily to thank you for this valuable support.

We want you to know that teachers recognize in the result not only a vote of confidence in our schools and in them as teachers, but a challenge that they do a better job day by day in the classrooms of the state. They want sincerely to merit the solicitude which the people of California have displayed for public education.

Thank you again for your help.

Very sincerely yours,

ARTHUR F. COREY,
Executive Secretary, California Teachers' Assn., South. Sect.
W. HAROLD KINGSLEY,
Southern California Campaign Manager,

Dear Editor:

It was mighty fine of you to support me, and the results in your county indicate the great influence that you have. I know that you did not support me because of the personalities involved, but because you thought that I would fight for those things for which yo ufight.

I assure you that throughout my life I will appreciate your confidence in me and I will try to live up to the high standards that you demand of a public official, whether it be in my own city or wherever the future might take me.

Sincerely,
EDMUND G. BROWN

Trail Blazers: H. Claude Hudson

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

With the nation's economy hanging in a balance, to rise or fall; with the upsurge of hate propaganda against our national minorities; with the metropolitan dailies feeding the populace with war talk and Communism scares; restlessness, discontentment, and confusion have marked the people. And in their struggle to grasp onto some type of security, they have looked to a leadership that fulfills those needs.

Dr. H. Claude Hudson is the symbol of this kind of leadership. For he has forcefully given his strength and knowledge concerning domestic and world affairs to the people.

Born on a Louisiana farm in the middle 80's, he attended the public schools of that state, later learning the bricklayers trade. Student of Wiley college and Howard university dental school, he passed the board examinations of Arkansas and Louisiana to begin his dental practice in Shreveport, La., in 1913. There, he married Thomey Thomas, and six children—four boys and two girls—were born of that union.

In 1921, Hudson brought his family to California. He passed the California State Dental board examination and sojourned to Northwestern where he did postgraduate work in "full dentures" in 1923. That same year he moved to Los Angeles.

Hudson was recognized as a militant crusader for Negroes' rights in Shreveport, where he was president of the NAACP for two years. Again in 1924 he was elected president—of the Los Angeles branch, serving as its executive for ten years. During this period the NAACP became one of the nation's most militant branches. Today, he continues to support the NAACP, serving as vice-president from 1934 to the present time. Of Methodist faith, he has been a member of the YMCA board of management for 22 years.

To broaden his education he entered the Loyola university law school where he received his L.L.B. degree in 1932.

Four times within the past two months I have attempted to see him but each time his office, located 4266 S. Central, has been so jammed with people that it has been just possible to get in.

He has constantly supported medical and dental organizations in this area; not to be excluded is his active participation in the work of the Community Chest.

Apparently possessed with indefatigable energy he states, "I am active in politics, as I believe all professional men should be." Mildly and modestly he told me this.

But in a packed auditorium when discussing a bitter and controversial social problem, he speaks with his whole being. his every gesture and movement suggests that the problem personally pains him. A persuasive speaker, who fearlessly lays bare the truth, we can associate his name with the primary struggles of the people.

One of the leaders in the fight against restrictive covenants, for FEPC, and more recently the campaign for the re-election of Helen Gahagan Douglas to Congress—these are a few of his outstanding achievements.

To single out his most brilliant accomplishment would be difficult because this dynamic trail blazer has and will continue to crusade for those things which affect the welfare of the American people.

Analyzing the Situation

By DAN LORING

In last week's issue I promised to tell something about Central avenue; well I have decided to keep Central avenue on the anxious seat for a week longer, and inasmuch as I was in Union Station last week I might as well discuss a plan of action to oppose the Jim Crow seating arrangement on the Southern Pacific's "Sunset Limited," from Los Angeles to New Orleans. I'm sure many of you have read about it recently. The Southern Pacific Railroad does not deny that they segregate their passengers. However, they're "nice" about it. They claim they do it so as not to cause any embarrassment between the passengers. Something new in the practice of Jim Crowism. All hate mongers, fascists and riot leaders please take note of this new excuse.

This writer has made an investigation in the matter and I find that 80 percent of 150 Negroes and some whites would not be embarrassed as to whether their seat partners are white or colored. Ten percent was indifferent and the remaining 10 percent would prefer segregation. Then 10 percent includes both Negro and white.

These people, both white and Negro, have been in the state of California for some time and I'm quite sure are aware of the fact that Jim Crow practices are not tolerated here. So then on what grounds can the S.P. base its argument? They certainly can't speak for their passengers. To begin with, if the S.P. policy was clear they would not make these assumptions. We can't say how people feel because they have felt a certain way for some time unless we interview them in regard to their attitudes. Is it possible then, that the S.P. questions each person who makes reservations for transportation south, as to whether or not they would be embarrassed by having a Negro or white person as their seat partner? Or maybe they just ask the white passengers and who cares about the reaction of the Negro passengers, despite the fact that 30 percent of the passengers traveling in their chair cars are Negroes. And what about the Mexicans? They, too, are segregated.

From my investigation I've learned that the "Sunset Limited" carries five chair cars; each car seats from 50 to 60 people, varying to the type of car. Negroes are seated in the first car, that one which is right behind the baggage cars and farthest from the diner. When there is more than a capacity seating the remainder are seated in the next car. If this second car isn't filled, the Mexicans occupy the remainder of seats. The other cars are for whites, whether there are six or 60.

Contrary to its policy of catering to the public I have seen on one of my tours of investigation 26 people, white, seated in two cars which could accommodate approximately 110. And yet in the first car there were more than 40 Negroes. Is there any sincerity in the policy of the S.P. in catering to the public? It is this writer's opinion that if the S.P. railroad was sincere in an over-all policy of passenger convenience to the various services offered on the train; i.e., diner, lounge car, barber shop and valet service.

Now, what can be done about this? I happen to know that the S.P. is very susceptible to letters and it would do a great deal of good if letters were sent into their office protesting the segregation policy. Even if you are not planning to go south you will be doing your part to help make this country the democracy it is supposed to be. Address letters to the Southern Pacific Railroad, Passenger Department, 65 Market st., San Francisco, Calif.

If a continuous flow of letters is received I'm quite sure the S.P. will take on a new interest in the matter. Make your letters as brief as possible and straight to the point. Let the S.P. know that you are not satisfied and you will not use their lines until some consideration is given the matter. This writer will keep you informed of future developments.

A LAYMAN'S VIEW

By Leon W. Steward

COMMUNITY CHEST AND THE PEOPLE

If the Community Chest of Los Angeles would go out of business suddenly we doubt that any other section of the city would be as hard hit as the district within a radius of a mile and a half of the office of The California Eagle. Nevertheless, many people and businesses within that very area do not appear to realize it, according to our own observations hereabouts. Some of the employes and owners of several institutions with whom we have talked do not even seem to care what happens to the welfare of the community, according to their expressed attitudes. However, this is not written to them especially but to whomsoever might read it for whatever it might mean to them. Now that the war is over it is about time each of us makes up his mind about this matter of giving support to this important community agency.

WHAT IS IT?

The Community Chest campaign is a substitute for 151 separate campaigns with as many different campaign costs, and at least as many workers who would cause as many different appeals for much more money due to an increase in overhead cost and the lack of a dependable system by which trained members of the community may examine their respective budgets for wastes and by which their respective programs and services may be evaluated.

In other words the Chest is a plan to save you the time you must give to conduct 151 different campaigns or to just answering the door to 151 different solicitors. It saves about 45 per cent of the campaign cost which each dollar you give must cover. It assures you that the agency soliciting is worthy of your support and it watches to see what your dollar is actually accomplishing for the cause to which you have given it. It reviews the annual budget of every agency included in its appeal. It reviews the qualifications of the persons employed to serve in these agencies. AND it includes many necessary agencies that might otherwise have very tough sledding trying to raise their budget—especially in the area referred to above.

WHAT IT SUPPORTS

Its aid extends to such splendid agencies as the USO, many hospitals, Children's hospitals, Hygiene Associations, indigent family services, a Youth Dental service, and many others which serve the entire community of L. A. Without the Community Chest aid our Urban League, our YMCA and YWCA and Boy Scouts and just about every youth service in the area in question would either close shop or curtail their programs woefully. And yet, despite all of this some people dodge the matter by claiming that the donation is made on the very same job which their mate claims the home is making the contribution. Some are giving in amounts less than they would give any one of the agencies were they to be so approached. Some are even getting "mad" when asked to contribute. And we have not heard the Chest mentioned in any of the several churches we have attended during the past several weeks.

AS WE SEE IT

It appears to this column a real Christian appeal. It appears to be a most humane appeal. It is downright horse sense to be liberal towards it and if you don't see it likewise look at it again out of unprejudiced eyes. And if you do not wear a red feather and if your home AND office or home AND store or home AND shop are not listed among the supporters of Community Chest SHAME ON YOU. At any rate, you can at least be civil towards those who give their time and efforts to bring you the opportunity to prove you are intelligently interested in your community.

Hilter Tactics in Dixie

By WILLIAM L. PATTERSON

Down in Atlanta, Ga., a tear gas bomb shattered a second-story window of the Columbians meeting hall and broke up a session that this self-styled anti-Negro, anti-labor, anti-Jewish, anti-democratic and anit-American gang of hoodlums and terrorists were holding.

The leaders screamed that the Communists had done it. How like Germany before the war! When the fascist brownshirts burned the government building they tried desperately to place the blame on the Communists. The Columbians have bragged they will take over the city government of Atlanta, the state government of Georgia and then the government of our country. Now they seek sympathy, favorable comment in the reactionary papers about freedom of speech martyrdom.

The people cannot laugh down any fascist group. Its declarations may seem absurd. But so did Hitler's once. The gangster followers of the Beast of Berlin, seemed like bragging bullies when they started. They were. But behind them stood the great German bankers, industrialists and powerful landlords. These gentlemen financed them and smoothed their way through the courts. And behind these German gentlemen were the Hearsts, McCormicks, Fords and du Ponts. We know that now.

The German people did not understand what was taking place then. They laughed at the marching bullies who a few years later murdered whole Jew and Gentile, smashed the trade union movement and went on to throw the world into war. The lesson is there for us to learn.

The Columbians will have behind them the monied men of America. The Columbians are the hoodlums who formed the storm troopers, the thugs. The American Action, Inc., gentlemen are the general staff of fascist reaction in America. They will find the gold and the protection.

Neither the Communists nor any of the people acted with violence in Atlanta. The people know that waiting passively by while fascism organizes means death. The people of the South, the poor whites are moving and in the direction of progress. Those "hillbillies" who were driven by hunger down from their barren little plots of land to work in the war factories are not for violence. If at times they are part of a lynch mob they are incited by the Bilbos, Rankins and Talmadges. Their desperate insecurity, their lack of bread, shoes and of education makes them the easy prey of the demagogue. But they are not for violence. The Negro people are not for violence. The poor are never for violence.

The Atlanta meeting was broken up by the Columbians themselves. The fascists want the sympathy of the reactionary press. They want an excuse to use the cry of Communism in order to confuse and to deceive the people. The workers who are accused will not be provoked. They have asked the law to act, for they are not ready to stand and see these foul creatures organize to destroy all the gains of the war.

Fascism must find no resting place in America. No murderous gangs will be allowed to hatch their plots of hate against the people. How proud the Negroes, the Spanish-speaking people, labor and all progressives can be that the South is moving. What a great ally to the rest of the progressive forces it will be in the fight to save America.

The Columbians are as crude and perhaps more vicious than were the brown shirts. But the people will learn the lessons of Italy, France, Spain, Germany. Fascism can come. But the people will not let it gain a foothold in this country.

Murray Rejects Pressure for Red-Baiting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—In his keynote speech to the convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), President Philip Murray attacked the "staggering profits" of big business, saying they threatened free enterprise.

Murray warned that the present boom will soon give way to "bust," and called for "intelligent and sound" economic measures to minimize the effects of a depression.

The two main threats to a stable economy, Murray said, are low consumer income compared to rapidly rising production, and the rise of prices to "inflated levels."

Resisting a terrific pressure campaign by employer groups to force the CIO into red-baiting and other labor-splitting tactics, Murray confined his widely predicted stand on the Communist party to a declaration that the CIO would not tolerate interference from any political party. He made it clear that his warning applied to all political parties.

Many Negro delegates, some in leading positions in their unions, are in attendance at the convention, playing a leading role in its deliberations.

Adams-Central District Leads in Meeting Community Chest Quotas

Community Chest solicitation in the Adams-Central district is leading all districts in percentage of its quota of $5603 with collection to date of $3686 from 406 contributions, it was announced by district chairman Mrs. Josephine Brown at the Community Chest luncheon at the Biltmore Bowl Tuesday. This figure is 70 percent of the local goal.

South Park district chairman, Mrs. C. A. Troy, announces that 202 contributions totalling $733 amount to 43 percent of the quota of $1687.

Total contributions in the Los Angeles Area are $2,763,897, which is 42.6 percent of the $6,493,200 goal, it was also announced Tuesday.

Latest major to go over the top, with collection of 106 percent of her battalion's quota is Mrs. Emma Gordon.

Aiding in the outstanding record of the Adams-Central district is the Motor Corps under the leadership of Mrs. Fanny Martin, composed of Mrs. Percy M. McFadden; William Thedford, and Mrs. Maggie Pickett.

Next report luncheon of the Community Chest will be held at the Biltmore Bowl Friday, November 22. All volunteers who wish to attend should make reservations through district chairmen or at district headquarters: Avalon Community Center, 4772 Avalon blvd., AD. 3-1209. Those who have as yet not contributed to the Chest may do so by calling at the above address.

W. J. Wheaton Says

The political second guessers are giving many reasons for the Republican landslide, the great reversal in the thinking of the electorate. Discontent, loss of faith in the present administration, failure to correct the costs of essential commodities: food, clothing, housing, things necessary for comfort and health. All these, affecting localities, were merged into a national issue and swept the country like a prairie fire.

There were cases where Democrats, with a sense of just humanity, weathered the storm and emerged with colors flying. Congresswoman Helen Douglas in the 14th and Franck R. Havenner in the 4th congressional districts (California) were elected, in spite of the financial and other aids given their opponents. They had proved true to their trusts.

The GOP is losing no time in promoting the strategy for the presidential campaign of '48. Dewey, governor-elect, N. Y., seems to have the edge so far. In glancing over the political trend, it is noticed that the GOP has never nominated a defeated candidate the second time. They might make a precedent. Taft, Ohio, is also considered as a seeker. It will be well remembered that Taft wooed the Southern Democrats and formed a coalition which defeated some very important measures. He was working to win that bloc of southern delegates, who have a voice in nominating. Should Taft receive the nomination by or through a southern bloc, he would be influenced by that bloc. We have an example of that during the Hoover administration.

One of the most appealing pleas for a world peace was contained in a letter sent to Francis Cardinal Spellman by a Gold Star Mother (Mrs. Stanley Schmelle, Olivia, Minn.) whose 18 year old son was killed on Okinawa. It was a brave letter, a letter that is composed in the hearts of thousands of other mothers. The letter was such an appeal for a world understanding that she was asked permission to have it read at a meeting attended by delegates to the UN conference. It was read by U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes. Here are some of the highlights of the letter: "He was young—18—a senior in high school. But in December, 1942, he said to me: 'Mom, this is my fight, I got to go. I'm no better than the boy from England or China.' He fought hard. Bougainville, the Marshalls and lastly Okinawa on Sugarloaf hill. I wonder what heaven looked like with those tired, weary boys coming in. I figured they would look at each other, some friends, and say, 'You here?' But I think of what they died for. I think of the work to be done. Now it's up to us. Their work is over. I pray, how I pray for God to guide Secretary Byrnes in his work . . . I pray for a just peace treaty to come soon."

Let us add, we need God's guidance and grace to banish intolerance, racial hates and murderous thoughts and actions from polluted, unclean minds prevalent in this nation. May God grant the prayer!

One other thought. That catch word: Communist. We heard a very sensible comment on the matter by a very eminent person. In commenting on the strength of Communism abroad he said that the peoples of other countries should be allowed to choose their own ideas of government, and that the only way to combat Communism abroad was to practice democracy at home. The United States of America must first clean house.

PULPIT VOICE

By Hamilton T. Boswell

An essential item of equipment of every Pullman sleeping car is a small reversible sign which has on one side these words: "Have You Forgotten Any Personal Property?" Out of years of experience with the traveling public the Pullman company is aware that passengers will forget and leave valuable articles and other personal properties behind when leaving the train at destination. The sign is placed where no one leaving the car can miss its firm warning, yet pasengers still carelessly leave or lose valuables in Pullman cars.

Many of us have had that fateful experience of losing valuables and not knowing of the loss until suddenly and shockingly its realization came. There is the passenger who discovers two minutes before train departure that his ticket and reservation is lost. Yet he was sure as he boarded the train that the ticket was securely concealed in his pocket. Then there is the considerate husband who endures stamping women in a nylon line, only to discover when he reaches the counter that he doesn't have a cent. It is not the most welcomed experience to suddenly discover a loss. In that moment of tragic discovery a quickening sense of near panic inflames the mind and heart.

So it was with the parents of Jesus as they treked homeward after celebrating the Passover season in Jerusalem. So preoccupied were they with the past events of the Passover until it was only after a day's journey that the full realization came. They supposed Him to be among the company. But when they discovered that He was lost they turned back and retraced their steps until they found Him. They found Him after three days in Jerusalem conversing with the elders in the Temple.

This is one of the well-known incidents in the life of Jesus of Nazareth. It has been the subject of much preaching; the poet, the painter and musician have set its story in the varied expressions of art. Then too, it reminds of continuing human experiences which are always of great interest. There is, however, another note which this simple gospel narrative implies. It implies a parallel with our age and it's almost identical loss. Mary and Joseph so obsessed with the events and conversation of the holidays just past, lose their boy Jesus.

Two thousand years later, a so-called Christian civilization so obsessed with satisfying its selfishness and greed has lost the presence, not of Jesus the boy, but Jesus the Christ, and our loss is the greater and more tragic. Somewhere back over the road of selfishness and greed, Christian civilization has lost the spirit of its Saviour. The tragedy being that in its worldly preoccupation it, too, even as Mary and Joseph, is supposing that he is yet in the company. The day of tragic discovery is at hand.

There is altogether too much careless assurance with respect to the condition of our religion. We take it too much for granted. Instead of following Christ, the expectation is that Christ is following us. Men go through the best years of life, preoccupied with their own interests, yet supposing, because of the superficial lip service they pay in the name of God, that God is with them. The experience of talking to someone only to look up and discover that the person has gone on, is very true with the man who believes himself praying to a God who is his life is not there, only to discover too late. We can only be assured of a working religion when we follow it conscientiously, at all times keeping its purpose in sight and full view.

When the parents of Jesus discovered that He was lost, they immediately turned back. It was in the past and not the present or future in which the loss occurred. They knew that the best way to retrieve their loss was to retrace back to the point where the loss occurred. Turning a corner at rapid speed a delivery truck lost a carton of merchandise. A man seeing the action called to the driver, and the driver heard. He turned around and came back and reclaimed the lost article. He said to his benefactor, "Thanks, bub, if I had lost that package, I would have had to pay for it out of my salary." He was very grateful to have discovered his loss in time.

Modern civilization turning corners at rapid speed has lost those values which are so important to it. Prophets of God, have called to us but in vain. We merrily rush on unaware of so great our loss. Some day it will be ours to pay for the God that we have lost. If we could but pay in terms of material wealth, the loss would not be much. But we pay for the loss of God with fear, heart-break, tragedy, chaos and ruin.

Air Your Gripe

As we pointed out in launching this column two weeks ago, it is not intended to be just another column written by someone for you, but as a column in which EAGLE readers can air their gripes.

What's your favorite gripe just now? Let others in on it. Tell them what you are doing to remedy the conditions you gripe about, let them know how they can help.

This week we have a communication from Carl Valentine, 4314 Crocker street, Los Angeles, who tells of his protest to Radio Station KECA against the use of the objectionable term "darkey" in a song on the Dear Manners program, 7:45 to 8 a.m. last Friday (Nov. 15).

Our correspondent, in addition to writing the station, has discussed the objectionable incident with his neighbors, writing friends asking them to join his protest. That's the idea. Not only to gripe, but to do something about your gripe.

The use of insulting racial epithets on the radio is a rare occurrence these days in comparison to the years prior to 1932. We can keep down such incidents, even eliminate them altogether by being alert and articulate!

How about it, folks? Will you cooperate? Make a note of such incidents, the station and the program they occur on. Write or phone in your protest immediately. Take up the matter with your immediate neighbor and your friends in other localities. Get them to join you in protest. Send in the facts to your column, (Air Your Gripe, in care of the California Eagle, 4071 S. Central Ave., Los Angeles 11, Calif.), so others can thus be informed of the incident, the need for protest action.

Let's throw our weight around. Utilize the power of the pen. Let the offenders know they can't get away with it.

RADIANCE

To give light upon the earth is the work of our heavenly solar system. Time is measured by comparing meridians and the sun or certain stars, and, their regularity is unsurpassed. If, for instance the sun should rise one day at an unexpected hour, mankind would be thrown into confusion, and the results would be disastrous.

The light that comes from the stars and sun not only gives forth radiance, but brings life and promotes growth. New tissue forms rapidly when exposed to light, and it is necessary to our well being and existance.

Dear Prof. Herman: I am just one of your many readers, and I just want to say I enjoy your column very much. Please continue giving the advice you have given in the past and I feel that we will always be eternally grateful.—Sincerely, F. B.

T. E.—For what purpose was the tread-mill invented?

Ans.—To employ criminals usefully, by Sir William Cubitt in 1818. However, in the brutalized system formerly in vogue the necessary resistance was obtained by weights, thus condemning the ofender to useless toil and defeating the inventor's object.

A. H.—When will I move?

Ans.—A careful analysis of your question indicates that you are expecting your baby in January, and would like to be moved and settled as soon as possible. It seems to me that you will soon hear good news from one of the places you have filed an application so just be patient a little longer.

G. G. S.—Will we go back together again?

Ans. Probing into the matter I find that you and your wife are separated and you are wondering if you should attempt a reconciliation. I feel that you would be wise to do so; you are both still very much in love with each other and this misunderstanding can easily be cleared up if you just try.

J. L. R.—I read your column every week and enjoy it very much. Will you answer this question for me. Will I get the house I am waiting for?

Ans.—Your lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate your being successful in getting this house. It is only a matter of time until the people move out now.

R. B.—Why has the snake-bird such a name, since it eats no more snakes than other birds?

Ans.—Because, being submerged when it swims, and having a long slender head and neck, it looks like a snake rising erect out of the water.

R. Y.—Will I be successful in my endeavor?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals the fact that you are very ambitious and will succeed in the business you have just started. I suggest you take a course in business management in order to equip yourself more fully with all the various things that are necessary to make your business a profitable one.

Acquits Man in Killing Of Brother-in-Law Who Threatened His Life

Kelly Herring, 51, of 984 E. 55th st., charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Fred McDuffy, on August 6, was acquitted Tuesday in the courtroom of Judge Edward R. Brand. By pointing out the past reputation of the dead man, including threats against the defendant's life, Atty. Earl C. Broady, defense counsel, convinced the court that Herring's killing of his brother-in-law was an act of self-defense.

McDuffy, who was Herring's sister's widower, was described by five witnesses as a "dangerous man." Atty. Broady also introduced the testimony of Mrs. Johnny Cooper, who told the court that on the day of the shooting the dead man had told her he thought he would have to kill Herring."

Herring is said to have been told about this, the last of many threats upon his life by McDuffy, so that when he later saw his brother-in-law carrying his gun about the house, he immediately got out his own weapon.

The two men are said to have quarreled often since the death of McDuffy's wife, the reason for their mutual resentment being distribution of Mrs. McDuffy's property, of which the house they shared was a part.

The prosecution introduced as evidence a bullet hole through the head of the victim, as well as a hole in the floor of the death room, inferring that McDuffy must had met death while lying on the floor. Five bullet holes through the door to the room were also produced in evidence.

However, Atty. Broady stressed the known ill repute of the victim and, together with the defendant's statement that McDuffy had shot him in the arm first and that he had thrust his arm through the door and fired without knowing the effects, received a verdict of "killing in self defense."

Arrest 2 Juveniles Attempting to Sell Stolen Lawnmower

(SCP) — A lawnmower, which they admitted stealing from the garage of Eugene H. Sacks, 1403 E. 125th street, was recovered Saturday night from two juveniles.

The boys, Robert O'Neal Howard, 14, of 1777 E. Palm lane, and John Henry Franklyn, 13, picked up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Burns, 1651 E. 122nd street, when Burns heard them attempting to sell the mower to a neighbor for $10.

The youths were released to the custody of their parents.

John Ellis Dillard, 12, of 1217 58th place, has admitted setting fire to a paint storage shed owned by the Atlas Chromium Plating Co., 1203 E. 58th place, according to police.

The blaze was discovered and put out by maintenance foreman Frank Carpenter. Owner H. C. Puckett, investigated and caused the boy's arrest on a charge of arson.

Reports Jump in Diphtheria Cases

Diphtheria has shown a jump in the last two weeks, Dr. H. C. Pulley, acting health officer, reported yesterday.

Dr. Pulley said that eight cases have been reported during each of the last two weeks, while only one case was recorded three weeks ago. The 16 cases in the last 14 days are six higher than the five-year average for this period. No new deaths have been recorded.

The health officer repeated his department's warning that all children between the ages of six months and ten years must be immunized now against this disease, which is proving fatal to one in ten of its victims here.

Playgrounds Plan Busy Xmas

Promoting neighborly goodwill in their communities on the Yuletide, Los Angeles municipal playgrounds will hold many Christmas events for adults and families as well as for children, according to plans announced by the City Recreation Department.

For small children there will be Christmas plays, operettas, tableaux, and parties. Older boys and girls will take part in club observances, parties and programs planned by the many youth recreation groups at the playgrounds.

Adult organizations are also arranging special celebrations, and big community Christmas programs will bring many families together for an evening of entertainment at playground clubhouses.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

ELEGANCE REIGNED at the three brilliant highlights that offset the calendar of very recent activities. The beauty of Dame Fashion's stylish entrance was first noted Sunday afternoon at the Philharmonic auditorium where Catarina Jarboro thrilled an appreciative audience with her musical offerings. Wearing a gown of white crepe, styled with a low neckline and graduating hem, the diva was a picture of sophistication. The 50 sponsoring Wilfandelers, headed by Mmes. Fannie and Della Williams, were more than pleased with the success of the affair, proceeds from which augment their building fund.

Jessie Mae Brown

Following the concert, many made way to the Doll League Charity Club's cabaret, another "must" on many a date book. Given in the familiar setting of the Club Alabam, the cabaret was typical with complete show and all. Socialites and philanthropers were much in evidence. The Eddy Greens, Jack Chase and Lillian Randolph were at a ringside table, enjoying the fanfare that goes with being a celeb. When the spotlight was turned on the foursome, Norma nodded graciously in a striking hat and beautiful fur coat, while Lillian was outstanding in Fall tan, featuring the latest lines. Harriette Wadley, hostess at the table, was equally as stunning in a full length silver fox coat. Catherine Garcia and Marion Jackson chatted about Washington, D. C., in snatches, while exchanging friendly hellos to the many friends gathering at their ringside table.

Also noted Victor Manuel, who arrived in town Sunday morning from a three weeks' visit east. Gray and Pauline Evans seemed to be enjoying the show, while Maethilde Kenner and Bill Cockrell were glimpsed dancing on a very crowded floor, as were Gladwin and Ruth Ball. Chanced to talk with Billy Benfield, who proudly wears the bars of a lieutenant in the glider pilot division of the service. Away from the Angel City for two years or more, he had many interesting stories to tell. The lieutenant is enjoying a 30-day furlough. The cabaret lasted until 7 p.m., capping a perfect early evening gathering. Many small after affairs were held, including dinner at the Fawn, etc.

The grandeur of the Zeta's Night at Earl Carrolls' equaled that of last year. The crowd wasn't quite as large, but the beautiful Hollywood spot was graced by many a Zeta supporter. The sorors were on hand and proved to be very gracious hostesses, all wearing black evening gowns. Arriving on the scene a little late to note those who arrived fashionably late, ye scribe took sheer delight in watching different members of the set take to the dance floor at different intervals. Hazel Shumate was definitely outstanding in a silver metallic cocktail dress. Her able partner was Dr. Lincoln Shumate.

Another popular couple claiming the eyes of the press were Atty. Martha Malone Williams and the orchestra man of her heart, Benny Carter. Elinore and Arthur Toppsil were seated at a table up front with a group of friends. Elinore was lovely in cream-colored satin. Across the way and up one flight from the reserved table for Fourth Estaters were seated: Dr. Arthur Mitchell and Gloria along with Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Johnson. Still at another table were: Atty. and Mrs. Clarence Jones and the Drs. John and Veda Somerville. Vaino Hassen, escorted by Doc Robinson, was as glamorous as ever in a beautiful metallic gown. Anna and Joel Price were in the same party. The Mitchell Miles, Hattie McDaniel, Dr. C. W. Hill were noted at surrounding tables.

Clara Fentress and Dr. Lois Evans were spokesmen for the Zeta Sorority, making important intros and presenting scholarships. Spoke to Rachell and Jackie Robinson's brother-in-law, who proudly told the news of the famous athlete's son. Doc stork visited the couple Sunday. Dr. Bailey and lovely wife Edith were among those present and a host of others. . . . Orchids go to the three organizations hostessing the charitable weekend.

HERE AND THERE

The SC-UCLA football game is the talk of the town and those not holding tickets are at a loss. Christine Allen, at a loss, has decided to entertain with a football gathering for several UCLA rooters. The affair starts promptly at 1:30 all seats will be reserved in front of the Allen radio, with refreshments served throughout. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Walter William Davis have invited a host of their friends to meet Dr. and Mrs. Fitzroy E. Younge of Oakland, Calif., on Saturday night. Their beautiful South Arlington avenue home will be the scene of a very friendly gathering between the hours of 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. . . . Guy T. Hawkins was recently elected second vice-commander of the Benjamin J. Bowie post; his twin brother Vincent will act as co-chairman. . . . The Lowell Stewards had their daughter Pam christened at Independent church recently. Paulette Coleman and La France Brown stood as godparents. . . . Dorothy Dandridge, Gloria Bunch and Glenna Hays proved to be apt students when they rode with the Crop 'n' Tail Riding club Sunday morning. Breakfast was enjoyed following a riding contest in which Paulette Dejoie placed first. . . . Maudell Richardson bowled over 100 in her first try at the sport last Friday.

Tan tone ice queen Mabel Fairbanks is scheduled for another record-breaking performance. She opens with a special show at the Gayety club on November 26. . . . Sam Marlowe's hurried trip to San Francisco was due to illness in the family. His sis, Pearl, was enjoying a week's vacation in the northern city when she became seriously ill. Here's hoping her recovery will be a speedy one.

WELL! WELL! WELL!

Harry Davis recently purchased a honey of a '46 car for his better half Bobby Jean. . . . The car happens to be one of those driven from Chicago by Hoyt and other gents from the Graham lot. . . . William Ferrington, just out of the army, will more than likely rejoin the "Play Boys." . . . The Hank Milton Regina Mingleton combo is getting more serious every day. . . . The northerners are expected over the week-end to attend the Kappas Black and White. . . . We envision the formal to be one of the finest in the frat's history.

Millie Blount is all aglow, getting back into the swing of California gay life. . . . The City college phrateries are still looking over the freshman group for new members . . . Winifred Smith fell so deeply in love with the East coast, she is seriously thinking about moving back that way . . . Woot and Jean Brown finally found a house, and are very busy getting it in tip top shape . . . Bert and Ruth Kenner are still house or apt. hunting . . . Joe Oliver and Becky Brown did a great job with the column last week. Nothing but favorable comments have been pouring into the office. Thanks a million scribes . . . Vermont Galloway has finally found a feminine interest in L. A. . . . Word comes to The EAGLE office that Samuel Strain is the studious Romeo of the C. C. campus . . . Herb Simmons is in Arizona at his wife's side. She is recuperating from an operation . . . Wonder why we don't see George Sturdivant round town anymore. Hear that Dr. C. W. Hill's Hollywood home is definitely the show place since the Barker Brother interior decorators did the complete manse over. The drapes are most outstanding . . . so they say . . .

Ruth Curtis (Baby Ruth Williams) spent one month in L.A. with the family. She had returned to Tuskegee before most of her friends knew of her visit . . . Looking foreward to seeing most of you at the Black and White, we make dead line . . .

'TIL NEXT WEEK

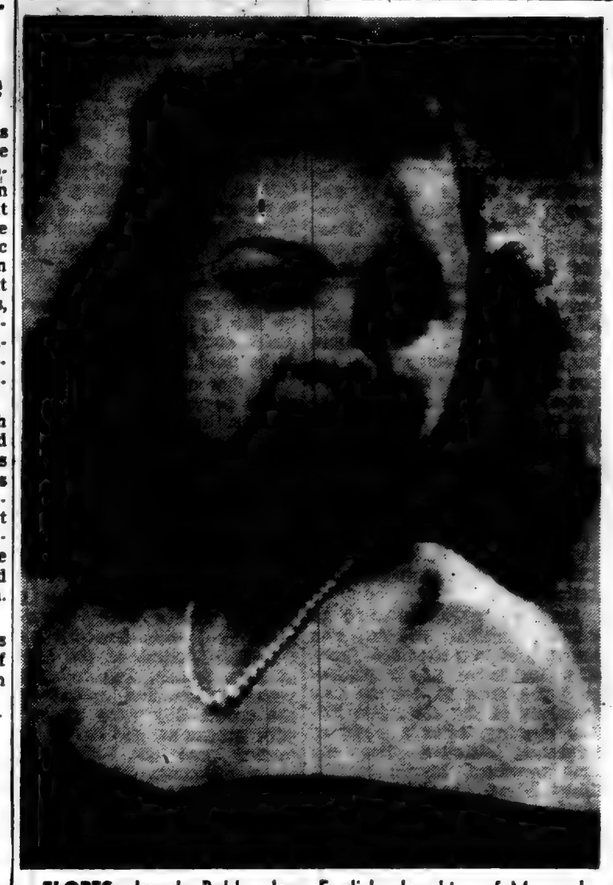
Chamber Music Ensemble at A & I College

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Since its inception in 1944, the Cambridge Collegium Musicum, which appeared at A. & T. College in Greensboro, N. C., last night (November 20), has become the most popular chamber music ensemble before the American public. In their appearances at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Harvard university, Boxton university and several other eastern schools they have been received with the greatest enthusiasm by capacity audiences.

This musical group, which will be featured in the second A. & T. College Lyceum Series of the current school year, has become known for having awakened a new interest in the great music of the old masters, presenting this great music in the actual style of the period and with authentic instrumentation.

John Quincy Adams served as a member of the lower house of congress after he retired from the office of President.



ELOPES—Lovely Bobby Jean English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert English, eloped to Yuma, Arizona, on Sunday, November 10, with Harry Davis, prosperous young business man of the city. The recent bride attended Los Angeles City college and was active in the Alpha Phraterie group. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Louise Baker, attended Pasadena Junior college. A reception for the couple has been planned for the early part of January.

Huge Banquet To be Staged By Sigma Men

Phi Beta Sigma fraternity will stage a huge banquet on Carver Day, January 5, honoring the illustrious deceased brother, George Washington Carver.

Outstanding civic and state leaders, as well as two national characters, will be awarded the coveted Carver citation that is given to citizens who have rendered meritorious services to human welfare.

'DENA CHIT-CHAT

By

JOHNETTA ARMSTRONG

BARB WILLIAMS, Guest Writer

This week found a gay deb and gent caught in the social whirl, as a week of gaiety and fall social activities wove itself among the "younger-setters" of the Crown City. Setting the pace for the weekend events was the Autumn Fashion Show and Dance held in the Gold room of the Pasadena Civic. Given jointly by the Fine Melloneers and Czars, social clubs of Pasadena, an evening of quality entertainment was provided for all who attended. Sadie Green, Doris Prince, and Wilhelmina Bunch walked away with top honors in the fashion show, while Robert Farlice and combo produced many a rhymathic beat for the able dancers. Dance intermissions found Bill Duncan, Thelma Jackson, Fred Valentine and Pearl McAfee grouping together for a social chat—Jackie Bunch, Harrison Bailey, Gwen Mumford and Robert Morgan also adding interest to the local gathering.

Amid an atmosphere of echoing paddles, scavanger hunts, and tear-streamed faces, ZAE Restrictive club pledges paid the price to become new members of the club, last Friday evening. After a night of hilarious initiation rites, the new members, Myrtle Martin, Sibby Mims, Charlotte McAfee, Mavis Jamerson, Alma Thornton, Beverly Cuoton, and Irene Higgins, donned formals to welcome club alumni and guests to a party, given by the old members, in their honor. Caught glimpses of Joe Mims, Winfred Eckeley, and Ples Griffin whirling many a gay socialite across the floor; while Alma Phillips, M. L. Jackson and Alva Neblett along with George Morrow and Mable Duncan enjoyed chatting around a cozy fire. Refreshments and the latest records lent added enjoyment to an evening of fun and frolic.

Saturday night found many a basketball fan enroute to Washington school where the Alpha chapter of the Phalanx fraternity and the PCAC clashed in one of the top sport sessions of the season—the PCAC's victorious with a 35-31 win over their challengers. Cage stars Carl Perry, Willie Wade, Reynard Cummings, and Tommy Floyd were on hand to provide numerous thrills for a large turnout of fans.

In cooperation with the YMCA and YWCA of Pasadena, the Interclub Council was host to the sports crowd for a dance after the game, with the ticket of admission being a can of food. The food collected will be sent to the needy and starving families of Europe. This is not an unusual gesture on the part of the Interclub Council. All through the year they have maintained a record of public spiritedness. The members of the Council are "just young folks" in the community. None of them is particularly outstanding as a publicied leader of thought. But as an organization with a flair for intelligent giving and voluntary service to others, they make up the type of leadership of which every community is badly in need.

In this connection it is not amiss to wonder if the "other organizations" will show the same intelligent aggressiveness in playing the part of the giver, rather than receiver—or will they allow themselves to sit back on the fallacy of "all FROM my fellow man" and fail to find the real thrill that comes from genuine self satisfaction.

Wilma Lane was recently honored with a baby shower given by Sweets Smock and Celestine Giddini, at the home of Mrs. Smock. The following young misses and matrons of the Crown City were on hand with numerous gifts for the coming Lane heir. Kitty Baird, Mozelle Duncan, Bessie Arnold, Ardelle Lewis, Gaynell White, Snookie McAfee, Snodie Martin, Lexie Walker, Bernice Collins, Myrtle Crain, Carrie Mae Arnold and Mrs. Bunn. Also stopping in to chat awhile were: Mrs. C. Davis, Mrs. J. Walker, Mrs. Coats, Mrs. Nance, Freddie Shelton, Thelma Moses, Mrs. Martha Burgess, Evelyn Miller, and Mrs. G. Hickenbottom.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Wade, nee Juanita Pilgrim, topped the "middle-isle" department this week with a reception in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wade, parents of the groom. Attending the couple were Brenda Ballard, Beverly Cuoton, Jackie Robinson and Mrs. Wiley. Ruby King, Frieda Hodge, Jane Wade, and Mary Clemmons helped to provide a lovely atmosphere for the occasion.

Congratulations are in order to the younger set's newest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. William Edson, nee Mary Collins. Best of luck to the bride and groom.

It has been both a priviledge and an enjoyable experience to be able to be your guest reporter for hte week. My thanks and best wishes to Johnetta Armstrong for the opportunity.

Chi. Couple End Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Blair of 1635 E. 42nd street had as their house guests Mr. Blair's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blair of Chicago.

Many delightful parties were given in their honor, as well as auto tours to the many beautiful places of interest in the Southland.

The vacationers departed for their home recently.

Bridge Points

"Keep Pushing, It's Wiser Than Setting Aside."

This week I point "One Over One" responses to opening suit bids of one (I think all bridge players who have at any time been my student), know the requirement to open a suit bid of one—i.e. 3 H.T. and a biddable suit. (b) 2½ H.T. and a re-biddable suit. (c) 2 plus H.T. and two biddable suits—preferable both Majors).

The "One Over One" response shows a large range of honor-tricks from ½ H. T. to 5; and to know the minimum value of each bid is beyond value, since each bid must have a definite minimum of honor-tricks.

1. With 6 cards and a ½ H.T., respond 1 in that suit.
2. With a 5 card suit and 1 H.T., respond 1 in that suit.
3. With a 4 card suit and 1 plus H.T. respond 1 in that suit.
4. With a 7 card suit—without H.T. it too is biddable at the level of 1.
5. With 1 to 1 plus (minimum) H.T. distributed in two suits respond 1 N.T.

Maximum honor-tricks to respond one no-trump is 1 plus to 2 plus. Without the above knowledge a bridge player is like a soldier on the battlefield without a gun.

Next week we delve into the mysteries of 2 over 1 responses to suit bids of one. Notice to Bridge Clubs, and private groups, I have finished my last series of lectures, and classes at the GWBA, 1054 E. 54th st., and I am now available to any group interested in a series of six or more lectures and instruction at nominal charge.

I take this method to thank the many bridge players who supported my classes and do hope that you will continue to advance in the art of scientific bridge. My classes at the GWBA jumped from a half table to nine, and oft-times as many as 11 enthusiastic tables. The height of my ambition is to teach you the beauty of scientific bridge—Information about future classes private or otherwise, phone AD. 6596.

RESIDENT DIRECTOR—Mrs. Mildred Whitaker is the very efficient resident director of the Outdoor Life and Health association's Sanatorium. (See story elsewhere).

The Charm of You

By NATALIE T. SCURLOCK

For the NNPA News Service

No doubt you have often wondered why it is that generally at a house party, to which men and women have been invited, at some point during the course of the evening the men gradually drift out into the kitchen or some other room in the house conspicuously bare of women. You say you have? And you don't particularly like it? Then do something about it.

You have wondered but have you given it real thought. What goes on in these little sessions? You ask yourself, "After having given over hours of planning and preparation for the gala event, why would he prefer the company of men?" As there is a reason for everything, there is a reason for this "drifting."

It's quite simple. Though you have spent good money and time on a lovely outfit, a becoming hairdo and a manicure, it may be that you have spent nothing on your mind. Yes, it is possible that it is the same mind you have had for lo these many years. If this is so, then you may be sure that he is aware of it.

If your relationship dates back six months or more then he probably already knows what you will have to offer in the way of conversation. What has all this to do with a party? Plenty, madam, plenty! Your man of the evening is in search of stimulating conversation, among other things. It can be about anything—sports, politics, world affairs, music and, yes, poker.

This is your cue. Find out all you can about the statesman or politicians in whom he is interested. Who is Marshal Jan Christian Smuts? Know what he means when he says that he thought with aces backed up the pot was his but Joe was straightened with a flush on fifth street. You hear that Buddy Young has been put with reserves. Who the heck is Buddy Young? Find out.

You may think that this all sounds very dull and uninteresting. To the contrary—when these things begin to have meaning for you, they will become most interesting. Quite often the reason you feel you do not like something is because you do not understand it.

This does not mean that you must groom yourself to be a walking encyclopedia. Perish the thought. Scraps of news and information gathered from here and there can be stored away and put to good use at some later date. Avoid echoing the opinions and ideas of others.

Think for yourself, be honest, sincere and willing to listen to the ideas of those about you. You'll find these things come first when men are conversing and will do a lot more for you than that new lipstick job.

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By Doris Austin

Hello There:

May I remind you of something that you are hearing from every source of information: "30 remaining shopping days until Xmas," so why not call me and give me your gift list (and the necessary currency) instead of waiting until later. If you are skeptical about my fee being too much or my ability to shop for what you want, the only way you will ever be certain is to try my services or at least talk with me personally. I'm no "ogre" and I am certainly not going to try to browbeat you into buying anything, but I feel I have a service to offer the busy housewife, the career girl, and the businessman or any one that feels I have an idea that can help save time, money or worry for him.

All fees vary, depending on the scarcity of the items wanted (white shirts, sheets, pillow cases, nylons, etc.) and the time spent purchasing them. I buy the things for you at the stores where you would shop if you had the time or patience to stand in lines (I do mean "lines") every day all day. I do not buy through any channels nor am I allowed any more of any one article than you, but I do have all day to shop around while you may have to make a purchase at a store where the prices are sky-high because you do not have the time to look elsewhere.

Every day prices on cotton goods are rising, so if you are planning practical gifts of linens or towels you would be wise to get them early. It's not so much that they are not on the market for you to buy but the merchandise will be picked over and it is only natural that some stores will raise prices a bit for last-minute shoppers; where I am concerned no matter when you shop you save by buying in large quantities because the more you get—the smaller the fee on gifts and wearing apparel—a straight 10 percentage is charged on purchases like this amounting to $35 or more.

Remember, I exchange all articles at my expense and the exchanges are small because I insist on a complete file card of each client in regard to sizes, styles, color preferenceh, favorites stores or any information you think I should have before shopping for you; this lowers the exchange percentage a great deal and saves you time if you are in a hurry for shopping, and helps me because I exchange at my expense.

Don't forget, I shop for children, too, purchase clothes, toys, or anything they might need. Remember, if you do not have the necessary finance to purchase all you want at once, most of the stores are urging you to use the "lay-away system"—which is a wise plan for mothers with several youngsters that all seem to need everything at the same time—and it also is helpful because it offers a wider selection of merchandise and eliminates some of your last-minute rush shopping. I will make these purchases for you when you know just what you want, and you may make the final payment or I will. I will also pick up your "will calls" that you already have up and are a little rushed for time to pick them up. Really you should call me, there are very few services I cannot offer you, so give me a ring and let's get together; for the busy housewife, the career girl, the business man or for everyone, I have some form of service to offer.

I will come around to see you or you may visit me at 1171 E. Santa Barbara ave., call CE. 2-0819 for appointments—best hours: 7-8:30 a.m. or eve. I am an "early bird," therefore I catch many worms (in the form of just what merchandise you may want or need).

Patronize the shops advertised in this column and see for yourself, the courteous, individual service you will receive and you will return again and again. Just drop in any one of these places, look around—the owners encourage this. If you find things to your liking, tell others about the place of purchase or the services of the trademen.

COUTURSTAT

By Grace Fisher Atkins

The work shop has stolen the column time for the past two weeks. Here we are back again with plenty of news. Mrs. Hazel Shumate and Mr. Herman Crouch have scored again. Their clothes made record for designs cently.

The blue gaberdine modeled by Mrs. Shumate was considered the smartest version of a suit for the season. Herman did this model. Hazel, Mrs. Clara Towns, and the writer constructed it.

A silver metallic cocktail dress overwhelmed the observers of the buyers' display group. Simple, beautiful, and continuous unity describes the atmosphere of this gown. One of the most valuable features of this design was the small amount of yardage needed. Form fitted, cut out at the neck, tells the general lines.

Hazel also modeled her own red-orange "draped completely" jersey gown. Though it was originally worn by Mrs. Shumate at the Alpha Phi Alpha formal in Pasadena last year, it was selected as a "mad-creation," at the showing.

It is still whispered about that the Gordon sisters really put on a show a couple of Sundays ago. The Alpha Bowling Club was the scene of many beautiful clothes. From sport to evening these sisters showed gowns.

The larger models were especially appreciated because seldom is the large figure selected for a performance. Yet, the majority of women are past size 14.

The rose crepe and French lace cocktail dress was considered a must on the wardrobe list. Another blue gaberine suit was a good leader. The shoulder bag played a valuable part in the attractiveness too.

FAWN CATERS TO FINE CLIENTELE

The list of the Fawn's dinner guests for Sunday, November 19, was not unlike a page from Who's Who. Among those seen dining were Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams, Drs. Charles Ennis and Arthur Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Schumate, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Green, Miss Mildred Blount and escort, Mr. Norman Houston and party of five, the Loren Miller party which consisted of Lester Granger, executive sec. of National Urban League, Mrs. Ralph Vaughn, Miss Alma Thomas, Mrs. James Garrett, Atty. W. T. McKnight, Atty. and Mrs. Loren Miller. Miss Hattie McDaniels and friends were spotted as they were leaving.

Today's Youth

By Georgie Russell

Did you ever stop to analyze people's character? I have two friends whom I have known for quite a long time. I took it upon myself to observe their habits and conduct and various conditions and circumstances. I am familiar with their ways of thinking, acting and habits. I won't use their real names in speaking of them, I'll just call them Joan and Jean.

Jean is one of the most honest and reliable persons I have ever known. When she speaks of something that has happened she states the facts as she sees them. She does not stretch or color the story to make it exciting and interesting.

When she finishes you truthfully know you have had an dependable account of the incident. She never gives a one side report in order to portray herself as victor of the situation. She gives full credit when due to her opponent. When she promises to do a thing she really tries to fulfill her promise. She does not concoct excuses if she fails at a job, but frankly explains the situation as it is. She does not follow this straight and narrow path because she thinks it pays her to do so; it is simply her way of living. Her teachers recognize her as dependable and she is a favorite of all who know her. She doesn't consciously strive for popularity, but nevertheless, she is quite popular.

Joan means well but lacks Jean's integrity. She is a poor reporter. She exaggerates and colors her stories to make them entertaining. After listening to her account of incidents you would never know exactly what has happened. She is so undependable that whenever she makes a report on a conversation or argument there is always a doubt in your mind.

When Joan makes a promise she intends to keep it if difficulties are not in her way. Her teachers can't rely upon her to give exacting work. She is a slow advancer. If a person follows the road Jean is traveling they'd find the going tough at times. There will be plenty of temptation to deviate the course. The honest person may frequently sacrifice immediate advantages which might be gained by trickery or sharp dealings.

Rome was not built in a day, neither did Jean gain her enviable reputation in a day. It was built over a course of years. But the rewards are worth the effort for she has a clear conscience, solid achievement, and honesty to her credit and is respected and confided in, by all who know her.

Good Health Habits Theme of PTA Meet

The theme for last Thursday's 49th St. PTA was "Guiding Youth in Good Health Habits." Dr. Gordon and Mrs. Reingig, the school doctor and nurse, impressed the parents with their well organized lectures, covering all aspects of "Good Health Habits."

A Thanksgiving play, "The Pilgrims," was presented by the B-3 of Mrs. Renders' room, A-3 and B-4 of Mrs. Caldwell's room with Mrs. Saulsbury at the piano.

After the program parents and teachers enjoyed a cup of tea and cake. Mrs. Lauderdale wishes to thank each and everyone for the cooperation shown in the paper drive. It was a grand success.

Parents of 49th street school are asked to return their PTA envelopes. Mrs. Mary Curl, principal; Mrs. Lula Belle Lauderdale, president.

Survey Shows Most Property Damage Is Caused by Adults

WASHINGTON — To disprove the common belief that children cause most damage to rental properties, evidence was revealed by a recent survey of more than 173,000 public housing dwelling units by the Federal Housing Authority.

These findings should go far to dispel the fears of landlords who have refused to rent to veterans with children in their families. The housewife's improper cleaning methods, including her use of harmful cleaning materials, exceed the various forms of wear and tear caused by children's carelessness, the survey showed.

Cavalrette Club, Inc. Hold Regular Meeting At Home of President

The last business and social meeting of the Cavalrette Club, Inc., was held at the home of the president, Jacqueline Moore. Following a short meeting, the club spent the remainder of the evening playing Pokeno. Prizes were given by the hostess. Mmes. Delphina Fay, Mamie Carter and Olhett Powell were winners.

The success of the Cavalrette's recent cocktail party was discussed by the group and a vote of thanks is extended all who participated. Before the meeting adjourned, the hostess served a full course dinner. Mrs. Ester T. Greenly, club mother, was also present.

Freed on Charge of Robbing White Man On Immoral Mission

Robbery charges against Jacob Herbert Williams, 30, of 460 East 4th st., were dismissed Monday in a hearing in the court room of Judge Edwin L. Jefferson, when defense counsel Atty. Earl C. Broady brought out that several of the necessary elements of a robbery were missing in the incident which involved $450 in cash taken from a money belt owned by James Taylor, white, of Annaheim.

Taylor testified that on November 7 he had met a strange woman on the street and accompanied her to her room. Upon entering the room, Taylor states, he put the money belt containing $450 in cash in his shoe. After a while, the plaintiff testified, he looked in his shoe to discover his belt was missing. Looking further, he found the belt on the floor—empty. Taylor said he then grabbed the woman and began to yell for help.

At this point Williams is alleged to have entered the room with a knife in his hand and rescued the woman who fled, presumably taking the money with her.

Under cross examination by Atty. Broady, Taylor admitted he had gone to the room for immoral purposes. Broady also charged that the money was gone before Williams entered the room. To these factors was added the notation by defense counsel that the plaintiff had never seen the woman and Williams together, that no force was used upon Taylor.

U. S. Court to Rule on School Segregation

SAN FRANCISCO.—The United States district court of appeals will be asked to pass next month on the action of Southern California school authorities of segregating white and Mexican pupils into separate elementary schools.

The case began earlier this year when a number of Mexican parents won an injunction preventing the Westminster school district of Orange county from segregating the students.

The school district, liberal in its use of taxpayers funds, filed an appeal which will be heard next month. It was predicted the case may reach the United States supreme court.

The school district declared its appeal that the federal court lacked jurisdiction since the was not "substantial federal question" involved in the case. It also asserted that segregation regulations were not in conflict with California law as concluded by the district court.

David C. Marcus, attorney for the parents, contended the segregation practice retarded the English education of Spanish-speaking children, fosters racial antagonism and creates inferiority in the children.

Granger Notes Increase in Mob Violence

(SCP).—An increase in race violence all over the United States was noted yesterday by Lester Granger, executive secretary of the National Urban League, in an address at the Town Hall meeting in the Biltmore Hotel.

Granger, a resident of New York City, has been conducting a survey of the problem of Negroes in the postwar world, and recently completed a tour of 60 cities in 30 states, gathering data for his study.

Dodgers' Fans Draw the Line On Pet Snake

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Robert Butler, 58, really lives in Harlem at 27 W. 139th street, but right now and for some days previous, he has been visiting friends who live on Belmont avenue in Brooklyn. Ordinarily, a visitor in Brooklyn doesn't have to worry about getting into the toils of the law, so long as he behave himself, and doesn't speak unkindly about the Dodgers, but Butler was haled into court because he had a pet.

According to his own story, Butler sent to Arizona about 20 years ago and bought a baby rattlesnake. He raised it tenderly and his affection for it grew, and the snake grew, too, until it was five feet long and as thick as a man's wrist.

When Butler was invited to visit friends in Brooklyn, he didn't have the heart to leave his snake all by itself in Harlem, so he took it with him. Now, as you probably know, almost anything can happen in Brooklyn, and the natives are a tolerant lot, but they couldn't take a snake in their borough, so Butler was summoned to court. The judge listened to Butler's story of devotion to his pet and paroled him for one week at which time the snake will be in court to testify—mutely, of course. Butler told the judge, "Perhaps if you saw him, you'd like him too."

Local Audience Thrilled By Jarboro Performance

Music-lovers and philanthropic Angelenos turned out in large numbers at the Philharmonic auditorium last Sunday afternoon to hear Madame Caterina Jarboro, renowned European-trained dramatic soprano.

Looking very striking in a fitting gown of white crepe, with bead pearls on the shoulders of the long sleeves, and raised front hemline, wearing a fuchsia orchid on shoulder and carrying one in her hand, she poured out her heart in song. With an unusual wide range of magnanimous Volume, she gave a commanding performance in French, Italian, and English, thrilling the audiences with low gracious bows.

Madame Caterina Jarboro was sponsored by the Wilfandel club, whose primary objective is the erection of a club house to serve as a cultural center for wholesome recreational and educational activities.

Since then the Home Protective Association has been carrying on the fight so they might live in their own home.

Dinner will be served from 4 12 p.m. The Turkey Raffle will be at 8 p.m.

Outdoor Life and Health League Given Linen Shower

Mrs. Mildred Whitaker, capable resident director of the Outdoor Life and Health Association's Sanatorium, was a charming breakfast hostess last Sunday morning to the members of the Assistance League of Duarte Sanatorium.

The league was very pleased with the many improvements. They spent most of their time perfecting plans for a shower for the Sanatorium to be held Sunday afternoon, December 1, at the Leslie Kings' residence, 2115 Harvard blvd., from 4 to 7 p. m.

Mrs. Whitaker extends an invitation to other clubs to come out and visit the Sanatorium and hold a meeting any Sunday. Call Mrs. Zella Taylor, secretary, at AD. 0395 or Dr. Leonard Stovall, president, TU. 1639, for a reservation.

SHAME ON AMERICA
By CPL. JAMES L. CARTER

Being in the army of my country, the United States of America, has afforded me a grand education. I have been able to visit many foreign countries and to meet many different nationalities. I have also had the opportunity of meeting many soldiers who have touched various parts of the world which I have not seen.

I have noticed that all other nations which I have visited give more respect to the colored soldier than does my country. I was welcomed in any eating house. I was welcomed in any hotel. There was no segregation in the theatres. No "For Colored" signs on public transportation systems.

The only time there were any marked differences existing in foreign countries, was when officers or white GIs introduced such policies. Such people would tell lies about their colored fellow soldiers in order to creat some unpleasant reactions.

In Calcutta, India, for example, the U. S. army introduced separate rest camps and rest camp areas. Separate Red Cross Centers also exist in Calcutta. The MP force there is proportionately unbalanced. This causes an understandable hardship on colored soldiers. In spite of all of this, colored soldiers are not barred from any place in India except those places put off limits to colored soldiers. This statement is not exaggerated. The Indians have their natural likes and dislikes but have never, to my knowing, closed any of their business places or homes to any GI because of color.

GIs (colored) who have spent time in the ETO bring back favorable reports concerning social and secondary relationships. Colored and white GIs are treated there with mutual respect. Color has little or no effect. Friction only came when a few white GIs insisted on home conditions in respect to color. I am told that the people of the ETO would not consider the advocation against color.

I was visiting in Perth, Australia, not so very long ago and I found that conditions there were very favorable for all GIs. I met an Australian who ran a little book store. We were of the same religious faith. I introduced myself and told him that I was a member of his church. From then on our relationships were that of brothers. Religion does not go quite that far in my home land.

It was good to see social conditions exist between white and colored as they should. Our artificial race barrier in America has robbed us of national happiness. We are under the wrong impression because of unfair un-American actions of some of our un-Godly dwellers. Most of us take the social conditions in America for granted, because of this un-Godly force.

I did not have to pick my cafes in Australia. I was waited on when my turn came. In my own country I have been refused many times. The Australians made all GIs welcome in spite of their well known racial policies.

As I breathed the air in Australia, I felt a new meaning of the word freedom. I said to myself, "How beautiful America would be if she were free of her race problems."

Some people might say, if you like some other country better than America, why don't you move out? My answer would be: I am an American and America is my home. I am in love with America. All of my interest is in America. I think that America is the best place in the world. God gave me a part in America which I will not give up even unto death. The only thing that I am saying is that the social and economic stigmas that overshadow the minority should be removed. Happiness was not meant for a few but for all. Is it asking too much to ask that I be helped to remove the stigmas of my home land? Should I move from America because I have that desire for our America?

Because of the new light that the colored GI now has, I know that he will not swallow the same bitter pills. Bitter pills that were made by himself and many others. It is obvious that he will strive to better himself and America from a social and economic standpoint.

I know that the colored GI will fight to obtain the new meaning of freedom for his country. I also know that all true Americans will join in the fight. This new freedom is not construed to mean primary social relationship. Primary social relationship is more or less left up to individuals. New freedom is construed to mean free and fair secondary social and economical freedom for all according to their efforts.

I know that no force will be used because all people know what common force will lead to in a very short run. We should know that love and action is the strongest force that can ever be used. I sincerely believe that education, Christianity (true), voting power, and other such democratic powers will be our means to better social and economic conditions in our home land. I think that travel and foreign education should be added to the list.

We who live in America have the highest standard of living. The best educational systems. We over rate all lands in everything except BROTHERLY LOVE. SHAME ON AMERICA.

Make Admirers Happy

Defeated candidates Roy Soden and progressive laborite Charles Collins from New York, made a group of youthful admirers mighty happy. Signing autographs for a group of future voters, these candidates probably won't be forgotten by their admirers when they are old enough to march to the polls. Soden and Collins ran on the American Labor party slate for congressman and senator.

Father Flanagan, Boys' Town, Denies Knowledge of Jimcrow

KANSAS CITY—The segregated seating arrangement planned for the Boys' Town choir recital scheduled Saturray, November 23, in Kansas City has been sharply protested in a telegram to Father Flanagan of Boys' Town through Carl R. Johnson, president of the local NAACP branch.

Despite assurances from the Kansas City Conservatory of Music that it had been "forced to establish a policy of segregation at the recital with the approval of Father Flanagan," a telegram from Father Flanagan repudiated the charge.

In a telegram Father Flanagan declared: "I have no personal knowledge of local manager's arrangements or other details connected with bookings of Boys' Town choir. This has been and is entirely in hands of tour managers, Columbia Concerts, Inc., New York City. I know of no discrimination practiced in booking our choir. As you know, we countenance no discrimination at Boys' Town or as far as lies within our power in travel. I am referring your wire to Columbia Concerts who presumably will communicate directly with you. Greetings."

Two UCLA Students Rank High in Debate

Outstanding records in intercollegiate oratory and debate were chalked up by two Jefferson high school graduates now attending the University of California at Los Angeles—William Elkins and Albert Jones—at the first Inter-Collegiate Debate Contest held at Compton college November 15 and 16.

Elkins, a UCLA senior majoring in political science, emerged victorious over contestants from nearly every Southland college and junior college in the upper division oratory contest. Fourth place in the same event was garnered by Jones, also a senior and political science major.

As one of the teams entered by UCLA in the debate over the question of revising national labor legislation with a view toward preventing strikes and extended disputes, the two students advanced into the semi-finals of the competition.

Crowds Throng 2nd Baptist

Sunday after Sunday heavy crowds are pouring into Second Baptist Church. Every seat in the huge main auditorium is taken. Two-thirds of the balcony is solidly packed. Last Sunday morning the huge audience overflowed into the third and last section of the balcony.

Souls are being saved, the unchurched are joining. Many people recently come to the city find this church exactly what they want. For the past three Sundays, ten, fifteen, twenty-two have reunited. Offerings have amounted to $970, $1150, $1320 on consecutive Sundays. These are regular weekly offerings. How grateful the Church is for both material and spiritual blessings. Fifty persons joined during the revival. The minister baptized twenty-six.

Why do they rush to Second Baptist? There is good music under Mrs. Ann Morrow and Mrs. Luvenia Nash. There is a highly refined and dignified order of worship, yet not so refined as to leave no room for the Holy Spirit. Then, there is the preacher. At present Dr. Henderson is preaching a Series of Sermons on "The Parable of the Prodigal." These sermons are drawing and holding these crowds. Come and worship with us on Sunday and hear the fourth Sermon, Subject, "The Boy That Came to Himself." Come once, you'll come again. Do come on time. No seats available on the main floor after eleven fifteen.

Second Baptist Church will have Thanksgiving services, Thursday, November 28, at 11 a.m. The public is cordially invited to hear the Thanksgiving message which will be delivered by the minister Dr. J. Raymond Henderson. There will be special music by the choir.

A delicious turkey dinner will be served after services in the dining hall at 1:30 o'clock. You are invited to have dinner.

Opportunity Bapt. Church Holds Services

The Opportunity Baptist church, 2308 Griffith ave., corner of 23rd and Griffith, held high services in their grand opening. Many of our friends, members, and visitors were present and all rejoiced in our new permanent location.

The message, "Walking by Faith," was delivered by the pastor. God has wonderfully blessed us in all our efforts and undertakings since our organizing. We plan to make this one of the greatest churches in Los Angeles; a place where members have a voice to speak freely; a place where the majority rules in governing the church; and a place where there is a great opportunity to do church work in all departments.

Our Sunday school starts at 9:30 a.m., Brother Hogan, general superintendent. Our morning services convenes at 11 a.m. If you want to hear good singing and preaching, come and visit our services. Rev. E. D. Smallwood, minister.

Man's first care should be to avoid the reproaches of his own heart, and next to escape the censures of the world. If the last interfere with the first it should be entirely neglected.—Addison.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Richards, who passed away seven years ago, November 21, 1939. A native of New Orleans and resident of Los Angeles for 15 years.

MARY RICHARDS

Oft times our thoughts do wander
To a grave not far away,
Where they gently lowered our mother
Just seven years ago today.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But love of you who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.

Sadly missed by your children, Mrs. P. R. Farris, Mrs. Parks, Mrs. C. Johnson of Chicago, and R. Richards, son.

Zion Hill in 1st Anniversary

Rev. Grant Harris welcomed Rev. Glen T. Settle to Zion Hill last Sunday when the church celebrated its first anniversary in its new location.

Rev. Settle, founder and originator of "Wings Over Jordan," gave highlights of the chorus and the accomplishments they have made for our race as well as our nation. An inspiring message, "God's Remedy for a Confused World," was delivered by Rev. Harris, pastor.

An old fashioned basket dinner was served in the church annex to an enormous crowd of members and friends.

On Friday, November 22, at 7 p.m., "Wings Over Jordan" will appear at the Zion Hill Baptist church. A record breaking crowd is scheduled for the affair.

Ruby Walker, secretary; Rev. Grant Harris, pastor.

It will never do to be behind the times in things most essential, which proceed from the standard of right that regulates human destiny.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Sunday School Lesson

Subject: Paul in Athens and Corinth. Devotional reading, Psalm 8. Lesson Text and Outline Acts 17:22-28, 18:1; Corinthians 1:22-24; 3:1-3. Motto text 1 Corinthians 3:11.

Introduction

Paul's visit to Athens was featured by his irritation over its idolatry, work among the Jews and their proselytes, conversations in the market place, and an address to the high court on Mars Hill. Leaving a group of believers in Athens, but probably no church, Paul went 40 miles westward to Corinth, the provincial of Achaia, where he spent 18 months in a fruitful ministry. About five years later (probably A.D. 58 at Ephesus) Paul wrote his first letter to the Corinthians from which we have two vital messages.

Comments

1. Paul's sermon at Athens shows them that they themselves had given a fair occasion for the declaring of this one true God to them, by setting up an altar to the unknown God, which intimated an acknowledgement that there was a God who was yet to them unknown; and it is sad to think that at Athens, a place which was supposed to have the monopoly of wisdom, the God was an unknown God, the only God that was unknown. Now they ought to bid Paul welcome, for this is the God whom he comes to make known to them, the God whom they tacitly complain they were ignorant of.

Paul confirms his doctrine of one living and true God, by His works of creation and providence. God made the first man, He makes every man, is the former of every man's body and the Father of every man's spirit. God made them not to live in one place, but to be dispersed over all the earth; one nation ought not to look with contempt upon another, as the Greeks did upon all other nations; for those upon all the face of the earth are of the same blood. The Athenians boasted that they sprung out of their own earth, were aborigines, and nothing akin by blood to any other nation, which proud conceit of themselves the apostle here takes down. In God we live; that is, the continuance of our lives is owing to Him and the constant influence of His providence; God is our life, and the length of our days. In God we move; it is by the uninterrupted concourse of His providence that our souls move in their outgoings and operations, that our thoughts run to and fro about a thousand subjects, and our affections run out toward their proper objects. In God we have our being; not only from Him we had it at first, but in Him we have it still.

2. Those that are saved are reconciled to the doctrine of the cross, and led into an experimental acquaintance with the mysteries of Christ crucified. When God would save the world, He took a way by Himself; and good reason, for the world by wisdom knew not God.

3. It is the duty of a faithful minister of Christ to consult the capacities of his hearers and teach them as they can bear. And yet it is natural for babes to grow up to men; and babes in Christ should endeavor to grow in stature, and become men in Christ. Christians are utterly to blame who do not endeavor to grow in grace and knowledge. Contentions and quarrels about religion are sad evidences of remaining carnality. True religion makes men peaceable and not contentious.

The foundation is needed. Without it man trudges through shifting sand or drifts over an unstable sea or floats in gusty vapor. Wanted: the deep bedrock, stable, secure, sufficient for a life in time and eternity! The Foundation is laid. It was purposed in the infinite beginning. It was prophesied through 40 centuries. It was perfected at Golgotha, the very earth shaking when it was put in place. It has been proved through all the Christians' centuries. The Foundation is identified: "Which is Jesus Christ"? No other and nothing other than He: no human however high and mighty; no works or wealth or worth, all the veriest tinsel in the testing flames! Believe on Him. Build upon Him. Build for a better world to come.

"A host of kids throughout the United States are kicking, passing and handling a football better than the average collegian of two decades ago. Touch football—6, 7, or 11 man touch—is responsible for the skills that the average upper elementary or junior high school boy has. Except for tackling and the use of zones instead of 10-yard distances to make four downs, the game of touch is very close to football played as inter-scholastic or inter-collegiate games.

"Elementary school boys of the upper two grades in Washington, D. C., have played through a series in which the finals will be played this week. Every fifth grade and every sixth grade has a 6-man team. After playing at a recess period before and after school to determine the best grade team, the school winners emerge to play other schools in a division tournament and then these finalists meet for the city championship.

"Junior high school principals and coaches are enthusiastic over the results of this intra-mural, extra-mural competition. They say the boys coming into the junior high schools are equipped with major game skills and coordinations never thought possible of the grade school kids.

"As a delinquency prevention, Attorney General Tom C. Clark and his committee for prevention of juvenile crime might well consider the power of competitive sports for school kids in the lower grades who have begun to find schools run by women teachers tiresome and boring. Teachers report that many a vigorous athletic boy, slow in academic work, has a live interest now in school where some success and desire for commendation come from his fellow schoolmates for his prowess on the athletic field.

"The reason elementary school competition has been frowned upon by educators is due to several factors. Few men teachers are found in white elementary grade schools. Colored men do go in for teaching in the lower grades of big city school systems. Women do not know how to coach football, baseball, basketball, track and field and many popular games. The woman teacher who does is one in a thousand. Women physical education teachers are not trained to handle the rougher contact sports. Educators decry bringing into junior and senior high schools the highly organized, intensive, costly interscholastic sports program.

"The emphasis in elementary and junior high schools should be placed on intramural programs with just enough inter-school competition, usually in an elimination series, to give spice and motivation to the within-the-school pla. There should be no varsity teams. Let the winners of the intra-murals represent the schools against similar champions elsewhere.

"A chief reason against competitive sports for immature boys has been the fear of permanent injury or serious disease resulting when boys, not physically sound, compete under the urge to win at all costs. Several years ago, a joint committee of the National Medical Association and the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation decided that, 'if a growing bo is organically sound, after a medical examination, no amount of exercise can hurt him.'

"Despite evidence of great fatigue, an elementary school boy can seldom be forced to the point of complete exhaustion and if all-out, no permanent harm results.

"The kids who learn to win gracefully and to take defeat without undue emotional depression are going to be far more mentally healthy and immune to frustrations than the kids who do not play games. For health, citizenship and education, let's encourage grade school sports."

Syracuse Won't Serve as Sub For Penn State

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(NNPA)—Student opinion last week rejected a reported invitation to Syracuse University to replace Penn State as Miami, Florida, University's gridiron foe, November 30. The Penn State-Miami game was canceled because of two colored players on the Penn squad. Although there was no official confirmation of the Miami offer, the Syracuse Daily Orange carried a sports page editorial headed: "No Thanks, Miami."

Frankie Moore Stops Hanbury

The Oakland punch artist, Frankie Moore, 137, took all that Lew Hanbury, 136½, Washington, D. C., was able to dish out in the first three or four rounds of their scheduled 10-round bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium last Friday night and then came back to score a technical knockout over Hanbury in the sixth stanza, Referee Bennie Whitman stopping the bout upon the advice of Dr. William F. Carver, after Lew had sustained a deep cut over the left eye. The card was seen by 6400 fans.

The bout was a sizzler until halted, but Moore was drawing away from the slowing Hanbury when the bout was stopped.

Jackie Byrd, 148, nodded Jimmy Shans, 143, in the 6-round semi-windup. In two of the fours the up-and-coming Darnell Carter, 133, scored a kayo via the technical variety, over Joie Alvino, 130, and Marshall Nance, 168, decisioned Frankie Calzo, 164.

Found; How Grid Bias Started

By JOHN M. LEE

NEW YORK—(Calvin's News Service)—With all the reports coming in about northern universities canceling football games with southern colleges because the southerners object to the presence of Negro players on the northern teams, our research department went to work to find out if this is a brand new trend in interracial policy.

After a week in the files, they turned up with a report that puts a new light on the whole business. It seems that about 40 years ago, staid old Harvard University had a top-notch Negro player on its team, and when the time came for the traditional game with Yale University, Yale informed Harvard that the Negro, whose name was Matthews, would not be allowed to play.

Harvard quickly and bluntly notified Yale that unless Matthews played there wouldn't be any game. Yale relented and Matthews did his stuff like a Trojan. And that, gentle reader, is how the whole thing began.

Scribe Thinks John Thomas Should Go East

Frank J. Lowery in his column "Frankly Speaking" for the Southern Cities Press says of John Thomas, "We have often wondered why a fighter of the caliber of John Thomas spends all his time in Southern California. The Negro lightweight looked mechanically perfect in whipping Leo Rodak, via a fifth round TKO at the Olympic last week. True, local purses are not to be sneezed at, but it seems a fighter doesn't really attain national prominence until he's won a few in the East. And the East could stand a boxer like John after seeing what they send out here as their 'best' fighters."

Willie Joyce In Easy Win

CHICAGO—Willie Joyce, 139½, Gary, Ind., a strong contender for the world's lightweight title, had little or no trouble disposing of Nick Castiglione, 142, Chicago, by a lop-sided victory margin in their 10-round battle in the Chicago Stadium last Friday night.

Fresno Bulldogs Increase Average

The ball carrying average of Bill Pelto, speedy left halfback for the Fresno State College Bulldogs, is the outstanding feature of the Bulldogs' statistical summary at the end of eight games, although the Bulldogs increased their margin in every department even while losing to Hawaii, 7-2, on Armistice Day. Pelto averaged more than 10 yards per carry against Hawaii, bringing his seasonal total average to 8.3 yards.

Midget Drivers Hit Final Lap

Night speedway race drivers hit the last lap of the 1946 midget car season this week at Gilmore stadium with the 50 drivers due to use the 30-lap Bruin Sweepstakes Thursday night, Nov. 21, as a final tune-up before the Tenth Grand Prix Thanksgiving night.

The N. Y. Rens have played to over two million fans all over the country during the last 25 years and hold an all-time record of 88 consecutive victories.

Red Devils in Two Victories

The Los Angeles Red Devils pro basketball team scored their third and fourth consecutive victories last Friday and Saturday nights by trouncing the highly-rated New York Rens, 47-43 and 46-25, respectively, at the Olympic auditorium.

Jackie Robinson, playing with the Red Devils, tallied 6 points Friday and 7 Saturday. Stofen of the same team was high point man on both nights with 16 and 11 points.

Billy Fox to Get Title Bout With Lesnevich

NEW YORK—From Gotham Promoter Mike Jacobs announced last weekend that Light-heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich and Billy Fox, Philadelphia, have been signed for a 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden on February 28.

Midget Races End Thanksgiving Night

Night speedway midget car race drivers, with the record smashing 1946 season rapidly nearing its grand wind-up, are making all their preparations for the Tenth Gilmore Grand Prix, the 100-lap classic that officially closes the Gilmore Stadium campaign Thanksgiving night.

Elmer Ray, Now No. 1 Heavy After Win Over Joe Walcott

NEW YORK—Elmer (The Violent) Ray, 191¼, jumpped into the position of the No. 1 contender for the world's heavyweight title by scoring a close 10-round decision over Jersey Joe Walcott, 191½, last Friday night at Madison Square Garden before 17,413 fans, who paid $97,309 to sit in on the blistering battle.

Ray chalked up his 48th straight victory in his march toward the title, in making his initial start in New York. The Associated Press gave Ray a clear margin of five rounds, with three for Walcott and two even.

The former Hastings, Fla., heavy, who now calls Minneapolis home, crowded Walcott from start to finish and got in several staggering blows during the fray.

Washington May Be Inked by Brooklyn Says Leo Durocher

In an interview here last weekend, Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, revealed that he may become manager of the New York Yankees baseball club.

Among other things, Durocher said that while Jackie Robinson will go to spring training camp as a member of the Montreal Royals, he'll be given ample opportunity to make good as a major leaguer.

"The Montreal and Brooklyn teams will both train in Havana and Jackie will get plenty of chances to come over to our park and try out for third base. My guess is that he'll make the grade, although I have only seen him three or four times. Third base is wide open on our club."

Durocher revealed that Kenny Washington may be signed by the Dodgers.

Durocher will return for the major league meeting here the first week in December and will remain until he goes to camp next spring.

Jackie Wilson Stops Riccio

California Jackie Wilson, 147, state welterweight champion, was in an extremely vicious mood Tuesday night at the Olympic and as a result technically knocked out Tony Riccio, 148, New York, in the second rund of their scheduled 10-round bout, before 9500 fans, which included Jackie's war buddy, Joe Louis, the world's heavy champ.

Riccio was saved by the bell in the first heat after he had gone down from a hard right uppercut to the button. He took a count of five before the gong rescued him. Partly revived, Riccio came out in the second to be met with a blistering barrage of leather, which found him on the deck for his final trip after 1m. 30s of milling, Referee Abe Roth halting the bout and awarding Jackie a t.k.o. victory.

Henry Rich, 165, scored a second round t.k.o. over Johnny Gardea, 162, in the scheduled 6-round semi-windup. In one of the best fours Clyde Cohis, 151, decisioned Charles Salas, 144.

Bob Mike, U.C.L.A.'s 210-pound Negro tackle, after playing three weeks on it, was discovered to have a cracked ankle bone after X-rays. What a man!

Story in 'Collier's' Lauds Prowness of Illinois Back

Stanley Frank writes in the Nov. 23 issue of Collier's magazine on the University of Illinois' Buddy Young, speedy sepia, back on that school's football team. The article is interesting in that it points out that sectional pride and prejudice seem to be vanishing and how the crowds attending games in which Buddy plays cheer him to the echo as he gets away on long jaunts with the ball.

The story is illustrated by David Peskin. Frank cites instances of Young's prowess on the grid field, his likes and dislikes and what grid experts are saying about him all over the nation. He is considered faster and carries the ball farther than Army's great Glenn Davis, Frank says. This just about makes him the fastest current football back now strutting his stuff in the United States, experts say.

No Racial 'Incidents' Mar Trip Despite White Dates

WASHINGTON—Lucky Millinder, the dynamaestro of swing, here to headline the new stage show at the Howard theatre beginning Friday, might well offer his recent tour through the deep south with a mixed band as "exhibit A" in the fight of Actor's Equity to break the discriminatory practices in local theatres. Millinder and his band, including five white musicians, has just completed a southern tour that was not marred by a single racial "incident" although the aggregation played several engagements which were patronized by whites exclusively.

Millinder's band includes an Armenian, an Irishman, an Italian and two Jews. The balance of the personnel is Negro. This mixed group of musicians together form one of the finest bands in the country today. They were received warmly by audiences all through the states of Georgia, Texas, Louisiana and Missouri. There apparently was no thought on the part of the customers of the racial identity of the men.

Lucky Millinder

It is Equity's plan to prohibit artists, who are members of the organization, from performing in any theater here that practices discrimination. The argument of the pro-segregationists is that people can't mingle successfully. The performance of the Millinder band proves them completely wrong.

Duke of York Sends Deputies In Quest of Coveted Record

NEW YORK.—A half dozen royal deputies spent three days last week searching through the music and record shops of the city before they were successful in their quest for a recording of the English folk song, "Muffin Man," by Ella Fitzgerald. The unusual display of industry was due to the fact that the person desiring the rare classic was no less than Edward, Duke of York, and the former monarch of the British Empire

Edward and his American wife, the former Wally Simpson, arrived in New York aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth, which was making its first post-war crossing as a pleasure vessel. The former king had heard the plaintive voiced singer interpret the folk song during a recorded radio program shortwaved to the ship during the trip across. Never having heard the folk song in swing style before his nibs decided to procure a copy of the recording when he landed in New York. He, of course did not know that the record was practically a collector's item. The two copies of the recordings are treasured possessions of the noble jazzphile and one is to be shipped to Buckingham Palace in England for the young members of the royal family.

THE DISC

By I. Spinum

Columbia Records last week issued an album unique in recording history, demonstrating a new facet of the talents of America's most popular young singer. It is a new Sinatra album, but it contains not a single note from the famous voice. Instead, for the first time, Sinatra makes his debut as conductor of an orchestra.

The occasion for the album is a group of brilliant works for woodwind solo and for orchestra, by Alec Wilder, hitherto known as one of America's most gifted arrangers and composers for swing and dance bands. This album presents the composer in more serious mood, and also presents the debut of "The Baton" instead of "The Voice."

Wilder, who titled all the pieces himself, said he has taken pains to see that the names have no significance. He is opposed to all programmatic titles, and at first wanted to call his pieces merely Number One, Number Two, etc. The six numbers in this album are: "Air for Oboe," "Air for Bassoon," "Air for Flute," "Air for English Horn," "Slow Dance," and "Theme and Variations"—all, he hopes, completely non-committal and non-programmatic.

The music is a mixture of the classic and unconventional, dealing with dance rhythms as Bach or Mozart might have done, but veering off unexpectedly into highly individual and modern variations.

"The Voice of Frank Sinatra," an album of popular favorites sung with orchestra was also recently released, and is a best-seller, (Columbia Set C-112.) This set includes "These Foolish Things," "Someone to Watch Over Me," "A Ghost of a Chance," and "I Don't Know Why."

CHARLIE PARKER BENEFIT AT CLUB ROYALE

Mrs. J.T. Gipson's Candid Comments

FROM YOUR MISCHIEVOUS NEWSGIRL'S NOTEBOOK

Sure hated disappointing the two fine clubs in charge of the fashion-show and dance at the civic in Pasadena but "can you imagine, I was unable to talk" (honest Freddie) . . . Didn't know until recently that Selika Pettiofrd, famed pianists and organist was the sis-in-law of popular Helen Woodard . . . That "frantic" silver-fox fur you saw Harriett Wadely displaying at the Doll League cocktail Sunday last was a "birfday gift" from hubby Rudy . . . Our shapely cuz, Genevieve Moore says "Marriage is the magic wand that changes puppy love into a dog's life" . . . And now it can be TOLD: "Pretty Eythel Sissle has filed for divorce while residing in Maimi, Florida . . . Eythel is the wife of Noble Sissle band-leader known for his show "Shuffle Along" . . . Who was attractive Orlean Shaw referring to when she said "He's lost weight, but he was once the biggest jerk in town" . . . Joe Jones, drummer with Basie Band, had to take a leave of absence from the band because of the sudden death of his wife . . . Looks like a steady twosome, the likeable Atty. Martha Malone and bandleader Benny Carter . . . SUDDEN THAWT: You save money for a rainy day and then it isn't valuable enough to purchase an umbrella" . . . Earl (handsome) Warren former saxaphonist with Basie has now joined the Otis crew . . . things should really be jumping now . . . Our Bro. Ran says "Now that there is no more O.P.A. people should be reminded that a fool and his money are soon worthless" . . . Don't understand all these funny tinglings up and down my spine whenever I hear The King Cole Trio's recording of "For Sentimental Reasons" . . . Your columnist is gonna cut off right here and let Floyd Snelson of "the Apple" take over with this bit of news from N. York . . . it's all yours Floyd.

Thanks Gert—and here's a few flashes from the "Big Apple". Armistice Day football classic, and Harlem proved to be a gridiron spot when the North Carolina A. & T. College, downed the U. S. Navy Undersea Raiders to the tune of 49-13 before more than 20,000 sepia fans . . . It was a remainder of the old Howard-Lincoln games of yesterday when so many swanky folks turned out en masse for the hectic sport . . . Smartly dressed ladies led a parade of fashionable furs of every description and snugged close to their dapper escorts amid a chilly breeze that swept into the vast park . . . Plenty liquid refreshments prevailed that kept up high spirits and continuous emotion and hilarity.

The husky athletes from below the Dixon line began the festivities the night before the game when Miss Selma Day, representing the Associated Football Charities, Inc., directed a welcome reception in the form of a cocktail party honoring the visitors at the Club Sudan . . . Dr. Jesse C. Miller, M. D. local physician, chairman of the A. & T. Alumni Ass'n., acted as master of ceremonies. Bill Tolliver, a grad and former football player assisted in making the affair quite interesting in every point of view.

DAWN PATROL . . . Apropos the many flying rumors concerning the ZANZIBAR on Broadway this writer decided to look into the nite life situation on the Gay White Way . . . Tis' true the Zansi has practically headlined every important sepia member of the stage, screen and radio available, and the supply has been exhausted, but the management is definitely reluctant to put in white entertainers . . . because the present policy of Negro performers has reaped such a fruitful harvest, it would be disastrous . . . and no change is desired . . . Colored shows are constantly in demand here and an urgent call from Europe is in the offing, but there just is not enough to go around. Current revue at the Zanzibar includes Ink Spots, Peg Bates, Thelma Carpenter, Princess Nyoka, Elaine Guster, Dusty Fletcher, Pee Wee Marquette, Eddie Vinson and Claude Hopkins orchestras, and the luscious Zanzibeauties.

Stopped in the Downbeat Club, on Swing (52nd) Street to see my pal Eddie (Begin the Beguine) Heywood, where he is big favorite with the swingsters from Park Avenue, and the Broadway playboys .. . Eddie's next move will take him to the Brown Derby, Dee Cee, and the Apollo, in Harlem.

HENRY ARMSTRONG'S MELODY ROOM is the talk of "Sugar Hill" and the glamour boys and girls can hardly wait for the grand opening . . . Lawson Bowman's new Bar of Music is almost ready and a source of great anticipation . . . Club Sudan will reopen for the Xmas holidays . . . "Deep Are the Roots" noted play closed after a splendid run on Broadway.

★AMUSEMENTS★

APPEARED ON CAMEL SHOW—The Loumell Morgan Trio were guest artists last Saturday night on Vaughn Monroe's Camel radio show over CBS from coast to coast.

Loumell Morgan Trio on CBS

NEW YORK—Once again the Camel radio show, featuring Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra, has signed a colored act for a guest shot on its weekly parade of stars and music.

Signing on this occasion involved the Loumell Morgan Trio for an appearance last Saturday at 7:30 p. m., EST, over station WCBS (WABC) and its affiliated stations.

Dialers will recall that the groovy vocal-instrumental trio was featured on Columbia's coast to coast Night Life program with Willie Bryant, M.C., and Teddy Wilson's orchestra.

Set for another return engagement at 52nd street's famed Downbeat Club, the Loumell Morgan Trio is currently appearing at the Essex House in New Jersey. They were last seen in Universal's "All By Myself."

Monogram's "Black Gold" camera crew went from Hollywood last week to film horse-racing scenes at the Agua Caliente track, just across the border in Mexico.

AMUSEMENT BRIEFS

Phillip Terry has been signed for the masculine lead opposite Jacqueline White in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," is was announced at RKO Radio this week.

The Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Science has just given Teresa Wright a genuine, post-war, all-metal Oscar, to replace the one of plaster she won in 1942 for "the best supporting role of the year, female" in "Mrs. Miniver."

Kay Morley has been signed for the feminine lead in the next Monogram musical western, tentatively titled "Drifting Through," starring Jimmy Wakely with Lee "Lasses" White.

Take a tip from Esther Williams on feminine daintyness. The M-G-M swimming star keeps all of her clothes surrounded by a fragrant aroma by painting her closets and bureau drawers with scented lacquer.

Jimmy Stewart, star of Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," is one returned veteran who had no clothing problem. All of his five suits fitted him and had been thankfully neglected by the moths.

Virginia Patton, young Liberty Films starlet who is featured in "It's a Wonderful Life," studied to be a concert pianist before turning to dramatics as a career.

Frank Albertson, who is featured in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," decided to be an actor when he was refused a raise in pay while working in a studio art department.

Donna Reed, starred with Jimmy Stewart in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," has grown one-half inch in the past year.

The latest idea in soap can be found in Virginia O'Brien's boudoir. It is perfumed, bright green, and has the M-G-M actress's full name engraved in the center. The beauty of it all, is that the name lasts as long as the soap!

"Close-Up," an original story by James Poe, has been purchased by RKO Radio and will become the first big feature picture to be filmed entirely in the new RKO-Pathe Studios in New York City.

Richard Hart, the handsome newcomer at M-G-M, currently playing opposite Lana Turner in "Green Dolphin Street," helped work his way through college by selling magazines from door to door.

June Allyson has the answer for women who find carrying their purse a nuisance. The lovely M-G-M star has one which is attached to a belt leaving her hands free. The natural speckled kidskin purse is made in a pouch-like style, closed by a brown braid drawstring.

A beauty wallet takes the place of a purse for Beverly Tyler while she is making a picture on the M-G-M lot. Snapped over her belt for convenience, it contains two lipsticks, powder and puff, comb, mirror and a pocket for her keys and money.

"TWO YEARS BEFORE THE MAST"—Esther Fernandez and Alan Ladd are two of the featured players in the Paramount film, "Two Years Before the Mast," which starts Nov. 28 (Thursday) at the Paramount Hollywood and Downtown theatres.

Liberia to Set Up Embassy in This Country

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The Republic of Liberia has requested permission to send an envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States and this government has informed Liberia that it would be "pleased" to have him come, it was learned yesterday.

State Department officials say that the arrival here of a diplomat of such rank would constitute the establishment of a Liberian embassy in the United States. At present Liberia has no embassy here but is represented diplomatically by her consul general with offices in New York.

Under diplomatic protocol, the department said, Liberia has been entitled to such representation here since 1931 when this country first sent an envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Liberia, but the African republic has never indicated a desire to set up a legation here until its recent request.

The only thing remaining for Liberia now is to name a minister and ascertain whether he is acceptable to this government.

Brandishes Knife at Estranged Wife and Her White Friend

(SCP)—"I'm going to kill that white man who's been messing around with my wife," Simon Gullery, 23, of 2502 E. 115th place, told sheriff's officers when he was arrested for allegedly threatening assault with a deadly weapon.

Gullery's wife was standing near a grocery store with a white man at Wilmington avenue and Imperial highway, when officers said they saw Gullery brandishing a knife at them.

Arline Gullery, 23, of 11807 Bandera street, told the officers that previously she has been threatened by her husband from whom she is separated.

The white man ran away when the officers approached and they were unable to learn his name from the woman but surmised from her remarks that he had made her acquaintance at some place where both had been employed.

Tie Vote in Council Blocks Pay Rise for City Workers Here

(SCP)—An immediate boost in pay for lower-salaried city employes, was demanded of the city council this week by Mayor Bowron.

Already before the finance committee of the council, preparation and adoption of an ordinance putting the mayor's request into effect was asked by Councilman G. Vernon Bennett.

Objection was voiced by Councilman Ed J. Davenport, who asked further consideration. "The $375,000 called for by the measure, would open the gates for a future $4,000,000 in 10 percent raises to everybody," he said, "and would eliminate all possibility of tax reduction."

A vote to suspend the rules to allow passage of the proposed ordinance was defeated by a 7 to 7 tie. The recommendation was given to the finance committee for study.

Voting aye were Allen, Bennett, Christensen, Harby, Roden, Warburton, and Moore.

Opposing were: Austin, Davenport, Davis, Henry, Holland, Rassmussen, and Timberlake.

Councilman Cronk was absent.

Edwards Free On $5000 Bail; Case Up Nov. 25

(SCP)—Charles J. Edwards, gay masquerader, has changed his attorneys and simultaneously with the move, got out of jail on $5000 bail.

Edwards' mother had previously posted his $2000 bail on charges of burglary, forgery, and stealing public records. The new count was for impersonating an FBI man, and illegally wearing a discharge button.

He is to be arraigned Nov. 25 before Superior Judge William R. McKay.

Edwards told The EAGLE yesterday that he will be represented on that date by Attorney Daniel Knapp, who, with Attorney Crispus Wright, represented the defendant at the preliminary hearing.

Edwards denied a report that he had engaged Walter L. Gordon to represent him.

Manila USO Wins Wide Recognition

MANILA, Philippine Islands—The Intramuros USO, the first and largest USO club here, is being widely acclamied because of its non-discriminatiry policies and the variety of recreation facilities offered all American GIs stationed here.

From the very opening of the club, there has been integration of white, Negro and Filipino servicemen in every activity except swimming and dancing, but even in these activities integration was eventually achieved.

Minorities Have Right to Fools, Says Speaker

MINNEAPOLIS — A minority group wants not the right to have geniuses among them but the right to have fools and scoundrels without being condemned as a group, Sister Mary Ellen O'Hanlon, O.P., told the annual convention of Minnesota Council of Catholic Women convening here.

Speaking on "Race and Heresy" the nun, who is a distinguished biologist and author o a recent book on race, declared that "minorities would gladly give up the reflected glory of their great men, if only the world didn't burden them with the ignominy of their scoundrels."

All young people and as much as possible the older generation must be made to realize that "we are bound to love and respect all of our fellowmen," she said, urging greater emphasis in Catholic schools on the eradication of racial prejudice.

The sister condemned statutes in about 30 states which forbid the marriage of white and colored persons, and said that Catholics who support such legislation by the ballot or otherwise sin in ignoring the natural, God-given rights of some of their fellowmen.

Tracing the history of three popes who were Negroes, she added, "God does not discriminate racially, His Church does not discriminate racially, nor should we."

City Council Votes Funds to Prevent Playground Shutdown

(SCP)—An interim appropriation of $200,000 was given by the city council here this week to the playground and recreation department, to prevent the closing of 20 of the department's 52 playgrounds and to permit the continuance of recreational service in 22 public housing projects.

The council committee, in its report, recommended that a study be made of the advisability of consolidating the recreation department with the park department.

It was also urged by the council, in the interest "of sounder financing," that effort be made to obtain revenue for playground use from rental of the Los Angeles Memorial coliseum.

Packinghouse Workers Vote Strike Action; Point to Hike In Cost of Living, Profits

CHICAGO—Following a week-end conference of local union representatives, Ralph Helstein, president of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO, announced yesterday that more than 200 representatives attending the conference from all sections of the nation unanimously voted to prepare for strike action which would affect the Ig Four packing companies and most of the independent companies throughout the country.

"Although we desire in every way to avoid the necessity of a strike," Helstein said, "the interests of our membership require that conditions of work and income be sufficiently adequate and secure as to permit them to live decently."

The union, whose membership includes many Negroes, has been negotiating for new contracts with the packers since last August. Opening date for the contract was August 11, although the workers have been employed since that time under an extension of the old contract.

Chief demands by the union are:

- A dollar an hour minimum wage for men and women workers in all sections of the country. The present common labor rate for men varies from 88½ cents an hour in metropolitan areas to 71 and 80 cents in the Southern states. Women's rates average about 10 cents an hour less. Approximately one-third of the packinghouse workers are employed at the common labor rate.
- A guaranteed annual wage.
- A health and welfare fund.
- A cost-of-living bonus.

Commenting on the negotiations which are still in progress, Helstein said, "We sincerely hope that a peaceful settlement can be reached through collective bargaining. We know that the packers have made unprecedented profits in th epast few years and now that they have successfully pressured the government into abolishing price controls, their prospects for the future promises even higher profits."

N. J. City Drops Charges Against Anti-Bias Pickets

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—At a conference between Mayor Altman of Atlantic City and officials of the CIO United Public Workers, charges of disorderly conduct against two union members for picketing against race discrimination at Hackney's Atlantic City Restaurant last April were withdrawn by the city.

UPW-CIO International Vice-President Thomas Richardson, who represented the union in the conference, stated that the withdrawal of "disorderly conduct" charges against Mrs. Miriam Baker and James V. King clearly substantiated the right of citizens to protest publicly when they have been denied their just rights under the law.

Richardson said that the union's attorney, Samuel Rothbard, had requested trial of the suits filed for Miss Eleanor Goding and Ewart Guinier against Hackney's for racial discrimination. The suits were filed under the New Jersey civil rights law.

Ex-Boxer Found Guilty on Theft, Assault Charge

(SCP).—Alpine Callihan of San Bernardino, was found guilty of robbery and assault with intent to commit rape Tuesday afternoon in the court of Superior Judge Edward Rand.

The former boxer had gone to the home of Leona Horton, 7019 Hooper avenue on Aug. 18, according to Deputy District Attorney H. C. Johnstone, with the intention of committing robbery.

When he was surprised in the house, he dragged the woman into the yard and tore off her slacks after stealing $3.50 Johnstone charged. Her screams were heard by neighbors who called police, and Callihan was shot and superficially wounded making a getaway when officers appeared.

Callihan will be sentenced on Dec. 5. He was defended by Attorney Earl C. Broady.

Woman Held in Husband Slaying

(SCP).—Elizabeth Williams, 32, attractive housewife of 3501½ S. Cimarron street, was booked Tuesday on suspicion of murder, following the death of her husband in Rose-Netta Hospital.

Mrs. Williams, according to a police report, went to the bedroom, returned with an automatic German pistol, and shot Eramet Williams, 51, a barber Sunday night. The slaying followed an argument over choosing a place to eat dinner.

Williams told police that the shooting was accidental, after he was first taken to Georgia Street Receiving Hospital. He was later removed to Rose-Netta Hospital, where he died at 9:05 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Williams is represented by Attorney Everett Porter, who said she may be arraigned tomorrow. She was previously booked for assault with a deadly weapon after Williams was shot Sunday, but was released on Monday.

Many Negroes To Lose Jobs In OPA Closing

WASHINGTON—The OPA recently announced that 17,500 employes would be given 30-day dismissal notices Nov. 30, and that after Dec. 1 its 64 district offices would be only used for administering sugar rationing and sugar ceilings.

Those employes who will be retained will work on the sugar, rice, rent, and enforcement programs.

As a result of former OPA Administrator Chester Bowle's non-discriminatory policy, many Negroes will be affected by staff reductions. A large number of those employed in the national office in Washington will be reduced.

OPA said that the new enforcement offices will clean up the 1,000,000 odd cases of reported price and rationing violations now on file at district offices. It urged private industry to consider for hiring the "large number of very competent people" being dismissed. OPA said that it was "interested in locating these people in positions that will utilize their unusual experience and capacities."

In Los Angeles, OPA District Director Pauld Barksdale D'Orr pointed out that its workers were drawn to OPA as a means of serving their country during the war emergency, and represent theh best in their field.

"The variety of skills represented by OPA employes include accountants, economists, journalists, labor experts, lawyers, professional investigators, supervisors, clerks, typists, trained stenographers, and executives," he said.

Many Pioneer Workers Present As 28th Street YMCA Observes 40 Years of Community Service

"Forty years of Service to Youth and Community" were observed by 28th street YMCA Tuesday night, with 250 breaking bread together. A number of those who joined the Y when it began in a rented cottage at 821 S. San Pedro street on November 1, 1906, were among those who responded to invitations of the Century Club of the 28th st. The presence of the boys was well in evidence when Toussant Jennings, of the Y's Men's Club, led community singing. T. A. Greene, who served as executive secretary of the branch for 26 eventful years cut the large birthday cake, which was shared by all. Previously I. Moses, first chairman of the branch, and Ronald Hughes, a boy, blew out the candles and wished for the branch a great future. Norman O. Houston, branch chairman was toastmaster.

Greetings were brought from the National YMCA Council by Harold F. Whittle, president of the L.A. YMCA. Harold A. Wagner, general secretary of the L.A. YMCA spoke for the board and 20 other branches. John Anson Ford, county commissioner, spoke briefly of his faith in the future of community unity and expressed optimism in the field of race relations in the county, outlining the basis of his hope. Urges That Youth Talent Be Developed

NEW YORK—A program to identify the nation's most talented boys and girls so that their talents may be developed to contribute to human welfare, was advocated today at a nationwide conference of educators.

A committee appointed to study the program concluded that no adequate measures are being taken in this country to discover and train human talent, Stephen M. Corey of University of Chicago told the Education of American Youth Conference.

This committee recommended that there be published a list of approximately 2000 boys and girls in each age group who would be chosen in all parts of the country, stated Corey.

Says Northern Segregation Fosters Dixie Lynch Terror

By JAMES L. HICKS
NNPA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Lynching cannot be eliminated in the south until its blood brothers, segregation and discrimination, are eliminated in the north, Rev. Thomas Hart of Catholic university told the Catholic Interracial Conference here last Tuesday.

Rev. Hart addressed a panel at St. Patrick's Academy as the Interracial Conference met and drafted a resolution urging President Truman to recommend passage of an anti-lynch bill to the 80th congress when it convenes in January. He shared the panel with Leslie Perry, legislative representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Lynching, said Rev. Hart, is just another phase of the pattern of segregation—another attempt to keep the Negro in his place in the pattern.

In a stern condemnation of the segregated patterns existing in the District of Columbia and northern cities, Rev. Hart said the leader of a lynch mob is just as logical in taking the life of a colored person as are members of a community which slowly strangles him by denying him the right to full employment, the right to gain a decent education and the right to maintain his own self-respect.

The only difference is one of good taste and etiquette rather than one of morality, he declared.

Rev. Hart warned against the type of thinking that sees lynching as a southern problem. Lynching is a national problem, he declared. He scored so-called liberal people who are content to go on record as favoring a federal anti-lynch law and then promptly dismisses the lynch problem from their minds. People must realize, Rev. Hart said, that there is a vital connection between lynching in the south and discrimination and segregation in the nation's capital.

His connection of lynching with segregation was echoed by Mr. Perry who said that in the Detroit riots and the Columbia Tennessee mob violence all the serious trouble had begun in segregated areas, either through an invasion of a "white" area by a Negro or the invasion of a "colored" area by a white groups.

The primary cause of lynching is economic, political and racial segregation, Mr. Perry said. Very few of the lynchings of Negroes result from their being accused of serious offenses like murder, robbery or rape, he told the audience. "In most cases," he continued, the place set aside for Negroes in the south "requires the observance on the part of the Negro of an involved code of racial etiquette in which the most worthy Negro is subordinate to the most worthless white person. It is not surprising, therefore, to find that the majority of Negroes who have been murdered by mobs have been killed because they failed to 'stay in their places'."

Perry then quoted from NAACP records which showed that Negroes had been lynched for such "crimes" as quarreling with a white man; failure to call a white man "Mr."; resisting the unlawful search of his home; making "boastful remarks;" for trying to "act like a white man;" for being "too uppity;" for attempting to vote; and for being "too prosperous."

Xmas Amnesty Drive Launched By Church Body

NEW YORK—Pointing out that "Christmas, the traditional occasion for amnesties is approaching," Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, executive secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has called on all church social action secretaries and executive officers of city and state councils of churches to write President Truman urging amnesty for conscientious objectors.

"He will be more likely to do this if he is made to feel that such action would meet with approval of the religious leadership of the nation," Dr. Van Kirk's appeal said. "You may already have written to the President on this matter. If so, may I earnestly suggest that you write again recommending a Christmas amnesty."

The appeal cited the Federal Council of Churches' amnesty resolution adopted last March and listed other church groups and denominations which have gone on record for amnesty. It pointed out that "there are some 1000 conscientious objectors still confined to federal prisons" and that "5000 other objectors who have already completed their prison terms undergo continued punishment through loss of valuable civil rights."

Three additional religious groups have joined the many which have urged President Truman to grant amnesty.

Screen Guild Elects Progressive Slate

(SCP)—Emmet Lavery has been reelected president of the Screen Writers Guild by a two-to-one margin and all of the Guild's officers who were attacked by a film trade publication as "fellow-travelers" have won positions on the executive board, it was revealed yesterday as results of the Guild's election on Thursday were made public.

Interest had centered on the contests as a result of reports that so-called "moderates' had organized behind a slate to purge the progressives who have guided the Guild's destiny for several years.

A Guild spokesman stated that 75 percent of the membership had gone to the polls in the largest vote turnout in the Guild's history and that the results were clearly a mandate to the Guild leadership to continue its progressive policies. The political complexion of the new board is "pretty much the same" as the old board, he said.

Lavery's margin over Talbot Jennings, the "moderate" presidential candidate, was 498 to 236. Closest of the races was for the position of secretary, which was won by F. Hugh Herbert over Randall McDougall by 306 to 280.

The new officers, in addition to Lavery and Herbert, are: Mary C. McCall, Jr., Howard Estabrook, and Hugo Butler, vice-presidents; and Harold Buchman, treasurer.

Col. Davis Here For Maneuvers

BLYTHE ARMY AIR FIELD, Calif.—Col. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., Lockbourne C.O. and 447th group commander, arrived here this week to view the first mission of the group in the joint army and navy amphibious manuevers.

Met by Maj. Andrew D. Turner, deputy commander, and Maj. Thomas J. Money, group executive, Colonel Davis was taken on an inspection tour of the base. In the evening, the West Pointer attended a rodeo in Blythe along with staff officers and two buses of GI's.

Expressing pleasure with the high morale among the troops and the overall conditions of the base, the C.O. was confident that the unit would make an impressive showing in the manuevers.

On The Sidewalk

By C. A. B.

WHEN this nation was first conceived, there were thirteen original colonies, each enjoying some measure of autonomy.

As these colonies grew in wealth and population, the taxation and oppression imposed by the mother country, England, also increased.

But the time came when the colonies chafed under England's rule, which amounted to taxation without representation, and declared such procedure as being tyranical.

So the time came all too soon for England when the fast-growing colonies rose up in their might, shook off the chains of English bondage, and became a free and independent nation.

THOSE thirteen colonies have become 48 states, with a population of 140 million human souls of numerous races and creeds, varied backgrounds and heritages; yet all together these have helped to make the United States the richest and most powerful nation among the nations of the world today.

She cannot say, as did England, the sun never sets on English territory.

But America is proud of her prowess in war. She has never lost a war. However, like ancient Rome, she has risen to power on bones and ashes of those she conquered.

The early slave trade carried on by the Dutch, aided by Americans, provided the labor that started the wheels of industry turning in this country.

APPARENTLY, America has forgotten this. She also forgets many contributions made by the early slaves that advanced freedom's cause and laid the foundation for the wealth and power of which America, today, is proud.

Yes, I am afraid America has forgotten Lincoln's famous words spoken at Gettysburg: "This nation was conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

It was this spirit which prompted Crispus Attucks, a Boston brave who lead the fight against the British on Boston Common. Attucks, a Negro of slave ancestry, had never seen battle before, but there was a crave for freedo min his heart.

It was that same desire for freedom that inspired Negroes to fight with General Washington in the Revolutionary War, with Lincoln in the Civil War, and in all wars in which this nation has been involved.

THE spirits of Attucks, Lincoln, and even Washington, who freed his slaves in order that his name, too, would be recorded on the pages of history as one who loved freedom, demand a turning back today to that spirit which conceived a new nation in liberty.

It's a sad commetary that this same America, whose early history is shining with such deeds of valor and bravery in the fight for freedom, is not willing to break the slave chains that bind labor to industrial slavery and keep Negroes and other minorities second-class citizens.

It is our earnest prayer, on this Thanksgiving Day, so freshly removed from the rigors and blood of World War II, that there might flame up in the heart and soul of America, a new outburst for freedom—freedom for its underprivileged citizens, as well as those oppressed peoples of other ladns—the kind of freedom which gave to us in the beginning our great and glorious Nation.

Man Fatally Stabbed in Wild Pool Room Fight

(SCP)—At first the fight in a Central avenue pool hall looked like a scene from an old silent films keyston comedy, but at its end, one man lay dead of knife wounds.

John Lavelle Prentiss, 32, of 1808 E. 16th street, was playing a game of call shot with Clinton Riggins, 50, of 1154½ E. 11th street in a pool hall at 1015 S. Central avenue.

Riggins was chalking his cue, when Prentiss began heckling him about missing one into the side pocket.

Then Riggins threw a ball at Prentiss, witnesses said. In a few seconds the air was full of pool balls as the players slammed them at each other's heads.

Running out of balls, knives next were drawn, and Riggins slashed Prentiss in the chest and neck, according to police.

Prentiss died on the way to the general hospital. Riggins was arrested at 12th and Central on a charge of murder.

USES Minority Chief Freed of Traffic Charge

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—A charge of driving without lights against Mrs. Thomasina W. Johnson, chief of the minority groups section of the United States Employment Service office, was dismissed by Judge John P. McMahon in municipal court yesterday.

Policeman Shelton Nuthall, white, arrested Mrs. Johnson at 3:45 a. m. November 15, and had her drive to No. 10 precinct police station, where the charge was preferred against her. She posted collateral and asked for a court trial.

At her trial, Rev. Marshall Shepard, recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and Clarence A. Dockins, an administrative assistant in his office, testified in her behalf.

Both men said they had been in the company of Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Ethel Ramos Harris of Pittsburgh, who was her house guest, and that the quartet had visited the home of William O. Woodson, 5348 E. Capital street, an Alcoholic Beverage Control Board inspector.

Both men testified that dur-

Woman Exonerated of 'Drunk' Charge Plans to Sue Arresting Officer

Taking the stand in her own defense, lovely Mrs. Edythe Galloway, 435 E. 48th street, graphically described how she was kicked, beaten, and thrown into a police car by a plainclothes policeman on the night of Oct. 24 last, in a trial in which she was acquitted of the charges of being drunk in an auto in the courtroom of Judge Aggeler on Monday.

Although Mrs. Galloway, NOT the policeman, was on trial, proceedings took on the aspect of a police-brutality trial as Atty. Walter Gordon, representing Mrs. Galloway, dramatically shredded the testimony of state witnesses. Atty. Gordon forced Paine, ambulance driver who testified that Mrs. Galloway was "intoxicated" when he examined her, to admit that there was some "mistake" in his report. The report stated that Mrs. Galloway had walked into the room where he had examined her; yet, on the stand, he had said that she had been on the floor when he entered the room, and had remained there throughout his examination. Gordon also emphasized the inconsistency of the driver's state-

Insanity Plea Sends Edwards Back To Cell

(SCP)—After pleading not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to charges of burglary, forgery, and theft of public records, handsome masquerader Charles J. Edwards, out on $500 bail, was ordered back into county jail yesterday by Superior Judge William R. McKay who said he didn't want Edwards on the street when the possibility of insanity existed.

Harlem Rally Boos Name of General Smuts

NEW YORK—(Global)—Senator H. M. Basner, white representative of 4,000,000 natives in the South African parliament, brought jeers and boos from the audience of a mass meeting held at the Abyssinian Baptist church, 132 W. 138th street, on Sunday. Field Marshall Smuts is head of the African delegation to the UN. Senator Basner called Marshall Smuts "the architect" of a system which has reduced the native population to "shameful social and economic conditions."

Frank Anthony, who shared the speakers' platform with the head of the Indian delegation, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, called the union's incorporation plan a violation of the UN charter. He said: "What we want is the setting up of a trusteeship

$3500 Loss Suffered In Holocaust; Prowler Tried Fire 2nd House

An estimated $3500 in damages was suffered in a fire which completely destroyed a home owned by Jack N. Dumas and his wife, Sally, located at 633 E. 118th pl., Thursday at 6 p.m. Said to have been purposely set fire to by an unidentified white man, the three-fourths-completed building burst into flames as the intruder, who had entered through the kitchen door, reached the front gate, according to eye-witnesses.

The estimate in cash is low, however, when the real loss to the owners is considered, in view of the housing shortage. "I guess I've no right to cry." Dumas tried to smile, unbidden tears sparkling through his lashes. He sat beside his wife at 5304 Hooper ave., where he has lived for the past ten years. Evicted from their home, pending completion of

Raise $300 to Aid Fight on Covenants

Robert Patterson, 119 West 51st street, was the winner in the Turkey raffle last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Jefferson in Parmilee street.

The affair was given by the neighbors of Central Avenue Garden to raise funds to aid the Home Owners Protective Association in the defense of the Henry Laws family—famous restrictive covenant case. $300 was raised for this purpose.

GUTTED BY FIRE set by unidentified white man, house at 633 East 118th place, owned by Jack Dumas, was almost ready for owner occupancy. Story on Page One.

Mosby Sentence Postponed to Monday, Dec. 9

(SCP)—Sentence of Curtis Mosby on a charge of concealing from the trustee of his bankrupt estate a half-interest in the New Club Alabam at 215 S. Central ave., was held over till Dec. 9 pending further reports from the probation officer, on order of U. S. District Judge Pierson M. Hall on Monday.

Mosby had pleaded guilty to the count of concealing his interest in the cafe from Ignatius Parker, trustee appointed to take over Mosby's estate after he was adjudged bankrupt by a U. S. district court Aug. 13, 1943. The cafe is said to be held in copartnership with M. E. Brandenberg, 2677 Knox st.

Two other counts—concealment of $7000 in the Exchange State Bank of Kansas City, and concealment of real property at 1811 to 1823 E. 102nd st., both credited to a sister, Mrs. Bertha Mosby Williams—will be aired Dec. 9 when sentence is passed on the first count. Mosby pleaded not guilty to the other counts.

Mosby is defended by Attorney John J. Irwin.

Charges Real Estate Interests Plot to Drive Negroes 'Back South'

The enormity of the latent dangers in restrictive covenants was vividly brought home to the members of the Home Protective Association and their friends at a meeting held, in the editorial rooms of The California EAGLE, 4071 South Central avenue, last Friday evening.

The speakers of the evening, an official of the City Housing Commission, and Miss Jeannette Cohen, former columnist of The EAGLE, told graphically of instances which portrayed the attitude of so many white people of Los Angeles concerning minority groups, and especially the Negro group.

The speaker told how Los Angeles lost 40 percent of the federal appropriation for slum clearance in 1937-38 through the stubborn false pride of the City Council who declared "There are no slums in Los Angeles."

"They refused to let us make a survey of the city's districts," he said. They said there were only dirty N——, Mexicans, Chinks, and Japs in those poor districts, and they ought to be made to get along the best they could."

When, however, a survey was finally made it was found that those who lived in the slum districts were not only Negroes, Mexicans, and Japanese. "Sixty-five per cent of the slum homes were occupied by white families," he declared. "And we found that many of those Driver Killed As Cars Crash On Central Ave.

Charlie Holmes, 35, of 833½ Towne ave., was killed in an auto accident which involved two cars and a streetcar at 6:54 p.m. Saturday. E. J. Lee, a passenger in the car which Holmes was driving, received minor injuries in the collision, which occurred at 52nd pl. and Central avenue.

Driving through the boulevard stop at the scene of the accident, Holmes' car was struck by another auto driven by Bennie Montgomery, 40, of 10428 Central avenue. Although the force of the impact caused his car to skid into a street car, Montgomery escaped serious injury.

Tests showed that the deceased had been drinking, but it was not known if his senses were dulled sufficiently by acohol to cause him to overlook the caution signal.

'Public Be Damned' Is Attitude of Supervisors In Naming Simpson D. A.

"We don't need to hear from the people—we'll handle this ourselves," William A. Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors, is reported to have thus dismissed attempts by a delegation of women seeking to block the appointment of William Simpson as district attorney.

The meeting, scheduled for 10 a. m. yesterday (Tuesday), was called to order between 9 and 9:30 and proceedings were so hurried that most of the delegates, arriving at the prearranged time, were not present to witness Simpson's approval. Leaders of the delegation, composed of members of the Civil Rights Congress and other women's groups, were: Mrs. Jean London, chairman; Mrs. Carufo, and Mrs. Herzig.

Among other groups opposed to Simpson's appointment is the Conference of Studio Unions, currently at odds with the major motion picture studios. This organization charges that Atty. Gen. Fred N. Howser stepped out ahead of time in order to allow Simpson, his chief deputy, to be appointed to the office of district attorney, normally an elective position.

Simpson, according to the CSU, is backed by the Motion Picture Producers Association

Well, Now, Who Wanted Child Care Fee Hiked?

(SCP)—Governor Earl Warren had a "slight misunderstanding' 'of the law controlling fees in child care centers, according to majorit yopinion at a board of education meeting which Friday night heard protests from working mothers against fee increases ordered by the State Board of education.

The mothers, organized in the Parents Council for Child Care, had asked the governor for information, after local boards comlied with the state order, and boosted fees as much as 50 percent. The governor wired a reply stating that "under the law, fees are determined by local school boards."

If so, why did local authorities comply with the state directive, and raise the fees, the mothers, headed by Mrs. Anne Frimkees, 311 S. Union Ave., wanted to know.

A phone call to local offices of the state board of education to clarify the "misunderstanding" elicited no definite answer, as Byron H Atkinson and Joseph Loeb, board members, didn't kown. Loed said he thought the governor was correct in ruling local boards responsible for setting fees

Would Scrap Wagner Act, Split Unions

(SCP).—Repeal of the Wagner Labor Relations Act and the splitting up of large labor unions into small, independent local units were two chief planks in a bid for return to "states' rights" argued by Abram P. Staples, Virginia attorney general, in an address to the National Association of Attorneys General Convention yesterday.

"I do not see any other method of government regulation of these gigiantic labor organizations than by compelling their division into smaller independent units, and likewise prohibiting concerted action among them." Staples said. He made no comment on the powerful corporation and interlocking directorates of Big Business.

He also urged removal of the Wagner Act and said revival of states' rights would be a guarantee against "dictorial government."

PROTORIA, South Africa — (CNS) — Having issued a statement of policy deploring the attitude of conservatives who regard the dark-skinned natives of South Africa as a reservoir of cheap labor, the Labor party of that turbulent nation belied its outspoken liberalism by opposing the government's plan to train colored people to build houses on the ground that the building trade is strictly for white men.

Two Bandits Hold Up Two Compton Service Stations Same Night

COMPTON, — (SCP) — When Richard L. Heber, white service station attendant at 605 E. Compton blvd., thought a hold-up man's hand stuck in his overcoat pocket was just a bluff; the bandit produced a caliber .38 revolver—and Heber decided he'd better tell where the cash receipts were hidden.

Heber, who lives at 3600 Easy ave., Long Beach, told sheriff's officer two Negroes entered the station about 3:40 A.M. and asked if there was a telephone. Heber told them there was a phone across the street and one of the men asked for change of a quarter.

At that point, the other bandit, hand in coat pocket, ordered Heber to face the wall, while his confederate rifled the cash register, finding $10. They demanded to know where the rest of the money was kept, but Heber said there was no more.

"There better be some more," the armed bandit replied, striking Heber on the shoulder and then producing a gun. Heber then told them where an additional $35 was kept, and had $2.25 taken from his own wallet. The bandits also took several cartons of cigarettes.

James R. Kelly, station owner, reported a total loss of $54.75.

The same pair were apparently back of the hold-up of another Compton service station, at 201 N. Alameda st., on the same night. In the latter holdup they "cased the joint" earlier in the evening, bought gas asked for chang for a ten dollar bill. In this holdup they took $111.49.

Hits Conspiracy' Indictments of 14 Film Strike Leaders

The recent indictment on charges of conspiracy of 14 leaders of the Hollywood film strike was denounced yesterday by the Los Angeles County Communist party as an even more drastic step against the basic liberties of labor and the whole American people than the injunction itself."

"'Conspiracy'," the statement points out, "was the charge invoked against the famous five men of Dorset' who first tried to organize a union in England in 1700's and as a punishment were exiled to Australia in a convict ship. 'Conspiracy to raise wages in the shoe industry was the charge leveled against the Philadelphia shoe makers in 1806, when they started to form one of the first labor unions in America."

The conspiracy indictment, the statement said, "should serve as a shock not only to the entire labor movements of California, but to all progressive forces who wish to see America go forward instead of relapsing into the middle ages."

2 Freed on Charges Of Assault, Battery

Albert Romant, 20, and William Golff, both charged with assault and battery and disturbing the peace, were found not guilty in the court room of Judge Ford Friday. The charges grew out of a fight in which mirrors, chairs, tables and windows were broken at the Duck Inn, at 5217 Avalon, on Oct. 16. Three men are said to have been treated for bruises and cuts at the Georgia Street Hospital as a result of the melee.

Principal witness for the prosecution was Mr. Kemp of 323 E. 52nd street. Kemp testified that on the day of the incident he had been in the cafe only a few minutes when he was assaulted by Romant and Golff.

According to Kemp, he was so badly injured that several stitches were necessary to close various cuts about his body.

Defense counsel Earl C. Broady put both defendants on the stand. They denied categorically all of the charges made by Kemp, and said that the three of them were the only ones in the fight. Both defendants claimed that Kemp and Romant had argued over playing the juke box before the fight, and that bottles and chairs were thrown out the front window during the melee.

However, Atty Broady was able to convince the court that Romant and Golff were protecting themselves against Kemp. Judge Ford found them not guilty, calling their actions "self defense."

University Head Bars Attorneys At Closed Hearing of Student Leader of Anti-Jimcrow Fight

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Don Rothenberg, president of the American Veterans Committee chapter at George Washington university, yesterday denied charges that he has done the school "irreparable harm" by fighting its ban against the admission of Negroes to the school's Lisner auditorium

Testifying in a closed hearing before an "exploratory board," appointed by President Cloyd Heck Marvin after a faculty-student committee had recommended his expulsion the miltant AVC leader is reported to have warned the school officials that the charges against him were of a serious nature and he requested full vindication by the board and a public statement to that effect.

Following the closed session, Rothenberg said his lawyers, Joseph A. Fanelli and George M. Szabad, had been denied admission to the hearings on the grounds that the entire affair was purely a school matter.

Rothenberg charged that three members of the "exploratory board" appointed by President Marvin were also members of the faculty-student committee which had recommended his expulsion.

The findings of the board remained secret but President Marvin indicated that the matter of Rothenberg's expulsion was now up to the trustees of the university.

Meanwhile, on another front, the Committee for Racial Democracy in the Nation's Capitol continued the fight to gain admission of colored people to the National Theater here.

Last Tuesday night at the opening of "Bloomer Girl" orderly groups of Negroes presented tickets at curtain time and were told by the doorman that their money would be refunded.

This was in line with the organization's plan to force the theater to drop its ban by causing a number of seats to be vacant at curtain time.

Miss Ida Fox, executive secretory of the committee, said her organization would "keep buying tickets until we are admitted."

The economic boycott of the National began in October when colored people were refused admission to the opening of "Apple of His Eye," starring Walter Huston.

L. A. Forum Assails Gen. Smuts' Move to Annex S. W. Africa

Opposition to annexation of Southwest Africa by the Union of South Africa, as proposed by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts in the United Natins general assembly, was voiced by the Los Angeles Forum at its regular Sunday afternoon meeting.

The Forum directed its corresponding secretary, Rev. John H. Ownes, to direct a letter to U. S. Senator Warren Austin, head of the U. S. delegation to the UN assembly, requesting him to oppose the move.

FLASH!

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—American Veterans' Committee leaders at George Washington university were exonerated last night by a faculty committee designated by President Cloyd Heck Marvin to review charges made against them that they were doing the university "irreparable harm."

Dr. Marvin accepted the recommendations of the faculty committee. These recommendations implied that use of university factilities would be denied the AVC chapter at George Washington on the ground that the veterans' organization engages in political activities.

There was no mention in the faculty committee's report of the issue which gave rise to the charges against the leaders of the AVC chapter at George Washington. The veterans took part in a protest against the policy of race discrimination in force at the university's Lisner auditorium.

Donald Rothenberg, student chairman of AVC Chapter 341, charged that the recommendation of the student-faculty committee for his expulsion was an outgrowth of AVC agitation for dropping the color bar at the Lisner auditorium.

Officers Rejected by Regular Army Can Make Application

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Negro officers in the army who applied for commissions in the regular army and were turned down with few exceptions have a second opportunity to get such commissions.

Major General Willard S. Paul, chief of the personnel division of the army general staff, announced yesterday that supplementary information from candidates for regular army commissions must be received by army commanding officers within the next 10 days.

Although applications from so-called "new" candidates will be accepted until midnight December 31, the announcement said, supplementary information from those who applied in the original integration program last summer will not be accepted if the envelopes in which it is mailed is postmarked later than midnight November 30.

Under the second integration program (that is, inetgration of officers in the army of the United States into the regular army), 25,000 officers will be taken into the regular army in grades based on age or length of service.

Veteran Kills Self At Sawtelle Hospital

(SCP) — Charles Washington, 54-year-old veteran of World War I, killed himself by cutting his throat at Sawtelle Veterans' Hospital late Friday, police said .

The patient was sent here from his Evansdale, Ariz., home to be treated for a bladder ailment.

He was desondent over news of a friend's death, went into the shower room at 6:30 a. m., locked the door, and slashed his throat with a razor, according to hospital authorities.

A brother, John Washington, lives in Waxahachie, Texas.

Guild Honors Reporters Who Helped Free 3 Innocent Men

DETROIT—Pretty, petite Marguerite Gahagan, 95-pound court reporter for the Detroit News, received a special award from the Heywood Broun Award Committee for helping to save a Negro and a white man from life imprisonment. The award was made at the Chicago Newspaper Guild's Page One ball Nov. 22.

Miss Gahagan's years-long battle to save the men from prison began in 1943 when Aaron Fox and Aldo Trani were convicted of murder in the Detroit race riots. Miss Gahagan, on her own initiative, ferreted out new evidence which led to the acquittal of Fox in a second trial. Trani has just been granted a new trial on evidence uncovered.

First place in the Brown Memorial Award contest was won jointly by Karin Walsh, Jack McPhaul and James McGuire of the Chicago Times for a series of exclusive stories which freed Joe Majezek who was sentenced to 99 years for murder in 1933. Miss Gahagan was so close to winning that the judges decreed a special second place award for her, the first time this has happened in the five-year history of the award.

Appeals Death Sentence of Vet Framed in N. C.

RALEIGH, N. C.—An appeal by the Civil Rights Congress to save the life of a young disabled veteran of Hamlet, N. C., was heard this week by the supreme court of North Carolina.

The veteran, Major Benton, 26-year-old former railroad worker, was convicted in Richmond county April 13 and sentenced to die in the gas chamber May 31, on charges of raping a white woman. Filing of the appeal by CRC attorneys brought an automatic stay of execution.

"Benton was convicted solely on testimony of police officers who claimed that he had confessed to them after a day and a hal fof continuous grilling," according to Laurent Frantz, Southern field director of the Civil Rights Congress. "The so-caleld confession was completely repudiated by the defendant at the trial. No other evidence whatsoever was offered to connect Benton with the crime.

"The victim of the alleged attack failed to identify Benton and was no teven positive that her assailant was a Negro. Three reputable citizens swore that Benton was with them at the time the alleged crime was committed. The evidence against Benton was so weak that the all-white jury of Richmond county, given the case at 5:30 on the afternoon of the 12th, was still hung 7 to 5 at 10 o'clock the next morning, at which time the judge called them in and gave them a special charge urging them to break the deadlock."

The appeal was argued by W. R. Jones of Rockingham, who represented Benton at the original trial, and R. O. Everett of Durham, retained by the Civil Rights Congress. The court will hand down its decision later.

Benton was honorably discharged from the army in 1943. He was receiving a partial disability pension for a permanent injury to his arm suffered while in service.

Legion to Participate In Entertaining Vets At Birmingham Hosp.

It was voted by the 23rd district of the American Legion Auxiliary, held last week in Patriotic Hall in Los Angeles, to participate in the program inaugurated by Los Angeles county council to carry entertainment and cheer to Birmingham Hospital in Van Nuys.

Each unit will help in this project and Louise Bassett, president, was authorized to make all arrangements for the district's participation.

Mrs. Mahan, past department president, stressed the importance of all the programs of the ALA and the magnitude of the work that is being done by the organization. She stated that the Department of California is expending annually $12,000 on child welfare, $12,000 to $15,000 on rehabilitation and $15,000 on education.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1- Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion,* thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2- Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes.

Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Public Housing at Standstill, Says L.A. Home Agency As It Halts Applications For Apts.

The Los Angeles City Housing Authority will accept no further applications for housing, it was announced yesterday by Nicola Giulii, chairman of the City Housing Commission. This policy was recommended by the authority's veterans' advisory committee, and will continue in effect until the authority's backlog of more than 16,000 applications has been cut to a maximum of 3000.

"We feel," said Giulii, "that this is the only reasonable course to take in the present circumstances. With a monthly turnover averaging 350 units and new applications averaging better than 2500, it is manifestly unfair to older applicants to continue to drown them in still more applications."

"We still have 1500 units under construction at Basilone Homes in San Fernando Valley," Giulii continued, "and about 100 units still to come in Rodger Young Village. Beyond that, nothing else is in sight, since the Federal Veterans' Emergency Housing appropriation is exhausted. Unless the federal government or the state sees fit to finance additional housing, we have nothing to combat the housing shortage with except the normal 350 vacates per month. In view of these facts," Giulii concluded, "I see no other course to pursue than immediate cessation of the taking of further applicatfons."

Siam's Ex-Premier, Wife Here on Visit

(SCP)—In the headlines six months ago when the boy-king of Siam was found dead with a bullet in his head, Siam's wartime premier was in town with his wife this week—he to study American rice production methods, she to buy American clothes.

Nai Pridi Banomyong, the premier, was cleared of political complications in the king's death when an official board of inquiry ruled the boy had died from an "accidental gun explosion." "The 20-year old king liked to play with pistols," the one time premier added.

Getting back to business, he announced that he and his wife would tour the Imperial Valley, visit rice fields in the south, and go to Washington on Dec. 7, where they will be White House guests for four days.

White Driver Held For Manslaughter In Death of 2 Kids

(SCP) — Sherman L. Johnson, 30, white, of 249 E. 49th st., was ordered held for Superior Court arraignment Dec. 9 on two counts of manslaughter, after a preliminary hearing in Municipal Judge Joseph F. Chambers' court. Johnson was held in the death of two children in a traffic accident.

The children, Alzoria Claudette Finley, 16, and her two-year-old brother, Ray Garland Finley were killed Nov. 3, when the car driven by their father, Garland Finley, 1132 E. 55th st., was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Johnson at Washington blvd., and Alameda st.

Report to people who are waiting for telephone service

But Southern California's growth makes job bigger than ever

Despite severe shortages of materials, we have added telephones at a record pace this year. So far, more than 129,000 have gone into service.

Still, there is a tremendous job to do before we can catch up with Southern California's spectacular growth and provide service for everyone who wants it. Millions of dollars worth of additional equipment must be manufactured and installed to take care of the orders on hand and new applications which continue to pour in every day.

You may be certain that we are doing everything we can to hurry the day we bring your telephone to you.

Thank you for your patience and understanding.

Ousting of Bishop Sims From N. Y. Post Climaxes Bitter AME Church Feud

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(NNPA)—The extra session of the General Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, called by ten of 18 bishops of the church, voted 999 to 35 to oust Bishop David H. Sims from his administrative post in the First Episcopal District, New York. The session was attended by the highest churchmen and laymen in the denomination from all over the country.

The first flare-up in the General conference came when Rev. George Sims, brother of Bishop Sims, was ousted from the secretaryshipof the conference and Rev. Russell Brown of St. Louis was chosen for the post. The change was vociferously opposed by members of the Sims faction.

The General Conference ordinarily meets quadrennially and would not have convened until 1948, but charges of maladministration and misappropriation of funds against certain bishops led to the calling of the extra session.

The immediate cause of the controversy which brought the 4extra session was the action of the Bishops' Council in Kansas City, Kansas, June 21, appointing Bishop R. R. Wright Jr., of Philadelphia, as "associate bishop" to preside over the New York annual Conference with Bishop David H. Sims, presiding bishop of the First Episcopal District which embraces that conference.

A special session of the Bishops' Council convened in the Missioary Headquarters of the A.M.E. church in New York City, at which ten bishops, two of them by proxy, passed a "clarifying" resolution declaring that it was the intention of the Bishops' Council meeting in Kansas City to relieve Bishop Sims of his conections with the New York Annual Conference and to give Bishop Wright sole power to act in any and all matters relating to that conference.

The ten bishops—eight in person and two by proxy—cosvened at the Theresa Hotel the next day. Bishop Ransom, who presided, stated that because of the "commotion and disturbance" at the session the day before it was felt best to continue the session elsewhere than at the Missionary Department.

Bishop Ransom added that since certain bishops had protested he felt it was unnecessary to notify them of the meeting. At this meeting it was decided to put in motion the necessary machinery for calling a special session of the General Canference to be held in Little Rock.

The tenbishops were Bishops Ransom, John A. Gregg, S. L. Greene, Noah W. Williams, George B. Young, Wright, D. Ward Nichols, George W. Baber, Reid, and J. H. Clayborn.

At Memphis, November 5, these bishops issued a call for an extra session of the General Canference.

The A.M.E. church was started as the result of the protest of Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and William White against colored people being required to go into the gallery of St. George's Methodist Church in Philadelphia.

Allen started it as one church, and other churches sprang up in nearby communities. Bishop Asbury consecrated him a bishop in 1799, and the churches in the nearby communities were brought together by Bishop Allen in 1816 and the A.M.E. Church established.

FDR, Jr. Assails Demand to Lift Rent Controls

WASHINGTON.—Franklin Delano Roosevelt Jr., yesterday attached landlords for demanding removal of rent controls and declared such action would be "catastrophic."

"With controls removed the average veteran would put out almost one-half of his income for rent," said Roosevelt, who is national housing chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

Roosevelt charged many landlords are now getting exorbitant rents.

"When rent controls were removed after World War I, rentals went up 312 percent," he pointed out. "If rent controls are removed now, rents will not come down when the general price level declines because of the acute shortage of housing."

"The real fact is that, due to the absence of all vacancies, the income of landlords is the highest in history."

Probation Hearing Dec. 9 For Porter Found Guilty of Theft

(SCP) — August Horton, 43, of 735 E. 42nd st., was found guilty of petty theft in Municipal Judge R. Morgan Galbreth's court but sentence was withheld pending a probation hearing set for December 9.

Horton, a porter at the Broadway Department Store, was picked up as he was leaving the store with several packages. He had a sales slip for only one, Gladys E. Martin of the police department forgery detail testified.

Officers went to Horton's home and reported they found women's clothing valued at $300 stowed in a closet. Horton said he was taking the packages home for another porter.

Donald Colts was attorney for the defendant.

County Employes Get $8 Monthly Pay Hike

Lower - paid employes of Los Angeles county are going to get a little more in their pay envelopes starting Jan. 1.

The county board of supervisors yesterday morning approved a $9 monthly increase for all workers receiving less than $319 at present.

The minimum monthly pay was also raised from $115 to $132.

The boost was recommended by chief county administrative officer Wayne R. Allen, and will cost the county $813,000 for the six months beginning Jan. 1 At the beginning of the new fiscal year, July 1, the raises will be reviewed when a new budget is drawn.

Supervisor Roger Jessup opposed the higher wages. Supervisors Smith, Darby, and Ford approved.

Kenny Scores Public Apathy On Sex Offenses

By SOUTHERN CITIES PRESS

"A real public awakening to the danger inherent in minor sex offenses was urged in an address by Attorney General Robert W. Kenny at the final session of the 40th annual convention of the National Association of Attorneys General, meeting at the Hollywood Knickerbocker hotel.

"The public's apathy makes very difficult the prosecution of cases of exhibitionism, molesting children, and perversion. It is from these crimes, too often treated as only misdemeanors, that such shocking crimes as the Heirens case in Chicago arise," Kenny told delegates from 44 states.

Election of Walter Johnson of Nebraska as new president, and J. Tom Watson of Florida as vice president of the association was the last official business of the three-day meet.

Two Arrested When Victims of Crooked Game Call Police

(SCP).—The old Southern game of "Georgia Skins" is too expensive to play when a stripper deck is used against you, Clarence Moore decided after he had lost several hundred dollars.

He left the game on a pretext and called police to the apartment of Buster Brown, 46, of 906 E. 25th street.

When the law puffed in at 1:30 a.m., they found $295 in front of Brown, and $245 stacked up before Roosevelt Bailey, 41, of 610 Stanford avenue.

On examination of the deck, police stated that it was tapered so that planted hands could be dealt to the players.

Brown and Bailey were booked on a charge of grand theft and intent to defraud, but were released on $1500 bail each. They will appear for arraignment today (Thursday).

Vet Heads Citizens Group on Education

Milton Shields, white, army veteran and former New York newspaperman, has been appointed executive director of the Citizens Committee for Better Education, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. John Whedon, chairman.

Shields' job, Mrs. Whedon stated, will be to coordinate the work of the Committee whose program includes education for democracy, security and peace; better textbooks, smaller classes and giving the teachers a chance to do the job by proper pay and treatment.

Also building healthy citizens by increasing the permanent medical and nursing staff; provide for real veterans' training and, finally, the election of a board of education in sympathy with its program.

Temporary headquarters of the Committee are at 7904 Santa Monica boulevard.

Vets Blast Plan to Ease Ban On Commercial Building; Ask Low Rent Homes for Citizens

(SCP)—Outrage and indignation was expressed by the major veterans' organizations in Los Angeles this week in the face of an announcement from Louis M. Dreves, regional director of the Civilian Production Administration, that plans for easing of restrictions on Commercial building were being considered.

American Veterans Committee, American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars Vet-directors all agreed on the necessity for curbing—not increasing—commercial construction, and making more rather than less material available for veterans homes.

The announcement by dreves, who just returned from a conference of all CPA regional directors in Washington, indicated that plans for cutting the amount of material allocated to veterans housing have been presented to the White House.

Expressing intense indignation at the move, Peter Gorman, AVC housing director for the state of California, stated:

"At a time like this, when thousands of veterans are walking the streets trying to find a place to live, this move is evidence of moral turpitude of pressure groups and big business interests who want to cut down the already insufficient amount of material available for veterans housing."

A. B. Lattimore, VFW housing director and chairman of the Veterans Advisory Committee of the Housing Authority of the city of Los Angeles said yesterday.

"We have not changed our stand that commercial buildmust be stopped. We are not going to stop until we get housing, not only for veterans, but for all citiens. The housing situation is more serious now than it was a year ago, and the veterans are getting desperate. We are never going to catch up until non-essential commercial building is stopped."

Filmore Jaffe, VFW official and vice-chairman of the East side Veterans Council, composed of AVC, VFW, Legion, Nisei war veterans, and Jewish war veterans posts, re-affirmed the position of the VFW and the East-side Council for low-cost rental housing and diversion of materials into such a program. He also favored the "Fresno Plan" for a board of veterans to pass on building permits.

"I can't see all this industrial building going on when veterans are living in broken-down old barracks, tents, and whatever they can find. Let's first take care of the men who took care of us," Jaffee said.

The committee, with members of AVC, Legion, and the VFW, as well as AFL and CIO unions present, voted enlargement of picketing of commercial construction sites throughout Los Angeles and wider circulation of a petition demanding an end to commercial construction and the diversion of materials into veterans homes and low-rent housing projects.

Warns Parents Not to Neglect Diarrhea Signs

By SOUTHERN CITIES PRESS

Mothers of infants who show symptoms of the type of diarrhea now epidemic here, are advised to call a doctor at once, and not attempt home treatment, the city health department warned yesterday.

Symptoms are similar to common diarrhea — a tired feeling, loss of appetite, slight fever, and liquid yellow-green bowel discharges, according to Dr. L. S. Goerke, director of medical services.

Absolute cleanliness in preparing the baby's food will aid in preventing the disease which has already claimed eleven lives here, he said.

Asks Public Hearing On Pay Increase for L. A. City Employes

By SOUTHERN CITIES PRESS

City employes may have larger pay checks soon, if the recommendation of Councilman G. Vernon Bennett, introduced at a council meeting, is put into effect.

Bennett called for a public hearing Dec. 4 on the question of "changing the city salary system from its present complicated schedule to a flat salary basis, in order to more readily conform with prevailing wages in private industry."

The recommendation was referred to the personnel committee for investigation.

War Hero, Now Mail Clerk Awarded Bronze Star Medal

His rifle had been shot out of his hands by enemy fire. The Japanese fire continued to pour into him and his comrades of the 870th Coast Artillery Regiment. At the height of this battle, one June 24, 1945, for the tiny but strategically important Southwestern Pacific dot-on-map Tokahuma Shima, Corporal James W. Thomas, unarmed, carried a badly wounded comrade to cover and treated his wounds to such good effect that the seriously wounded man recovered.

For his outstanding heroism in that action, Corporal Thomas was awarded the Bronze Star Medal at army recruiting headquarters in the Pacific Electric building. Colonel M. L. McCreary, field artillery, officer in charge of recruiting in the sixth army area, pinned the decoration on Thomas' chest, together with the Good Conduct Medal which was awarded the heroic veteran at the same time.

Thomas, who resides with his wife, Mrs. Martha Thomas, at 2327½ Hooper avenue, Los Angeles, was discharged late in 1945 and is now a mail handler at the Terminal Annex post office.

The 870th coast artillery regiment with which he served in the Southwest Pacific is the old 15th infantry, crack Negro New York National Guard outfit, in which Thomas, then living in New York, enlisted in 1933. Redesignated the 369th infantry, before becoming the 870th coast artillery regiment, the unit sailed for Hawaii early in 1942, Corporal Thomas sailing with it.

Court Throws Out Suit Of 195 Shipyard Men For $100,000 Back Pay

(SCP)—A suit filed by 195 former and present employes of the Terminal Island shipyard of the Consolidated Steel Corp., including five whites, seeking an estimated $100,000 in back pay, was thrown out of court and referred to arbitration on Monday by Superior Judge Roy V. Rhodes, who granted a defense motion for stay of proceedings.

The shipyard workers had charged they were paid at a lower rate than they were entitled to receive, while working for Consolidated's Terminal Island yards during 1942 and 1943. According to an AFL Metal Trades Council agreement, signed with Pacific Coast shipbuilders April 1, 1941, the workers said they should have been classified as metal buffers and paid $1.20 an hour.

Instead, their suit contended, they were given the lower classification of tank scalers and cleaners, with a pay of 93 cents an hour, while doing the work of the higher pay classifications. Their pay as scalers was increased to $1.08 an hour in November, 1943.

Consolidated had sought to have the wage dispute submitted to arbitration, but Attys. J. Wesley Cupp and Robert E. Fease argued the matter was not subject to arbitration.

Judge Rhodes, however, upheld the defense motion for stay of proceedings. Attys. Alfred Wright and Harold F. Collins for the 195 plaintiffs had not shown sufficient cause for him to take action, the judge asserted. The workers had failed to show that they had, themselves, complied with the collective bargaining agreement, the judge added, since the agreement provided for arbitration machinery.

The workers, some of whom are still employed at the Consolidated Shipyards, had demanded an accounting of their wages, claiming they did not know exactly how much was due them but would accept the figure arrived at from company records, and estimated to be nearly $100,000 for the entire group.

USES Minority Chief Freed of Traffic Charge

ing the entire ride across the city the lights of Mrs. Johnson's automobile were on.

Officer Nathall testified that when he first saw Mrs. Johnson's car the lights were out and that when he attempted to stop her by jumping on the running board of the car, she increased the speed of the automobile, throwing him to the ground.

Mrs. Johnson testiifed that she had never seen the officer until he pulled up in a taxicab beside her on Harvard street and ordered her to stop. She said she did not stop immediately because she feared she was being help up. When she stopped, she said, the officer drew his gun and made her drive to the precinct.

In dismissing the charge, Judge McMahon said he had never heard of an officer jumping on the running board of a moving automobile in an attempt to arrest to person for driving without lights. He also admonished the officer for not having the taxicab driver in court as a witness.

Leon A. Ransom, an attorney, defended Mrs. Johnson.

Join Junior in His 'Ersatz Rainbow' To

What is being taught in the Los Angeles city schools, and how is it being done? Are the youngsters learning as much as they did in Dad's day? How about that readin', writin' and 'rithmetic? These are just a few of the questions that will be answered over your favorite radio station, starting Dec. 3, when the Los Angeles board of education presents its series of programs, "Know Your Schools!"

These programs take you right into the classroom during a lesson, and show you, concretely, how young people of today learn citizenship, Spanish, history, math, drama, music, and all the rest of it. They are unrehearsed, and have the natural spontaneity of quiz kids programs.

"Know Your Schools" will be carried on all local stations, beginning this week . . . so watch your local papers and listen to your favorite statiion for further information on this series.

Charges Real Estate Interests Plot to Drive Negroes 'Back South'

houses were owned by the very people who objected to slum clearance."

If it had not been for these obstructions, he declared, Central avenue could have had ten more housing projects than it has. During the emergency housing program for war workers, the same objections against minority groups prevailed. And last year when "private enterprise" began building, only 1 per cent was made available for Negroes.

"Some real estate people told me," the official said, that they wanted to make everything as unpleasant for Negroes in L.A. as possible so they would go back to Louisiana and Georgia."

Miss Cohen told of the Williams family, mother and two daughters, who bought a home recently at 3814 South Normandie avenue. They had inquired particularly about restrictive covenants and were told everything was all right. But when they moved into their new home, they found it was in a restricted area.

"They were attacked time and again by hoodlums," Miss Cohen said, who moved in with the family to help in the fight. "When I first visited the place, the front part of the house was covered with eggs. They have thrown bricks into the windows, and have kept this family in a constant state of terror."

The mother, Mrs. Williams, is ill with heart trouble, and cannot endure this terrorism much longer, although the daughters would like to stay and fight it out.

At least a dozen men volunteered to come at night to guard the house, and a committee was formed to see the ministers of the churches in the neighborhood and ask for their cooperation in fighting this evil.

The remedy for this Fascist trend, the CHA man said in his talk, is to organize "as never before. The National Merchants and Manufacturers spent $5,000,000 to kill federal housing. President Truman yielded to them and the real estate lobbyists in Congress pulled the strings to which the congressmen dancer, and federal housing is practically gone. We, too, must organize and fight as they fight."

$3500 Loss Suffered in Holocaust; Prowler Tried Fire 2nd House

their own residence, the family had begun packing in preparation for the exodus.

Jack A. Dumas, only son, who was discharged from the army in March after 28 months in India, said dispassionately, "Think I'll go back into the army!"

Certain that the fire was not accidental, Dumas cited the fact that, due to recent rains, the entire building was sopping wet, so that not even a carelessly dropped cigarette could have caused the inferno. In addition to this, there are the statements of at least one witness. This witness stafes that a short, white man, wearing a brown jacket, entered the house just prior to the appearance of the flames, reaching the front gate as the whole house lit up like a torch. s..chome...owninnsctothe

The intruder is said to have driven up in a black sedan, and to have entered the house with a can in his hand. The witness states that the man was thought to be a workman until the flames appeared.

Possible causes for the alleged incendiary attack were numerous. Standing in the midst of an integrated neighborhood, the possibility of race prejudice was at first raised, but the friendliness of all surrounding whites and the mutual respect shown by both colored and white in the past reduced this possibility to a minimum.

Firing of a superintendent of the company constructing the building—which sometimes precipitates incidents of this nature—added smoke to the speculators' pipe dreams. Oher amateur detectives saw something peculiar in the appearance on the scene of a "drunk" individual who, after displaying some sort of credentials, began to take flash-bulb pictures of the flames. These "sleuths" contenl that perhaps this was the work of some sort of fire-bug—who likel to take pictures of his "bonfires"—and, besides, how'd he happen to come along with his camera just in time for the show?

Adding to the theory of the firebug or other wise incendiary origin of the fire, was the reported attempt to burn another partially built house within the same block. This home received little damage when a fire was discovered in the flooring.

Members of the Fire Station at E. 108th and Main rushed to the scene, but were unable to save Dumas' home. The hardwood floors, roof and freshly-lathed walls are said to have burned like tinder.

Asked to move from his home on Hooper about six months ago, Dumas said he'd been allowed to remain there until his own residence, construction of which was begun in June, was completed. He spoke with deep conviction when he said that there were ". . . no enemies involved . . . in fact I haven't an enemy in the world."

council to administer Southwest Africa."

The administration of the former German colony, now a union mandate, he said, has been so "discreditable" that he would not consent to the union's being given administration of the territory even under a trusteeship council.

"It could not," he said, "be trusted to administer a trust territory."

ments in asserting on the stand that the defendant was "sloppy drunk" while his written report said Mrs. Galloway answered questions "intelligently."

Atty. Gordon further discredited Paine's testimony by pointing out that the witness was a friend of Detective Grutsch, whom Mrs. Galloway charged with beating her, and that he thad appeared as a witness at the request of Grutsch himself.

Mrs. Galloway, a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and a singer on the choir of the People's Independent Church of Christ, is one of several victims of alleged police brutality, which the Civil Rights Congress plans to protest to the police commission next week.

Without provocation, it is charged, Mrs. Galloway was ordered to get out of the car, and when she asked the officer to show his identification, he assertedly struck her in the face. She was beaten and abused at Central station, and then taken to Lincoln Heights Jail on a drunk auto charge.

In his defense, Atty, Gordon produced numerous character witnesses in Mrs. Galloway's behalf. Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the Peoples Independent Church; Norene Forney, board member of the local NNACP, Mrs. Shinnifield, and Mrs. Zeresh Eberhardt, all testified as to the usual sobriety of the defendant.

The courtroom continued to fill with spectators as Mrs. Galloway, answering every question put to her by the prosecution readily, told how she was not asked to do anything on the night of the accident, no orders having been given. Instead, she said, the officer shoved and threw her about at will.

Also produced in evidence were photos of Mrs. Galloway's face and knees, showing the condition they were in following her tilt with Grutsch.

Interest in the case ran high. When Judge Aggeler pronounced the verdict of not guilty, loud hand-clapping was halted by the clerk's insistent "Quiet, please." Even the elevator operator, colored, inquired as to how the case came out. "Judge Aggeler's all right," he said, beaming, when told of the decision.

and by Bob Gans, known as the "slot-machine king" during the infamous regime of Mayor Frank L. Shaw who was kicked out of office in 1938.

It is believed that the alliance of the motion picture producers with the underworld, as represented by Gans, will bring credited Shaw administration, CSU says.

The CSU announced that it will demand a federal grand jury investigation of the conspiracy. It will also seek a congressional investigation of the importation of professional strike breakers by the producers, their collusive destruction of labor's rights under the Wagner Act, and the subsidizing by the motion picture producers of our local government and law-enforcement authorities in their campaign to discredit labor.

"The entire national labor movement has been aroused by this studio-gangster plot, and an all-out drive to expose the conspiracy isbeing organized. Protests to the district attorney's office are being registered from all over the country.

According to reports, board members Leonard Roach and John A. Ford spoke in favor of the stop-Simpson faction. Roach is said to have seemed particularly determined when he asked that the board give the matter some "study for the public benefit . . . in that the public was so dissatisfied with our last selection."

One gentleman, an attorney, among those opposing the appointment, was not allowed to speak. "We will not hear from the people this morning," Chairman Smith is reported to have retorted, angrily turning down all proposals for an open hearing.

According to the committee, they had previously acquired the signatures of numerous women's clubs, as well as those of individual women, on petitions to the board. They also said a letter of protest had been sent to board members, explaining that due to his anti-labor attitude in handling of the film strike, they found Simpson unsuitable to be selected as district attorney.

Who Is Guilty?

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union, is being pilloried as an arch conspirator, a traitor, a criminal, and what have you in the way of being a bad boy, by all the capitalist press.

Some say he bids fair to become a second Hitler. Some think he should be sentenced to prison for life. Some even say he should be shot. And no doubt a lot of people who never did a stroke of work in their lives, think that if they do not say so.

But we wonder what these same polite personages of the upper crust would say and think if they had to go down a mile or two beneath the earth and stay there fifty-four hours a week digging black dirt. To come up filthy dirty, with coal dust in their eyes, ears, nose and throat, and every pore in their skin filled with dust.

The mere fact that they would have to work in all that dirt would be enough for most people to demand at least a hudred dollars a week compensation. These miners are asking only $75. And they want to work 40 hours per week, the same as other workers in the United States are doing.

They want better living and working standards. There is danger lurking in a mine at almost every step. You see men with only one leg, men with arms off, men with crooked backs, men minus fingers, men with only one hand, walking the streets in any mining town you enter.

Should they not be paid for these hazards? Who are the pampered dolls that want to live in warmth and luxury bought at such a fearful price by other human beings?

They live, these miners, in shacks and shanties built by the mining company. They pay rent to the company. They buy their food at a company store. And pay whatever the company chooses to charge.

The miners who dig our coal to warm our homes, want these things changed. They want to live in decent homes. As you do. They want a bathroom, with a good-sized tub in it, and plenty of hot running water. Few miners have these necessities. They come home dirty and tired, and wash in a tub in the kitchen.

These miners through their leader, John L. Lewis, asked for a new contract making some of these improvements, in plenty of time to have it signed before their old contract expired. The mines had been run by the United States government. So they petitioned the government for a new contract.

But the big United States government, at the last minute, is insisting that they must go to their former employers, the capitalist owners of the mines. The owners will not grant a contract. So what can the miners do but protest against such injustice in the only way that is most effective to the owners and to the public? By going on a strike until their just demands are met?

Oh, John L. Lewis has no doubt swaggered quite a bit before the United States government. He has done many things, no doubt, that were not altogether cricket.

But in refusing to order those miners back to work under the same unsanitary and dangerous condition with the same low pay, John L. Lewis was proving himself a friend not only to his miners but to all organized labor and to all working people everywhere.

Who is the guilty party in causing this strike and the discomfort and hardships all over the country? The miners? No. Their leader, John L. Lewis? No. Who is? The owners of the mines. The United States government itself. Those who have refused to grant a living wage and decent living conditions to those working for them.

Tolerance Growing in U.S. National Leaders Believe

Despite the vicious persecutions which yet take place in the United States, there is a growing conviction among national leaders that Americas are growing more tolerant.

In the November 26th issue of LOOK Magazine, released nationally, leaders agree that although intolerance continues to exist, it is not as discouraging as it has been in the past.

Anna Lord Strauss, President of the National League of Women Voters, has complete confidence in the "rapidly increasing number of well-educated people who are busy trying to create conditions in which tolerance will win," despite the fact that there are "great masses of people who listen too readily to demagogues who appea to all of the deep-seated and thoughtless prejudices."

"The very frictions that occur are the growing pains of the exercise of a greater tolerance," states Wilson W. Wyatt, Administrator for the National Housing Agecy.

Authorities agree that "a wave of contrived prejudice has washed across the world and it has not yet fully receded," yet they feel that most Americans recognize that intolerance is a national social evil which must be corrected. In this understanding seems to lie a promise for the future.

These leaders agree that although intolerance continues to exist, it is not as discouraging as it has been in the past, and is not a part of any successfully guided campaign. Therefore, if we can believe these persons in position of responsibility in our nation, the overall picture of prejudice and intolerance has taken on a brighter hue, and the outlook for an America of peace and tolerance is nearer to realization than may mnay think.

The Negro's Role in Labor

1946 has been a year of most important events. And still the clock ticks and time moves on. We are now in the midst of a great people's war which we must fight to sustain labor's role in freedom's eventual victory. We feel that one of the most important issues of this war that should be raised is the Negro's part in labor's struggle for survival.

In 1942 when Local 727 of the International Association of Machinists would not accept for membership some five hundred Negro workers at the Lockheed-Vega plant at Burbank, a voice of protest from Negro workers joined with that of white workers in all walks of labor who subscribe to one standard, reached President Roosevelt in Washington.

This appeal brought from the President Order No. 8802, banishing discrimination of employes because of race, creed, color, or national origin in all industries vital to war production.

There were, and there are people now, who saw clearly the Roosevelt trend and without attaching political significance to it, were and are willing to follow his lead.

It was the President's executive order that brought labor and management into a realization that it would require full mobilization and integration of all American labor to win the war.

Today the whole American people whether they believe it or not are in a life and death struggle to win the peace.

Organized labor must stand unequivocally on a platform that protects every worker's right to the job for which he is most qualified.

The people are not fooled. They know why we are in the midst of all kinds of strikes. They know why millions of Federal workers are being thrown out of jobs. Their one hope for relief from all of the incumbent hardships that will result from these changes rests in organized labor.

The elements in our society that seek to destroy labor can only be defeated by a labor non-discriminatory policy.

Perhaps the most skeptical race segment in the nation today is the Negro laborer himself. And we are willing to venture this statement: He is not wholly responsible for his uncertain attitude towards labor. It is because he has been a victim of discrimination in the labor movement and by the enemies of labor—those of the capitalist system who never exercise the power within their control to abolish the poll-tax, the lynch law and other evils that breed contempt for law and order.

Perhaps, however, the greatest factor responsible for the Negro laborer's slow motion in connecting up with organized labor is due to his miseducation in politics. He objects strongly to such things as slum housing facilities for Negroes particularly, restrictive covenants, jimcrow cars; denial of hotel, swimming pool and cafe accomodations.

But he refuses to search records and find out for himself that the same people who are responsible for these crimes against him and against a truly democratic way of life, are our fine-feathered Republicans in coalition with Democrats of the Bilbo-Rankin kind who defeat all social and labor legislation destined to bridge the gap that keeps white and Negro workers divided.

Learn about our government. Study politics. And you'll find out why we have racial discrimination. Why we have strikes. Why we have uemployment. Why we have hard times.

With any sort of division in labor, there is evidence of an unrushing internal war.

Study these things and above all labor will learn the truth of that old axium, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

The Negro laborer should realize that he cannot win alone. His one shelter from the fascist storm that is raging about him is in the ranks of labor. He must fight to enter its portals, and join in the fight to live decently by helping to establish one living standa d for all Americans.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

So, this year we'll observe Thanksgiving Day on the good old-fashioned date — the last Thursday in November.

Remember the howl that was raised when President Roosevelt, at the request of some thousands of merchants in the country, appointed the next to the last Thursday in November? The merchants wanted the change, they said, so that there might be a longer shopping period between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

But you've heard that old saying, "Anything new—or different—is wrong."

Those who were constantly watching for an opportunity to belittle President Roosevelt in the eyes of the American people, seized upon this trivial incident and, capitalizing upon the tendency of human nature to resist any change, especially that of American human nature, they simply raised Cain.

"Change Thanksgiving Day!" they said, and raised their hands in holy horror. "That great old American institution! The day our forefathers set apart! The day when we've always eaten turkey and pumpkin pie and played football! Change that day!"

You might have thought our friend was really planning to turn the world upside down. The governors of some states refused to cooperate and as a consequence they had two Thanksgiving Days—the one appointed by the president and the one appointed by the governors of those states.

The first year that the change was made, in 1939, the "next to the last Thursday" in November came on the fourth Thursday. So that wasn't too bad. But the following year the next to the last came on the third Thursday in November. Then those sticklers for everything to stay put as it always was, fairly raised the roof.

Congress finally came to the rescue and adopted a resolution making the fourth Thursday of November after the year 1941 Thanksgiving Day. The staid and conservative Republican senators and representatives voted for it, and so of course it was all right. We have Thanksgiving Day now on the fourth Thursday, which sometimes is "the next to the last Thursday of November" and whether or not it makes any difference to God, to whom we are supposed to give thanks on that day, the people of America who are opposed to change of any sort are apparently satisfied. And that's the main point.

Betcha dollars to doughnuts that if you ask any one about this day, nine out of ten will tell you Thanksgiving Day always came on the fourth Thursday of November.

But it never did. Not before 1942. Except, of course, when the fourth and last Thursdays coincided, as they do this year.

The first Thanksgiving in the New World, as all school children know, was held by the Pilgrims in Massachusetts. It was after their first severe winter when half their number had died, and they had leveled the graves so the Indians could not count them and so know how pitifully few were left. Spring and summer had brought renewed hope. And now after an "abundant harvest" they wished to have a harvest-home festival and a day for the giving of thanks.

The few women left in the colony spent days in boiling and baking and roasting. The friendly Indians brought wild turkeys and venison. The Pilgrim fathers themselves went out into the forest to hunt wild fowl for the feast.

That feast lasted three days. The tables were spread outdoors, and they all sat down around them like one family. There were sermons and prayers and songs of praise. And at last when they just couldn't eat another bite, nor think of any more sermons to preach nor things to talk about, the eighty or more Indians went back to their own homes, and the Pilgrim fathers and mothers went about their usual household and colonial duties.

This idea of a special day of Thanksgiving spread among the other colonies, and later among the various states. It was never held on any uniform date, however. The idea of making it a national holiday was a woman's —Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, editor and publisher of Godey's Lady's Book, Philadelphia, who wrote and worked along this line for thirty years. Finally President Lincoln, in 1864, proclaimed a national Thanksgiving Day for the last Thursday in November.

That day was observed regularly every year for 75 years, the president issuing the national proclamation and the governors of the various states issuing a similar one for each state.

'Twas something of a wranch, I suppose, to get out of the groove for the last Thursday in November. But now that we've switched to the fourth Thursday —the turkey and pumpkin pie taste just as good.

BOOKS and AUTHORS

A Southerner Looks at Negro Discrimination is the title of a group of selections from the writings of George W. Cable, to be published as a booklet on December 2 by International Publishers.

A distinguished writer whose Creole tales were one of the literary highlights of his generation, Cable served in the Confederate army during the Civil War but later came to condemn every kind of Negro discrimination as an injustice which was harming the South as a whole. To carry forward his militant fight for progress in the South, he wrote several books and a number of articles, and it is largely from these that the present selections were made.

Editor of the booklet is Isabel Cable Manes, the writer's granddaughter. She not only made the selections but also wrote a brief biographical sketch including some of her own memories of her grandfather as well as describing the main events of his life. The intrdouction to the book is by another Southern fighter for progress. Professor Alva W. Taylor of Nashville, Tennessee, editor of Mountain Life and secretary-treasurer of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

ISAAC PRATT

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has been indicted by the United States government and is threatened with a jail sentence for refusing to withdraw notices he had sent the miners of the termination of the contract the miners had with the government. It is because of no contract that the miners are on strike, and Lewis has refused to order the men back to work until they get a contract.

The government is ready, states the United Press, to recommend fines of $200,000 per day for Lewis and the Union, if the miners fail to go to work. But the miners say: No contract, no work. You can't mine coal with bayonets.

The miners are demanding better living standards, a forty-hour week instead of fifty-four, as they had been working, with the same take-home pay.

The California State Department of Industrial Relations has just published a report stating that the average weekly wage for workers in manufacturing industries in Los Angeles was $53.59 for September.

But rated in terms of January, 1941, this amounts to only $35.84. And that was for September. Prices have gone up sky-high since then, but wages have remained the same. Any wonder there is "labor unrest" and that we have strikes?

Republican Congressmen who are planning to introduce union-busting legislation as soon as Congress convenes in January, claim that their only purpose is to avoid strikes and assure production. Well, the simplest way to avoid strikes and insure production is to pay decent wages and stop raising prices. Easy Easy, isn't it?

The greatest mass arrests in California labor history came last week when hundreds of policemen, armed with tear gas guns, firearms and clubs, descended upon those picketing the Columbia studios, arrested 802 studio pickets, and carted them off to jail.

Protests by the thousands have been pouring into the office of Mayor Bowren. Herb Sorrell, president of the Conference of Studio Unions, was among those arrested.

The longest picket line in the world was staged by CSU members before a mass meeting held at the American Legion Stadium on Sunday evening, Nov. 10. It extended on both sides of Hollywood Blvd., from El Centro street to Highland.

Stirred by the battle of the CSU against the movie magnates for signed contracts, wage increases, and democratic unionism, building trades unions all over the country have begun to pour in contributions to the CSU's welfare fund

Letters from Indiana, Utah, Idaho, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Massachusetts, Tennessee, —from all over the country, East, West, North, South—pledge support to this fight for democracy.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25—Now that more than 10,000 workers in the waterfront industry and the building and construction trades have been aligned during the past several weeks under the direction of the two AFL coordinators, Patrick (Pat) Ryan and George W. Snowden, the Southern Organizing Campaign committee, which they head, is invading other fields and seeking new worlds to conquer". Presently, the movement is among barbers, restaurant workers, school teachers and office employees.

Long overdue in the Crescent City, organization of colored barbers took definite shape last week when nearly 75 journeymen of this personal service craft filled application blanks and were certified for a charter to be issued by the Journeymen Barbers International Union, AFL.

Impressive Figures

Records of the Louisiana Barbers Licensing Board disclose that there are already around 335 licensed colored barbers in New Orleans alone—close to 1,300 in the State as a whole. About 236 of those licensed in the Crescent City are union eligibles according to Dr. Snowden, who is associate professor of economics at Dillard University here. Most of these will be unionized in a matter of days, it was felt.

Colored barbers' unions now exist in Baton Rouge and Shreveport. The New Orleans group is temporarily being led by the Rev. Harry Matthews, with the assistance of the International Representative, C. T. Joiner.

The Journeymen Barbers' International Union was formed in 1887 and became affiliated with the AFL in 1888. Today, there are approximately 105,000 members of which number about 20,000 were organized during 1940. All members of this union receive substantial sick and death benefits as well as the usual union protection and security.

Local 26 approved its first contract under its new name the Warehouse Processing and Distribution Workers' Union ILWU-CIO covering the 125 workers of the Quaker Oats Co.

Wage increases gained amounted from 12¼ to 22½ cents, maintenance of membership with compulsory check-off, 6 paid holidays, seniority, paid vacations etc. The company has had a bonus plan in effect for several years whereby all employees would receive an annual bonus based on the earnings of the company. In order that the new wage increases would not do away with the bonus the Union incorporated the continuance of that bonus in the contract. The bonus has averaged 9%. With the new wage increase plus the bonus, the warehouse rate is 1.23½c per hour and it is believed the highest mill rate on the west coast. The negotiating committee consisted of O. M. Skeie, Everett Van Orden, Manuel Morales, Vernie Williams, Parker T. Blow and Henry Utrecht, Int'l Representative and Al Caplan, Local organizer assisting.

Invading the candy packaging and distribution field Local 26, signed an agreement with the Troll's Candy Co. covering some 100 workers. The contract calls for a minimum 10c wage increase with some classifications receiving more, a Union shop, 6 paid holidays, 1 week's vacation with pay after 1 year and 2 week's vacation with pay after 2 years, 1½ after 8 hours and Saturday plus the standard provisions of Union contracts. Although the wages agreed to are not at the level requested in the Union' original demands, the workers of the Troll's Candy company will receive on an average of 20c per hour more than the average candy plant under contract with the AF of L or unorganized. During negotiations the company closed its plant for lack of sugar but plans to open before or on January 1, 1947. This will mark Local 26's first new contract for 1947. The contract and negotiating committee consisted of: Alice Wyatt, Kay Dawson, Alexander Koch, Loyal Cooksey, Isador Foreman and Al Caplan, Local organizer assisting.

The Road to Health

— By CLAUDIUS L. FORNEY, M. D.

ARE YOU LISTENING?

"The teacher says Bobby is feeble-minded, and he should be put in an institution," Mrs. Hayes told me with tears in her eyes.

I could not believe my ears. I had just met Mrs. Hayes, a former patient, on the street, and had asked after her six-year-old son. The family moved out of town to a farm three years ago. Since that time I had heard nothin gabout them, but I remembered Bobby as a bright and lively baby.

"Does he seem dull at home?" I asked.

"Yes, I guess he does," she said. "He doesn't seem to understand things like the other children. And he acts so contrary. It's been going on more than a year, since about the time he had scarlet fever."

That was the clue. When Mrs. Hayes brought Bobby to my office, the first thing I did was test his hearing. And there I found the answer to his dullness. His ears had been seriously harmed by his bout with scarlet fever, something that happens to many children, if the contagious diseases are not carefully cared for and the ears checked by the doctor throughout the sickness. Other childhood diseases which can harm the nerve of hearing are meningitis, mumps, measles, influenza and diphtheria.

With the help of the local society for the hard of hearing, a lip-reading teacher was found for Bobby. In addition to that he was encouraged and trained to use the hearing that was left to him. When Bobby's teacher learned what the real trouble was, she, too, found ways to help him, and before long he had caught up with his schoolmates in his class work and was again happily playing games with them. Later he may be fitted with a mechanical hearing aid.

I wish every school would have a regular program of hearing tests for children. We know that from 1 to 1½ percent of school children have some trouble with hearing. Often is it not noticed by the children themselves, by their parents or teachers. The child is simply considered stupid and nothing is done for him. And the sad fact is that, without treatment, 25 percent of these cases get worse.

All along the road of growing up our children meet dangers that may injure their ears and lead to deafness. Parents must know what these dangers are, and protect their children as far as possible. A box on the ear, loud noises, a firecracker exploding near the ear, a sharp instrument used to clean it, or a marble stuck in it—any of these may cause serious injury, and all can be avoided by a watchful parent.

In addition to contagious diseases and injuries, inflammations of the middle ear, often resulting from colds, are trouble makers. The danger signal of an earache should never be ignored. Remember, too, that a baby cannot tell you when he has an earache. Sometimes he may even have an infection without fever. The mother should watch for any unusual restlessness and fretting and pulling the ear. It is dangerous to try home remedies for any ear trouble. If a child has an earache, a boil or unusual amount of wax in the ear or has put something into his ear, a doctor should be consulted.

Remember that there is a close connection between the nose and the ear. Any infection in the nose may be forced into the ear ismply by blowing the nose improperly. Teach your child how to do it right. Teach him to sit up straight, hold a clean hankie or tissue loosely below the nose and blow gently. Swimming may also cause trouble. If a child has even a slight cold he should not swim. A child who has had an ear infection should never dive or hold the head under water.

To keep children like Bobby from having to go through life with the handicap of deafness, we must protect them against contagious diseases and colds, see that diseased tonsils and adenoids are removed and teach them to take good care of their ears. If, in spite of every precaution, a hearing defect does develop, the child must be given sympathetic help with all the aids of modern science and education, to lighten the burden.

LETTERS to THE EDITOR

Dallas, Texas,
Nov. 21, 1946.

My dear Mrs. Bass:

You will readily recall my meeting you during my recent visit in Los Angeles.

The occasion was one which I shall never forget. Rarely, if ever, have I met a personage or rather a woman so alert in the field of business and whose personality is so interesting as well as winning as yours.

For, from what I observed Los Angeles is the right place for you, and certainly you are the right woman for Los Angeles.

I would like you to know of the fight I am conducting here on the question of Negro policemen. I have written a number of essays. When I wrote and circulated my "Open Letter" more than 20 years ago I was arrested and questioned by the Dallas police authorities. Although that was my first publication, the incident merely put a keen edge on my wits and made me more courageous, more uncompromising.

As the police situation lines up here, in the event Negro policemen are employed, they will be restricted to work in the Negro districts, able to arrest only Negroes, and Negro policemen will report at a jimcrow substation under the supervision of whites.

But no Negro has written a word of protest against such internal discrimination.

I shall be glad to send you an article on the situation. I believe in the old saying, "The Pen Is Mightier Than the Sword." I certainly believe in the sword of prayer and honest work.

Very respectfully yours,

CHAS. R. GROGGS.

A READER ANSWERS MR. SMITH

Nov. 17, 1946

Dear Editor:

I read with interest the debate between Clarence Smith and Cyril Briggs in your issue of Nov. 14 on why Negroes voted for Mrs. Douglas. (The debate referred to was a letter from Mr. Smith and an answer to Mr. Smith's arguments by our managing editor.—Ed.)

As a Negro who voted for Mrs. Douglas I wish to say that Mr. Briggs expressed perfectly the reasons which led me to that decision. I would also like to inform Mr. Smith that I did my own thinking on the matter, that Dallas, Texas, I was not "misled" by any one.

Furthermore, since Mrs. Douglas and her supporters stood on her record which is well known and above board, the only misleading injected into the campaign was on the part of the Republicans who lied so outrageously about this fine woman, and those despicable Negro misleaders who tried so hard to back up the Republican campaign — and futilely, thanks to your paper

What's biting Mr. Smith? The election is over, the people have made their choice. Why are Mr. Smith and his friends so terribly upset over that choice? Can it be that the big white financiers who so "generously" backed Mr. Roberts' campaign even while they were fighting FEPC, are sore because they got so little for the money they put out in their attempt to defeat Mrs. Douglas? Can it be, too, that the Central avenue gamblers who backed the wrong horse are similarly sore?

Please accept my congratulations on the fearless fight your paper made during the campaign to combat Republican lies and keep the people informed on the real issues involved. Your paper can well be proud of its record.

AN OLD READER.

Los Angeles
Nov. 21, 1946

Mrs. Bass:

I have always been appreciative of your fine command of the English language in presenting a true picture to the reader's views of various scenes and political status quo: and have stepped back into the office this morning after having received today's issue of the EAGLE from Mrs. Adams, to say that even though I was in a hurry, I could get no further than the opposite corner because I had to read every word of your finely expressed editorial in this issue, which I wish could be read by many more of our people.

I am trying to do my bit in every way and upon every occasion possible, for my attitude is still the same that it was after reading your courteously worded but nevertheless "right to the point" editorial in regard to the Fremont High incident, which incident opened, to my view, the need of education upon the part of a large number of my own race.

Miss Mendenhale.

A LAYMAN'S VIEW

By Leon W. Steward

CONGRATULATIONS, WILFANDEL LADIES!

Wilfandels, please accept this belated expression of congratulations on the splendid work you did in presenting talented Caterina Jarboro before a near-Philharmonic auditorium-full of her own people. As one who frequents the Philharmonic just about as often as he can raise the price and who has noted, oftimes with pain, that our people do not care much for that place even when their own artists are being presented, we know that it is quite to your own efforts that so many had the extreme pleasure of witnessing this grand concert of this fine artist and entertaining actress. Congratulations!

And did not your artist thrill you with pride? How grand she looked! How well she carried herself! Did we hear her say that she has been in the music field 35 years? Well, her top tones must have been mellowed by the years, they were sweet. And her "Lavender" sales song? We have heard it thrice and each time have enjoyed it more. It puts the audience at ease, a trick we only wish many other vocal artists might learn to accomplish.

Yes, she is quite an actress, quite a singer and quite a person.

And your programs. You expressed respect for your people even in your choice of a printer. And they were given no small job under no easy conditions.

We are pleased to know who you are. Who the people are who attempted the impossible and accomplished a delightful success. It is good to know. And it is also good to know that your group is not simply a pink tea or cards-playing group, of which we have too many with so much to be done for the advancement of the group.

We have had the pleasure of meeting some of you. We are proud of this. And we had not been back in your city long before we had the pleasure of hearing your founder extolled for her good life and unusual attainments in her city by another organization of women. We are proud to have met her, Mrs. Williams, on that occasion. Our greatest desire, however, is that any representatives of younger women's groups who might have been present might also have taken courage from your splendid example. We are getting fairly tired of reading of people who have so much time for play when there is so much work to be done—even if this oportunity to continue playing is to survive.

Oh, you will not be able to turn the world over, nor will many of the other splendid women's groups among us, but we must admit all that we are able to see done by organized private groups is being done by our women. We have some mighty good men among us, but when they get into these private "closed" groups we on the outside; see little they are doing that is of value towards the solution of such problems as face us in 1946.

However, keep up the good work. Your mothers did it before you and your daughters will probably have to do it as time passes. Some day we men might get ashamed and wake up to the situations which face us. However, it has not happened yet.

This column salutes you upon your first convincing proof that Los Angeles women will soon have that plendid club which will doubtless become, as you wish it, "A MONUMENT TO NEGRO WOMANHOOD"—you are already paying the price.

The Common Defense

JUSTICE IN OUR TIMES

A 20 year old white girl was arrested the other day in New Jersey and charged with disorderly conduct for thumbing a ride. Beyond saying that her name was Susan Bower she refused to give any further information about herself and, after having been held by the police for about three weeks without benefit of legal council, she was sentenced to six months in prison.

Aroused by the extremity of this sentence citizens of New Jersey, jurists, and the press raised such a furor that the girl was granted a new hearing and subsequently released. The attorney general of New Jersey summed up the position of everyone defending Miss Bower by saying, "The rights of this girl should be protected the same as the rights of any other citizen." And the New York World-Telegram, which published at least two editorials on the case, said that taking away six months of Miss Bower's freedom was "nothing less than a disgusting and flagrant abuse of police and judicial power."

And thus it happened that an unknown girl, without friends, and presumably in a part of the country strange to her, found herself defended against the State by people of influence and power had never heard of her before and who knew little about her except that she was a human being whose freedom had been placed in jeopardy and whose rights, in their judgment, were being violated.

This is an example of American society operating true to form and at a very high level. Did the same concern for human rights obtain in all instances where they are threatened and violated we should have little reason to be concerned for the future of our country.

Unfortunately, such is not the case. Of the many instances that might be cited to prove it, none stands out more glaringly than the murder in cold blood of four Negroes by an armed mob in Georgia last July. The perpetrators of this crime against human life and freedom have not been brought to justice.

Is it because their victims were Negroes? Should that matter? They were human beings to whom life was precious, whose rights and freedom should have been precious to us all. This alone should matter. For, as the moral law of God declares, human rights belong to men as members of the human race. Human rights are not reserved for some men of a particular coolr, religion, or national origin.

To see this issue clearly, to understand that until all men in American are secure in their rights no one is secure in his own, to contend with all our strength for justice for the oppressed whoever they may be and whatever they may be, is America's high calling and responsibility. If we fail here where else, in all the world, can a haven for liberty be found?

A Precious Heritage

By JOE CRAIL
Chairman Bill of Rights Committee

We would not be staging a Bill of Rights Week in 1946 if we did not feel that the freedoms these first ten amendments to the constitution guarantee need as much protection today as they did 155 years ago when our forefathers met and ratified the historic document.

This year, starting on Monday December 9, dedicated to Freedom of Speech and Press, and ending Sunday, December 15, winding up a two-day dedication to Freedom of Worship, Bill of Rights Commemoration observances will be made more expansive than ever, thanks to public spirited citizens from all walks of life in all communities, who are pledging their support to the fullest .

Only by restudying, reaffirming and rededicating ourselves to the principles of the Bill of Rights can we once again set our nation on the path of progress towards higher standards of living and greater happiness that has marked the growth of the United States for the past century and a half.

It is the Bill of Rights which gives the right to peaceably assemble, and to trial by jury.

It is the Bill of Rights which gives the right to petition our government for redress of grievances, and the freedom of speech enjoyed in meetings and deliberations, and by the printed word.

Freedom of religious choice and thought is another warranty of the Bill of Rights.

Let's have a Bill of Rights Week observance in every section of Southern California. Every community, large or small, has leaders to direct the activities that will make every citizen appreciate the freedom under which he is now living in the greatest nation in all the world.

Trail Blazers: Jessie Coles Grayson

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

JESSIE COLES GRAYSON

You've heard the old adage, "There is an exception to the rule." We feel that we have such an exception in Jessie Coles Grayson, volunteer YWCA worker, concert singer, and actress, who can justly boast that she has achieved more than just a degree of success.

Astonishingly, her career began after marriage and motherhood. A great deal of credit must go to her husband, Garner V. Grayson, to whom she has been married for almost 40 years. With his prompting and coaching she has forged ahead practically on her own ability, for she has no agent.

Spending most of her childhood and receiving her education in Los Angeles, Jessie Coles Grayson, in the early days, worked after school on The EAGLE under J. J. Neimore, former editor and publisher. Shortly after she finished L. A. high school, she married Garner V. Grayson and became the mother of two children now married, Garner Grayson Jr., pharmacist, and Jennie D. Wagoner.

It was when they moved to Portland, Oregon, that she started her YWCA work. She was on the committee that helped to organize the Negro branch, serving as its chairman for six years and on its board for 17 years. Other positions include: president of the Oregon Assn. of Negro Women for six years; second recording secretary of the National Assn. of Negro Women under Sally Stewart and Mary McLeod Bethune for four years. In L. A., she served as YWCA board member and took over chairmanship for six years; chaired the YWCA drive for a new building, but the war halted all construction so they simply purchased and remodeled a large house on 42nd and Woodlawn.

Two of her dearest possessions received for her remarkable "Y" work are a beautiful large rhinestone pin, which was presented to her at the termination of chairmanship; and a plaque presented her in 1944 by the Zeta Phi Betas for "Finer Womanhood Week."

In Portland, where she devoted eight years to vocal study, a favorite hobby, she became a concert artist, singing in four different languages and traveling intermittently throughout the country. Regularly she was featured on the programs at the convention of the National Assn. She has always loved singing... has given a number of years to church choirs in Portland and Los Angeles.

Accompanied with vocal training was her pursuit of dramatics. Upon her return to Los Angeles about ten years ago, she joined the Hall Johnson Choir. At that time they were doing "background music" for the movies. One of these, the mixed group of 60 singers has just finished under the direction of Jester Hairston for "Duel in the Sun," soon to be released.

While singing in the Hall Johnson Choir, she was called to do a part in her first movie role in "One Dark Knight," a Negro film. She then appeared in "The Little Foxes," "Syncopation," "The Youngest Profession," "Mark Twain," "Wilson," MGM's "25th Anniversary" short, "Tomorrow Is Forever," and the recently finished "Ballerina." Of these her best role was in "The Little Foxes," working during the entire shooting of the picture.

Her latest exploit has been the legitimate stage. Last year at a small Hollywood theatre she was called to do a part in "Ladies Room"... the only Negro in the cast, she played the part of the mother of a girl passing for white.

Last December she received a telegram to do a very fine part in a fine play, a most exciting experience which proved to be her greatest triumph. She left for New York to take the part of "Bella," mother of a returned veteran, in the road show production of "Deep Are the Roots," composed of a mixed cast of 11 people.

Never before, to my knowledge, have Negroes had more wonderful parts, except Paul Robeson's role in "Othello"; and all the members of the cast were happy to bring this powerful message to the people. Its authors, Jimmy Gow and Arnaud D'Usseau, went to the South and studied Negro life to make their play as authentic as possible.

In the East, where the critics are the toughest, anyone would feel proud over press articles that read: "Jessie Grayson as Bella Charles, the lieutenant's mother, is given one of the best roles in the play and handles it admirably." And "Jessie Grayson is an impressive Bella."

But Jessie Grayson feels that "a great deal of these racial and other social problems will be solved by the youth." In different cities where they were invited to appear before groups, it was the youth organizations that were "coming together as human beings on equal footing."

There are many adult organizations doing a fine job, too; but the youth look to their leadership for guidance. And you, Jessie Grayson—civic leader first; concert, stage and screen star next—will go on record as making a noteworthy contribution for which we are very proud.

Case History of An Anti-FEP Outfit

By STANLEY DARIEN

The following account of employment experiences at Bardwell & McAlister (B & M) is urgent testimony for a continued, stronger fight for a state FEPC. While most of the opposition arguments against Proposition 11 were based on deliberate misrepresentation, many of them are as popular as they are false. Particularly the notion that struggle against discrimination exaggerates and aggravates it, and that discrimination cannot be diminished by legislation but only by many, many years of social education.

An examination of discriminatory practices (such as at B & M), not only refutes the abovementioned fallacy, but reveals that discrimination is only part of a pattern of unfair business practices.

1. Discrimination: In June, 1946, the USES office sent me to B & M twice. The first time, I was told that the job was filled although I was the first to apply. The second time, a few days later, the B & M personnel office sent me to the foreman of plant 1, Frank Focht, who told me, "I'm sorry but you're just a little bit late. This job was just taken."

When I complained of anti-Semitism to the USES, they stalled and tried to convince me that I was just being sensitive. But upon my insistence they "investigated" and reported back to me that "it was all a mistake—the personnel office was not informed of a parts shortage cancelling the job."

eBfore I could nail the lie between the "parts shortage" and the foreman's "story" that the job was taken, the USES interviewer was frantically looking up another job for me. Because it was obviously futile to get satisfaction from the USES, I resorted to another method of fighting this symptom of economic fascism.

First, I told a friend about the situation, and he went to work for B & M. Not knowing that he was Jewish, he was not only hired but given the G. L. K. Smith propaganda works by three men: Frank Focht, foreman; Frank Kramer, department lead man; and Hector Boulanger, a long-time worker in the company. On his third day, Kramer approached him, "You know what you were fighting for, doncha?" "No, what?" my friend led him on. "You were fighting for the Jews. While you were out there fighting, the Jews were all back here making money," Kramer informed him.

In a discussion of current news, Kramer tolder the workers, "We ought to take a few of them eggs (atom bombs) and drop 'em on the Russians now while we've got a chance." And on another occasion Kramer shouted, "We ought to ship all the Jews back to Palestine and then goddam niggers to Africa, and then maybe we'd have a country for a white man." Kramer was permitted to violate the 30-day union waiting period by working several months before joining the union.

Hector was continually spouting violent racism: "We should have let Hitler come here and clean up the mockeys and the niggers. Kill all these Jew bastards," and he labeled all corrupt profiteers (such as Anaconda) "Jew outfit."

But the worst propagandist for reaction is the foreman, Frank Focht, who not only preaches, but practices what he believes. He circulated endless "jokes" about minorities, emphasizing inferiority for the Negro and a mercenary and unclean character for the Jew. At the time of the Klan outbreaks in Los Angeles, Focht explained, "Too many niggers becoming thick as flies out here and moving out of their place into white neighborhoods."

One of the workers suspected Focht of being a KKK member and placed a news clipping with photos of the KKK on his desk. When Focht picked it up, someone asked, "How about that, Frank?" and Focht flushed, got embarrassed, stammered, "Yeh, gettin' tough now," and nervously wrinkled and threw the clipping in the basket.

On the OPA, Focht argued both ends: "Goddam money-mad Jews are trying to make big profits," but, "We'd be better off without any price controls." Housing and food shortages he attributed to "These goddam dirty Jews who are ruining this country."

At the time I was hired, Focht was about to leave on his vacation so he instructed Kramer: "That Jew that came here a couple of times for work was in here again today to see Rose (superintendent and one of the owners) and I think that they might put him in our department. I don't want him in here, and if he does come up here you put him over in a corner by himself. Give him the toughest job you got here and don't let him get near anyone else. Try to get him sore so he'll want to quit. If he doesn't quit, get him to talk back and then can him for insubordination."

While the personnel department of B & M may not operate with the same viciousness that Focht does, they cooperate with him in these matters. One of the interviewers, a Mr. Biggs, was a fair man and had many conflicts with Focht on hiring policy for which he (Biggs) was dismissed. And when they hired me they placed me in plant 3 although the opening originally was in plant 1, Focht's department.

When Focht returned from his vacation, Hector began Jew-baiting my friend: "Say, are you a mockey?" "What's a mockey?" my friend asked. Focht joined Hector in replying, "Jew bastard," said Hector—"Jewish gentleman," joked Focht. When it became known that my friend was Jewish there followed a series of race discussions in which Hector resorted to obscenity and Focht presented a consistent line: He cited clanderous "personal experiences" with Mexicans and Jews to prove the inheritance of racial traits and gave examples of "Horatio Alger" individuals to discount the role of environment. After a persistent flow of vulgar race-baiting from Hector and claims of racial superiority and "pure blood" from Focht, my friend quit.

Meantime, shortly after my friend had been hired, I called B & M a few times regarding employment and on July 26 was told that there was an opening. I hurried over and was greeted pleasantly — until I identified myself. There followed a "conference" in Personnel Director R. B. Sullivan's office. An hour later the interviewer emerged and made a last attempt to discourage me: "It's just production work and it only pays 95 cents an hour." But I rubbed it in by displaying more enthusiasm. This time the superintendent, Mr. Rose (who is also one of the owners), at plant 1, gave me the final once over. He went through the motions of trying to place me right away but it seems there was "an unexpected delay in a parts shipment" and I was told to come back in a few days. I did, and on July 30, after embarrassing them into hiring me, I started work for B & M.

2. Relations with the union: B & M have four plants, Nos. 1 and 2 at 7636 Santa Monica blvd., No. 3 at 1117 N. McCadden pl., and No. 4 at 911 N. Orange dr., all except No. 3 having a contract with Local 1185, I.A.M. Plant No. 3 is exempted by the contract as supposedly a "Radar Experimental Shop." A few years ago plant No. 3 did work related to radar, but it was now turning out studio cables and switchboards on a production basis as well as renting out studio equipment. When I contacted the union about plant No. 3, they were "surprised" to learn of this situation and promised to "look into it." Because the average wage scale for studio work done outside is about half of studio scale, this "arrangement" with the I.A.M. is of mutual convenience to both B & M and the studios.

To remedy this situation, the CSU has on tap a program for the reorganization into studio unions of companies doing studio work (such as B & M), so that there will be no wage differential for the same work done outside the studios.

3. Group Insurance. While B & M is very discriminatory in their hiring, they are very indiscriminate in working a neat "group insurance plan for employes." This "plan" is presented to every new workers for voluntary acceptance. There is no room here for an analysis of all its catches, but the following factors contradict the opening statement by Mr. Bardwell in the insurance pamphlet recommending it "as an evidence of our interest in the welfare of our employes . . ."

A. All the policies, except life insurance, terminate "upon termination of employment." While the percentage of workers taken in by the "plan" is unknown, the high rate of turnover at B & M guarantees considerable mutual income to B & M and the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

B. The introduction also emphasizes the low cost. But the various limitations, in addition to loss of insurance upon termination of employment, render the weekly "contributions" a high rate for group insurance.

The company also operates a "Bar-Mac Employes Federal Credit Union"—strictly in the interests of their employes' welfare, of course.

4. Relations with the Studios. Because many of the representatives from the studios are Jewish, B & M is anxious to conceal its anti-Semitism, so to put up a good front they occasionally hire a Jewish accountant and office girl.

As the saying goes, "you can fool some of the people . . ." and while B & M may have the studios buffaloed as to their conduct and character, there are some workers who have their number and know what to do about it!

Work for a state and federal FEPC, and democratic, strong trade unionism!

Colonial Leaders Invoke U N Charter

By SEN. H. M. BASNER
By H. A. NAIDOO
By H. A. NAIDOO
(Leader of the Natal Indian Congress)

The United Nations is confronted with two questions affecting South Africa. One is India's complaint regarding the treatment of South African Indians and the other is South Africa's demand for the incorporation of the mandated territory of South West Africa.

It is well that these two questions should be raised in an international assembly, for it is time that South Africa took heed of world opinion.

The lessons of the second word war have shown beyond any doubt whatsoever, that the practice of racialism constitutes a grave danger to the future security and peace of the world. South Africa has the unenviable reputation of being perhaps the only country in the world where state legislation has been directed towards retaining the domination of one race over all others.

Ever since the conquest of South Africa first by the Dutch and later by the British, the policy of no equality both in the church and state has become the guiding policy of successive governments. Discrimination against Africans has been justified on the grounds of trusteeship; against the Indians on the grounds that they are an alien race and as such, constitute a menace to western civilization; against the colored (mulattos—editor) on the grounds that they are God's step-children and therefore incapable of being assimilated in the political life of South Africa.

That this policy should be justified in the nuame of Christian civilization is at once an indication of the degradingly low level to which statesmanship has sunk in South Africa.

But General Smuts and his government are already aware that this policy cannot be continued indefinitely. They are already being challenged by the growing might of the non-European peoples. The recent armed attack against African miners, as a result of which many were brutally put to death, the arrest and imprisonment of over 1300 Indian men and women for no other reason but that they dared to challenge the segregationist policy of Smuts; the attack against trade unions, the Indian Congress and other organizations—these are all indications of the fear and utter hopelessness of the Smuts government.

Only last week, while Smuts sat in the United Nations Assembly pleading the case of South Africa, his government arrested one of our young Indian leaders, J. N. Singh, for no other reason but that he was residing in a prohibited area. The arrest was carried out under the Immigration Act of 1913, in terms of which Indians are prevented from moving from one province into another. Singh is a young law student who had gone to the Transvaal from Natal in order to complete his studies. But with the opening of the Passive Resistance compaign, Singh gave up his studies temporarily to take on the secretaryship of the Transvaal Passive Resistance Council.

I give the story of this particular case as being symbolic hope which moves the entire non-European people today. Hundreds of young men and of the new enthusiasm and women like Singh have given up their homes and normal life in order to demonstrate their total opposition to the color bar policy of the Union government. We shall not rest breaking down the many barriers which at present condemn us to a life of degeneracy and humiliation.

We are glad to know that in this struggle of ours we have the backing of progressive opinion throughout the world. It is time that the tiny white population of two and one-half millions in South Africa took note of the colossal changes that are taking place not only in South Africa but in almost every colonial country. This rising tide of struggle among the non-Europeans backed by the great national movements of the East, must be viewed in the light of the declarations of the United Nations Charter. The age of white domination is over. It is to be hoped therefore that General Smuts and his government would abandon their stupid policy of persecution against the non-Europeans and thereby help South Africa to play its rightful role in the United Nations.

In his desire to prove that South Africa is worthy of annexing a huge slice of the continent of Africa with the approval of the United Nations, Field Marshall Smuts is not only prepared to argue that South Africa is a democratic country but that there is no such thing as a Brilish Empire.

For his first thesis he relies on the colossal ignorance which exists in the outside world, and particularly the U.S.A. about the real conditions in South Africa. For his second thesis he relies on the shortness of men's memories and on the magic of words to change the smell of roses by calling them other names. The British Empire for millions of black, brown and yellow men smells exactly as it ever did. In Greece and Palestine, many white people can show on their backs, today, living proof that imperialism functions as well as it ever did.

The San Francisco charter absolutely precludes the possibility of South West Africa being handed over to a country whose political, social and economic structure prevents four-fifths of its total population from attaining any sort of democracy, any sort of decent standard of living, and any approximation to proper civilization. It is enough to point out that by annexation the native population of South West Africa will immediately fall under the general body of laws which operate for the natives of the Union of South Africa, and that the constitution of the Union is entirely at variance with all the important sections of the San Francisco charter.

But there are even greater considerations at stake in Smuts' proposal than the fate of the 350,000 Negroes in South West Africa. There is no possibility of world peace unless a harmony is effected between the white and colored races of the world on the basis of racial equality. Now that the great Asiatic nations, India and China are moving towards freedom and towards power, the whites must, to stave off global racial conflict, make instant amends for the centuries of imperial oppression. This can only be done by a courageous acknowledgement of the real facts and a bold change in policy.

Any support for the Smuts proposal will show the non-whites that there is no change of heart and no real intention to carry out the principles of racial equality. That will damage the cause of world peace and tend to hasten the trend towards the universal anarchy and lawlessness which existed in the days of the League of Nations.

It is no accident that South Africa figures so prominently on this session's agenda of U.N.O. Its indictment by India for its treatment of South African Indians is a symptom that the colored nations will not tolerate racial discrimination with the same patience as in the past. Its claim to an extension of power over more subject races is a mymptom of the contempt with which some of the founders of the San Francisco charter are prepared to treat the charter.

Field Marshall Smuts is one of the world's elder statesman. He proves that the two world wars have taught them very lite, and that the loss of some teeth does not in any way take off hte edge of their appetities for more privileges even at the risk of world peace.

The Natives in South Africa are carefully watching developments here at U.N. to know whether they can hope for any redress of their lot through the functioning of the world organization. Hundreds of millions of colored peoples the world over are doing the same. That is why thhe South West Africa question is of paramount importance.

I congratulate the Council on African Affairs in its work in acquainting the United States with the real facts and the real issues on the African continent.

AUTO INSURANCE COMPANY GETS OFF TO A RAPID START

Chatting at the large mass meeting officially opening the $450,000 sales campaign are: Clarence O. English, vice-president, Carver Life Insurance Company; Willie Graham, auto dealer; William Rex Freeman, major U. S. Army, USC law student and one of the speakers of the evening; Miss Chirlaine J. Dupree, one of the sales staff; Rice Singleton, stock salesman; and G. Rex Lee, manager of stock sales and master of ceremony.

One of the first to buy stock is: Joseph W. Rideau, owner of a filling station; being sold block of stock by Mrs. Helen Johnson; William Hill, another of the sales force.

Addressing the large crowd relative to the necessity of obtaining shares in the new auto company is Attorney Martha Malone Williams, Los Angeles' only colored woman attorney. In the background is Sunny Marquee's Rockettes which furnished the music for the evening. The soloist is Priscilla Royster, former singer with Fletcher Henderson and Benny Carter.

Another of the many supporters of the new company is Carl L. Jones, of the Delta Rhythm Boys, and his wife.

John Watson, local businessman, with Miss Ruby Braxton, member of the sales force, and Wendell E. Larson, president of the new company. Watson and Larson have been close friends since they attended the 9th Street Grammar School some 44 years ago. All three are native Californians.

Other officials and staff, not pictured, are: Forrest H. McCoo, Jr., vice-president and secretary; Clarence E. Phelps, Jr., sales force; David R. Crawford, treasurer.

An overflow crowd of well wishers and prospective stockholders of the LOYAL AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE CO. attended a large public meeting at the Alpha Bowling Social Club Auditorium Thursday night, which opened the official stock campaign of the Negro Auto Insurance Company.

The group was addressed by Major William Rex Freeman and Attorney Martha Malone Williams, Los Angeles' only Negro woman lawyer, both of whom praised the aggressiveness of the company officials in their fight to get automobile insurance protection for minority groups. It was pointed out that it was the duty of every member of the community, especially every automobile owner, to become a financial supporter of the company, because without adequate automobile coverage, each driver becomes an increasingly greater risk and hazard subjecting himself to law suits and other legal restraints in the event of accidents.

Clarence O. English, vice-president of the newly organized Carver Life Insurance Company, pointed out that California had long been a pioneer in the field of life insurance and now should lead the nation in the automobile insurance field. Wendell E. Larson, president of the company, told of some of the long range aims of the company once the initial $450,000 of shares are subscribed. They include not only complete automobile insurance coverage, but complete insurance coverage of every nature, except life and health.

This first Negro automobile insurance company is an outgrowth of the wholesale cancellation of policies of Negro and other minorities by companies throughout the nation three years ago. The LOYAL AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE CO. is offering 150,000 shares at $3.00 per share and in the event the full $450,000 is not fully subscribed within a fixed time limit, subscribers will receive the full sum paid in.

Following the meeting the Los Angeles sales staff of 60 was mobbed by many clients who purchased blocks of shares. Included among the first purchasers are: Attorney Walter L. Gordon, Jr.; Attorney Crispus A. Wright; Attorney Martha Malone Williams; Joseph W. Rideau; Pintis J. Johnson, Sr., building contractor, and Gilliard L. Cooper.

G. Rex Lee, sales manager and master of ceremonies for the meeting, pointed out that the sales force in the Greater Los Angeles area, San Diego, San Bernardino area, and the Bay Area had already commenced turning in good production reports.

Incorporated in November 1945, the LOYAL AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE CO. has offices at 4421 Avalon Blvd., phone CE. 2-4246. Officers and directors include: Wendell E. Larson, president, active in the general insurance and real estate brokerage business here for many years; Forrest A. McCoo, Jr., vice-president and secretary, former sales director of the Metropolitan Motorist Assn. of Chicago; and real estate salesman and insurance solicitor; David R. Crawford, treasurer, real estate salesman and insurance solicitor; Albert T. Patrick, owner and operator of a dental and x-ray laboratory here; and Prince L. Kennedy, former president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers in Chicago, and operator of a electrical contracting establishment here. The three advisers, Mr. Harry Perk, Jr., Mr. George Neal, and Mr. Joseph L. Lippe, who are to guide the company in its preliminary work, are leading authorities in automobile insurance.

KAPPAS ANNUAL BLACK AND WHITE BALL

THE KAPPAS WERE HOSTS, and the spirit was high at the annual Black and White Ball, staged Monday night at the Avadon Ball Room. EAGLE photographer, Vera Jackson, caught these scenes at different intervals of the ball. ON THE SIDE LINES (at right) Vance Jones, Kappa, Odessa James, Marcella Monroe, Marion Jackson, Joe Jenkins, Edwin Sneed, Jackie Dickerson, Becky Brown and William Farrington, watch the birdie. KAPPA SWEETHEART, Catherine Schaffer, looks on with interest as Bill Elkins, Polemark of the chapter, adjusts the Kappa Ribbon, photo on far right. STYLISH CHATTER goes on between Anita Williams, Marion Jackson, Mildred Blount, wearing her lace hat creation, and EAGLE Society Editor, J.M.B., back to camera. IN CENTER PHOTO, Kappa Sweetheart, Catherine Randolph at left, Odessa James and Maxine Clark, say "Cheese," for the perfect picture. The group on the right includes, left to right, Norman Houston, Anna Price, Jessie Mae Brown, Arthur and Elinore Toppsil, Tennyson Parker, Deloris and Horace Clark and Wini Allen. WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

AVADON BALLROOM made a fabulous setting for Kappa Alpha Psi's Annual Black and White formal. A capacity of 3000 guests were in attendance, and a bit of the "Old Kappa Spirit" held sway throughout the hours of 8 p.m. until 2 a.m. The change from the Elks Ballroom, and the wee hour time, that made the affair so unique in years past, had little bearing on the fast moving pace set by the new Black and White minus the dawn.

Jessie Mae Brown

The scene created on the corner of Ninth and Spring in the heart of downtown Los Angeles, was one of fine cars from which alighted lovely ladies garbed in the latest creations, escorted by handsome gentlemen in strictly formal attire, top hats and all. A large number of them, making the popular late entrance, following the many pre-parties. The Kenners, Maethilde, Bert and Ruth, had friends in for cocktails at their Ninth avenue residence, Maethilde very glamorous in black velvet, while Ruth was lovely in white. Bobby and Flora Boswell entertained with a little pre-fling, as did newlyweds Bobby and Harry Davis.

KAPPA SWEETHEART

Highlighting all of the before parties was the Upsilon Chapter's. For 'tis during this affair that the lovely Catherine Randolph Schaffer was chosen "Kappa Sweetheart" by a committee connected in no way with the frat. The Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority member, who is a recent bride of Ted Schaffer, Kappa man, was taken by surprise when Atty. Martha Malone Williams, Benny Carter, J. Cullen Fentress and Leon Washington voted her the fairest of them all. The Kappa Sweetheart was presented during a brief interval at the dance. She wore a gown of black taffeta and received the Kappa Ribbon from William Elkins, Polemark of the chapter and Vance Jones.

Too bad the guests didn't catch a glimpse of the six attendants, for so lovely were they, it was rather hard for the judges to make a decision. Took note of Deloris Bell, who represented the Phidelphian club. Her gown was an exquisite creation of white taffeta, featuring a solid gold sequin waist and a low neckline with dropped sleeves. Paulette Dejoie, Crop 'n' Tail representative, wore white with bouffant skirt and high neckline. Odessa James from the UCLA group of AKA sorority, was definitely an eyeful, in flowing white organza with a gold paneled midriff and a coiffure that glistened with gold sequins. Maxine Clark, vivacious Delta Sigma Theta representative, wore a gown cleverly designed in black and white. Missed out on the Zeta representative, and the glamour girl of the UCLA Carver club.

Much chatter is going on about the fairness of the judges' decision. Hold in mind, this marked the first effort on the part of the fraternity to choose a sweetheart. Next year the whole process of choosing a sweetheart will more than likely run more smoothly, leaving John Public with little or no question mark. The Kappa Sweetheart adds something to the ball, and is a grand tradition to carry on in years to come.

THE DANCE PROPER

Throughout the whole of the affair, the photographers, including the EAGLE'S Vera Jackson, were kept very busy getting shots of the lovely ladies. As in the past, the beautiful gowns added much glamour to the scene, white was the predominant color this year and the strapless gown was definitely in evidence. Took special note of L'Tanya Griffin as she danced across the smooth floor with her better half. The creation was of "French lame" with white satin drape effect. The sight of Mamie Anderson, as she entered in a white gown trimmed with ostrich plumes, topped by a lynx fur coat, was simply breathtaking. Carrie Hunter's gown was a sophisticated creation with long sleeves in white, while Lula Bendy wore severe black with long slit up pencil slim skirt to the knee. Dorothy Towles wore a Spanish type white lace gown and her long black hair was brushed to the side in the current style. Emma Manuel, just back from Chicago, wore black velvet, with brilliants in her hair. Sadie Louise Davidson topped her white satin gown with a full length black sequin coat, while Virgil Johnson was simply stunning with her honey colored hair styled as only Eadward can style it. Fannie DeMan chose black velvet, spangled with silver sequin leaves, and Myrtle Cunningham topped her black skirt with a smart white blouse.

Chatted for a second or two with Rip and sis Russell, popular Kappa couple, who were taking time out along the sidelines with Helen and Lowell Steward, another popular Kappa couple. Blanche Groggs, gay divorcee, was among those present. Atty. Cris Wright, another Kappa, and his better half joined in the spirit of the evening, as did Bill Ferrington, back in civvies; Tennyson Parker, who knows many a celeb.; Em Chapman, and Haroldine Browning and a host of others. When the gay affair reached the climax at 2 a.m. many a well-dressed, weary soul found his way to breakfast and then to work, minus the shuteye. The Kappas may take another bow, for I'm sure a grand time was had by all.

SIDE LINE

Noticed the beautiful ring that Benny Carter gave Atty. Martha Williams at a surprise birthday party last Saturday night. Martha only smiled when I asked for a little comment, so . . . Ruth Mars wore a creation that she bought in Chicago while vacationing there a few weeks back. What a creation! By the way, she was hostess to Iotha Phi Lambda sorority last Saturday. Eadward Deason could hardly enjoy dancing for admiring his work of art. Each patron's headdress glittered with sequins. His date for the evening was none other than lovely "Sweets" Smock of Crown City . . . Speaking of the Crown City, Jessie Mae Arnold and Robert Johnson will exchange vows at Friendship Baptist Church on the 28th . . . Dr. and Mrs. Walter W. Davis make a perfect host and hostess. Had a grand time at their party last Saturday night . . . On making deadline, we hope that you will find this second peacetime Thanksgiving a bountiful one.

'Til next week.

DR. AND MRS. WALTER W. DAVIS FETE VISITING DR. AND WIFE WITH ELABORATE COCKTAIL PARTY

The distinguished Dr. and Mrs. Walter William Davis entertained with an elaborate cocktail party honoring Dr. and Mrs. Fitzroy E. Younge of Oakland, California on Saturday evening, November 23, at their palatial South Arlington Avenue Home.

The charming hostess received in a stunning black velveteen cocktail dress, featuring a low neckline. Her hair was coiffed in a Gretian manner, complimented by a red feathered ornament. Mrs. Fitzroy Younge was outstanding in a black cocktail dress accentuating a jacket of scintillating blue sequins. The guest list included more than 150 friends who enjoyed dancing to the music of the "Buddy Harper Trio", throughout the evening. Cocktails were enjoyed, and tasty ordurves, prepared by the Tad Roundtrees and Mrs. E. Gilmore, were plentiful. Highlight of the appointment table was a silver platter bearing a football made of goodies with the SC-UCLA score on either side.

Among those greeting the Fitzroy Younges were: Dr. and Mmes. Wall Forde, John Coleman, Werner Wright, M. C. Cooley, P. Taylor, Hays, Dr. Lois Evans, C. W. Hill, W. E. Bailey, Atty. and Mrs. Leonard Richardson, accompanied by sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brittons, of Berkeley; the George Beavers, Norman Houstons, Allen Woodards, Mrs. De Lands, of Houston, Texas; Jessie Mae Brown and LeRoy Beavers Jr., Mmes. Ann Gordon, Camiel Cannedy, Hortense Allweine and a host of others.

Dr. and Mrs. Fitzroy E. Younge were guests of the Walter Davises for five days. While in the city they attended the SC-UCLA football game, the Kappa Black and White Formal, given by Dr. Younge's local fraternity brothers, and were the recipients of many social courtesies. Dr. Younge and Dr. Davis, both surgeons, completed studies at Me-Harry Med school together, becoming life long friends.

Assisting Mrs. Davis with the lovely affair was her mother, Mrs. L. N. Tatum. The affair lasted until the wee hours.

Emergency Child Welfare Is Rendered by District PTAs

"Yes," agrees Mrs. Joseph S. Hook, president of Tenth District PTA, "even during the past year, when the welfare load has been considered 'light,' numbers of children in 95 of the schools within the Los Angeles city school district, have received PTA aid. Clothing, milk, school lunches, and books of transportation tickets have been given, so that children might attend school regularly. We believe, from reports that are coming in to us from our local PTA units, that many more cases will be brought to our attention this year. And, of course, our health aid, too, to children is a very vital form of child welfare; it just goes on and on—an enormous undertaking, yet a most satisfying one."

The welfare service rendered by Tenth District PTA is definitely "emergency child welfare" —milk, food, and clothing for children, as needed to tide over emergency situations. True, there are some instances where the "emergency" seems to be of very long "duration"—but naturally! What are children to do if their mother has died and their father, though ill, is trying to serve as both parents in one? What are the many children in a very large family to thrive and grow sturdy upon if "dad" makes only a modest wage?

Consider the four children whose mother has, as she says "a hard time," or the little fellow whose male parent is an alcoholic, whose mother's whereabouts are unknown, and who is living "any old way" and in tatters, with a neighbor who is desperately poor herself.

Pride is never hurt by names being made public, yet every case has a "story" in it, a story to tug at the heartstrings and bring a lump to the throat.

Then there is the health aid that is given through the Tenth District Parent-Teacher Health Center. Old Yale Street Clinic has for years seen a constant trouping through it—sometimes all too listlessly at first—of heart cases, of children who have too many colds, of youngsters requiring glasses, others needing tonsils removed, or weight built up, of nerves untangled, or bones straightened out, or—oh, every kind of ailing youngster seems to benefit from a series of trips through "Yale."

Audiometers test hearing. X-rays search out the dread "T.B.," cod liver oil by the ton—actually —puts the sunshine vitamins into little bodies and the roses into little cheeks.

How can you, and I, and all of us help in this program of mercy? By having a good time on the afternoon of Saturday, December 7, at the PTA MILK BOWL FOOTBALL GAME AND CARNIVAL—in the Coliseum. Tickets are to be in the hands of all unit PTA presidents—on elementary, junior high, and senior high levels, and are also to be available at junior and senior high schools.

Fill the "Bowl" to over-flowing—
Milk's the thing to keep kids growing!

Will you be there?

Atty. Augustus G. Parker Speaks to Southeastern Province Kappa Alpha Psi

Tallahassee Alumni chapter and Alpha Psi chapter were host to the Southeastern Provincial meeting of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity recently.

The 13-year-old undergraduate chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi and the 5 months old alumni chapter were host to the regional conclave in a beautiful setting supplied by the Florida A. and M. college.

The Grand Polemarch of Kappa, Atty. Agustus G. Parker of Cleveland, Ohio, flew in for the occasion. In addressing a special assembly at the college, Attorney Parker challenged the student group and Greekdom assembled, to use the opportunities provided at the college for the enhancement of collegiate and post-collegiate growth.

Dr. William H. Gray, president of the college, in a stirring welcome to the chapters of the province represented, complimented the host chapters on the wisdom of adding this type of cultural advancement to the life of the campus. In elevating the strata of cultural and educational activities of the college, the sum total of benefits rests with those who propose to fully adjust themselves to this level of culture.

All Greekdom hailed the meeting as exemplary. Alpha Kappa Alpha entertained at breakfast; Zeta Phi Beta with an evening soiree; Delta Sigma Theta presented Kappa's honoree with a token of esteem. The campus buzzed with acclaim. Kappa came through once again with a first, the first provincial meeting at the Florida A. and M. college. Provincial Polemarch W. Dickerson Donnelly sparked the occasion in a response to Greekdom's welcome. Representatives of Jacksonville Alumni chapter made initial gestures for the entertainment of the 1948 national conclave in Florida.

TO THE READERS: For the sake of variety as we alternate in writing this column, Barbara Durham and myself have decided to write letters to each other. We do this all in fun and ask you to accept it with a grain of salt.

—Ples Griffin

Dear Barbara:

Triad exams are finally over. Now, this week I guess we will hear from the people at PJC, who for two triads have had a good time every night instead of studying, say, "Miss so-and-so failed because she doesn't like me." I guess that that is to be expected toward the end of the second triad. T (for triads) seems to have given you the sniffles. I hope that you are feeling better.

By the by, I think that I have found a name more phenomenal than Kilroy. Have you heard of anyone by the name of Barb Williams?

During exam week I was unable to make many of the social events. I understand that the PCAC held a dance last Thursday in the Exhibition Hall in the Civic. Pete Collins and a 20-piece orchestra furnished the music. Tell me Barbara, doesn't the Exhibition Hall accommodate more than 150 people?

Do you remember last year when the YMPL gave that pre-Thanksgiving dance in the Civic's Gold Room? It was at this same dance that they had the winners of the popularity contest. Mrs. Jane Wade was crowned queen of Pasadena representing the Club Ideal. The Gal Charmettes were voted the second most popular club of the Crown City. Anyway, the YMPL is giving another one this year, in fact, it is tonight from 9 till 1. I think I'll run down there just to see which club is the most popular, and then too, with the music of Eddie Martin and combo, I might even try dancing a bit. Who knows?

Weren't you glad to see the UCLA Bruins out-mud the Trojans of Southern California? I was talking to James White about it Sunday. He had a hard time carrying on a conversation because his heart hadn't quite worked its way back to its proper place.

With Caltech as the center of scientific discovery and the pressing need of science knowing every Protista on which life, itself, is balanced, I think that it is quite note-worthy that while majoring in dentistry, Alva Neblett has discovered a new Phylum of Protoza, a strange specimen which she has named Malieukucyte. Miss Neblett who is deeply interested in her subject is devoting the majority of her time and energy to understanding the peculiarities of its behavior traits. You know, I wouldn't be a bit surprised if, with her interest, in years to come, some new zygotes were derived. Could be . .

Guess What? The. Burkard and Cole Nursery had to erect a new fence post on the corner of Cypress and Orange Grove ave. as a memorial to its first LEARN TO DRIVE safely campaign. The following is inscribed on the post:

"When an artist takes upon the gaiety of a play-boy and the responsibility of a chauffeur, conflict ensues."

Well, Barbara, it's Thanksgiving time again. Once again I stop and think of some of the many things that I have to be thankful. A home, a family, the friends with whom I associate daily; yes, for all of these things I am thankful. But it seems to me that there should be something more; something bigger. Wait! Someone said, the American Way of Life. What is the American Way of Life- Is it going off to war and winning a variety of decorations and coming home to have your eyes gouged out by the butt of a policeman's billy? Or is it searching for a home for your family, and everywhere you turn you find a restrictive covenant greeting you? You know Barbara, I cannot be thankful for the American Way of Life if this is all it has to offer. I cannot help feeling bitterly hurt when American diplomats offter the American democracy as a source of world peace. I shudder at the thought of what the people of the world would have to go through living under democratic regimes in the Southern part of the United States.

Yes, I even feel a little twinge of pain when I get to the part of the flag salute"—with liberty and justice for all." It's things like this that makes you want to fight, and it's the method of fighting for which we should be thankful. So few of us realize the value of the NAACP until we are abused and then it strikes us, but hard. Yeh, Barbara, this is something! This is something for which to be thankful.

Yours sincerely,
Ples

P.S. I have just received a report that the stork was forced to make an emergency landing in the Sierra Nevada Mountains but can be expected to arrive in Pasadena any day now.

The Charm of You

By NATALIE T. SCURLOCK

Thanksgiving is upon us which means, among other things, that Christmas can not be far behind. And with the reminder of coming holiday festivities comes the thought of winter and cold weather.

Naturally, thoughts of the blustering old north wind bring to mind the necessity of keeping warm which in turn raises the subject of a coat. Ah ha! At last the crucial point of discussion has been reached. (This is the round-about-way of doing it, you know.)

What kind of coat should you buy? Madam, that's strictly up to you. Whether you choose a fur coat, a fur-trimmed coat or a cloth coat, do give heed to hubby's (or your own) bank account, suitability, warmth and durability.

Furs today have infinite variety and style in the inexpensive-to-moderate price group as well as the very expensive group. They are dyed, bleached, sheared and generally glamorized until they have little or no resemblance to the animal on which they grew.

Let's scan the attributes of various types of furs so that you may have some idea of what is best suited to your needs. Kidskin—young-looking, lightweight fur from the young goat. Most desired skins come from China in natural gray, back for the first time in five years; also from India, Arabia and Africa, dyed khimmer gray (gray with white tips), or black. It has a tendency to shed. Recommended for occasional wear and climates that don't hit the freezing point.

Fox—A long-haired fur; silver fox most popular. Skip it if you're short, plump or junior. It wears moderately well and is fairly warm. Marmot — Short-haired peltries from China and Siberia, dyed and striped to simulate mink. Wears fairly well. Squirrel—A fur that has held its own in popularity; is also dyed to resemble mink and sable. Moderately warm and fairly good for serviceability.

Muskrat — Dyed brown, blended and worked to resemble mink or sable also bleached and dyed gray or beige Skin-on skin coats (skins sewn together in their original width and length) are less expensive than let-out furs (peltries cut and sewn to make them longer and narrower than original skins). Flanks or bellies are sometimes cut separately and dyed a silver blue shade —a growing favorite after its debut last year. Muskrat is high in warmth and wearability.

South American Spotted Cat—Sometimes called leopard-spotted cat. These Brazilian animals make lovely sport coats but are not too warm and have a tendency to shed. Skunk—Long on warmth and wearability, but short in the popularity poll. A long-haired fur that makes up beautifully in jackets and capes; bleached and dyed to simulate stone marten. Some are dyed solid black and known as "dyed skunk."

Raccoon—This year's crop is a far cry from the styles of the '20s. Sheared and dyed to resemble beaver, they are beautiful. In natural state, raccoon has silvery sides with bands of black guard hairs in center. High on wearability and warmth. Pony—Flat moire fur. Best skins now come from Argentina. Young-looking, grand for sports and fairly warm.

Lamb—Probably more fur coats are made from this animal than from any other. Indian Lamb—Flat curly fur dyed krimmer gray, brown, black and, new this fall, beige or honey. Has a tendency to shed and won't keep you too warm. Best for occasional wear. South American Lamb—Fur with little curly locks; dyed gray with light sides and dark center stripes. Fair for warmth and serviceability.

Mouton — Processed lamb and a pet of a fur in the inexpensive range, sheared to resemble beaver; processed for water repellency. A coat for the young and high on warmth and wearability. Persian Lamb — The best have lustrous, tight curls. Cheaper coats have loose curls but better ones come high. Good on warmth. Persian Paw — Made from paws of Persian lambs; black and natural gray. Good on warmth, also.

Fur-trimmed coats are showing a new trend toward elegance. No longer relegated to "second best," the fur-trimmed coat plays a new role—a leading role—for dressy afternoons and big evenings. Jet and braid embroidery are also being used to "dress up" the cloth coat.

And, of course, there is the old stand by, untrimmed cloth coat that adjusts easily to more formal occasions by the addition of a fur scarf, or muff, or what-have-you.

SHOPPING WITH DORIS

By Doris Austin

Hello There:

Your shopping days are over. I heard this statement of fact and immediately thought of applying it to you and me, because your shopping days can very easily and inexpensively be over by the small gesture of lifting your receiver and dialing Doris at CE. 2-0819 or dropping by to see me at 1171 E. Santa Barbara ave. All your past worries of "Holiday Shopping"—rushing through the crowds, spending more than you intended because of lack of time or last minute shopping and the ill-temper caused each year by the tradition of exchanging gifts can so conveniently be shifted to my willing and capable shoulders that you will truly be amazed at the change your yuletime personality will undergo.

I love shopping for anything and get as much pleasure out of shopping for you and your gifts as I do for myself and family. The biggest part of any job, I think, is liking your work and since I really do I can give it all my efficency, I have plenty of time and can shop around to get the best quality for your money as well as the proper gift for the person you wish it.

I have an excellent "tip," if I may call it so, that I am passing on to you. When you are shopping for the family, good friends or what have you, most of us usually give something that we consider a "good" gift—not so much in price, perhaps, as the thought, time, and consideration put into the selection of the gift. The personality of the person to receive the gift should play a vital part. Some people simply do not care for frivolous things but even the most dignified among us like a gift that seems to belong only to ourselves. Perhaps it's an initialed scarf, or blouse, monogram handkerchiefs or stationery, etc., the receiver of the gift will feel that it was meant for him alone because it has that tiny bit of personal touch to speak for itself. Try giving some gifts of this sort and bask in the glow of appreciation at Xmas time. Just the place to shop for these gifts or for me to get them for you:

Nellie's Gift Shop, 1400 W. Jefferson blvd. Specializing in personalized gifts—Matches Napkins, Xmas Cards, Figurines in Ceramics, Unusual Bridge Prizes, Costume Jewelry, Lamps from the House of Fantasy, Leather Gifts — Members of Westside Chamber of Commerce. Hrs. 10-6 p.m.

I mentioned to you last week the lay-away system is so convenient for all shopping purposes; it is especially so when practical gifts or items needed at home and regular wearing apparel are a part of your list. Visit the shops that offer a large selection of quality merchandise and the hours cater to the working people in that these shops remain open evenings or by appointment.

Do your Xmas shopping early. The Ireland ready-to-wear and Hat Bar, 1909 So. Central, has a complete new line of "holiday special" — Lingerie, Hosiery, Men's Pajamas and Toiletries, Accessories for Ladies—Convenient lay away. Open eves. Sun. 'til 12.

* * *

Have you thought of really giving the surprising gift to your "better half" this year? Now that the postwar merchandise is beginning to make an appearance; those long awaited worsteds, gabardines and even some imported goods are back in the best shops and this IS the time to "kill two birds with one stone"—get her a lovely Xmas present, the suit she has been wanting so long in that certain kind of material, then suggest one for yourself to complete that inseparable pair that's so popular this season— the "Mr. and Mrs. suits. If it is too late to get your order in time for Xmas; place it anyway and begin the new year right or give in the form of a gift certificate for the receiver to choose the style, designs and color himself.

The House of George—Ladies' and Men's Custom Tailors—5870 Hollywood blvd. Open Wed., Fri. and Sat. eves or by appointments. Tel. HI. 3011. Guaranteed smartness of design, fit and needlecraft at lowest prices obtainable. Domestic and imported materials.

Why not out do yourself this Xmas; your gifts are purchased, your costume for the family planned, suppose we turn to the household needs—just what have you wanted to do around the house for such a long time and could not because of scarcity of materials, lack of efficient workmen or just plain neglect? Whatever it was now is the time to remedy a recovery—by giving the home that extra yuletide appearance; perhaps it's just a new shelf arrangement that you can hang yourself but do not have theh time nor tools to build the shelves or maybe you would like to really renovate your entire interior—all of these things and many others can be repaired before the holidays if you get in your bid now.

See Sadler and Sons—War II Veterans — Experienced carpenters, free estimate and prices to suit your pockets. Get your house in fine shape before the rush for yule repair. 1171 E. Santa Barbara ave. CE. 2-0819.

During the time the house is torn up for repairs or as you began to prepare for guests and are all worn out and out-of sort for preparing the family meals or when you decide to take them out for a pre-holiday feast, visit the place where everyone is going—"Jolivet & Carroll Cafe, 1106 E. 40th pl. Expert preparation of quality foods. Specializing in home-cooked meals, Enchilados, Tacos, Home-Made Chili, Tamales and Pasteries."

We must not forget the last but far from least of things on the list to remember: YOU and Your personal toiletries: Drop in Sportsman Barber Shop, 111 Weller st. MI. 4536-C. C. Server and two barbers to give you individual attention. Ladies' work a specialty. Gases and Facials featured. Open Sun. 'til 3.

Make your appointment to complete the thorough personal restoration you have already received from the above shops. Shopping or planning for me to shop might cause wrinkles or fatigue lines that must be erased before you can do proper justice tot the redecorated house or the new ensemble, so complete the job in the right manner.

"Cleopatra" located in the Cinderella Beauty Shop, 1276 E. 46 st., will give the finishing touches — Facial, Correct Hair Styles, Manicuring—CE. 2-9889. Rea. AD. 2-5647. Join the holiday gaiety with a "new" personality made from a new Hair Style.

Please mention this column at all shops.

Correction

Reading in last week's issue was a notice in the Connor-Johnson Funeral column that Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson was dead. Mrs. Nicholson is not dead.

ACCORDING TO THOUSANDS of GIs still in uniform at army and navy posts here and abroad, they need the activities of the USO as much as during the war. This year, funds for the continuation of these vital morale-building activities are being raised in the Community Chest campaign for $6,493,200 in Los Angeles and surrounding towns and cities. Give enough now for 152 Red Feather agencies.

When a Rooster Lays an Egg

By PAUL FRENCH, Guest Columnist

Manchester Boddy, the roving Horatio Alger and editor of the L. A. Daily News, writes in his Berlin dispatch of Nov. 21st, that the time has came for him to tell us, "the hard way," about the local Russians.

Editor Boddy, who naturally knows himself better than do his readers, assures us, in his own words, that his type of writing is "the best I can do."

We can dispense with any discussion on the art of writing for the time being. But we do take exception to Mr. Boddy's ability to only write the "hard way."

We are quite safe to assume that Mr. Boddy is capable of expressing himself with the present Fascist tide, i.e., "soft way" with the Germans and the "hard way" with the Russians.

His previous dispatches from Germany dealing with "poor Germans," "poor housing for the poor Germans," "poor diets for the poor Germans," etc., kept us, the readers, quite damp. We even heard of several readers who put on their galoshes and raincoats for protection against the downpour of tears shed by Mr. Boddy's beady, baggy eyes.

No doubt this money-bought editor thinks that he is doing a favor to Secretary of State James Byrns when he sends his dripping wet dispatches which provide more excuses for the big monopolists, and their "boy" Jimmy, to reinstate the Farben industries in Germany.

We think so, too.

We also think that by shedding crocodile tears for the "poor German people," while his paper takes a stand against a Fair Employment Act, he ties Mr. Byrnes for first place in the hypocrites race. We refer to Mr. Byrnes' Armistic day reading of the letter written by a Gold Star mother; while all his actions plainly indicate that he would unhesitantly send millions of our American youth to fight another war.

But to go on further. Let us see what happens when Mr. Boddy chooses to write the "hard" way.

He says: "When the Russians have a holiday they invite British and American officers to their mess and put on a vodka party that fairly paralyzes its victims for a week."

One can conclude that Mr. Boddy does not have any preference for Russian vodka. It paralyzes, he says. Just like the Russian veto, the Russian proposal for disarmament, the Russian proposal to abolish the use of atom bombs, or the Russian proposal for equity of colonial and oppressed peoples, etc. They, too, have a way of paralyzing the Fascist maneuvers.

One can assume that such drinks as English Scotch wrapped in Colonial rags, or American rye packaged in anti-labor bills by the Republicans; the mint julep passed around among the Southern Democrats before a lynching, are more to Mr. Boddy's liking.

But, as the saying goes: "Each to his own taste."

As a parting note, we would like to voice our protest to our War Department for permitting their officers to indulge in excessive drinking. The sight of reeling officers in the streets of Berlin, or lying "paralyzed" on their bunks will help very little in the de-Nazification of the Germans.

Such excesses will only prove to the German people that Russian vodka is stronger than American de-Nazification policies.

Motel, Opening Next Week, To Cater to Visiting Musicians

Visting musicians, particularly those belonging to small combinations will be able to obtain living accomodations at the same place on the westside, when the Western Motel, located at 37th Street and Western Avenues opens its doors for business next week.

Basil Swift, owner of the brand new structure which embodies 27 one-room units, each with private bath, stated that one of the reasons for his having selected this site for what is probably the first brand new post-war public accomodation structure built for Negroes in the west, was to house performers who are in town for short picture or night spot committments. The Western Motel is located within ten minutes from most Hollywood studios.

The owner made it clear however, that this is not to mean that the motel's facilities are not for the general public. Most of the units will be held available for people seeking one, two, or tthree nights lodgings while making adjustments in the city.

Women's Group Asks Extension Of Social Security, Halt by U. S. Of Manufacture of Atomic Bomb

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — The National Council of Negro Women, in its closing convention sessions here last Saturday, recommended wider dissemination of the "constructive aspects" of the atomic bomb, urged the United Nations general assembly to more diligently seek "to win agreements rather than arguments" and called on the International Labor Organization to set an international standard for workers in skilled and unskilled fields throughout the world.

On the home front the Council revised its constitution to permit a broader membership among women, approved Wilson Wyatt's national housing program, and asked Senators Robert F. Wagner, (D) New York; J. Ellender, (D) Louisiana; and Robert A. Taft, (R) of Ohio, to reintroduce the Wagner-Ellender--Taft Housing Bill in the Congress.

The 500 women delegates also pressed for the inclusion of household and agricultural women workers in social security benefits, adopted a minimum wage resolution, demanded equal pay clauses for women in union contracts, advised Negro women workers to take a wider part in union activities, approved a 16-year minimum age for child employment during school hours, and wrote President Thuman recommended that the United States Employment Services be left a part of the Labor Department rather than be transferred to the Social Security Board

In its recommendation to the United Nations on the atomic bomb the council urged the United States to cease the production of the bomb as an act of good faith, pending agreement on international control of atomic energy

In their recommendation to the UN for peace the women agreed "We should like to see a greater practical application in the United States foreign policy of the golden rult."

The constitution was revised regarding types of memberships woman seeking to enter the Council could only do so through one of its affiliated national organizations.

Under the revised constitution, however, any woman interested in the work of the Council may now become a ember with full rights of the council of her city. There are now only three types of memberships: national organizations, metropolitan councils, and life members .

Mrs. Mame Mason Higgins was confirmed as executive director of the Council, the capacity in which she has served for seven months. There was no election of officers.

Capital's Negro Doctors Lag In Hiring of Professional

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—Only two percent of the Negro doctors in the District of Columbia employed professional nurses in their offices during 1945, a Labor Department survey discloses.

In contarst, the survey showed that 35 percent of white male physicians and 26 percent of white female physicians employed professional nurses in their offices.

The information was brought to light after Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach told the National Council of Negro Women in a specific inquiry into the training open to colored women as occupational therapists, physical therapists, nurses and women doctors.

Secretary Schwellenbach did not state in his speech what the survey had shown, but a check with the women's bureau of the Labor Department disclosed that while Negro physicians employed more office attendants than white doctors they were far behind in the employment of professional nurses in their offices.

Commenting on the number of Negro dentists, the report stated that latest available figures show a steady growth in the number. Six percent of colored dentists are women, the survey showed.

"About 800 Negro dentists, including a number of women, are members of the National Dental Association, which has stressed the need for more Negro dentists and better distribution of them," the survey stated.

"It reports that women seem to get along as well as the men and should be urged to train for that important work. In the last census (1930) for which separate statistics are available, there was one white dentist for 1700 white persons in the United States and one Negro dentist for each 6707 Negroes. In the entire south there was only one Negro dentist for each 12,312 Negroes," the report said.

Turner Pleads Not Guilty in Landlord Slaying

(SCP).—Charged with shooting his landlord in the back after an attempt to serve an eviction notice Oct. 28, Charles Turner, 31, veteran with a distinguished war record, pleaded not guilty on Monday before Superior Judge William R. McKay, and trial was set for Jan. 7.

Turner allegedly shot and killed Harold Le Sesne with a 12-gauge shotgun, after Le Sesne had attempted to serve an eviction notice on Turner in his upstairs garage apartment at 2108¼ W. 29th st., in the rear of Le Sesne's own home at 2108 W. 29th st.

At a preliminary hearing Nov. 8, Defense Attorney David Williams told the court that three months previously Le Sesne had broken a window in Turner's garage apartment with a revolver which he carried with him all the time.

Turner said his landlord had tried to raise his rent at that time, and said a record of the incident was on file at the City Hall. When Le Sesne came to the apartment on the evening of the alleged murder, Turner said, he had his hands in his overcoat pocket, indicating he might have a gun.

Turner, who had continued to mail rent checks minus the increase sought, allegedly refused Le Sesne entrance to his apartment on the evening of the shooting.

Asks U. S. Probe Attempt To Intimidate Attorneys In Columbia 'Riot' Case

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(NNPA)—Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has telegraphed Attorney General Tom C. Clark requesting a federal investigation of what he considered an attempt by state and local officers to intimidate him and two other attorneys who had represented the defendants in the Columbia race riot trials.

In his telegram Marshall stated he was arrested, but later released, on a charge of driving while drunk.

He was taken into custody near Columbia last Monday night after the officers stopped and searched the automobile in which he was returning to Nashville with Maurice Weaver, white attorney of Chattanooga, and Z. Alexander Looby of Nashville.

The three lawyers were returning from Columbia where they had defended two men accused of attempt to commit murder in the second trial growing out of the Columbia race riot of February 25-26.

Marshall's telegram to Clark stated:

"The alleged purpose was to search the car for whisky. When no whisky was found we wer e stopped by the same officers two more times, and on the last occasion I was placed unde rarrest for driving while drunk and was returned to Columbia.

"The magistrate refused to plac me in jail after examining me and finding I was completely sober. This type of intimidation of defense lawyers charged with the duty of defending persons chared with crime cannot go unnoticed. Therefore I demand immediate investigation and criminal charges against officers participating in last night's outrage."

The second trial growing out of the Columbia race riot last February 25 resulted last Monday in the conviction of Lloyd Kennedy, 21, and the acquittal of William A. Pitlow, 38, of charges of attempt to commit murder.

The verdict carried with it a sentence of not more than five years' imprisonment.

Both men were accused of firing on white state highway patrolmen, who invaded the Mink Slide area after city policemen were mistaken for a mob following a day of racial tension during which there had been threats of lynching Mrs. Gladys Stephenson and her son, James. Mrs. Stephenson and James had had an altercation with a white radio repairman. The defendants were charged specifically with wounding State Patrolman Ray Austin.

A motion for a new trial for Kennedy, filed by defense counsel, was set for hearing December 6.

Shortly after the trial got under way in Columbia November 15 former Maury County Sheriff J. J. Underwood identified Kennedy and Pitlow as the men he arrested in a building a few minutes after he allegedly saw shotgun glasts come from it and wound three state highway patrolmen.

Never shall your memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger around
The grave where you are laid.
We will never forget, nor do we intend,
We think of you often and will to the end.

Gone and forgotten by some maybe,
But dear, to our memory you will ever be.
Although your tasks were often small,
You answered duty's call, and
Your joys in Heavan are complete.
God has given you a place to rest,

Forum on Dec. 2 to Launch Counter-Offensive Against Local, National Witch Hunt

A full-fledged counter-offensive against the witch-hunting and book-burning assault on the basic freedom of American thought has been organized in Hollywood under the direction of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization.

Many of the nation's most distinguished writers, educators, critics and film and radio producers are spearheading this move against the Rankin-Bilbo-Tenney - Hearst - Gerald L. K. Smith fear-smear technique of thought control.

Under the general heading of "Counter-Attack," the first of a series of forums dedicated to protecting freedom of expression will be held on Monday evening, December 2, at the El Patio Theater at Hollywood boulevard and La Brea in Hollywood. This forum will identify and analyze the motivations of the conspirators against the free exercise of the American Bill of Rights in the film, radio, education and publishing fields.

Subjects for subsequent forums will include "You Can't Teach That"; "The Attack on Hollywood: What's Behind the Rankin - Wood - Tenney Smear Campaign?"; "Who Owns the Air: the Story Behind the Blue Book Report of the Federal Communications Commission"; "The Book Burners: the Hearst-Inspired Campaign to Control the Freedom of Literary Expression"; "You Can't Hear That: Thought-Control via the Air Waves"; "America's Iron Curtain: the Restrictions on the Freedom of International Communications"; "You Can't Print That: the Suppression of the News"; "The Writer Under Attack: the Drive to Control the Written Word."

Among those who will speak out against the "dangerous thoughts" credo being forced on the American people will be Millen Brand, novelist; Peter de Lima, radio commentator; Frances R. Eisenberg, teacher at the Canoga Park high school; Franklin Fearing, professor of psychology at UCLA; Lion Feuchtwanger, novelist; Harry Hoijer, professor of anthropology at UCLA; John B. Hughes, radio commentator; Howard Koch, screen writer and chairman of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization.

Also Emmet Lavery, screen writer, playwright and president of the Screen Writers Guild; John Howard Lawson, screen writer and author; Kenneth Macgowan, film producer and educator; Arch Oboler, radio writer and film director; W. E. Oliver, film critic; Harold Orr, president, Local 430 American Federation of Teachers; William N. Robson, radio writer and producer; Dore Schary, writer and motion picture producer; Paul Stewart, film and radio director, and Dalton Trumbo, novelist and screen writer.

In announcing the forum series, the Hollywood creative talent groups have issued the following statement:

"It is a challenge to every American when the Rankin-Wood committee proposes a radio censorship law gagging news analysts, or questions the right of the theatre to present a play dealing honestly with race relations.

"It is a threat to our heritage of democracy when the freedom of the press is distorted into the freedom to suppress vital news, or when responsible educators are irresponsibly attacked."

"Since that time the attacks have grown in intensity. The glint of censorship in Hearst's eyes has kindled a threat of nationwide book-burnings. The Tenney fear-smear campaign has struck at the roots of our school system. The Wood-Rankin committee is poised for an all-out attack against the radio and motion picture industries in Hollywood.

"Our right to speak and think as free Americans is at stake.

"The Hollywood Writers Mobilization has organized this series of forums to expose the plot against our democratic heritage."

The "Counter-Attack" forum series will present to the public the results of expert research concerning the effort to soften and enslave the minds of the many for the benefit of the few. Parts of the forums will be recorded and made available for broadcasting in other areas of the nation.

Miss Fitzgerald, as the foster parent of Eduardo, will contribute regularly to his upkeep.

Children Get Money Back

CHARLOTTE—N.C.)—From a near-by rural community, two little girls, ages 10 and 12, wandered into the police station here almost in tears. A pocketbook, with $7 in church money to buy supplies for a supper, had disappeared. They had laid the purse down to work the gum machine.

The sergeant, listening to their sad tale, pondered and conferred with the record clerk, who in turn conferred with several detectives

With seven $1 bills and 25 cents extra for gum, the little girls left the station smiling.

Young Executive

CHICAGO—With an idea and a skinny bankroll, 20 year old Eugene Gilbert, in two years, has developed a nationwide business. He is the director of the Gilbert Youth Research Organization, an enterprise which advises manufacturers, retailers, and advisors about the trends and buying habits of the younger set.

From his skyscraper office the young executive supervises a staff of seven—ranging in age from "40 down" — and directs field representatives in 100 marketing areas across the country.

Having made a psychological study of the junior citizens, he says they resent jive talk. He suggests to those wanting to sell teen-age boys merchandise to tell them "about the ruggedness of the merchandise, how smooth and sharp and masculine it looks" but don't talk to these sprouts about slick chicks.

By and large, he says that the lads between the ages of 13-18 are a he-mannish, gregarious lot. Their chief hobbies and outside interests are: sports, 70 per cent; movies, 6 per cent, dancing and swing music, 5 per cent; reading, 3 per cent.

Going into business with $400 capital, desk space, and a conviction that there was much research to be done among the consumers of 5 to 25, he calculated that more than $5,000,000,000 a year is spent on 35 per cent of the citizens of non-voting age.

When Gilbert receives an assignment, he sends instructions and questionaires to his field agents, who interview a cross-section of the young people from 1200 colleges and high schools. A report from the tabulated results is presented to the customer.

Legion Charters 1st Negro Women Post

CHICAGO, Il.—The first all-women's colored American Legion post has been chartered here. It is composed of colored World War 11 service women.

The new post has been designated as the Pallas Athene Post 1103 according to Department Adjutant William C. Mundt. It has 15 charter members. Grace B. Prettyman is post commander.

This raises the number of women's posts in The American Legion to 145 of which 84 are World War II posts.

School Children Denied Free Lunches as City Refuses to Invoke Aid of Federal Act

Los Angeles school children unable to pay for lunches would like to know why the board of education doesn't provide free ones. The board of Los Angeles has not yet utilized the money represented by the national schools lunch act although the law was enacted last June 4.

Free lunches for school children who can't afford to buy them is just one of the many provisions of the bill. Los Angeles is the only major city in the country which has not adopted government subsidies of the program for elementary school cafeterias.

Pointing out these facts, Superintendent of Schools Vierling Kersey recommended to the board that Los Angeles request government aid.

Savings up to $475,000 would revert to students if this plan is adopted by December 1, stated Kersey.

A fund of $10,000,000 has been established by the school lunch act to be used by the states for purchase of new cafeteria equipment and to provide subsidies which would mean sizeable reduction in cafeteria prices.

Regulation by the federal government of the cafeteria would be limited to certain diet specifications to insure a nourishing meal for the student body.

The department of agriculture would donate, in addition to the subsidies, surplus stocks of food which must be accepted by the school unless it seriously interfered with menu plans.

It is questionable why this city has been the last to adopt this major social reform, which was reluctantly pushed through congress.

Sea Scout Ships

Sea Scout Ships of the Los Angeles Area Council will join with the ships from all parts of Southern California for the annual Sea Scout rendezvous at Marine Stadium, Long Beach on November 29, 30 and December 1. More than 1000 Sea Scouts are expected to participate in the various events according to Al Villasenor, commodore of the local nautical groups. Villasenor has been named to serve as general chairman of the affair.

Competitive events on the program will include boat manuevers, skiff pulling, breeches buoy rescue, boat drill, Bos'n chair hauling, and the Mariners problem.

Friday evening, November 29 a mammoth campfire program will be staged at the encampment and on Saturday evening a formal ball will be held for the participating Sea Scouts. Church services will be held on the grounds of the campsite on Sunday morning.

Carnegie Medal To Farm Hand

PITTSBURGH—A bronze medal award for an act of heroism approved by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for 1945 went to a 14 year old farmhand from Virginia, it was recently announced.

The hero was Ernest Lee Pennix of Lynchburg, Va., who rescured Mark M. Hatcher, 40, white farmhand, from an enraged bull. Hatcher had been gored by the bull, who was bellowing and pawing 5 feet away preparing to a final thrust.

Pennix lunged toward the bull with a pitchfork, fighting the beast off, as he assisted the wounded man to a pasture gate 50 feet away.

Sunday School Lesson

Sub. A Letter on Christian Living. Devotional Reading Ephesians 3:14-21. Lesson text and outline. Acts 19:23-30, Ephesians 6:13-18; Motto Text, Ephesians 6:10.

INTRODUCTION

While there are many criticism on the various phases of Paul's life and letters, including the theology and the literature, none have been able to stand the test of the ages and lower the vaule of the apostle's writings. While many of his writings are deeply theological and philosophical, the largest portion of his writings were directed to specific, practical problems involving church and personal life.

Paul not only emphasized in his writings the place which God should have in the life of the believer through Jesus Christ, but he also pointed out the necessity of love, kindness and righteousness in living. It was he who likened the Christian life to war he who pointed out the spiritual weapons which have been provided in order that the Christian soldiers might be victorious in the fight

There was a great complaint against Paul and other preachers of the gospel for drawing people from the worship of Diana; and so spoiling the trade of the silversmiths that worked for Diana's temple.

It is natural for men to be jealous of that, whether right or wrong, by which they get their wealth; and many have, for this reason alone, set themselves against the gospel of Christ.

Here is a general exhortation to constancy in our Christian cause, and to courage in our Christian warfare. Is not our life a warfare? It is so; for we struggle with the common calamities of human life. Is not our religion much more a warfare? It is so; for we struggle with the opposition of the powers of darkness, and with many enemies who would keep us from God and heaven. We have enemies to fight against, a captain to fight for, a banner to fight under, and certain rules of war by which we are to govern ourselves.

We must stand our ground. And, having done all, to stand. We must resolve by God's grace, not to yield to evil. We must stand armed; and this is here most enlarged upon. Here is a Christian in complete armor: and the armor is divine: Armor of God, armor of light.

GOLD IN GOLDEN TEXT

For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. I Corinthians 3:11.

COMMENTS

The foundation is needed, without it man trudges through drifting sand or drifts over an unstable sea of floats in gusty vapor. Wanted: the deep bedrock, stable, secure, sufficient for a life-base in time and eternity.

More than 90 well-known evangelistic leaders from all parts of the country are here conducting services in approximately 100 churches throughout the metropolitan area. Churches, Schools to Help Observe Bill of Rights Week

Schools and churches of the southland are latest groups to join enthusiastically in all-out cooperation for 1946 Bill of Rights Week, December 9 to 16, to spread far and wide the gospel that the Bill of Rights is just as important today as it was 155 years ago.

Universities and colleges, junior colleges and high schools, parochial schools, even down through the lowest grades of elementary classrooms, will in various ways observe the 155th anniversary of the first ten amendments to the constitution, Joe Crail, general chairman, stated.

Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent, Los Angeles county schools; and Dr. Vierling Kersey, superintendent, Los Angeles city schools; have been pledged support by students and faculty of hundreds of educational institutions in Southern California.

Joining with Catholics, Jews and Protestants in observing Freedom of Worship Saturday December 14, and Sunday Deber 15, are Christian Science leaders, Seven Day Adventists, Latter Day Saints, and various branches of the Institute of Religious Science.

Sermons on the Bill of Rights will be preached, and copies of the historic document distributed, in churches, while in Sunday schools discussions will impress the younger generation with need for protection of their Freedom of Worship.

Burleigh Retires As Soloist at Swanky Church

NEW YORK—For 52 consecutive Palm Sundays, 79-year-old Harry Thacker Burleigh has stood in the choir loft at St. George's Episcopal church in Stuyvesant Square, and sung, "The Palms" in his magnificent, rich baritone voice. Last week, the congregation that has come to expect his solo as an important part of each Sunday's service, heard him for the last time. Harry T. Burleigh, composer of hundreds of songs, and arranger of an endless number of others, has been retired, at his own request, on a generous pension.

Noted for his arrangement of "Deep River," and for his composition, "Little Mother of Mine," the eminent musician completed over a half century of uninterrupted service to a church whose organist and choir master spoke for the entire congregation when he said, "we will miss him greatly."

HPA Meet Hits Hoodlum Attacks On W'Side Family

Approximately 100 people crowded the editorial rooms of The California EAGLE last Friday evening at the regular meeting of the Home Protective Association. The housing committee of the National Negro Congress and other community organiaztions participated in the meeting and heard discussions of housing irregularities in the city and county agencies by representatives from various housing projects. A comment was made that housing construction had been deliberated delayed so that minorities from other states would be discouraged from migrating to this area.

Jeanette Cohen, former EAGLE writer, gave a stirring eye-witness account of the brutal attack by white hoodlums on the residence of Mrs. Fay Williams and her two daughters, 3814 S. Normandie.

Declaring that they had not received the anticipated support from liberal organizations of this city, decision was made by the two Williams girls to evacuate due to the fact that Mrs. Williams has been an invalid, suffering from a heart ailment for a number of years stated Jeanette Cohen.

For the past few weeks, their home has been he target of eggs and broken bottles. Only recently has an antiquated restrictive covenant been discovered, she asserted. A committee was appointed to visit the three churches in that community to seek their cooperation in this fight.

Representing the West Hollywood Community club, Rose Pissakov read a declaration to protest reported plans to appoint William Simpson to succeed Fred Howser as district attorney.

Simpson refused to see a delegation of 100 women from this club when they went to his office to voice their indignation of the criminal treatment of the women in the Hollywood movie srike. They appeared yesertday before the board of supervisors with their entire memebership, in the Hall of Records. Members of the HPA, the National Negro Congress, and other groups represented pledged their support to the women in this fight to make the district attorney appointment competitive.

Working in close cooperation with the HPA is Miss Miller student of UCLA, preparing a paper on organizations fighting restrictive covenants.

A.A.U. WILL CONSIDER BIAS AT CONFERENCE

L.A. RED DEVILS SPLIT TWO BASKETBALL GAMES

LAYIN' IT ON THE LINE

By EDDIE BURBRIDGE

Just as Yours Truly was preparing to get out the old tent and pitch it in the Rose Bowl for the express purpose of camping out until Army crossed swords with U.C.L.A. the dismaying news reached us that the wearers of khaki had been shut out when a pact was signed by the West and the Big Nine, limiting bowl bids strictly to those two groups and eliminating any chance of Army doing its stuff here New Year's Day. The pact is for five years and also closes out southern colleges, something that should have been done years ago, due to their biased attitude toward Negro players. However, as Paul Zimmerman said last Thursday in the L.A. Times, "The Rose Bowl died on November 20, 1946." This pact makes the Rose Bowl just another bowl game and there are plenty of them. It also gives the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans a chance to step out in front by inviting the best teams of the year to participate there, not limiting it to two conferences. Oh, well, it's only for five years and if we live long long enough we think the guys that made the pact will see the error of their ways and do something about it . . . but five years is a long time and a lot of things can happen by then. A storm of protests hit the announcement of the tragedy and practically every sports Coast football conference writer in the nation was pretty well heated up about the matter. Yours Truly didn't particularly like it either . . . but Army has no Negro player on its team while Illinois, the second choice for an invite, has Buddy Young and Paul Patterson, which is a consolation. The records show that Buddy, after a slow start, is now in tip-top form . . . so Coast fans will see a good grid game after all January 1, 1947.

This and That

The pheasant hunting season opens on Dec. 6 and continues through Dec. 15. San Bernardino, Riverside and Imperial joined the counties which permit duck hunting last Saturday and huntsmen are busy blasting away at the tasty birds . . . Members of the old Capone gang have been blamed by Chicago crime officials for "parlay card" betting on college grid games. They are said to control a large part of the business, if it can be called that . . . Oscar Moreno drew with Jess Richards in the main amateur boxing event at Jeffries Barn last Thursday night. They are middleweights . . . Too bad Brice Taylor's Jefferson High Democrats couldn't do better against Fremont last Friday afternoon. Jeff was beaten 33-6 and assured Fremont of the Southern league crown. Attending the game we heard Brice lecturing the boys between halves. Said the coach, "You're out there playing like a bunch of school girls, no fire, no pep, etc., etc." He was right. I left at the half. It was beginning to get monotonops watching Fremont score a touchdown practically every time they laid hands on the ball, while Jeff regularly lost the ball on downs(fumbled, got off bad punts, and in general looked like setups for any team comprised of kids from five years up. We were pretty much disappointed, having heard that Jeff had a fighting chance and perhaps would provide an upset. The only trouble is the boys didn't have any fight in them. The Fremont backs ran over them like they were just another part of the turf. Right now we'll bet anybody that Jeff will have a fine team next year, because Brice Taylor is an excellent coach and he will have drilled what he has left from this year into a machine that will only need the new cogs inserted. Brice just took over this year and it takes more than a short season to mold a decent football team.

Wiley Wildcats To Play Clark

MARSHALL, Tex.—The Wiley Wildcats bring down the curtain on their regular 1946 gridiron season with their annual homecoming game here on Saturday, Dec. 7, when they play host to Clark college of Atlanta, Ga., in an intersectional melee. This will mark the first appearance of the famous Atlanta school in the Southwest and the return of the annual homecoming festivities here to a pre-war basis.

Sou. Conference To Meet Dec. 13

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Announcement was made here this week by R. S. Darnaby, secretary-treasurer of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, that the annual meeting of the Conference will be held at Clark College in Atlanta, Georgia, Friday and Saturday, December 13 and 14. The President of the Conference is Dr. St. Elmo Brady, Fisk University, Nashville, Tennessee, who will preside.

Midget Races Close Tonight

The one race night speedway drivers have been gunning for all season, and that thousands of fans have been eagerly awaiting, the Tenth Gilmore 100-lap Grand Prix, closes the 1946 midget car season Thanksgiving night, Nov. 28, at Gilmore Stadium.

Never before have there been so many fast thunderbugs and nervy drivers ready for a Grand Prix as this week. Qualifying Tuesday afternoon reduces the starting field to 14 drivers for the Grand Prix and 12 finalists for the 25-lap semi-main event. The latter race itself promises to rival previous Grand Prix events for red hot competition and fast midget racing.

Army and Notre Dame football teams may play here in December as the result of City Council action last Thursday.

Maintaining of Color Bar By D.C. To Go Under Fire

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The Amateur Athletic Union will consider the barring of colored athletes from local amateur competition in violation of its rules when the organization holds its fifty-eighth annual convention at San Antonio, Texas, on December 6, 7 and 8.

Dan Ferriss, secretary of the National AAU, said last Wednesday that the convention will consider the color bar which the District of Columbia AAU rigidly maintains a amateur boxing.

The local AAU will issue a sanction for an amateur boxing contest only on condition that there will be no mixed bouts. This condition is written on the back of its sanction.

If the national AAU convention should declare the action of the District AAU to be in violation of national AAU rules, the members of the local AAU will be required to submit their resignations, Mr. Ferriss said.

Dr. O. U. Singer, E. Joseph Arnoff and Winfree Johnson, the ranking officials of the District AAU, indicated they will not necessarily comply with the action of the national AAU, if its decision is against what they consider "the social philosophy of Washington," a much overworked term.

Ferris said a decision probably will be reached before the start of the local Golden Gloves boxing tournament sponsored by the Washington Times Herald. The Golden Gloves is the only amateur tournament of any importance in Washington since the Washington Post withdrew its joint sponsorship with the local AAU of the Diamond Belt meeting because of the refusal of District AAU officials to allow colored amateur boxers to compete.

The Diamond Belt meeting was dropped last year. The local AAU ran a tournament of its own last year, but it was not a success. Despite protests, the Washington Herald has continued to sponsor the Golden Gloves tournament, but reports are current that its publisher, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, has indicated that she will insist on the paper withdrawing its sponsorship if they continue to get adverse publicity.

Mixed professional boxing has been held in Washington for a number of years, and as a result nearly 50 per cent of fight fans in the District of Columbia are colored. Bouts between a white and a colored boxer are most popular, and bouts between two colored boys draw the next biggest gates.

SPORT NOTES

The Pacific Coast-Big Nine football conference Rose Bowl agreement which froze the mighty army team out of a bid to the New Year's day classic Jan. 1, 1947, last weekend raised the possibility that USC would withdraw from the coast loop.

Bishop College Closes 194 Season On Thanksgiving Day

By L. A. WILLIAMS

MARSHALL, Texas—Bishop College will close its 1946 season on Thanksgiving Day when the Tigers clash with Leland College of Baker, La. Bishop's record to date is three wins, three losses and one tie, holding their opponents to 41 points while they registered 121. Bishop dropped football in 1941 and resumed this year. Having difficulty in finding a coach and being unable to send a representative to the Southwest Conference, they were unable to play conference football. Coach Shannon D. Little promises to be fully represented in the Southwest Conference in the coming year.

The Thanksgiving game will be the final one for Robert Qualls, stellar quarterback for the Tigers and who played three years before entering the army. Qualls hails from Dallas, Texas, where he was considered the greatest high school back in Texas and is an All-Conference Back at Bishop. Frank Gipson, the bruising tackle for Bishop bows out along with Qualls. Gipson hails from Douglass High School, Oklahoma City. Gipson held down the right side of the Bishop line two years before going into the army and played a bang up game this year.

It wasn't until the final quarter before Hill struck pay dirt for the vanquished team while Shaw and Van Dale tallied twice for Fremont and Link once to pile up the large advantage held by the visitors at the finish.

The American Gears of Chicago drew first blood in the first of a two-game series with the Los Angeles Red Devils last Friday night, topping the locals 59-56, before 2500 fans at the Olympic auditorium, and incidentally giving the Red Devils their first pro basketball setback.

Art Stoefen rang up 24 points for his team Friday night only to see them lose. Robinson tallied four. The Gears displayed one of the greatest teams yet seen here in pro basketball.

Lincoln, Howard Meet Thursday

WASHINGTON—In a 52nd annual renewal of the oldest Negro Thanksgiving Day classic, Lincoln University will meet Howard University in Washington's Griffith Stadium Thursday.

Calls All-American Choices Most Foolproof Yet Devised

TUSKEGEE—The All-American to be selected at the end of the 1946 season by the American Football Coaches association for the second year, is the "most foolproof, truly representative all-star array ever to be devised," Coach Abbott, of Tuskegee, said this week.

"With a membership of 475, including practically every college coach in the country, and a system of weekly balloting throughout the season, the Association is able to select a team which will be as nearly official as such a team can be because it is picked by men fully qualified to judge," Coach Abbott stated.

Coach Abbott pointed out that outstanding players on small colleges have an equal chance with the stars on the major elevens. "Every player in the country is seen by several coaches during the season. No great player can be overlooked," he concluded.

Bisons Engage Red Devils in 2-Game Series

The Buffalo Bisons, one of the four new clubs in the recently expanded National Basketball league, will engage the Los Angeles Red Devils, of which Jackie Robinson is a member, in a two-game series Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29-30, at the Olympic auditorium, it was announced early this week.

The Bisons roster includes an array of spectacularly brilliant hoopsters from the leading colleges and pro teams.

Fresno Gridmen Boom Average

FRESNO—The Fresno State College Bulldogs increased their seasonal margin over all opponents in first downs and yardage from rushing in defeating College of the Pacific 13-12, although the Pacific passing attack cost the Bulldogs the lead in yardage through the air. Bill Pelto exactly continued his seasonal ball carrying average of 8.3 yards per carry by gaining 67 yards in eight attempts. Jackie Fellows also maintained his passing average at 41%, his last week's figure.

The University of Illinois trounced Northwestern, 20-0, last Saturday before 47,000 fans at Evanston, Ill., to become the Big Nine Rose Bowl 1946 selection.

VALAIDA SNOW DEBUTS ON BORSCHT CIRCUIT

NO FOOLING

By Eddie Burbridge, Theatrical Editor

ON JAZZ CAVALCADE

Have just finished finished reading Dave Dexter, Jr.'s, "Jazz Cavalcade," and it's a wow. Dexter not only has a comprehensive picture of jazz, he has dug down into history and dragged to light the true facts. He has "it." I know because I'm from New Orleans, the true birthplace of jazz. The assertions made in "Jazz Cavalcade" concerning the birth of jazz in the Crescent City, the original happy hunting grounds of the jazz immortals, such as Louis Armstrong, Zutty Singleton, A. J. Piron, Paul Barbarin, Henry (Red) Allen, Barney Bigard, Kid Ory, Sidney Bechet, Jimmie Noone, Joe Oliver, Prof. John Robichaux, Papa Celestin, Bunk Johnson, Jelly-Roll Morton and others, is authentic. Dexter makes no bones, nor does he even slightly detour in naming New Orleans as the birthplace of jazz. Memphis, Tenn., has often tried to place claim to the birthplace of jazz, but how many famous musicians of early years in this century can you name to compare with those already mentioned that sprang out of the music-loving New Orleans? In that town music has always been dominant. Every party, birthday or otherwise, had a band playing, there were and still are countless dance halls, bands were used at funerals, to play a funeral march as they accompanied the deceased to his last resting place and to probably break out into the "Tiger Rag" or the "Bugle Call Blues" on the way back. Children used to line the streets and wait until the return trip of the funeral cortege. Upon its appearance they would follow the procession, dancing on the streets, until it disbanded. Most of the bands were lodge aggregations and most of the greats in the music world emerged from these bands, whose sole purpose was to speed a dear, departed brother on his way in fitting style to a more pleasant home. Members of the band were all lodge members themselves and it was play or be fined. On the way to the cemetery the bandmen looked sour as they played the funeral dirge, but on the way back to the lodge auditorium smiles broke out as they jammed. We're getting away from Dexter's book and we can't do that because it is a great book on a subject that has not only puzzled the public but the folks that play it . . . jazz, that is. "Jazz Cavalcade" is well illustrated with pictures of orchestras known to everyone who knows anything about dance music. Some are of the early aggregations, others show orchestras like those of Jimmie Lunceford, Duke Ellington, Count Basie and others taken within recent years. If you like jazz, if you want to know how it started, how it grew and how it is now progressing, you should read "Jazz Cavalcade."

SHORT CUTS

The benefit for Charlie Parker at the Club Royale Monday night went over swell and we are sure that a substantial amount was raised for the furtherance of the great career of this super sax-man . . . Stan Kenton was the guest star on "King Cole Trio Time" over NBC last Saturday night. Incidentally, Nat Cole aired his "Christmas Song" for the first time on Saturday's program. Other numbers used were "Best Man" and "Beginning of the End" . . . Ella Fitzgerald and Dizzy Gillespie and ork are playing Joplin, Mo., tonight (Thanksgiving) . . . Dimitri Shostakovich, the composer, has written a concerto titled "Concerto for a Jazz Band" for Lucky Millinder, who will premiere it during a Carnegie hall concert he plans in early spring . . . Cootie Williams and band broke a lily white entertainment policy in San Antonio when they played a dance at the Officers' club last week . . . Erskine Hawkins has offered a thousand dollar reward for the original manuscript of his hit of several years ago, "Tuxedo Junction," which he lost somewhere between Memphis and San Antonio early this month . . . In closing, plenty luck and success to Mabel Fairbanks, Sepia ice-skater, in her engagement at the Gayety club, where she is currently appearing on a portable ice-rink. As hard as she has worked at her chosen profession to make Negroes ice-skating conscious, Mabel deserves every bit of success that comes her way.

Sings 'Eli, Eli' to Hebrew Gathering

FERNDALE, N. Y.—Valaida Snow made her first appearance on the so-called "Borscht Circuit" at famed Grossinger's country club here Saturday night and drew ecstatic raves from every music critic present for her authentic interpretation of Hebrew folk songs and chants.

DRAWS RAVES FROM CRITICS—Valaida Snow, golden-voiced singer of torch songs, drew plenty of raves from theatrical critics for her authentic interpretations of Hebrew folk songs at Grossinger's country club at Ferndale, New York, last week.

The highlight of her performance came however, when she sang the deeply moving "Eli, Eli." Following her rendition of this number the audience arose en masse to give her an ovation unmatched in the career of the popular mountain resort.

Miss Snow has recently returned to the New York entertainment scene to score one of the most sensational personal triumps ever recorded. Two night club and theater appearances have all seen her ringing the artistic bell with a vengeance.

Questioned by critics about her obviously authoritative familiarity with the Hebrew language and folk lore, Miss Snow explained that she had done extensive research in the field as a hobby during her school days because of a deep interest in the similarity between the travail of her own people and the Hebrew people down through the years. She has been invited to make a return appearance here in the near future.

Billy Eckstine Waxes Brand New Song On National Label

NEW YORK—Billy Eckstine, who has made a habit of recording old songs and reviving them into hits all over again, is trying a new slant with his latest waxing on the National label on which he introduces a brand new ballad, "My Deep Blue Dream," from the pens of Dave Rivera and Spence Andrews.

On the flipover of "My Deep Blue Dream," the bronze balladier gives forth with the long-awaited wax version of his famous theme song, "Jelly, Jelly," the plaintive blues that won Eckstein his first fame when he was singing with Earl Hines' band. "Jelly, Jelly" is Billy's own composition and is regarded as one of the most popular and original blues selections of all time.

Winding up a week's engagement on stage of the Paradise theatre, Detroit, on Thanksgiving Day, the bronze singing idol and his bandsmen will play a series of one-nighters en route to Boston where they open a two-week engagement at the Rio Casino on December 8.

Pat Flowers Is N. Y. Holdover

NEW YORK—Pat Flowers, brilliant young piano genius, protege of the late "Fats" Waller, whose new RCA-Victor record re-That Just Like a Women" is listed among the ten best selling records, has been held over indefinitely as the feature headline attraction at Eddie Condon's, famous New York mecca for jazz fans and musicians.

Ernie Fields will direct his orchestra from the stage of the Apollo theatre in New York City on Thanksgiving night.

'Pops' Hampton, Donahue On Same Bandstand

NEW YORK—In a titanic struggle for musical supremacy, the powerhouse bands of Sam Donahue and Lionel Hampton share the bandstand this week at the Aquarium restaurant on Broadway in the first instance where two bands of the Donahue and Hampton caliber have ever appeared jointly at any location.

Donahue, dynamic tenor saxophone star and pilot of the famed U. S. Navy Band of the Liberation Forces, most popular of all service units during the late war, is being hailed as the leading contender for the nation's No. 1 white band title, and the exchange of sharps and flats by the Donahue and Hampton aggregations is enough to rock Broadway from Wall Street to Washington Heights.

THE DISC
By I. Spinum

An outstanding new contribution to the recording ranks recently made her disc debut for RCA Victor. A Fifty-second Street favorite, Etta Jones displayed a distinctive styling on her first record which won immediate acclaim. She now is heard on an impressive follow-up to her initial disc, "Among My Souvenirs" and "Blues to End All Blues." With an exciting backing from J. C. Heard and his orchestra, Etta sings a somewhat refurbished rendition of the old favorite, "Souvenirs," and gives it plenty of feeling. The gal has mellow pipes which she knows how to use with a maximum amount of effect in a rich, full blues style. The reverse side, "Blues to End All Blues," showcases a low-down mood with a languid and haunting rendition from Etta. The accompaniment spotlights Jimmie Jones' piano with the tenor sax of "Bud" Johnson.

One of the most talented of the night club keyboard artists, and a Fats Waller protege, Pat Flowers has a unique way of rippling over the ivories. His initial recording for RCA Victor, "Ain't That Just Like a Woman," displays his keyboard wizardry in an exciting manner. With the added stimulus of a small combo backing, Pat generates a pleasing tempo while his vocalizing adds additional spark to the Flowers ivory-knuckling. Herman Autrey's trumpet and Eugene Sedric's clarinet round out the musical excitement.

The honeyed phrasing of Bunty Pendleton, who has a wide following in intimate Manhattan night clubs where her very specialized type of vocalizing weaves a potent spell, sets the "lazybones" mood on the reverse side, "Horizontal," sharing the persuasive ditty with Flowers' sultry piano weaving. Pat's keyboard capers on this side display all the virtuosity which won him Fats Waller's acclaim.

With his first RCA Victor release in some time, Tampa Red shows that he still is in top form, giving out with the advice that "Crying Won't Help You" and "Maybe Some Day."

These are Tampa's original compositions and his rugged personality comes through to good effect on the earthy vocalizing and groovey backgrounds. "Crying" evidences a sound philosophy delivered at a toe-tapping beat, while "Maybe Some Day" finds Tampa in a lovelorn mood, singing the blues about his gal who has done him wrong.

* * *

The Deep River Boys, whose rich blend of voices recently was heard on their first RCA Victor recordings, now follow up with two more sides which display marked versatility. The boys render "Foolishly Yours" with an effective romantic flair. It's a torchy ballad, sung at a slow-paced tempo with insinuating phrasing that weaves an irresistible spell. The platter-mate, "William Didn't Tell," a lively rhythmic novelty, has a catchy bounce as the Deep River Boys sell the nonsensical lyrics with their rich, harmonic vocalizing.

'Command Performance' Due In England for Count Basie

Although he won't be permitted to play any paid engagements in England because of a ruling by the British muscians' union, Count Basie will appear with his orchestra in a "Command Performance" at Buckingham Palace in London on his way into Europe next Spring for a tour of the continent.

News of the Basie band's forthcoming European invasion was announced in Los Angeles this week by Milton Ebbins, the Count's personal manager, who also revealed that an invitation has been extended to Basie to give forth with his regal rhythms before Britain's royalty.

COUNT BASIE

The London office of the William Morris Agency is currently lining up dance engagements and concerts for the Basie band in such countries as France, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Norway and Denmark in what will mark the Count's initial appearances on foreing soil.

"Because of the ban on American bands by the musicians' union in England," Ebbins explained, "Basie will be unable to make any public appearances in the British Isles. However, he will still give his "Command Performance" at Buckingham Palace and, if we can secure the permission from the union, Basie will also play a concert in London, all proceeds of which will be turned over to worthy charities."

Ebbins plans to leave for Europe shortly after the first of the year to complete arrangements for the Basie tour, and will lay out the tour with Lou Wolfson of the William Morris Agency's London office.

Present arrangements call for Basie to embark for Europe shortly after the completion of a series of concert dates he will play in key cities throughout the country next February and March.

Gene Rodgers Tells Of The English 'Bird'

Gene Rodgers, featured pianist in the Florentine Gardens show, who entertained extensively in England and Australia before the war, says that, contrary to reports, English audiences are not reserved. "If they like you they'll tear themselves into a frenzy . . . banging their chair seats and screaming 'bravo' and 'more, more'!", claims Gene, "But beware of a whistle. A whistle is the English equivalent of our American 'bird' . . . and it means 'Change your act or get off the stage quick'!"

'Macbeth' Will Open Nov. 28th

A 20th Century version of "MacBeth" will open at the El Patio Theatre Thanksgiving night Nov. 28, with the youngest group of professional players ever cast in a Shakespearean production in this country.

Buddy to Regain Music Manuscripts

NEW YORK—Buddy Johnson, the young pianist-maestro of "Walk 'Em Rhythm" fame, has been notified by the American Military Government in Germany that a number of musical manuscripts bearing his name have been found among the bomb-razed ruins of Berlin. The music left behind in Berlin by Buddy during his hurried departure from Germany in 1939, is being shipped to him.

Buddy spent some time in Germany as a musician after having gone abroad with the "Cotton Club Revue." In his haste to escape the Nazis' wrath, Buddy left behind in his apartment many of his belongings, including the scores of a number of original tunes he had composed.

Earlier this year, Johnson wrote the AMG in the hope that some of his possessions might be retrieved from the confiscated Nazi loot and was pleasantly surprised to receive word that his music had turned up.

Metropolitan Opera Branch Slated For L.A.

By SOUTHERN CITIES PRESS

No longer will San Francisco with its Grand Opera Company be able to sneer at opera-less Los Angeles.

The grandest grand opera company of them all—the famed Metropolitan—will make both Los Angeles and New York its "home," beginning its first season here in April, 1948.

Behind this development is Greater Los Angeles Plans, Inc., a non-profit organization headed by Albert B. Ruddock.

The first operas will be presented in Shrine auditorium, but a new war memorial opera house, to cost between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000, will be built within a few years, Ruddock stated.

'Anna Lucasta' Star Guest of F. D. Co-op Home

CLEVELAND, Ohio—(NNPA)—Youthful Edith Whiteman, of Danville, Virginia, one of the headlining stars in the road cast of "Anna Lucasta" now on a coast-to-coast tour, was a house guest in the Franklin Roosevelt student co-operative house here recently during the play's appearance at the Hanna theatre.

Miss Whiteman, a graduate of Bennett college, participated in various discussions on current topics with members of the house, including the Misses Rufeello Fiviero, of Puerto Rica, and Bernice Abe, of Honolulu, Hawaii, the latter a graduate of Swathmore college. She saw first hand how the 22 members of the house, representing various races and creeds, conducted the business of the co-op. All of the members are graduate students in Cleveland schools.

Visibly heartened by the democratic project, Miss Whiteman told Earl Dearing, of Baltimore, a law student at Western Reserve university, that "the house was an inspiration for her to continue pressing for more democracy in America." Dearing, an ex-GI, is a graduate of Virginia Union university.

The play attracted large audiences here, being a sell-out at every performance. Ruby Dee is portraying the leading role.

THE CHAMP, JOE LOUIS—attracted a lot of attention in the audience at the Lincoln Tuesday night. We aren't sure whether he was there to see Gary Cooper in "Cloak and Dagger" or to play Ten-O-Win. He seemed enthralled with both operations.

After Republic studio executives saw the final print of "That Brennan Girl" they decided that Mona Freman's portrayal of the title role put her up for consideration for an Academy Award.

Council Holds Up Action On Pay Increase for 3000 Underpaid City Employes

(SCP)—Pay increases for lower-income bracket city employes remained in the ordinance-drafting stage Monday, as the city council voted unanimously to draft a substitute ordinance as a possible alternative to the wage boost plan Friday.

At the council session last Friday morning, 1000 city workers, including many Negroes in lower-paid jobs, demanded immediate action on Councilman G. Vernon Bennett's pay plan, in spite of admitted inequities, in order to assure payment of the increases beginning Jan. 1.

A special session held Friday afternoon to enact an immediate pay hike statute for 3000 city employes again postponed action, and the issue was before the council once more Monday morning. Leaders of the CIO United Public Workers' Union and rank and file Negro and white union members, who had pleaded their preference for immediate action rather than a better plan with more postponements, thus had lost the round.

The substitute ordinance proposed Monday morning by Councilman John C. Holland would provide a flat $10 raise for all city employes now earning $200 a month or less. Councilman Charles C. Allen favored the new proposal and said it might cover more people than provided for in the Friday ordinance.

Overtime pay and bonuses for night and hazardous work were additional points in the wage increase program considered by the council Monday. Councilman Bennett, author of Friday's plan, proposed the overtime and bonus pay, and accused Councilman Holland of "dilatory tactics" for arguing that the resolution be referred to the personnel and finance committee for more study.

The overtime and bonus plans were finally referred to the finance committee by a 13 to 2 vote, with Bennett and Councilman P. P. Christensen opposing.

Negro spokesmen for the men pointed out last Friday that city employes had been waiting nine months for the promised raise.

Luther A. Merriweather, city worker, said that the city could "redeem broken promises by passing the ordinance now."

Robert Simpkin, who has worked for the city 20 years, stated:

"Even if I personally don't immediately benefit by this ordinance, it will put some meat on the table of the new men. They need it badly and I don't want to hold them up."

Clarence Carter, truck driver, declared:

"It is an inequity to give a new man starvation wages just because you can't at the same time give a raise to an employe who is already making more money."

Blasas Plan for Jimcrow Unit of State Guard

Authority to begin organization as a part of the California national guard of a combat engineer group of Negro troops with headquarters in Los Angeles was granted this week by Brigadier General Curtis D. O'Sullivan, the state adjutant general.

The state's plan to organize a separate Negro unit was blasted as a jimcrow move by Lieut. Carter S. Shired, commander of the National Military Officers' Assn. Shired pointed out that O'Sullivan's announcement "was received in all Negro quarters of the state as a direct challenge to their many years of tireless effort to secure those necessary rights and benefits enjoyed by some and denied to other citizens of this great state."

He accused O'Sullivan of turning "a deaf ear to the rightful demand of an organized group of Negro veterans of World Wars I and II, as well as that great mass of citizens who so illustriously served on the home front."

"In making this announcement," Shired continued, "General O'Sullivan has made it quite clear to such militant organizations as the National Military Officers' Assn., the California Citizens' Military Affairs Committee, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as well as many other veteran and civic organizations, that he has elected to ignore their representations and has no intentions of disrupting or upsetting the accepted practice of guaranteeing that Negro participation in public affairs will remain purely on a jimcrow basis, thus subscribing his name wholeheartedly to the Bilboian doctrine of absolute white supremacy."

Shired further denounced the use by O'Sullivan of "Benedict Arnolds and Quizzlings" in an attempt to put across his jimcrow plan.

The unit, designated the 6th engineer combat group, will consist of two battalions, the 1401st and 1402nd. Each battalion will consist of four companies. When brought to full strength during the next 24 months the group will total over 1000 officers and men.

Organization will start immediately at battalion level under the supervision of Major Frank W. Cleveland, commanding officer of Los Angeles' 7th battalion, 29th regiment of the California state guard, who has been named as executive officer of the enigineer group.

Companies will be formed both in Los Angeles and in outlying communities where enough qualified men can be found, said Major Cleveland.

"We are especially interested in hearing from qualified veterans of World War II and Negro officers who served in the corps of engineers," said Major Cleveland.

Screening of officers for the group will start next week at Los Angeles armory by a board headed by Colonel Floyd Stewart, the assistant state adjutant general, and Major Cleveland.

EAGLE Class Gets Results

Unique Set-up, With 17 Active Clubs, Community Chest Support, Serve Eastside Adults, Youths

Sharing quarters with the Avalon Christian church at 4272 Avalon blvd. is the Avalon Community Center, an unique organization in the Eastside supported by Community Chest funds.

More than 2000 Eastside residents are served each month through the facilities of the Center, with 17 active clubs in operation, an experienced, interracial staff, and activities for anyone from two years on up.

Three adult groups are in operation now, with a co-operative Mothers' Club, which meets every Monday night. Their president, Mrs. E. Gray, is serving as major in the current appeal of the Community Chest in the Adams-Central district.

Other adult groups include the Young Matrons, who meet every Wednesday night to play volleyball and basketball, and the ACCs, a group of men who play basketball.

There are many groups of teen-agers, both boys and girls, who meet in the center for athletics, hobby groups, and social activities. One group edits the Community Center News, a mimeograph weekly.

Three staff members with special craft skills meet with the hobby groups on request, and provide the kind of instruction that each group wants at the time, replacing the old system of setting up a different group for each craft or hobby.

Volunteers operate the Toy Loan, open two days a week for youngsters in the area. Miss Dolores Johnson, who is one of the leading volunteers in the Toy Loan, is also volunteer leader for the Bold Eaglettes, made up of girls from 12 to 15 years of age.

Affairs are coordinated by the House Council, made up of representatives from the adult groups, and by the Inter-Club Council, for the youth groups. These groups are now cooperating in the Community Chest campaign.

Director of activities is Mrs. Vida L. Van Brunt, who came to the Center this year from another Chest agency—the Five Towns Community House in Lawrence, Long Island, New York.

The annual meeting of the Center has been set for December 11, according to George Beavers Jr., president of the board. Rev. Herman Pittman is vice president, Mrs. Mary I. Firmes is secretary, and Mrs. Gertrude Reese Hicks, another Chest volunteer, is treasurer.

That Man Is Back

(SCP)—Reminders of March 15, 1947—that horrible day when the consumption of aspirin rises sharply as income tax payers gnaw their fingernails — were given yesterday by E. I. McLarney, deputy commisioner of internal revenue, to the Tax executives Institute meeting.

McLarney told the taxmen at the University Club that the only way to fill out the income tax blank was just to sit down and fill it out.

"It's as easy as that," he said.

AN IN-LAW PROBLEM

Dear Prof. Herman: I need your help so much, please give my problem your attention as soon as you can. Sometime ago my husband and I separated and he left me the house and furnishings and the custody of our five-year-old son. I asked my parents to come and live with me, thinking it would help them and myself, too.

I pay half of all of the expenses and give them practically all the money I make as well. But for some reason they fuss and quarrel with me all of the time. They are making my life miserable, to say nothing of the added responsibility and expense. What should I do about this?

ANSWER: Dear Mary: Your intentions were very good, you wanted to help your folks and give them a nice place in which to live, but you forgot the fact that as long as you live, they will feel it their duty to advise you and correct you. They don't really mean to make you uncomfortable, but whenever the occasion arises they just naturally offer tehir opinion, without your asking for it.

This conflicts with your ideas because you have been your own boss and able to do as you choose for a long time. What you have failed to say and what I think is the real trouble is your behavior. You have a young son to raise, and should govern your life accordingly. Spend more time with him, don't depend upon your father and mother to do everything for him.

In devoting more time to your son and less time to going out and having fun with the crowd, you will also note your home life will be more pleasant and your folks will cooperate in every way.

Now you are reaping the rewards of your efforts, for you will no doubt have a job there as long as you wish to remain.

L.B.J.—What is this man's intentions?

Answer: It appears to me that the man you met recently is very fond of you. As your friendship grows he wil prove to you that he means you all the good in the world, and will help you in every way he can.

Rent Bonus Ads Ruled Illegal

By SOUTHERN CITIES PRESS

"Running of an advertisement offering a bonus for the rental of housing accommodations is, in fact, the solicitation of an illegal act in violation of rent control provisions," U. S. Attorney James M. Carter stated yesterday.

Carter issued his statement in warning to newspapers about which he says that he has received many complaints in connection with this type of advertising. He stated that he is turning such complaints over to the local OPA office for further action.

The OPA authorities will probably request that the publishers of such neighborhood and local newspapers refrain from such activities in future, in accordance with the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, before undertaking prosecution of offenders, according to Carter.

Students Now Get Tubercular Tests

Students of Downey Junior High school are now being tuberculin tested through the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health association as part of the tuberculin testing program carried on by the association in the city and county schools throughout the school year.

Since the beginning of the school year in September, seven county schools and six city schools have already had a tuberculin testing program. The city school testing is carried on in cooperation with the Board of Education.

Funds for this program are obtained through the annual sale of Christmas Seals. Last year, through the sale of Christmas Seals, more than 40,000 tuberculin tests were made in the city and county schools.

Wall Street Big Money Backed Reynold's Bid To Defeat Rep. Powell

WASHINGTON—Republican efforts to defeat Congressman Adam Clayton Powell Jr. in the t22nd New York congressional district were marked by the same lavish outlay of money as were their attempts to defeat Helen Gahagan Douglas in the 14th California congressional district—and with the same results. In both cases the incumbent was opposed by a hand-picked Negro candidate, in Harlem by Grant Reynolds, in Los Angeles by Fred M. Roberts.

Reynolds, according to his initial report filed with the clerk of the house, received strong financial support from the Republican national committee and individual Republican national committee and individual Republicans in New York's financial district and along fashionable Park avenue. His report of contributions and expenditures, filed Oct. 25, contains the names of such millionaries as J. H. (Jack) Whitney, and Vincent Astor.

Representative Powell, who defeated Reynolds, reported a single contribution of $50 and no expenditures. His report was filed Oct. 15.

Reynolds reported total contributions of $6,293.05 and total expenditures of $6,221.5 of which the sum of $3,230.81 was expended during his campaign for the Republican nomination, which Powell also sought, leaving an expenditure of $2,990.64 for the election.

Fred Roberts, unsuccessful Republican candidate in the 14th California congressional district, reported a contribution of $1000 from the Republican national committee and total expenditures of $826.17. Mrs. Douglas, his successful opponent, reported contributions totaling $310 and no expenditures.

which the detectives say they paid him $3.50.

Then, on Oct. 16, Johnson and Lenman said they returned to Kelly's office in the presence of Ulysses Bowman, 324 E. Jefferson blvd., explaining that they were satisfied with the legal work Kelly had done for them and thus had brought Bowman to thim. Bowman then told the defendant that he had just opened u pa restaurant and, taking into consideration that the cafe might fail, wanted to know how to protect other property which he owned. Kelly is alleged to have advised Bowman to deed the said restaurant to his sister, thereby avoiding the risk to property owned by himself and his wife.

Also called to the stand was Theresa Webb, who stated that on May 1, 1946, the defendant called on her and stated that he was a lawyer, real estate man and notary public. She then said he informed her that he wanted to rent certain houses which she owned for an office. She further stated that the defendant drew two leases to bind the deal. Ten dollars was the sum Mrs. Webb said she paid Kelly for drawing up the leases.

The lease dated May 1, plus the lease and the notice to quit dated Oct. 14, were produced in epidence. Judge Walters found Kelly guilty on both counts, and sentence was set for the first week in December.

Watts Youth Killed Playing With Pistol

(SCP).—The kid dishwasher was going to show his friend, the cook, how the cowboys spin their pistols around in the movies, Monday night. Now the kid is dead and his friend is held on suspicion of murder.

Charles Bryant, 15, of 10227 Hickory street, Watts, saw Elmer Finn, 28, 1101 E. 115th street, cook in a restaurant at 1012 Graham street, take out two pistols that were kept in the kitchen, it is reported.

When Bryant, who is the son of Mrs. Mildred Walton, same address, grabbed for one to demonstrate his twirling technique to his pal, the other gun in Finn's hands somehow went off, Finn claimed.

Teacher Shortage, Inadequate School Plants Hamper Fight on Juvenile Delinquency, Meet Told

By JAMES L. HICKS
NNPA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Inadequate school plants, shortages of teachers and other deplorable conditions in education frequently make it impossible for the school to be effective in curbing juvenile delinquency, a School and Teacher Responsibility panel told Attorney General Tom Clark's National Conference for the Prevention and Control of Juvenile Delinquency yesterday.

Stating that in many communities children are actually being sold short, the school panel which included in its members, Dr. John W. Davis, president of West Virginia State college; Dr. Garnet Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent of schools for the District of Columbia, and D. Rossman Turpeau, a teacher in the Cincinnati Public Schools, recommended a long term positive community program which would recognize the important role that the school can play in the prevention of delinquency.

The school report was one of 15 heard at the closing sessions of the three-day national conference held in the Departmental auditorium in which 1000 delegates participated. More than 25 Negroes served as members of the 15 panels and helped to formulate their recommendations to the attorney general for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The conference closed by setting up a "continuing committee" to carry out its program with the full backing of the Justice Department.

The continuing committee was instructed to establish a permanent secretariat to work with federal, state, municipal and private agencies in carrying out the conference's recommendations.

An 11-man executive council also was set up composed of members selected from the continuing committee and three youths to be picked by the parent committee.

The school panel told the conference that schools have a unique opportunity to make a frontal attack on delinquency through educational programs that permit a sense of achievement to every child.

It emphasized that delinquency does not happen overnight but "is built on a series of failures and frustrations."

Only when the teacher shortage and other such conditions are relieved and the school fully integrated in community life will the school be effective in the fight against juvenile delinquency, the report said.

Four responsibilities which the school must meet in order to fulfill its obligation to the delinquent child were outlined. The report stated:

- The school should plan its program to meet the needs of all children.
- Teachers should identify those children who show signs of developing delinquent behavior and should have the time to learn their physical, social, mental, and emotional limitations in order to take proper preventative measures.
- Teachers should work closely with parents and neighborhood leaders to assist them in better understanding of the individual child and to help them solve any family or neighborhood problems that may be unfavorable to the child's development.
- The school should cooperate with all community agencies in a coordinated plan aimed against juvenile delinquency.

Major improvements in juvenile court laws and methods of administration must be brought about throughout the country if delinquency is to be effectively controlled and prevented, was the view of the panel on Juvenile Courts and Detention.

The panel endorsed the Standard Juvenile Court Act and recommended it be used as a model by all states as the basis for reviewing and revising their own law.

A panel on citizen participation recommended an overall plan calling for three agressive types of citizen action in every community across the nation.

Golden B. Darby, supervisor of the Social Institute of Juvenile Research, Chicago; Mrs. Young Lewis, Southside Community Organization for Delinquency, also of Chicago, and Lawrence A. Oxley, senior technician in the minority group section of the United States Employment Services, were members of this panel.

The basic approach to the problem, this panel said, should be a recognition of the responsibility of the community to take the steps and provide facilities that will be the most effective in fighting delinquency.

Although each of the conference's 15 panels had at least one Negro member the sessions were conspicious by the absence of discussion of any single minority group problem.

Planners of the Conference, which included Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Dr. Mary Huff Diggs of Hunter college, took the view that problems of juvenile delinquency cannot be approached from the view point of any particular group but that their solution lay in an intelligent overall approach which would provide for all elements of the population.

Macy Duke, New York City, representing the National Urban League, was a member of the Care and Group Warker panel; Rev. John E. Culmer, arch deacon of the south Florida diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church was a member of the Church panel, and Rev. Norman Holmes, Central Congregational church of New Orleans, Louisiana, a member of the panel on Youth Participation.

Mrs. Mae D. Holmes, superintendent of a training school for girls at Rocky Mount, North Carolina; and Mrs. Phyllis S. O'Kelly, superintendent of the training school for girls at Peaks Turnout, Virginia, were members of the panel on Institutional Care.

J. Emory Smith of Chicago was a member of the panel on Child Guidance as was L. A. Caldwell, author and editor, also of Chicago.

White, in addition to being a member of the program committee is also a member of Attorney General Clark's advisory panel on Juvenile Delinquency problems. Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, president of the National Council of Negro Women, is also a member of the advisory council.

Housing Conditions Blamed for Mounting Diphtheria Toll Here

Crowded housing and living conditions here were credited with the mounting diphtheria toll in Los Angeles by Dr. H. C. Pulley, acting city health officer.

Los Angeles' 146 cases and 15 deaths since the first of the year were made possible by the closer contacts of residents of this area, while four diphtheria deaths recently occurred in one "extremely jammed" neighborhood, he said.

"As long as we are going to be saddled with inadequate housing and with crowded conditions, we must more than ever before see that all children are protected against diphtheria through immunization," Dr. Pulley declared.

He reiterated the health department's plea that children between the ages of six months and 10 years be given this treatment by their family doctor, or if this is not possible, in their school or by the health department.

$5800 Home Costs Vets $7450 in Calif.

(SCP) — A home that costs a veteran an average of $5800 in the rest of the country, costs $7450 in California, local contractors were told Friday at a meeting in the Elks Temple.

M. T. Noice of the Veterans Administration, who gave the above figures, was one of several speakers at the opening day of the annual congress of the Building Contractors Association of California.

LONDON—Retail co-ops in the United Kingdom handled 300,000,000 gallons of milk in 1945, it is estimated, or about 25 percent of the total consumption.
